JOSEPHINE

Arnold Daly and his excellent support is not presented in a style (prospectively speaking) of more permanence than is usual with the episodical play.

Some audiences may find difficulty in accepting the satirical mood necessary for appreciation when the great of history for so long are being held up to ridicule.

The coronation scene, with its procession of candle bearers and dignitaries in lace and gold vestments, was a picture of serious grandeur and beauty, perfect in detail even to the incense that floated out over the audience from the swinging chalices.

This stately and exquisite fragmentary bit, however, seemed to obscure the satirical turn at the close of the scene when Napoleon chose to crown himself.

Notwithstanding, the play is interesting and Mr. Daly is physically most perfectly suited to the role. At times he looked as tho he had stepped out of one of the canvases which sanctify the walls of the Hotel des Invalides in Paris, or that one of its cold white marbles of Napoleon had come to life. It is Arnold Daly at his best.

Arnold Daly in the early scenes gives as artistic a picture of eccentricity and temperament as it is possible to imagine. Virginia Harned was charming in costumes true to period and in the most exquisite taste. Harry Mestayer was excellent as Moustache and Marion Ballou and Arthur Forrest did admirably.

Scenes and costumes were designed by Rollo Peters. Scenery painted by R. Bergman and built at The Washington Square Players' Studios. Principals' costumes by Madame Freisinger.—M. F. L.

Excerpts from the New York dailies follow:

Tribune—Daly and Harned charm in a comedy of high artistic merit.

Morning Sun—Arnold Daly fairly delights in the satire of the author in his portrayal of Napoleon.

Evening Sun—Josephine is a success on its literary, artistic and histrionic sides. But as a real, honest-to-God play it is a failure.

Times—Josephine is very talky.

CRANDALL CIRCUIT PUTS OVER BIG THEATER DEAL

and finely appointed Crandall's Knickerbocker Theater, at Columbia road and 18th street, Washington, D. C., Thecker K. Sands, Fred B. Swindell and A. Mochelson being forced to retire from this corporation. The capitalization of Crandall's Knickerbocker Theater Company is placed at $250,000.

Upon his return to Washington from New York Mr. Crandall expressed much gratification at the outcome of the above transactions. "The addition of the Metropolitan Theater augments and properly cements the Crandall circuit of theaters in Washington," said Mr. Crandall, "and gives me one of the strongest chains of motion picture houses in the country. Each and every one of these theaters is a representative house, and is absolutely owned by myself and my associates. The Crandall Theater Company is not a mere booking organization, it absolutely controls every house booked by it and owns more theaters than any other firm or company in Washington. The Metropolitan, the Knickerbocker and Crandall's give me three fine, first-class first-run theaters, enabling me to stage and play any motion-picture production no matter how mammoth it might be, and in the various neighborhoods of the city I control the largest and finest theaters in The Savoy, The Avenue Grand, The Apollo and The American. Each of these houses is the largest and best in its particular section and shows only first-run pictures in its immediate neighborhood. My theaters have an aggregate seating capacity of approximately 8,500 and are located in the exclusive residential sections as well as in the heart of the capital city of the nation."

In addition to his duties as managing director and president of Crandall's circuit of theaters, which use Artcraft, Paramount, Select, Goldwyn, Metro, World and Vitagraph pictures, Harry M. Crandall manages to find time to take a healthy interest in the film affairs of the country. He is president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the District of Columbia, is a director of the American Exhibitors' Association of New York, is the district chairman of the National War Co-Operation Commission recently established by President Wilson with William A. Brady at the head. Mr. Crandall is also president of the Exhibitors' Film Exchange of Washington, owning film rights extending from Delaware to Florida, and owning one of the Southern franchises in the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. He is also actively interested in the recently formed Allied Exhibitors' Circuit.

Crandall's Metropolitan Theater, covering approximately 10,000 square feet, will be the largest and handsomest theater in Washington. The entrance is on F street, the lobby extending back thirty feet to a rotunda promenade leading directly to the auditorium proper of the theater, which, extending at right angles, covers the remainder of the property to Tenth street. The Metropolitan will be strictly a motion picture house, conducted along the most exclusive and refined lines, and Mr. Crandall has already arranged for the first Washington showing of many of the biggest and best photographic productions.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—The new Metropolitan Theater being erected by Harry M. Crandall was damaged to the extent of $8,000 when the roof and interior of the building caved in. The collapse was attributed by Mr. Crandall to the recent heavy snows, the weight of which weakened the concrete and beams forming the roof. Only one-third of the roof had been completed, and it was supported by wooden slabs. No one was injured, as the workmen employed on the building had sufficient warning to enable of the Majestic, is as unenlightened, except that Oliver Morosco has wired him that Johnny, Get Your Gun, is in the nature of an extra attraction and that all others will play the Mason here.

So, while something of a keenly interesting nature is in the air, the parties who should be conversant with the facts appear to know little about it as fail to commit themselves.

EXPLAINING SMILEAGE

lar professional companies to make the rounds of the camps, because Congress in its appropriation made no provision for anything but the building of the theaters.

"There is an erroneous impression abroad," continued Mr. Klaw, "that these entertainments are free. That is not so, altho the price will be kept as low as possible to make them self-sustaining. The profit of the theaters, if there is any, goes right back to be used for the benefit of the camps in the various branches of the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities. The word Smileage was applied to the tickets because of their resemblance to the ordinary railroad ticket mileage book. The result of the present drive, if successful, will enable the Military Entertainment Service to provide the entertainment for the boys at a minimum price, as the members of the Theatrical Managers' Military Entertainment Committee are giving their services free of any remuneration and the plays thus far secured are free of royalty."

Besides a widow, Mr. Richardson is survived by four children: Leander, Jr., 18; James, 14; Eugenia, 12, and Leonora, 16, who were at the Richardson country home in Putnam County when he died. Mrs. Richardson before her marriage was Mary Elizabeth Witmer, of Middletown, N. Y.

BROADWAY AND BYWAYS

A. A. Powers and George H. Hamilton have formed a partnership to act as confidential agents for outdoor amusement organizations. Have opened offices in the Gayety Theater Building. They started business last Monday with a long list of representative ones in that line as clients. The advent of this firm and its policies are listed as somewhat of an innovation for this line of business.

Lee Herrick is credited with having been responsible for a new and original entertainment program at Churchill's Restaurant.

"Chuck" Haas, of Wild West fame, was seen on Upper Broadway the other morning. There is something brewing in the Western cabaret line.

CLOWN'S MOTHER DIES

Mrs. Tom Sanger, mother of Tom Sanger, clown, of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows, died January 27 at Winnipeg, Man., from a paralytic stroke. She was 68 years old and well known to circus and professional people in England. The deceased was also the mother of Christ Sanger, showman, who is now an aviator in the Imperial Forces in German East Africa. The Sanger family for many years toured Europe with the Sanger Bros.' Circus.

EXHIBITORS! DON'T SELL OUT. STAY WITH THE BUSINESS. HOLD ON. YOUR DAY IS COMING—IS HERE.

A good farmer will tell you:
"Don't expect to grow anything
If you take it all off.
You must continually
Put something on."

This is true in any business,
Even including
The garden of the motion picture,
"The motion picture theatre."

(Just returned from a meeting
Of the Allied Exhibitors' Legislative Committee.
The tax situation is hopeful,
Except we need more co-ordination
From all exhibitors.)

Incidentally met with several film producers.
It's a delightful change to hear them say:
"The exhibitor is the industry;
The exhibitor is the permanent asset;
The exhibitor must be encouraged because
The exhibitor is the only hope we have
To relieve the present deplorable condition
In the film market."

What does this mean?
Is there a change of heart?
No. Not on your tintype.. But
There is a change in film conditions.

Listen!
There have been about 300 reels of film
Produced each week,
Where 100 reels of good film
Would be plenty.
There is a great surplus of film.

Consequently the producer is Coming to the exhibitor because
He lacks sufficient market.
We have the market,
Therefore
Several booking arrangements are offered
Producer to exhibitor direct.

That's fine.
Consider them all, but
Exhibitors, be careful, and don't forget
You have the film farm the film market.
Don't sell out again as you have in the past
By the Advance Deposit System
Through the Star System.

This booking thing
Is a very good thing, because in this way
Producers will learn,
Exhibitors will learn,
The whole industry will learn
To judge values better
And not pay so much for Stars
Or Star Pictures;
And keep down the cost of production
And not talk about making millions
When the facts are
The producers are broke,
The exhibitors are broke,
Generally speaking.
It is a case with most of us
"Of trying to keep up with the Joneses."

Here's the thing—
The producers have been squeezing every penny
Out of the exhibitor
Until they have got him drained dry
(And the exhibitor allowed it).

If the producers are smart they will Look at the handwriting on the wall
And save themselves
By giving their good pictures to exhibitors
At reasonable prices ON A WAR BASIS.

Producers have heretofore taken it all off,
And, like the good farmer,
They will now have to put something on.

The most profitable thing exhibitors can do is
Go to the exhibitors' meetings.

Deal with the fair against the unfair producer;
Pick them out at the meetings;
Book good pictures from fair producers;
Combine your buying power
And film service will drop.
Individually it won't
Or even keep on an equitable basis.

One unfair producing company,
Which
Demands all kinds of deposits,
Tries to grab all the big stars,
And raises film service three times,
Finds that
It gets a large number of cancelations
Every time there is an exhibitors' meeting.

The reason is this:
Exhibitors have found that
Advance deposits are not used to make good pictures,
But to juggle the film market;
That big stars on "Open Booking Bunk"
Have cost them so much
There is nothing left to pay the rent.
Exhibitors refuse to be bulldozed and Exhibitors are coming into their own. Therefore Don't sell out your theatre or sell your film market
For a mess of pottage, as you have in the past.

Hold on with a mighty grip.
Pick the best pictures at a fair price;
Don't put it all in film service;
Keep some for depreciation and profits.
We must also put on something.
Work—Use brains—Judge values and

NEW CLUBROOMS OF N. Y. BRANCH OF SHOWMEN'S LEAGUE OPENED

Large Number of Members Are in Attendance

Houdini Suggests Benefit in Conjunction With Magicians

C. D. Captell Succeeds Louis Berni as Treasurer

New York, Feb. 11.—The Showmen's League of America, New York branch, has a home of its own. The new quarters at 817 Sixth avenue were formally invaded Saturday night, and the interest taken in the event was testified to by the fact that the largest number of members were present that have ever attended one of the meetings. There was general rejoicing at the satisfactory quarters which had been secured, and the evening's session proved a most delightful one. There was a long discussion as to ways and means of raising funds, and Harry Houdini, who had dropped in for a visit, and who had been warmly greeted by Sam Gumpertz, Harry Raver and the assembly in general, suggested a mammoth benefit in conjunction with the Society of American Magicians at the New York Hippodrome. He pledged his own personal support. Charles Willard offered his Temple of Music, and the Zancigs tendered their services. The suggestion took firm root, and it may be that it will actually be carried out in the near future.

Harry Raver, the Governor, was in the chair. There were numerous speeches, and George H. Hamilton, the club's own pet comedian, was in his best form. He combined philosophy with his humor, and his talk was enjoyed immensely. Between the speeches the Zancigs entertained the crowd with a wonderful demonstration of their telepathic powers and created a profound sensation.

Victor D. Levitt announced Louis Berni's resignation as treasurer on account of a foreign trip. C. D. Captell was elected treasurer unanimously.

Chris M. Smith, Edward K. Smith, Milton Morris, Charles D. Willard, Joseph G. Kaempfer, William Glick and John E. Wallace were called on for speeches, but let substantial donations do their talking for them.

Members hit the trail with their contributions to the extent of nearly $390. The following were present at the gathering:

W. H. Donaldson, Harry R. Raver, Victor D. Levitt, Edward C. White,

Irving J. Polack To Handle the Twenty Big Shows

Chicago, Feb. 10.—An announcement of great importance to the outdoor show world was made today by Messrs. James T. Clyde, Harry R. Polack and Irving J. Polack, of the amalgamation of the World at Home Shows and the Polack Brothers' Twenty Big Shows, whereby Harry R. Polack assumes the management and control of the World at Home Shows for the season of 1918 and Irving J. Polack continues in the management of the Polack Brothers' Twenty Big Shows, each show traveling separately.

A complete announcement, containing full plans and line-up for the two shows, will be given in the next issue of The Billboard.

In a personal interview James T. Clyde made the following statement: "By reason of the growth of the World at Home Shows it required my personal attention during the past season,

COURT'S RULING IS HARD BLOW TO THE TICKET SPECULATORS

Two Fined for Soliciting Patrons of N. Y. Hipp.

Jail Sentence Promised for Second Conviction

Expected This Will End Evasion of Speculators' Law

New York, Feb. 9.—Two ticket speculators were fined in the Fifty-seventh Street Court yesterday by Justice Simms for soliciting patrons in front of the Hippodrome. In pronouncing sentence the Justice said a second conviction would mean a workhouse sentence.

The speculators were not actually selling tickets when arrested Thursday and Justice Simms' ruling is believed to bring to an end the practice of evading the speculators' law. Previously to obtain a conviction it was necessary to actually produce the seat coupons which the speculators were trying to sell on the sidewalk.

To avoid conviction these ticket vendors have been engaging specs in small shops near the theaters, where the tickets were actually sold, while solicitors stood near the theater entrance, directing their prospective patrons to the headquarters of their confederates.

This practice has been going on at the Hippodrome all year. Thursday when a half dozen of these solicitors appeared Inspector Morris was appealed to and he detailed two detectives from his squad, who arrested two of the speculators and lodged a charge of disorderly conduct and molesting pedestrians against them, as they were not actually selling tickets. The decision of Justice Simms was, therefore, hailed with delight by the police and theatrical managers as being a final blow to the business of ticket speculation, against which New York City has been fighting for two years.

Justice Simms in his finding said: "The nuisance for which you are convicted is one which New York City must be rid of. The Commissioner of Police has made it plain that he wishes the streets cleared of this objectionable practice, and I for one will sustain him. Whether you actually sell the tickets or act as an accomplice makes no difference. You are a part of a fraternity which has no right under the law to ply your trade, and a workhouse sentence will follow a second conviction."

HIRAM ABRAMS

ADMINISTRATIVE BUREAU CREATED BY THE FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY

Executive Department of a New Nature Inaugurated

Believed To Be Necessary to Motion Picture Industry

Abrams and Schulberg at Head of Novel Undertaking

New York, Feb. 9.—The creation of an executive department new to film organizations, to be known as the Administrative Bureau, was announced this week by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, naming Hiram Abrams as managing director and B. P. Schulberg as vice-managing director.

The plans and purposes of the Administrative Bureau embrace a policy that has never before had a place within the inner construction of film companies as they are at present organized. This policy, in its most concrete form, contemplates a more efficient co-ordination of the three primary elements that constitute the industry, toward the end of effecting a stronger alignment of purpose and method among the producing, distributing and exhibiting factors. STAGE WOMEN'S WAR RELIEF'S OLD-FASHIONED COUNTY FAIR

Auditorium Ball Room, Chicago, Will Be Scene of Gala Affair March 1 and 2—Mrs. Mort H. Singer Chairman of Entertainment Committee—Antique Shop Unique Feature

Chicago, Feb. 11.—An old-fashioned county fair, replete with features well calculated to give everybody a wonderful time at a minimum of expenditure, will take place at the Auditorium Ballroom Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2, under the auspices of the Chicago chapter of the Stage Women's War Relief.

The energetic ladies (who previously conducted so many successful affairs in the interest of their unselfish work) strove their utmost to keep the entire matter secret until a later date. There may be something in the old adage that women can not keep a secret, but, in justice to the organization's hard workers and consistent planners, it should be stated that "mum's the word" might have formed the byword of initial proceedings had it not been for the difficulty of arranging details enlisting donations from various sources, each, in itself, an avenue of information.

Those who think the Women's War Relief represents a group of women doing things without the assistance of the sterner sex have another think coming. Like wise men, who take their wives into their confidence, these ladies have done likewise with their husbands, and employees of the W. V. M. A. will tell you that Mortimer H. Singer (general manager) never worked harder in his life than while securing donations of printing and what not for the affair which Mrs. Mortimer H. is guiding as chairman (or shall we say "chairmadam") of the Entertainment Committee. That men have not been left out of the ladies' calculations is also shown by some of the representatives of the sterner sex embraced in the list of those who will make the affair sparkle with originality. But too much can not be said of this without running ahead of our story.

All things needed to make the affair successful, many of these items which would require a considerable outlay of money if secured by private enterprise, have been generously donated. The Clyde Riley Advertising Company has awarded full pages in Reorganize Managers' Assn.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 9.—The old Louisville Managers' Protective Association was reorganized this week under the name of the Theater Managers' Association of Louisville at a meeting at the Seelbach Hotel. The purpose of the association, as formerly, will be to promote the theatrical interests in the city and to have a body organized with which to take up important questions and act jointly. The following officers were elected to serve one year: Carl Rettig, president; Wm. Woolfolk, vice-president, and Harry J. Martin, secretary and treasurer.

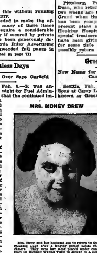
Heatless Days

Soon To Be Over Says Garfield

Washington, Feb. 9.—It was announced Friday night by Fuel Administrator Garfield that the continued improvement in weather and transportation conditions will bring an end to the heatless Monday program after its enforcement next Monday.

Suspension of the program immediately in 9 Southern States was authorized Friday by Dr. Garfield after the receipt of reports showing that higher temperatures have relieved the coal shortage in the South to such an extent that further closing is made unnecessary. The following States are included: North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. Theaters will be closed February 12 (Lincoln's Birthday) under a ruling announced Thursday by Garfield. No plays will be affected, however, because the day falls on Tuesday, already a closing day for theaters.

MRS. SIDNEY DREW



Mrs. Drew and her husband are to return to the speaking stage after a lengthy period before the camera. They were last week placed under contract by Richard Walton Tully to appear in a new comedy by John Hunter Booth, author of The Masquerader. Rehearsals are to start immediately, and the play will be produced about the middle of next month.

Clyde Fitch Sale

Actors' Fund Will Realize Over $25,000

New York, Feb. 9.—Art treasures from the collection of the late Clyde Fitch realized $20,005 for the Actors' Fund, for which they were sold at the American Art Galleries Thursday. Among the buyers were Lillian Russell, David Belasco, John Barrymore and Grant Mitchel.

A Flemish verdure tapestry brought the record price of the sale. It was bought by Miss Elizabeth Glen at $1,700. Miss Glen secured another Flemish tapestry panel, sixteenth century, the subject, "Alexander and the Wife of Darius," at $500.

Another Flemish tapestry of the sixteenth century went to a dealer at $870 and a pair of Italian inlaid mahogany commodes, eighteenth century, were sold to Walker & Gillette at $820. J. M. Baxter purchased an antique Khorassan carpet at $590.

Other buyers were Mmes. Cora M. Anderson, Mrs. Hugh Murray, Mrs. Irving R. Wiles, A. P. Culver, R. H. Reader, O. J. Wells, C. D. Standish, Mrs. R. E. Hall, John T. Brush, Mrs. George Stillman, Mrs. Harriet Johnson, Mrs. W. E. Gilmore, Mrs. J. D. Franklin, Mrs. C. B. Macdonald and Mrs. William C. Wallace.

Tunis Dean to Hospital

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 11.—Tunis Dean, who returned to Pittsburg only two weeks ago to take charge of the Grand when that house is reopened, has been compelled to give up his present plans and go to the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore for special treatment for his eyes, which have been giving him much trouble for some time past. Mr. Dean will possibly return later.

Greene Park

New Name for Amusement Zone at Camp Lewis

Seattle, Feb. 9.—The Amusement Zone at Camp Lewis will hereafter be known as Greene Park, in honor of the first commander of the cantonment. The million-dollar white way has heretofore been officially known as Liberty Park. Brig. Gen. Frederick S. Foltz says that changing the name to Greene Park will thus permanently preserve the name of the cantonment's first commander. It was General Greene who first conceived the idea of the amusement zone, and it was thru his efforts that it was established.

The first concession to open in the 100-acre park adjoining the camp grounds will be a theater, which will be completed in about two weeks. A modern hotel costing $150,000 will be erected at once, partially for the benefit of the traveling shows that will play this cantonment later in the season. Cassidy & McKee are building a theater in the park that will cost $100,000. The Camp Lewis Vaudeville Association (owned and operated by John Donnelan and other Tacoma business men) is building two houses, each with a seating capacity of 6,000. The Liberty Theater is on the Government plat and will be operated by Federal officials. The Pacific Coast Burlesque Wheel will have a theater there, and it will form a spoke in the wheel of six houses on the Pacific Coast. The Armstrong Folly Company, now at the Gaiety Theater, this city, will play the camp house as soon as it is completed.

Two Weeks in Washington

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The Belasco, the Washington house of the Shuberts, is preparing to put on two-week runs whenever it finds a bill which seems to justify the second week in succession. The announcement was made in connection with notice that Over the Top would be shown an additional week.

Camp Theater at Seattle

Opened by Seattle Philharmonic Orchestra

Seattle, Feb. 9.—The Seattle Philharmonic Orchestra, John Spargur, conductor, has the distinction of being the opening attraction at the new Liberty Theater at Camp Lewis, that theater being formally opened Friday night with a musical and vocal program given by the orchestra and the Orpheus Club of Tacoma. Governor Ernest Lister and other prominent officials were in attendance.

The Liberty Theater has a seating capacity of 3,000, and has all the stage equipment of a modern playhouse. The building is of the Swiss Chalet style. Edward R. Braden is house manager.

This theater will have a permanent stock organization, and for the present will not get the traveling shows that are scheduled to play the camps in the Eastern and Southwestern portions of the country. The Chamberlin Brown Agency has formed a company that will alternate between this theater and the Tacoma Theater, Tacoma, playing two weeks in each house. Baby Mine will be the opening attraction of the stock organization. Ida Stanhope, Averill Harris, Vinton Freedley, Thos. Morrison and Burford Hampton will be in the cast. A ten weeks' guarantee has been given the performers by Alice Davis and Delia Linwell. Motion picture shows will be given on Saturday and Sunday nights until the stock company is ready to open.

Mercy Building Another

Seattle, Feb. 10.—Fred Mercy, North Yakima theatrical magnate, owning and operating the Yakima, Majestic, Empire and other houses in that city, is building a modern theater, which will be completed soon. It will be called the Liberty, and will be used for traveling attractions. The Tour Hippodrome vaudeville bills are playing at the Empire. The Majestic is a straight picture house and the Yakima is the old house where the traveling shows are housed.

Mrs. Hollis E. Cooley Dies

Was Wife of Well-Known Showman

New York, Feb. 9.—Lillian Cooley, wife of Hollis E. Cooley, well-known showman, died Wednesday morning at their home in Great Kills, Staten Island. Mrs. Cooley had been an invalid and in bed for nearly three years, suffering from a complication of diseases. Mrs. Cooley had appeared on the stage. She had an excellent mezzo soprano voice and shortly after her marriage in 1883 she made her debut in Denver in Girofle-Girofla with the California Opera Co. Subsequently she appeared in many important organizations, usually singing the character roles. For a number of years she had prominent roles in the musical organizations of which Corinne was the star. Following these engagements she went to Australia, and appeared there in The Belle of New York. Her last New York engagement was with Camille D'Arville.

Lawrence D'Orsay

Frank E. Lamb

Death of Well-Known Dramatic Instructor

New York, Feb. 8.—Frank E. Lamb, recently dramatic instructor at the American Academy of Dramatic Art, Carnegie Hall, and at one time director for John Drew, died Thursday at Roosevelt Hospital. He was born in New York City, a son of the late George Lamb, a noted actor. His first appearance on the stage was made at the old Niblo Garden when he was seventeen. Years of success as a dramatic actor, stage director and organizer of stock companies followed. For many years Mr. Lamb was director for Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence and he was for a time associated with Sergeant, and with Frahman. Eighteen years ago he became director for John Drew, with whom he remained for ten years. Mr. Lamb leaves two brothers and one sister.

The funeral at the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-sixth street, was largely attended this noon at 12 o'clock. Members of the Actors' Fund and other organizations attended.

Booking Activities Dull

Chicago, Feb. 8.—These booking agents who depend upon traveling dramatic companies and stock organizations are finding business a rather uphill proposition. Shows are closing at an alarming rate, seldom duplicated save during the summer slump. While these men have their books filled with the names of artists seeking engagements, the calls for talent are so few that activities are practically at a standstill.

For a time, when army enlistments became common among performers and while the draft army was being organized, there was an appreciable demand for juveniles. But, within recent months, the tax proposition served to slacken activities. More recently other national contingencies have served to put the damper on production activities of the second grade. Now many of the bookers admit that keeping their offices open is more or less a matter of mere form.

Aborn Opera Company Brings Action Against Theater Owner

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 12.—The Aborn Opera Company has filed a suit in the Common Pleas Court here against the Nicola Land Company, owner of the Schenley Theater, for $16,887. It is averred by the opera company that the land company agreed that the opera season should extend for five weeks longer than it did. The original contract provided for a ten-week season. It is stated that the weekly guarantee of $3,333 was paid regularly up to the last week, when there was $1,807 less paid. To recover this amount and $3,000 for each of the five additional weeks the suit was brought.

Izetta Jewel Returning

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—Mrs. Izetta Jewel Brown, widow of the late Congressman William G. Brown, of West Virginia, who, as Izetta Jewel, was a popular star at Poli's stock house here for several years, is planning a return to the stage. Mrs. Brown was married to the late Congressman about three years ago. He died a year later, leaving her a large fortune. One child, a little girl, was born to them and she survives.

Mrs. Brown has decided to give up social position and a life of luxurious ease to return to the stage, provided she can find a vehicle suitable to her. She states she will consider plays and engagements which may come to her, and, if one is found which is suitable she will make her appearance on the stage at an early date.

BROADWAY AND BYWAYS

By William Judkins Hewitt

New York, Feb. 9.—A light snow last night, cold and cloudy today and continued bad weather is the prediction, which will tend to lighten the crowds at the matinees.

• • • • • •

In the distance can be heard the rumblings of a vaudeville war.

• • • • • •

Yesterday was moving day for a large number of show and actor folk. Hotels have raised their rates, in some cases to figures considered exorbitant.

• • • • • •

The Times Square district is a sight to behold, caused by the streets being rent, strewn and torn into shreds by the subway constructors now working at break-neck speed in that locality.

• • • • • •

The "ballyhoos" in the lobbies of the theaters showing feature pictures are not causing anyone to break their arms buying tickets.

• • • • • •

The instrumental and vocal musical offerings in many of the picture palaces are far outclassing in entertainment quality the feature pictures shown therein.

• • • • • •

There is a lifeboat in the lobby of the Lyric Theater used to "ballyhoo" for Lest We Forget, the picture in which Rita Jolivet is starred. A little boy standing in front of that theater the other day told his mother that if he had to get into a lifeboat to get into the theater that he did not think that it was a safe place for them to go.

• • • • • •

The American Home of Mystery and a permanent winter circus for Broadway are now in the making, as is a circus to play the lots of New York.

• • • • • •

The actor is still treading the "Great Dark Way" and wondering why he is not working. He knows positively that the cry is constantly being made to the New York theatrical managers by the house managers of the American and Canadian cities for theatrical offerings that possess entertaining and educational amusement value and box-office attractiveness. Still the actor walks. There is something that is all wrong and the theatrical world knows it—and to its sorrow.

• • • • • •

When is the theatrical manager and house manager at large going to be able to market his goods and keep the actor off the beaten path? This is a question that must soon be answered by the men at the head of this branch of the amusement industry.

• • • • • •

"Back to the box office" can only become effective when some radical changes have been made in the personnel of men in charge of certain "box offices."

• • • • • •

George Lederer has startled the vaudeville world by recent matter appearing in the press of this city. We predicted that it would come to this, and the parting of the "ways" is imminent.

Albert E. Kiralfy is in the city.

Louis W. Buckley is going to open offices on Broadway.

Many are voicing the opinion that Victor D. Levitt will be connected with the World at Home Shows when the coming season dawns.

• • • • • •

The big event of the outdoor show world in New York takes place tonight when the Showmen's League of America opens its club rooms as a New York branch at 817 Sixth Avenue. It has been the talk of the week among all of that fraternity.

• • • • • •

Some stock burlesque organizations are reflecting discredit on that branch of show business. A halt will soon be called no doubt by the powers that be in that field.

• • • • • •

Milton B. Pollock was on Broadway last night. He gave out the following interview: "Going into vaudeville?" Don't know." "Going to manage a park this summer?" "Don't know." "How does vaudeville's future look to you?" "Can't see in the dark—wait until the lights come on tomorrow night." "Going to stay in the city long?" "Don't know."

W. C. Beeha, showman of Omaha, was seen on Broadway recently; in fact, this week, says Louis W. Buckley.

Harry L. Reichenbach is doing the publicity of Tarzan of the Apes. He succeeded in getting a large banner across Broadway from the Broadway Theater to the Continental Hotel, which is considered an achievement worthy of note, in connection with publicity he is giving the Apes picture on its New York showing.

The Elks' Club will have a big circus under the direction of Harry La-Pearl, the clown, at an early date. Many notables of the arenic world have decided to help put it over.

Woods' Chicago Theater

Will Probably Open First Week in March

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Woods' new Chicago theater will probably open the first week in March with the original New York company now successfully presenting the third edition of Potash & Perlmutter—Business Before Pleasure.

Woods has decided to bring his big New York hit, because he wants a show that will make the house successful from the start. However, he hesitated long before making the decision, as he fears putting a substitute company into his best attraction in New York while the originals go to Chicago. But he realizes that the Windy City will refuse to accept any second edition and feels that the impression already made by the play in the East will admit of a second company continuing the successful run.

Howard's Varied Activities

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Lorin J. Howard the author-producer, has established an independent producing office in the same site as that occupied by Rowland & Howard. Ed W. Rowland, Sr., is still actively engaged in the producing game at the same address, but Howard's individual enterprises grew to such an extent that it was deemed best to establish them on a separate basis. Howard's activities permeate all branches of the amusement field from musical comedy to vaudeville.

Theaters in Halifax

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 9.—There are two theaters in Halifax at present that have not opened since the explosion that wrecked the city, the King Edward and Aker's Family. Both these popular houses are being remodeled. The Family Theater will open its doors again March 1 with its usual four acts. The other theaters have completely recovered from the effects of the explosion, and are doing big business. The Academy of Music, formerly a stock and vaudeville house, has been converted into a movie house.

WHITE RATS PROBE CALLED A TRAVESTY BY FITZPATRICK

In Letter to Mountford He Refuses To Give Up Books—Referee Terms Communication "Very Impudent"—Mountford Tells of His Suspicions of Irregularities

New York, Feb. 9.—James William FitzPatrick, Big Chief of the White Rats, sitting in the parlor of his Waterbury home, fired a most remarkable verbal projectile, which yesterday afternoon landed squarely in the Nassau street office where Referee Lewis Schuldenfrei was conducting the investigation into the White Rats' affairs. This was in the form of a letter written to Harry Mountford in reply to a communication in which Mountford requested him to turn over to the referee the various papers, which, it is admitted, are at FitzPatrick's Waterbury home. In his answer Fitzpatrick declared that the present White Rats' investigation was "the purest travesty on the law and the facts," that it was prompted by "personal persecution of the lowest order," and the sum and substance of the entire document was defiance to the court and a blunt refusal to give up any of the papers in his possession.

As a result of this stand taken by Mr. FitzPatrick an application will be made to the Supreme Court with a view to forcing him to deliver these papers into the custody of the court, according to the mandate already made by the court.

Yesterday's hearing was not devoid of interesting features, altho the FitzPatrick letter overshadowed all else. Harry Mountford told of his suspicions of irregularities in the White Rats' affairs, admitted that upon his return to the Rats he discovered many things which furthered those suspicions, and he related his efforts to uncover these irregularities and find out who were the guilty parties. He confessed, however, that these efforts had been futile, except in confirming the suspicions in his own mind.

At the opening of the hearing Mr. Mountford was again recalled to the stand to continue his testimony. Attorney Alvin T. Sapinsky immediately called upon him to produce the check vouchers, etc., which he had been or-

Has New Vaudeville Act

Mabel Spencer Preparing Satan's Abdication to Wilhelm

Mabel Spencer, the leading woman, is spending the winter at her home in Springfield, Mo., where she has been preparing a spectacular vaudeville act, which she expects to launch in the near future. The title of the act is Satan's Abdication to Wilhelm, and Miss Spencer will carry two full settings and four acting people. Mr. Billingsley, her husband, will handle the publicity.

Three-Act Play for Miss Suratt

New York, Feb. 11.—The Purple Poppy, Paul M. Potter's melodramatic playlet, in which Valeska Suratt is now appearing in vaudeville, will be expanded into a three-act play for Miss Suratt's use next season.

ANNETTE KELLERMANN.

The diving Venus, whose gorgeous revue has proven a rousing success at the Palace Theater, New York. She is assisted by a large company, and the special settings are exquisite. Direction James E. Sullivan.

Benefit Performance

For Family of Late Fred C. Eberts in Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 11.—A fine testimonial to the memory of Fred C. Eberts, late manager of the Majestic Theater, in the form of a benefit performance for the family of the deceased, will be given under the auspices of the Theater Managers' Association of Chicago Sunday, February 17, at the Olympic Theater.

The Western Vaudeville Agents have agreed to repeat their minstrel first part which proved so successful a few weeks ago, under far different circumstances, for then the occasion was one of general jollification, as the affair was run for war charities, a rather impersonal proposition. But every one of the men who appeared in the entertainment was personally known to deservedly popular Eberts, and the thought of the purpose for which the entertainment is to be given will probably cause many a laugh to have more than its wonted background of tears. The remainder of the program will consist of several feature acts, most of which will be recruited from vaudeville, the field with which Eberts was so closely identified.

Hartford Actors

To Make Good Use of Their Theaterless Tuesdays

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 11.—A plan has been mapped out by which the actors playing at local houses will put their theaterless Tuesdays to good purpose. Starting this week they began supplying entertainment on Tuesdays to the various sanitariums, hospitals and charitable institutions.

The arrangements for this special entertainment were made by W. D. Ascough, manager of the Palace Theater, this city, and president of the Connecticut Managers' Theatrical Association. It is needless to say that the plan has the most enthusiastic support of the various Hartford institutions and their inmates.

Du Vries Coming Back

Chicago, Feb. 11.—The Sam Du Vries has given up his club-booking office in the Crilly Bldg., he has made a new connection with a big Chicago vaudeville circuit, the name of which he hasn't divulged as yet.

New Chain of Theaters

E. M. Fay Contemplates Circuit in New England and New York

Providence, R. I., Feb. 9.—E. M. Fay, manager of Fay's Theater in this city, is contemplating opening a chain of theaters in various cities in New England and New York State. The first one will be Fay's Theater in Rochester, N. Y., next Monday. This place was formerly the Avon.

At the present time the Fay Theater here is on the Independent Booking Circuit, but when the new chain is fully complete Mr. Fay will conduct a booking agency of his own.

William B. McCallum will be retained as manager of the Avon Theater under its new name.

New Theater for Terre Haute

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 11.—A new theater will be built here by Bankers & Brokers' Theater Corporation of Chicago, Ill. The contract calls for the opening in September of this year. The seating capacity will be 2,000 and vaudeville and pictures will be the policy. A. L. Brentlinger of Ft. Wayne is in charge of the Terre Haute offices for Bankers & Brokers.

Wilton Going to Chicago

New York, Feb. 11.—Alf T. Wilton will pay his annual visit to Chicago week of February 18. While there he will make his headquarters with Harry W. Spingold in the Majestic Theater Building.

George W. Lederer

Plans Ten Vaudeville Combinations This Spring

New York, Feb. 9.—George W. Lederer announced yesterday that he would carry out his plan to send ten vaudeville combinations on tour. His idea is to open the ten combinations simultaneously in as many first-class theaters and then interchange them in accordance with the wheel system. Each company would appear in all ten weeks this spring. Some of them may play in Klaw & Erlanger houses, says Mr. Lederer. Harry Mountford is reported interested in the venture.

Damerel's Route Extended

New York, Feb. 10.—George Damerel's engagements have now been extended thruout the Orpheum Circuit. He recently introduced a new act to vaudeville called The Little Liar, which was written by Will M. Hough. It is a musical farce and has met with considerable success in the houses in which he has been playing. Mr. Damerel has been able to retain the services of the principals of his former act, Temptation, including Myrtle Vail and Edwin Hume. There are eleven people in the cast.

Singer Distributes Money

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The $1,500 realized by the W. V. M. A. agents at their recent minstrel war relief benefit was distributed to half a dozen war charity organizations by Mort H. Singer, W. V. M. A. general manager.

Vaudeville Reviews By Special Wire

Chicago Palace

(Reviewed First Show Monday, February 11)

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Today's bill at the Palace was particularly appreciated because each act represented a type of entertainment separate and distinct from other presentations on the same bill. That the enforced Monday holiday for the vaudeville was indicated by the fact that the extra matinee at which this review was compiled was favored with good attendance, and the first regular show was sold out well in advance.

No. 1—Fink's Mules started the bill off in fine fashion. They did everything from dancing to comedy stunts, with a retinue of dogs, monkeys and comedy riders in attendance. Ten minutes, in full stage.

No. 2—Fred Berrens, a master of the violin, relieved the monotony usually found in violin acts by incorporating a reproducing piano. Possessed of somewhat more stage presence than similar musicians, he told the story of his musical training via a medley, involving dexterous use of the violin. Fifteen minutes, in one, two bows.

No. 3—George Nash and Julia Hay, with Walter Moya playing a minor role, have a playlet of constant surprises, terminating with a dramatic climax cleverly turned into a comedy finish in The Unexpected, built around a refreshing angle of crook psychology. Twenty-three minutes, in interior three.

No. 4—Lloyd and Wells, remarkable eccentric dancers, start out as hoboes and end up in dress suits, but their costumes only serve to accentuate their ability as fancy steppers. Their entrance in box cars is especially interesting, as the illusion of tramp life is complete. Ten minutes, in one; four bows.

No. 5—Le Maire and Gallagher, on a blackface orderly and a general, spring old and new comedy war gags in a spirited manner, getting wholesome rounds of applause. The trench scene opening is very impressive and forms a good background for the goodnatured give and take. Fifteen minutes, in interior three.

No. 6—Percy Bronson and Winnie Baldwin are well supplied with effective songs along the comedy order. Percy's drunk is very clever, his little recitation on prohibition getting an exceptionally big hand. Winnie makes a refreshing appearance and shows herself to be possessed of great versatility. Seventeen minutes, in one; four bows.

No. 7—Nan Halperin, than whom no more artistic lady single has yet been unearthed, gives us a glimpse of the important rounds in a young girl's life from baby days to maturity. As heretofore, she is armed with well-written special songs, which she interprets in her own inimitable manner. Her bedtime farewell in past bears on the eve of her wedding forms a wonderful picture, which she is forced to interrupt in order to finish with her syncopated wedding song. Too bad she can't scheme out some way of concluding with the retiring scene. It would make the artistic nature of her wonderful work far more impressive. Twenty-three minutes, in interior three.

No. 8—Bailey and Cowan get much tune out of many instruments in their cabaret act, presenting all kinds of songs with much spirit and dash. The banjo work is especially meritorious. They certainly had the audience going some, and were rewarded with four bows. Twelve minutes, in one.

No. 9—Jack Clifford, with Agnes Dunn and Gertrude Korpin, has a dancing act backed up with beautiful special sets. His scarecrow entrance is so surprising that the act gets a good start, tho the shift back in the first scene after the ballroom one tends to make it monotonous. Straight singing is indulged in during shifts. Fifteen minutes, opening in exterior three.—CASPER.

FRANK BIXBY DIES

New York, Feb. 9.—Frank Bixby, 68, a veteran theatrical manager, producer and director, died yesterday at his home, West 105th street. The funeral will be Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the Campbell Funeral Chapel, Broadway and Sixty-sixth street, and will be in charge of the Actors' Fund.

Mr. Bixby was born here, and had been for more than forty years engaged in theatrical enterprises. He was at one time manager and director of the Madison Square Stock Company. He leaves his wife.

B. F. KEITH'S PALACE THEATER

When you have played the Palace, you have made Broadway

(Reviewed First Show Monday, February 11)

New York, Feb. 11.—The beautiful sunshine today, combined with the belief that this will be the last of the blue days, served to eliminate some of the gloom and depression so noticeable the last few Mondays. The program at the Palace was composed almost wholly of stars, and the entertainment was thoroly enjoyed. The show as a whole was above the usual Palace standard, if such a thing is possible. There was an abundance of dancing; in fact, there was dancing in nearly ever act. The sensation of the afternoon was created by the Gliding O'Mearas in Bessie Clayton's act. Just as they had started to dance they somehow misjudged the front of the stage, and both, locked in each other's arms, fell headforemost into the orchestra pit. Luckily neither was hurt, and when they limped back onto the stage and finished their dance they were the recipients of the loudest applause of the show.

No. 1—Palace Orchestra played When You Come Back under the leadership of Frederick F. Daab.

No. 2—Hearst-Pathe News Weekly showed a series of educational features.

No. 3—Sylvia Loyal and her Pierrot, in one of the most artistic and graceful opening acts seen here yet. It is more than an act—it is a miniature revue. The lady has trained dogs, walks a wire, juggles and has a whole flock of trained pigeons, while the setting is fully in keeping with the rest of the number. Ten minutes, in full stage, with three curtains.

No. 4—Sam Hearn got over in good shape with the assistance of his closing number. He plays the violin well, but the rube character does not seem to fit in somehow. His imitation of two violins playing at one time and his burglar and the vampire number were excellent. In one for eleven minutes, with two bows.

No. 5—Clark and Hamilton, with the atmosphere of the English music hall, scored heavily. Clark is a very clever English comedian, and his particular style of comedy seemed to be greedily devoured by the Palace audience. Miss Hamilton is very charming, and the happy combination makes a vaudeville offering de luxe. In full stage for twenty-three minutes, with three bows.

No. 6—Elizabeth Brice was accorded a reception on her appearance. Never has this charming little lady looked or sung better than today. She takes high rank as a single entertainer. She sang about King being in the navy. Her best numbers were probably That's the Kind of a Baby for Me, Love and Other Things. Her finishing song, Hurry Back, brought her rounds and rounds of applause. She was assisted at the piano by Will Donaldson. Miss Brice entertained for twenty-five minutes, in one, and received many bows.

No. 7—Bessie Clayton repeated her Intimate Dance Revue of 1918 as produced here a few weeks ago. There are two changes in the act—Louis Mosconi is dancing alone and the Gliding O'Mearas have been added. Miss Clayton still reigns supreme as America's dancing queen. Twenty-five minutes, in full stage, seven curtains and bows.

No. 8—Ryan and Lee, in a comedy skit which they call Hats and Shoes, and never probably before have two people got such results from material appertaining to these articles. They were a perpetual laugh, but they are both real comedians. In one for nineteen minutes; three bows.

No. 9—Carter DeHaven and Flora Parker, in a singing fashion show all of their own. Miss Parker makes six different changes of wardrobe and DeHaven makes three. This fashion plate musical comedy couple earned many plaudits by their classy singing. In fact, they breathe elegance in all that they do. DeHaven sang many songs, the knitting interlude being specially cleverly arranged with a special drop. Edwin Weber was at the piano. Twenty-two minutes, in full stage and in one; special sets; five curtains.

No. 10—George White and Emma Haig. This versatile dancing pair literally cleaned up. White's imitations of different celebrated dancers asked for by the audience were a near riot. He enlisted the services of Ben Ryan, who used to be his dancing partner, also when White was called upon to mimic Louis Mosconi, the latter himself did the dance. Altogether it was a great afternoon for George White and little Miss Haig. Twenty-five minutes, in special settings; applause, encores and speech.

No. 11—Gladys Hanson, in the patriotic spectacle, Liberty Aflame, closed the show. Miss Hanson is an actress of great talent, and as the Statue of Liberty addressing the universe has great opportunities for her declamatory powers. Most of the audience remained until the finish.—HILLIAR.

Majestic, Chicago

(Reviewed First Show Monday, February 11)

Chicago, Feb. 11.—The three-a-day at the big-time houses is working out all right on heatless Mondays, and at the Majestic there was every assurance that each performance would be a sellout. The first house was packed and the crowds awaiting admittance for the second completely blocked Monroe street on the opposite side of the street. The bill this week is a very exceptional one.

No. 1—Orpheum Circuit Travel Weekly.

No. 2—Bush Pielert and Abbie Scofield opened with their comedy offering, Helping Hubby. Miss Scofield is a dainty little singing comedienne, who lends assistance to Pielert whilst he entertains with a juggling novelty. Miss Scofield's incessant line of comedy chatter kept the audience interested. Thirteen minutes; three curtains.

No. 3—Harry and Grace Ellsworth enter in a rural comedy character make-up, singing and dancing to fit their interpretation. Both are excellent dancers, and in the single dance Harry got a shower of well-deserved applause. Eleven minutes, in one; two bows.

No. 4—Sam Mann and a very good company of six people appear in Aaron Hoffman's new philosophical farce, The Question. The plot is a clever one. Staged in a richly appointed drawing room of a country home. The rich man lures a girl to his home, only to find that the girl and a confederate plan to blackmail him on the grounds of violating the Mann Act. The male confederate is also playing the game from another angle, pretending to be in love with the rich man's wife. Love letters, jewels, false love, bribery and what not are a part of the interesting action of the play. The blackmailer's scheme is foiled by an unknown party, who happens in on the scene, straightens a terrible tangle, and after all have departed he is found by the searching party from a neighboring insane asylum, from whom he had wandered. The plot has a deep moral, with plenty of humor, and at times impressive and touching. Thirty-eight minutes, in full; five curtains.

No. 5—Dainty and demure Bessie Wynn offered her irresistible talents in song and prose. Several delightful melodies again welcomed enthusiastically. Miss Wynn is a finished artist, who sings her well-selected songs very effectively. Twenty minutes, in one; four bows.

No. 6—The Seven Honeyboys are seen again in their blackface minstrel, which always meets with popular approval. Songs, comedy and dancing are offered in a refreshing manner, and to big applause. Twenty minutes, in two and one, four bows.

No. 7—Sallie Fisher scored a big success with The Choir Rehearsal, a tale of the '60s, of a hooped-skirted lassie in a quiet hamlet, who has a heart hungry for love and a desire for excitement. Miss Fisher captivated her audience with song, and the story is a very interesting one. Twenty-three minutes, in three; five curtains.

No. 8—Walter C. Kelly, the Virginian Judge, occupies an imaginary judicial bench of a courtroom in the black belt of Virginia. He speaks the parts of the Irish judge and colored characters brought before him and brings down a riot of hearty laughter with every remark. Eighteen minutes, in one; two bows.

No. 9—Louis Hart closed the bill with one of the best of posing and strong man acts in vaudeville. He closed by performing the remarkable feat of supporting seven men on his frame. Eleven minutes, in three; two curtains. —ZIN.

COMMENDS S. W. W. R.

New York, Feb. 9.—District Attorney Swann examined the books and purpose of the Stage Women's War Relief on Wednesday at the request of a committee from the organization. He then sent a letter to its president, Miss Rachel Crothers, saying the investigation had given him an opportunity to observe the very thoro method that the organization had adopted to safeguard and protect the public contributing to this very worthy war relief.

LIEUT. HARRY CLAY BLANEY

The title "Lieutenant" will hereafter precede the name of Harry Clay Blaney, the well-known New York theatrical player, playwright and producer. Mr. Blaney has just received an appointment from Washington, and will become the manager of the big Liberty Theater at Camp Merritt, N. J.

ADDITIONAL REVIEWS ON PAGE 8

Keith's, Cincinnati

(Reviewed Sunday Evening, February 10)

A wealth of novelty is contained in the bill Manager Ned Hastings is putting on this week. It could hardly be called a high-class bill, but its very difference is a treat.

Little Billy took the headline honors, while Medlin, Watts and Townes and Beaumont and Arnold share second place.

No. 1—Pictures.

No. 2—La Graciosa is the graduated form of posing act, aided by the stereopticon. Chas. E. Burrell's work with the light is especially commendable. The act is a gigantic affair, opening in one and working in half steps to full stage, showing a carload of scenery, and then going into the posing, at which the lady is very good. Twelve minutes to a nice reception.

No. 3—A rather quaint offering is that of Gertrude Holmes and Robert Buchanan in their dainty rendition of the old folk songs that are gone, but not forgotten. They work for twelve minutes in one to excellent advantage, carrying off two bows. A later position on the bill would improve their reception.

No. 4—Things had been moving pretty slow up to this point, so when Bertee Beaumont and Jack Arnold bursted in on the audience's gentle reverie with their snappy little hit, The Sergeantess, it was relished, even the old jokes sliding down like greased lightning. It's a nifty little novelty they have—while it burlesques a recruiting office it makes you laugh with them, not at them. It was a hit and took four bows. Sixteen minutes, in full, closing in one.

No. 5—Shoes, Bayonne Whipple and Walter Huston's subject, from the Shoeshop of Life, gives this clever couple a wide range for their comedy lines, pathos expressions and philosophy. It is a big act, with a lot of scenery and special music. Nineteen minutes, in full.

No. 6—Again as things were becoming placid, Medlin, Watts and Townes jumped in with all six feet and made short work of everything that looked like seriousness. George Watts especially killed all the gloom germs, and Matty Medlin and Sid Townes harmonized with their voices to beat the band. It was fast stuff all the way thru and took the only encore on the bill, which Watts said he would give them the next day. Thirteen minutes, in one; four bows and a promise.

No. 7—Countess Leonardi's little opera company was very much appreciated, but just why it is billed The Futuristic Revue is hard to discern. Every one of the company is excellent, but like the Irishman's whisky, some are better than others, and we take our hat off to the Countess as a violinist and to Mme. C. Zegenecht. The balance of the company includes Mlle. B. DeDreux, Mlle. E. Navarry, L. Castiglio, L. Modena, O. Valliante, R. Anselmi, M. Lutha and D. Weidlinger. Open with prelude in one, work in two and one, alternately, with beautiful special drops. Twenty-five minutes.

No. 8—Little Billy took the eye of the ladies immediately, but he had to prove his merit with the male section, which he did before he wound up his allotted fifteen minutes. Little Billy is a clever little artist and put his dog poem over with a touch of pathos that counted. Billy is a headliner without a doubt. Four bows and he could have had more. Special drops, in one and two.

No. 9—The Miniature Revue is another novelty that reflects much credit on its unprogrammed sponsors. It shows a miniature theater, with audience and actors-on-a-string. While this type of show had been done before, there is a fine shading between the good and the bad, and that fine shading is readily appreciated in this novelty. It holds the audience until the last of its nine minutes. In full.—JED.

Columbia, St. Louis

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, February 11)

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 11.—Both a full house and a full bill were on hand this week for the Monday matinee show. It is an excellent show, full of good entertainment, which pleased from start to end. Trixie Friganza headlines, and is the hit.

No. 1—Orpheum Travel Weekly. Runs fifteen minutes.

No. 2—The Five Nelsons, hoop jugglers and rollers, have a very pretty and skillful act, which pleased. Excellent stage equipment. Ten minutes, in full stage; one bow.

No. 3—Homer Dickinson and Gracie Deagon, in a novelty chatter and song offering, worked up to a strong finish. Their work is clever, their material good and they got it over with a punch that captured the house. Twenty minutes, in one and two; three bows.

No. 4—Constance Crawley, in the sketch, The Actress and Critic. It is a splendid act and gives much opportunity for dramatic work, which Miss Crawley takes full advantage of. The lines are interesting, and held the house to the finish. Twenty-five minutes, in full stage; two calls.

No. 5—Walter Brower, the jolly jester, is a riot of laughter, and a hit from start. Whether it is the light or the more sublime, he holds his audience—his work is deliberate, and has punch in every expression. Fifteen minutes, in one; three bows.

No. 6—Pat Rooney and Marion Bent, with their song and dance act, pleased easily. They have the usual line, altho it is arranged differently, and it was new enough to keep the audience laughing continually. Their finish is strong and grabbed a lot of applause. Twenty minutes, in two and one; two bows.

No. 7—Jack Lavier, the flying monologist, made a hit with the effective manner in which he presented his stuff. Ten minutes, in full; two bows.

No. 8—Trixie Friganza, in songs and sayings, is a hit from the start. Her closing is a scream and delighted the house. The Ten Eyck and Weily dancers are a splendid addition to the number, and please every moment. The act was both the headliner and the hit of the bill. Thirty minutes, in one and full; seven bows.

No. 9—The Bert Hughes Company, European novelty cyclists, play basket ball on wheels, which proved to be an excellent diversion and added to the interest thus aroused a good, strong finish, completing a good bill fittingly. Seven minutes, in full stage; one bow.—WILL.

THIS MAKES ASSURANCE DOUBLY SURE

DIRECTOR GENERAL OF RAILROADS,
Interstate Commerce Building,
Washington, February 1, 1918.

My Dear Congressman:

With reference to your letter of the 23d instant addressed to the Director General of Railroads regarding the general policy of the Director General toward the conduct of State fairs and the shipment of live stock exhibits from one fair to another, I am authorized by the Director General to advise you and all others concerned that in his judgment it will be entirely proper for the managers of these various State fairs to proceed with the plans for the holding of their fairs this year.

The Director General does not intend or desire to interfere with the pursuits or pleasures of the people of the country, and shipments of live stock and of other exhibits to the various State fairs will be made as promptly and speedily as possible, always of course, provided such shipments do not interfere with the transportation of troops or of supplies for the Army and Navy.

Cordially yours,
OSCAR A. PRICE,
Private Secretary.

Hon. Jouett Shouse,
U. S House of Representatives.

MORGAN WALLACE

Will Produce Gee Whiz

Sioux City, Ia., Feb. 9.—Morgan Wallace will soon produce with his stock company at the Grand Theater a new comedy by Fred V. Greene, Jr., entitled Gee Whiz. It is a dramatization of Ralph E. Mooney's story, Something Is Going To Happen.

CORT BOX-OFFICE ROBBED

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The box-office of the Cort Theater was robbed last Tuesday night, most of the proceeds of the performance having been taken. The management made extraordinary efforts to keep the matter secret, as it was believed that some attache of the theater might have had something to do with the theft and detectives were called in to "spot" the staff.

ELLEN TERRY BOYLE TO WED

Columbus, O., Feb. 8.—Miss Ellen Terry Boyle, a Columbus girl, who has a part in the musical comedy, The Reckless Eve, at Keith's, has announced that she is engaged to a young army officer, Lieut. Deger, who is now stationed at Camp Sherman.

BARNEY FAGIN ILL

New York, Feb. 9.—Barney Fagin, famous as a minstrel man and dancer, is ill, tho not seriously, at Knickerbocker Hospital. Mr. Fagin recently has been appearing at Healy's.

MAUDE'S TWO NEW PLAYS

Los Angeles, Feb. 9.—Cyril Maude, who is playing Grumpy down the Pacific Coast, announces that he will produce two new plays in Los Angeles. The promised productions are Caste and Old John Reagan, in which Mr. Maude made many successful appearances abroad, but which have not yet been presented in this country.

"REHEARSING" BILL

Boston, Feb. 10.—If the legislature enacts a bill filed with it by Representative Lawrence F. Quigley of Chelsea, a woman employed as an actress shall not be required to rehearse more than eight hours in any twenty-four; to rehearse continuously more than four hours at a time, to rehearse more than two hours in a day when she takes part in two public performances.

GUS HILL IN CINCINNATI

Gus Hill, the well-known theatrical manager, who is financially interested in the International Circuit, the Columbia Amusement Co. and many theaters thruout the country, came to Cincinnati last Sunday to look over his minstrel show, Gus Hill's Big Minstrels, which opened a week's engagement Sunday night at the Lyric Theater.

WANTS OLD WARDROBE

Sergeant R. V. Balger of Battery C, Regiment 322, F. A., N. A., Camp Sherman, Ohio, known professionally as Charley Vermont, would appreciate old wardrobe, minstrel preferred, so that he can put on some acts at the cantonment. Vermont, previous to joining the colors, was with Al G. Field's minstrels.

PRIMROSE BENSON DESTITUTE

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Primrose Benson, who was well known to the vaudeville and legitimate stage of a few years ago, is destitute and confined with locomotor ataxia to her Chicago home, 723 W. Madison street. Her aged mother (Aggie La Varnie), who formerly lived with her, is now at the Cook County Hospital bedridden with pneumonia. Both are in great want and would appreciate hearing from their friends.

NO CABARETS IN PATERSON

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 9.—The cabaret form of entertainment, which has been offered in this city for the last ten years, has been discontinued. The decision to stop offering such entertainment in this city was the joint volunteer action on the part of the owners or proprietors.

VAUDEVILLE NOTES

J. C. Nugent, the actor-author, who is just beginning another vaudeville tour in his playlet, The Squarer, has completed a play, The Cynic, which he expects to offer early next season. Mr. Nugent has written numerous vaudeville playlets and claims to be the originator of the two-people sketch. His writings have always had a cynical touch, so, if the title of his new play means anything he is treading on familiar ground.

Faith Haas, sister of Manager Jay Haas of the Orpheum, Seattle, left the Puget Sound metropolis Saturday, February 2, for New York City, going via California. Miss Haas will take vocal instructions under the supervision of her aunt, who is principal soloist in one of the largest Jewish synagogs in the United States. Her mother, Mrs. Ida L. Haas, accompanied her on the trip.

Frank Stanley of Stanley and Gould is making a tour of the Pacific Coast for the first time since playing Westward over the old Sullivan & Considine Circuit in 1910. He re-entered vaudeville only recently, after playing with burlesque organizations for two or three seasons.

C. H. Heath, Ted Ullmark and Roy Rose have formed a trio and are playing the Fisher Circuit in the Northwest.

JACK STONE WRITES

Wants Show Material for Ship Program

New York, Feb. 9.—Jack Stone writes the following interesting letter and asks The Billboard readers to help him with show material for programs he is arranging for his mates on board the U. S. S. Old Colony:

On board U. S. S. Old Colony,
Halifax, Nova Scotia, Jan. 23, 1918.
The Billboard Publishing Company,
New York, N. Y.:

Gentlemen—I thought you would be interested in getting a word from one of the profession now in the service of Uncle Sam.

You folks back in the States no doubt have read about the Halifax explosion, but can never conceive the awful disaster it was by reading about it. After the explosion we found it hard to get a copy of dear old Billyboy, but get them now, altho a week or two late.

This ship was slightly damaged in the explosion and is now undergoing repairs.

On board we run an entertainment every week for the boys, that is, another past member of the profession (no, he was not a White Rat just because a very good member) and myself.

If by chance you could find room enough to publish this in Billyboy some of my dear friends in "show worldom" may see fit to send on any "extras" that they may have, such as sidewalk conversations, parodies and monologs, in fact anything that would go good with the boys. We find it hard to give them something different or new every week, and hope that thru your much-read paper some of the profession would come thru and do their bit this way if nothing more.

Trusting you will see fit to publish this so that it can be read by many, and which will, no doubt, bring results, I am,

Admiringly yours,
A. J. McLELLAN ("Jack Stone").

LAST WEEK'S BEST VAUDEVILLE ACTS

N. V. A. NEWS

In compliance with the Garfield order German Mondays are being celebrated at the club with the regulation andless, lightless, elevatorless features.

Lee Barth and Tom McGuire have effected a coalition for laughing purposes.

William Stuart, who shrinks from publicity like a hungry cow does from a pail of bran mash, says: "Since I got run over by that wheelbarrow in Times Square I'm too nervous to tell time by my wrist watch."

Easy Money, a new act, had its christening at the Warwick, with Jean Campbell, Mildred Donnelly and Cole S. Keith in the cast.

Miss Billy Willard and Elizabeth Warren are preparing for local judgment a new sketch of the stockfare persuasion.

G. A. Bonta who has been appointed a commissary officer with the Navy left a copy of the weekly feed sheet at the club. This is the most compelling piece of recruiting literature we have seen. If they really feed them all that's on the list why they don't have riots around naval recruiting stations is a mystery to us.

The mail department of the club is sadly in need of several thousand members' attention. We try to deliver it all, but some members don't leave forwarding addresses, and lots of forwarded mail comes back. You may have an important letter in that pile. Suppose you write in for mail once in a while.

McCARTHY & FISHER HITS

New York, Feb. 9.—McCarthy & Fisher's two newest song hits, Lorraine, My Beautiful Alsace-Lorraine, and They Go Wild Simply Wild Over Me, have won countrywide popularity and are being sung from coast to coast. The popular sentiment expressed in the words of Lorraine, and the lilting music and nonsensical lines of They Go Wild Over Me seem to have touched responsive chords in the hearts of the public.

Fred Fisher, composer of Peg o' My Heart, wrote the music for both songs. The words of Lorraine are by Alfred Bryan, writer of Joan of Arc, and Joe McCarthy wrote the words of They Go Wild, Simply Wild Over Me.

BORDONARO BROTHERS

Acquire Grand Theater, Olean, N. Y.

Olean, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Bordonaro Brothers, owners of the Palace Theater, Olean, N. Y., of which Al W. Root is manager, have bought the Grand Theater, which is located next door to the Palace, from the Olean Amusement Company, which for the past eight years has been playing vaudeville and pictures. As the Palace is now playing a five-act bill and feature pictures, two performances a day, the Grand will probably play exclusive pictures.

The Palace, which was built last year at a cost of $200,000, is one of the finest appointed vaudeville and picture theaters in this part of the country, and, under the able management of Al Root, who is an old showman, is enjoying good business, playing five regular acts at a 15-20-25-cent admission, two shows daily.

RICHARD PITROT ROBBED

New York, Feb. 9.—Richard Pitrot, the impresario, was held up Wednesday night of last week near his home on the upper East Side of New York by three thugs. After choking him into unconsciousness he was relieved of his diamond solitaire and another ring, his scarfpin, watch and chain and a sum of money. Mr. Pitrot regrets very much the loss of a twenty-dollar gold piece, which was given to him by Tony Pastor during his first American engagement for Pastor. Mr. Pitrot felt the effects of the attack for several days.

ROBERT ATHERTON PLAYERS

First Attraction of Pacific Musical Revue Wheel To Open

Seattle, Feb. 9.—The new Pacific Musical Revue Wheel, which was organized been last week, and mention of which was made in that issue of The Billboard, has progressed to the point where one of the three companies organized to alternate between the Orpheum, Seattle; Strand, Portland, and Burbank, Los Angeles, has opened at the Portland house. The Robert Athon Players opened there Sunday in musical tabs, with Robert Athon, Effie Johnson, Clifford Lancaster, Marie James and a chorus. The Athon Players have a record in this city of forty-two consecutive weeks at the old Seattle and Grand theaters several seasons ago. The Seattle spoke of the wheel will start going soon with the Lewis & Lake Musical Show. The organization to play the Los Angeles house has not been announced here.

IN NEW YORK

(HILLIAR'S SELECTIONS)

Valeska Surett, virile, vivacious, Valeskaesque vaudeville vampire, in The Purple Poppy, which gives Miss Suratt an opportunity to prove that she is an exceptionally clever actress, and not only a wearer of fine clothes. It is a clever little play, well acted, the supporting company being excellent. First show at the Palace Theater, Monday.

Elizabeth M. Murray, famous, fascinating, finished feature favorite. This lady is one of those rare sure-fire artists who can always be relied upon to satisfy the most exacting audience. She sang five songs, her best liked probably being Says I to Myself, I'm Going To Follow the Boys and Henry Clay. Many bows at Colonial Theater last Saturday.

Jack Wilson, trenchant, triumphant, talkative, travesty tattler, was the big laughing bit in his impromptu revue, assisted by Tom Mitchell, a good straight man and singer, and Heisne Goff. Wilson burlesques the preceding acts on the bill in a deliciously funny manner. He is a prime favorite with the New York audiences. First show at the Palace Theater, Monday.

Adele Rowland, sweet, supereminent, sunny songstress, had everything her own way. Assisted at the piano by Harry De Costa, Miss Rowland sang five songs, and, of course, her Mary Ann was the hit of the act. This artist is unapproachable in her own particular line. At the Colonial Theater, Thursday evening.

Wellington Cross, admirable, alluring, accomplished American actor, with Ted Shapiro at the piano. Cross is one of our very best light comedians, and knows just how to sing a topical song and to get the maximum out of the lyrics. His last number, a Gunga Din offering, went over very big. A clever story teller, his knitting gags caused great laughter. First show at the Palace Theater, Monday.

Hamilton and Barnes, clever, crackerjack, consummate, comedy couple, were the real hit of a good show. They call their offering Just Fun, and it is that and much more, it is real art, for this nifty chap and charming girl are perfectly delightful entertainers. They must surely be coming to the Palace. Eighteen minutes of refreshing singing and talking comedy at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theater, Wednesday evening.

Walter Percival and Company, truly, thoro Thespians, three men and a woman, in a playlet with novel situations, so well written and acted that it was the hit of the show—in fact, the punch at the finish was so unexpected that it was a few seconds before it was fully grasped. At Loew's American Roof, Monday evening.

IN CHICAGO

(Casper's Selections)

Columbia and Victor (Bart and Clerk) rescued local vaudeville from the rut of mediocrity, into which it seems to have fallen lately, with one of the cleverest novelty singing and dancing acts ever viewed in these parts. Plenty of everything (including comedy), not enough of any one thing to bore anybody, appropriately dressed and with a setting that should arouse the envy of a musical comedy producer, these two young people certainly showed themselves to be "there." Palace, Monday.

Sports in the Alps, a sextet of acrobats, who work amid faithfully reproduced winter surroundings, exhibiting appropriate sports via hazardous feats, proved the kind of a closing act that's sufficiently interesting to keep a big-time audience seated. At the Majestic, Monday.

Fannie Rice, impersonating standard celebrities of the stage, shows earmarks of getting as good a reception over the time she's playing as Elsie Janis got on a somewhat higher strata. McVicker's, Wednesday.

Edith Clifford, who makes songs sound good, whether they're the regular run or parodies, because of her ability to blend voice with "mug" work, is one of the by-no-means-many lady singles who deserve big-time billing. Palace, Monday.

IN SAN FRANCISCO

(Box's Selections)

Love Thy Neighbor, a playlet produced by Washington Square Players, disclosed surprising execution and ability. The subject, Altruism, proved to be a bit gruesome. The scene is laid in a cafe in Paris, and the guests, a heterogeneous crowd, give the players a wide scope to display their talents. Each artist interprets his or her part with a realism that brings a big applause. Full stage.

Emma Carus is certainly a most entertaining comedienne. Her fearless, daring dancing, as well as her amusing gymnastics, delighted and caused much merriment. Miss Carus' rich contralto voice left a lingering sweetness, which pervaded the atmosphere the rest of the show. This versatile woman is a San Francisco favorite, and her half hour of pleasuregiving was heartily appreciated.

OTTO ERNEST IN JAIL

Charged With Violating Enemy Alien Act

Columbus, O., Feb. 9.—Charged with violation of the alien enemy act, Otto Ernest, member of the Fautina troupe of acrobats, playing at Keith's this week, is in the county jail. Upon his arrival here early this week it is said that he failed to report to United States Marshal Devanney's office, as required under the alien enemy act. U. S. Deputy Marshal Walter, who on Thursday arrested Ernest, is awaiting word from the Department of Justice as to the prisoner's further detention.

FIGMAN WITH BEAUMONTS

New York, Feb. 11.—Oscar Figman is expected to re-enter vaudeville soon with the Beaumont Sisters. Billy B. Van is tied up in the musical comedy field, but that does not prevent him from writing, and he recently showed Mr. Figman one of his acts, called The Second Mr. Baggs, which will probably be the vehicle of the newly arranged trio.

HARRIS FOR VAUDEVILLE

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Joe Harris, who was comedian with the Gifford Stock Company, has arrived in Chicago and will return to vaudeville.

RAE REAL HEART APPEAL

In spite of the many songs published bearing in some way or other on the inexhaustible war theme there are few that have the real heart appeal of one entitled Send Back Dear Daddy to Me. The song expresses the plea of a child who longs for the return of its father, and the idea combined with the befitting melody go to make up a ballad which has lasting qualities. Even if the war should terminate tomorrow this song will continue to be sung by many hundreds of act featuring it now, as it is one of those substantial and reliable applause-getters which are getting scarcer and scarcer.

The song is written by Harry Tenney and Irving Maslof, and is published by Jos. W. Stern & Co.

BALTIMORE NOTES

Baltimore, Feb. 9.—Fred. C. Schanberger, president of the Kernan Hotel Company and general manager of the Maryland and Auditorium theaters, celebrated his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Thursday night, when he and Mrs. Schanberger entertained a few invited guests at a quiet dinner party.

Charlie McClintock, manager of the Experience Company, is in town wearing the smile that won't come off and greeting his many friends here.

William Myers, formerly with the Hippodrome forces, has joined the staff of Guy Wonders of the Wilson Theater.

JOHN KEANE'S NEW VENTURE

Chicago, Feb. 9.—John Keane, head of a circuit operating the Star Theater in the loop and the Triangle, Strand and Star theaters in Evanston, is organizing a $2,000,000 corporation for the purpose of operating a chain of restaurants thruout Chicago.

Keane has leased the store and basement at 63-67 E. Madison street at a term rental of $250,000 for fifteen years and intends using that site as main headquarters for the restaurant chain.

GENEVIEVE VIX MARRIED

New York, Feb. 9.—Genevieve Vix, one of the leading sopranos of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and Prince Cyril Narischkine, former attache of the Russian Embassy to Paris, were married here today.

BURLESQUE

BURLESQUE PRODUCERS AND ELECTRICIANS STILL AT ODDS

No Immediate Prospect of Their Making Up—Same Conditions Will Probably Prevail Another Season—Managers Say They Do Not Miss Former Employees

New York, Feb. 9.—Burlesque producers are satisfied that the season, now well in its second half, has proved conclusively that burlesque is not as dependent upon electricians as many thought it was at the beginning of the season. Certain it is that the differences between the producers and the electricians have not been overcome in any way, and it is practically certain that the same conditions will confront all parties concerned at the opening of next season.

Owners of burlesque shows proclaim that their business has suffered in no wise this year because of the absence of some of the electrical splendor of the past. They declare that complaints of this shortcoming only occasionally reach their ears, and that the public finds the shows just as pleasing as ever in spite of the absence of a company electrician.

While these complaints may not, except on rare occasions, reach the ears of the owners and producers, they are frequently made by those in attendance at performances of burlesque shows. There is no disputing but the absence of electrical effects detracts from the color scheme, the brilliant atmosphere and the general attractiveness of burlesque, and it is certain that the public senses this loss and comments upon it.

The curtailing of the electrical effects in burlesque is a step backward and is an act which is opposed to the general purpose of modern burlesque. The writer has no desire to participate in any squabble between producers and electricians, he takes no part in the controversy, nor does he assume to say who is right and who is wrong. He does say, however, that the producer needs the electrician and the electrician needs the producer. It is one of these foolish controversies which should be arbitrated for the good of everyone concerned. What if burlesque can go on in this way, what if the producer can go on making money and the electrician finding something else to do, the public is still the loser. Everyone who likes burlesque wants burlesque to forge ahead, and it does not take kindly to any backward moves. Next season may be a trying one. Why not go into it with shows which will be in every respect worthy of success?

ARMSTRONG FOLLY CO.

Seattle, Feb. 9.—Henry Sheer, Jewish comedian, who joined the cast of the Armstrong Folly Company at the Gaiety Theater last Sunday, was called for physical examination for service in the army that evening. Buck Dunn, another member of the same company, who opened at the same time, was also called for service his opening day. Dick Frazier has replaced Dunn as straight man. Frazier was formerly a member of the Wilkes Players and the Monte Carter Musical Comedy Company.

R. E. Holland joined the Armstrong Folly Company last Sunday, while Violet Robinson left the cast the day previous for a fortnight's trip to California.

MAY CUT SALARIES

Some Burlesque Shows Are Contemplating Such a Move

New York, Feb. 8.—Some of the burlesque companies are contemplating a cut in salaries from now until the end of the season. It is understood that this step is being considered for two reasons.

One is that some of the companies report that the Monday business of their shows does not make up for the Tuesday close-down, and the other is that theatrical conditions are such that the payment of full salaries from now on looks to them impossible. They figure that if full salaries are paid it will be necessary to cut the regular season short, but that with a slight cut in the salaries they will be able to then the full season in spite of the poor business at the close of the season which they anticipate.

Of course there are many of the shows which will continue to pay the full salaries to the end. At burlesque headquarters it was said that a reduction of salaries was a matter entirely up to producers and their employees to adjust among themselves.

AGENT WEDS CHORISTER

William Waldron Marries Mary Fraser

New York, Feb. 9.—William Waldron, the well-known agent of The Bostonians, was married at Meriden, Conn., this week to Mary Fraser, a chorister of The Hip, Hip, Hooray Girls. The marriage was the culmination of a genuine show romance.

Young Waldron has for the past two seasons traveled with The Hip, Hip, Hooray show, that being the organization booked the week ahead of The Bostonians, which he represented. In this way he became acquainted with Miss Fraser, with the result that their acquaintance resulted in a love affair, which led to the altar.

Waldron is the son of Charles H. Waldron, the Boston theatrical magnate, owner of Waldron's Casino and several other theaters and also producer of the well known No. 1 organization, The Bostonians.

"IT WAS SOME BALL!"

Burlesque Boys of Baltimore Held Fourth Annual Social Event

Baltimore, Feb. 9.—The fourth annual ball of the Burlesque Boys, which was heralded as "the theatrical event of the season," was held last night at Hasner's Hall, West Franklin street. Members of all the burlesque companies playing here were the guests of honor, and there were also present a number of gladiators of the roped arena. Kid Williams and George Chaney were among those who shook hands with oldtime friends.

It was "Some Ball," and everybody who is somebody in burlesque circles was there. The real fun did not commence until after the theaters were over, and then chorus girls, principals, ushers and everyone connected with the theaters in the city made a bee line for the hall. The fun was fast and furious, but when Tom Clark and the girls from the Star and Garter Show at the Palace arrived Master of Ceremonies William Myers blew his silver mounted traffic officer's whistle as a signal for the grand promenade, which was led by Mr. Clark and Babe Malcolm of the company. The promenade didn't last long, it was too formal, and the few minutes of marching were followed by dancing, dancing such as only the guests of the Burlesque Boys can do. Of course, all the honors didn't go to the Star and Garter contingent. The players from the other houses received just as hearty a welcome, for the Burlesque Boys play no favorites, but the Star and Garter coterie dominated.

It was a typical Burlesque Boys' Ball, one of the biggest ever held in Baltimore, and early this morning things were still moving at a lively pace. Prof. Nelson Kratz, leader of the Palace Orchestra, who has recently been appointed leader of the Second Regiment of State Guards, had charge of the music, and William Furman was chairman of the committee of arrangements, the other members of which were Messrs. Rinehard, Eisenhard, Dyson, Harry Miller, Hon. Nickel, Frank Van Sant, Harry Bletner, George Chaney, Dave Wartnik, Kid Williams, Brauer, Mattes and Racha.

PARELLE PLAYS STOCK

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Jimmie Parelle, who recently left the Paris Burlesque Company to undergo an operation, is now a member of the Stock Burlesque playing the Empress Theater, Milwaukee, Wis.

THAYER'S THUNKLETS

New York, Feb. 11.—Rosandi, the Oriental dancer, after a successful engagement in vaudeville, has decided to return to burlesque. She will be enlisted by the French Frolic Company at St. Paul for the remainder of the season.

It is said that Frank Lawlor will operate Charles Barton's Aviators another season.

Mildred Gilman has joined The Darlings of Paris show.

Marie Elmer has replaced Jessie Howard with The Morning Glories organization.

Margaret Birk has joined Harry Hastings' Big Show as prima donna, replacing Elizabeth Tell.

Follow the example of Joseph in the land of Egypt, lay up resources in times of prosperity for possible times of adversity. An accumulation of War-Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps will accomplish the same purpose.

THE BILLBOARD PROFESSIONALS AND ASSOCIATES

Who They Are—What They Are—Where They Are

Conducted by ALFRED NELSON

The Billboard will accept authentic information in the form of interesting news for publication in this department.

Out-of-town readers contemplating visiting New York City should consult The Billboard Hotel Directory, select their hotel and drop a letter to the hotel manager advising him of their individual requirements, i. e., date of arrival, location of rooms, etc. If no advance announcement in The Billboard is desired mail it to The Billboard.

Hotel Managers say: "The Billboard Hotel Directory is something that will supply the demand for a ready reference that will aid the traveling public in selecting desirable hotels."

Hotel Clerks say: "The Billboard Hotel Directory will save us time and labor, for it will furnish all the necessary information that prospective guests may require."

All voluntary communications must be signed by the writer.

Address The Billboard, Subway Central Bldg., Forty-second street and Broadway, New York.

Alderman & Katz, the progressive managers of the Palace Cigar Store on 45th street, east of Broadway, made an attractive display of Billboards during the past week. This probably accounts for their ever increasing sales. It takes a live wire to do business in the theatrical district these days. Some of the less fortunate ones can profit by the efficient methods of Alderman & Katz.

Jeri O. Conney, well known in the theatrical district about 1900 for his repertorial work, is again on the job, this time incog. for reasons best known to himself. Jeri is as youthful appearing as ever, even tho his hair is snowy white. His smile is one that will not fade with time. Jeri is some song writer, for he had two new ones, 'My Red Cross Girl' and 'It May Fit You.'

The terrific blizzard that raged thru the Middle West during the past week caused an unavoidable delay in mail coming into New York. The Billboard publishers, their readers and the writer especially are indebted to Superintendent of Incoming Mail Quigley of the Main Post Office and his able assistant, Mr. Schaffer, for their quick activities in handling The Billboard at the Main Post Office on Thursday last.

Frank P. Folsom has given up the leading role in Tell It to Bill, and is now rehearsing a new act, Papa's Baby, which will be followed by a revival of The Gold Cure. Folsom is figuring on an office in the Putnam Building.

Miss Russell, of Russell and Norton, will go out in a political sketch, The Boss, under the management of Frank P. Folsom.

Everyone around Detroit knows Joe Hirschfeld, the King of Confectionists, and few of them know that in 1907 Joe joined the ranks of producing managers and started on tour with A Good Fellow. Joe was a good fellow himself and had a good show, but what could he do with the Shawnees and Pawnees down in Oklahoma paying their way into the show with "script" that wouldn't buy postage stamps in Texas?

The editor of this department is now looking after The Billboard's circulation in and around New York, and if any of our readers fail to find The Billboard on their most convenient newsstand the writer will consider it a personal favor if you will write, call or phone 8470 Bryant and make the fact known, so that we can place The Billboard there for your personal convenience.

Bill Hicks of the Times Square Post Office is sure on the job when it comes to handling theatrical mail that has been delayed in transit. Bill can spot show mail thru the canvas sacks.

The newsstand proprietors and managers are on the job again at the same old stand. Their enforced rest of a few days apparently benefited them, for one and all alike were hustling to outsell each other with Billboards on Thursday last.

Johnny James, who has been acting manager with The Man Who Came Back, has gone into movies. No, not posing; perish the thought, for Johnnie is not a poser, but a hustler, and it's a foregone conclusion that Fox's Les Miserables will get some up-to-the-minute publicity.

Walter Turner, formerly manager for Nat C. Goodwin, is going to do his bit for the government by taking over the management of a cantonment at San Antonio, Texas.

Joe Drum is on the executive staff of Lou Tellegen, and with Joe it is always "business before pleasure," which accounts for his departure for Baltimore.

Henry Pennypacker, who has had a most congenial engagement with The Man Who Came Back, made an excellent showing in Columbus.

Pete Cavanagh, made famous by his clever work and long service with the management of Marie Cahill, is doing equally well with Chin Chin. Pete made Detroit sit up and take notice.

Harry Sloan has gone and "did" it. Yep, given up the skating rink gladiators and jumped ahead of Nelson Terry. Harry is some jumper, and when it comes to landing something good he is always there.

VANDERBILT THEATER

Will Open Feb. 18 With Oh, Look

New York, Feb. 9.—Honor Bright will not open the new Vanderbilt Theater in West Forty-eighth street as was planned, but instead Oh, Look, will be the attraction February 18. Mrs. Catharine Chisholm Cushing was the author of the book of Honor Bright, while Harry Carroll composed the music, and with William Sheer had arranged to produce it. But in the double capacity of composer and manager Mr. Carroll disagreed with himself. As a composer he thought the book was all right. Later his managerial self protested and James Montgomery was called in to make some changes. It ended by Mr. Montgomery being asked to write a new book, which he finished February 5. It met with the approval of both Composer Carroll and Manager Carroll and was placed in rehearsal under the title of Oh, Look. The cast will include Harry Fox, Louise Cox, George Sidney, Genevieve Tobin, Albert Sackett, Worth Faulkner, Alexander P. Frank, Florence Bruce, Betty Hale, Emily Morrison, Betty Hamilton, Allison Worth, Julie Ross and Mildred Sinclair. Paul Schindler is the musical director.

THEATRICAL COSTUMES

Are Subject To Depreciation in Value for Income Tax

New York, Feb. 9.—The Bureau of Internal Revenue has ruled that theatrical costumes are subject to depreciation in value for income tax. The action of the Bureau followed protests of theatrical folk and as actors and actresses are often required to furnish their own wardrobes, depreciation in their value should constitute an allowable deduction in making out each income tax.

The ruling of the bureau follows:

"If costumes purchased by members of the theatrical profession are used exclusively for the production of a play and are not adapted for occasional personal use, and are not so used, a deduction may be claimed on account of such depreciation in their value as occurs during the year on account of wear and tear arising from that use in the production of a play or for their becoming obsolete at the close of the production."

MISS ELEANOR PHILLIPS

Purchases Title and Equipment of A. G. Allen's Greater New Orleans Minstrels

Miss Eleanor Phillips, manageress of Leon W. Washburn's Fashion Plate Minstrels, last week purchased the title, car and equipment of A. G. Allen's Greater New Orleans Minstrels, one of the oldest existing titles in the minstrel game, and will send the show out from St. Augustine, Fla., March 1. The car is now being painted and all the show's equipment remodeled in that city. Miss Phillips has met with much success in the minstrel business, accomplishing astonishing results with the Washburn Show thru the Florida territory when other shows were forced to close in that section because of a lack of patronage. The Washburn Show played a two weeks' engagement at Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville, Fla., the only colored minstrel that has ever appeared in any of the army camps. The results accomplished by Miss Phillips are a tribute to her managerial ability, and indicate that success for any show lies largely in the wise and sagacious administration of that office.

HARRY R. POLACK WILL ASSUME MANAGEMENT OF WORLD AT HOME and as a traveling life did not appeal to me and as I have other interests of more moment that require my full and personal attention I am at last obliged to announce that the World at Home Shows for the season of 1918 will go out operated by the Polack Brothers, and under the personal direction of Harry R. Polack. I have had numerous propositions to buy, sell an interest or manage the World at Home Shows from practically every carnival man of prominence. I am now glad to announce an alliance, as said before, with the Polack Brothers. These gentlemen, starting in a small way, have, by reason of rare ability as showmen, energy and integrity, proven themselves to me to be among the leaders in the carnival world. Therefore I feel that my property will be well protected and the name of the World at Home Shows continue to head the list of high-class amusements in the American outdoor field. This gives me an opportunity to give greater attention to other business interests, as aside from certain special dates, such as the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, I will not be required to go thru a season of hard work and worry necessary to the success of such a large organization."

Harry R. and Irving J. Polack, upon being interviewed immediately after the announcement made by James T. Clyde, had this to say:

"It is with a great deal of pleasure that we have consummated the deal that brings us in touch with James T. Clyde and his World at Home Shows. It has been our ambition for many years to reach the top in the business in our particular line, and we think that today in the affiliation with Mr. Clyde that we have reached the pinnacle. We have this to say: The World at Home Shows and Polack Bros.' Twenty Big Shows will this season surpass anything ever attempted in the line of midway shows. Nothing that capital, experience and brains can produce will be overlooked. In a short time we will announce the executive staff and lineups for both companies. It will be my particular pleasure to devote my entire thought this season to the World at Home Shows, maintaining and improving, if possible, its present high standing. My brother, Irving J. Polack, will do likewise with the Polack Bros.' Twenty Big Shows. This will prove a continuance of the old adage that 'Mighty Oaks From Little Acorns Grow.'"

Offices will be maintained in the Consumers' Building, Chicago, and Lyceum Building, Pittsburg. Temporary winter quarters are at Streator, Ill., and Salisbury, N. C.

dered last Friday to produce. He turned over to the court a great bundle of check vouchers, etc., and was then asked if these were all the check vouchers in his possession.

He said that they were, and when asked if he had been over them to see what, if anything, was missing, he replied that he had not, but that he was quite sure he had no others. He was then asked if there were any more that he knew of in the possession of any other of the officials of the Rats. "To the best of my belief these are all that there are," he replied.

Mr. Sapinsky then asked if anything of the kind was in the possession of Mr. FitzPatrick and if he was ready to produce those papers which it had been testified, Mr. FitzPatrick was holding.

"I am quite sure," said Mountford, "that he has no check vouchers." Mountford then presented to the court a letter written by him to FitzPatrick after last Friday's session in which he had informed FitzPatrick that the court had ordered the papers in his (FitzPatrick's) possession produced at once and requesting FitzPatrick to send them on to him at once. He then presented the letter received by him in response to his request. It was as follows:

Home, Wednesday Night, Feb. 6, 1918.

My Dear Mountford—Your letter requesting me to send you any and all books of the White Rats in my possession came this morning and I hasten to answer not because the matter is so important to me but because I am up to my neck in other things and I don't know when I will get time to reply later.

I would gladly send you anything I have that might answer the demands of justice, but as I consider the present action the purest travesty on the law and the facts, that the motive back of it is personal persecution of the lowest order, and that the officers of the court have been deceived to their eyes, I can not see my way clear to do what you ask. However, this is obiter dictum. The real reason is this. In view of the fact that I am a Director, that I have been in New York for days at a time since the action was set on foot and that I have never been served with a summons of any kind in any way as the law requires, that the books in question have never been under the jurisdiction of the court in this action, and that they are not now in the jurisdiction of the court in this action, in view of all these facts I must refuse to do what you ask. Any information you want that I can give you I'll be glad to send on, but I am advised that I am altogether within my rights in this matter and I intend to keep so. All this without any disrespect for the referee or the law or the demands of justice, which last I believe has nothing whatever to do with the case.

I may go to the front very unexpectedly if a plan I have in mind is carried out successfully, so you will understand why I am writing so hurriedly and briefly. My work has accumulated in awful shape and I simply must get it done before I can think of such amenities of existence as writing long letters.

With kindest regards, I am,
Faithfully,
J. W. F.

Mr. Sapinsky offered in evidence both the Mountford letter and the one received in reply. He asked Mountford if he had dictated the letter written by FitzPatrick or if he had indicated in the letter the tenor in which he had replied. Mountford answered in the negative and said the letter written by him to FitzPatrick which he had turned over to the court constituted the entirety of his communication to FitzPatrick.

"That is a very impudent letter," commented Referee Schuldenfrei. "I suggest that you make application to the Supreme Court, Mr. Sapinsky, to see that the mandate of this court is upheld and that these papers are produced. It is a most unusual letter and I feel very keenly that one of the respondents to this action should be allowed to talk in this way and not be brought to task for it."

Mr. Sapinsky replied that he would immediately take the necessary legal steps, as suggested.

Judge Myers inquired if he would be served with a notice of such an application being made and Mr. Sapinsky replied that so long as they knew he was going to take that action he did not know as it would be necessary.

Judge Myers said it was just ordinary courtesy, but that if the attorney wanted to take ex parte procedure to go ahead.

Referee Schuldenfrei said there was a question in his mind just how much courtesy the writer of such a letter was entitled to. He particularly resented the reference to the proceedings being a travesty—they were not a travesty.

"That is to be argued in court," retorted Judge Myers. "It may prove more of a travesty than you think before we get thru with it."

Mr. Sapinsky next took up the article printed in The New York Call and which was reprinted in The Player. This told of a contribution of $50,000, which Mr. Mountford had testified at the last hearing was a fake reprinted from The Call for the purpose of instilling fear in the hearts of the enemies of the Rats.

Judge Myers objected on the ground that this matter had already been gone over, but the court overruled the objection.

"Did this Mr. Zorn referred to in the article reprinted from The Call give any money to the union as a loan?" asked Mr. Sapinsky.

"No."

"But Mr. Zubell made a loan to the union and Mr. Zorn was attorney for him at that time, was he not?"

"No."

"But the union obtained a loan from Jacob B. Zubell, did it not?"

"No."

This line of questioning was persisted in until Mountford admitted that Jacob B. Lubell (not Zubell) had made a loan to the White Rats Realty Company.

"Then why didn't you say so?" asked Mr. Sapinsky.

"Because you asked me if a man named Zubell made such a loan—the man's name is Lubell not Zubell."

"And because of that I had to ask about ten unnecessary questions," said Mr. Sapinsky.

"Ask it right in the first place and you won't have to ask the other nine," interjected Judge Myers.

"I see you have a very careful witness," commented the referee.

"I have to be careful," said Mountford.

"It's his business to be," added Judge Myers.

Questioned further on this loan, Mountford said that he had talked over the matter of a loan with Mr. Lubell and the latter had said he could make a loan on the furniture, and such a loan was made for $5,000. The money had been spent in the strike. That $5,000 had eventually been paid back to Mr. Lubell.

"By whom?" asked Mr. Sapinsky.

"A man named Corcoran."

"And who is he?"

"I don't know."

Here Mountford said he could clear up this whole matter if permitted to proceed and tell in his own way the circumstances under which this loan was made and the final payment of the note. He said he had turned the check over to Mr. Lubell in the presence of Mr. Sackett, president of the Mutual Bank. Papers covering the transaction had been drawn up and were now in the safe at his office. He would produce it at the next hearing.

Mountford was allowed to go on and explain. He said that after the loan had been made it developed that the furniture was covered by the blanket mortgage on the White Rats' property thus placing him (Mountford) in the peculiar position of having obtained the loan on the representation that there was no lien on the furniture, whereas the blanket mortgage covered it. He had done this on the advice of Zorn who had searched the title and who had overlooked the fact that the furniture was included in the blanket mortgage.

Then came the boycott, the picketing, the installation of a gunman in the house across the street and business went from bad to worse. Malicious stories were circulated and Mr. Sackett called up in reference to the $49,000 mortgage had asked what was intended to be done to protect the bondholders. He was told that everything would be done to protect them. Certain parties continued carrying the malicious stories to Mr. Sackett and he called the note. He (Mountford) was called to the Mutual Bank and told that the property must be sold. Under compulsion of the bank they did sell for little or nothing. But thru all this Mr. Corcoran never showed himself.

The lease had been assigned to Mr. Corcoran, who apparently was acting for Messrs. Albee, Keith and Murdock of the United Booking Offices, for the property was turned over to a concern controlled by them called the 229 W. Forty-sixth Street Corporation.

In reply to further questioning Mountford said that neither the union nor the Realty Company had received anything in addition to the $5,000 for the assignment of the lease to Corcoran.

Here Judge Myers objected to dragging in the Realty Company. He held the order for the proceedings were simply for the purpose of investigating the White Rats Actors' Union and not the White Rats' Realty Company.

Referee Schuldenfrei said there had already been plenty of facts introduced to show the connection between the two and that the court was quite within its rights in going into the Realty Company's affairs.

"I don't think there have been any facts to date," said Judge Myers. "I object to going into the affairs of the Realty Company, and I take an exception to the ruling."

Mountford admitted that certain other creditors got about $6,000.

"Why?" he was asked.

"It was used to pay commercial debts."

"Yes, but who?"

"Oh, the butcher, the baker, the"—

"Stop right there," interrupted Referee Schuldenfrei, "unless you mean literally what you say."

"I do mean that exactly."

"Can you furnish us a list of those who were paid?"

"You better get that from Mr. Sackett, he saw to the payments."

Mountford was next asked about the note of $49,000 to the Mutual Bank. He said that when he came back the note was for $101,000 and he had reduced it to $49,000. He had done this by selling some railroad bonds, which paid four per cent, whereas the bank was being paid six per cent. About $40,000 of these stocks were sold. The note was further reduced by certain cash payments.

Mountford next told of his return to the Rats, of the conditions he found, of the disaster he saw threatening the Rats and of the storm signals he put up as a warning.

He said he told the Rats frankly of the deplorable conditions he found, calling their attention to the fact that things could not possibly go on that way. He was satisfied at the time that all was not right and he had urged the taking of some action against those responsible.

Mountford then wanted to submit some sort of communication as "Justice to Mr. McCree," as he put it. The referee halted him with:

"This spread eagle oratory has gone about far enough."

Mountford was then asked what particular officials he had desired to take action against. He said he had suggested action against several, in fact, all the directors and officials at that time.

Asked if some of these officers were not also directors at the time, he replied in the affirmative.

"Naturally," said Mr. Sapinsky, "these gentlemen would not care to proceed against themselves."

Mountford was pressed to tell of the irregularities he discovered or the conditions which looked suspicious to him.

He replied that he wanted to have investigated the investment of moneys of the union thru the realty corporation, he wanted to know about the proceeds from a fair held at the club and also a benefit given at the Manhattan Opera House. He had grown suspicious, too, over the enormous prices paid for certain things, these prices often being three times what he could have procured the same articles for.

Asked to go more into detail he said that he could have procured printing for one-third what had been paid during his absence, and as a business man he could see only one explanation for the enormous prices paid, but he had been unable to prove it. He didn't know whether any one got any rebate on those bills. He had questioned the printer, but, of course, the printer had denied any such allegation.

He said the fair he had referred to apparently made a lot of money, but apparently no one knew where it went. The benefit at the Manhattan had been given with the understanding that a certain per cent of the proceeds should go to the Actors' Fund and when he came home he found that it hasn't been paid. He hurried up and saw that it was paid.

"What property of the union has FitzPatrick in his possession?" asked Mr. Sapinsky.

"The membership book."

"Is that all he has?"

"That is all that was authorized to be sent him."

"Did FitzPatrick have the cash disbursement books of 1916-'17?"

"I know he hasn't them."

Mountford was questioned regarding the list of contributions printed from time to time in The Player. He was asked if all those amounts were paid to the union.

He replied negatively. He said initials were often used and there were many fictitious amounts listed. For instance there were contributions credited by initials to such personages as Mr. Albee and Mr. Murdock, and he was very sure they had never contributed. One purpose of thus padding the list was to encourage other contributors.

Francis James Fitzpatrick, of Brooklyn, former assistant bookkeeper of the Rats, was called to the stand. He told of his connection with the union and said he left his position there April 28, 1917. At that time the union kept a cash book, a cash disbursement book, a general ledger and a journal. After he had told of the office routine and methods of keeping books court was adjourned until next Friday afternoon.

PRINTING SONGS FOR AMATEUR WRITERS

A Phase of the Music Publishing Business Which Constitutes Real Evil—Injures Legitimate Publishers

Some sort of National legislation should be passed requiring music printers to inform amateur aspirants to publishing success that the mere process of printing up a song idea does not open up sales avenues.

Printing for amateurs, as now conducted, is nothing more than a humbug. In a sense it is as unscrupulous as the erstwhile methods of the governmentally-checked song shark. The printers themselves know this, likewise music publishers, also performers, but the amateurs (the victims) go blithely forth to slaughter again and again.

It is far more difficult for the amateur to publish a few hundred copies and far more expensive than the the established publisher to issue hundreds of thousands. This is because established publishers have succeeded in building up their sales systems.

As a result of these sales systems the amateurs are confronted by indifferently meritorious songs prominently displayed on counters and in windows. The amateur (frequently possessed of some degree of talent) sees these selling rapidly and arrives at the conclusion that he, too, could issue songs that would sell rapidly.

He gets in touch with a printer and finds that he can get songs printed up for about two cents per copy. Simultaneously he learns that music sells to dealers at from five to seven cents per copy. He sees a clear profit of from three to five cents upon every copy printed and has visions of a most profitable enterprise.

He doesn't know that his output is well-nigh taboo at the hands of dealers. He thinks established publishers spend thousands of dollars upon popularization campaigns because they aspire to selling untold quantities of their output. He concludes that he would be satisfied with a much smaller gross sale, sans popularization expense.

The way of the amateur is invariably the same. He shows a certain degree of talent at the piano or demonstrates impromptu skill at rhyming and holds forth glittering promises (in good faith) to a backer who advances the amount requisite. Sometimes a small office is secured and a real tragedy occurs when our genius gives up a fairly good mercantile business to enter the publishing field, about which he really knows nothing. At other times his home address is placed beneath the imprint—a sure sign to all the world that an amateur has again gone forth to slaughter.

Those amateurs who have established credit in other lines are surprised to find that music printers invariably demand cash in advance. But contemplation of profits to be derived causes them to acquiesce readily. With their printed copies ready they proudly visit local dealers (who usually are merely branch stations of syndicate dealers) and learn that there is no market for their songs. They are advised to send a copy to the syndicate's buyer, who politely informs them that he is not interested in their output and won't be until a demand is registered.

This puzzles the amateur (who has seen many songs not in demand on sale), and, thinking that the price originally asked was too high, offers his song or songs to the dealer at a ridiculously low figure, but no sale ensues.

Most of the aspirants meet the same ultimate fate. The backer loses courage and another aspirant is forced to retire.

In the meantime the amateur takes his tale of woe to the printer, who tells him not to lose heart, what he needs are several thousand professional copies and orchestrations. Once the orchestra leaders get these compositions they will assist in popularizing the numbers. The professional singers, upon receipt of the professional copies, will get the song or songs in their acts and thus create a demand with the public.

The amateurs do not know that landing a song with performers is an art, acquired after long experience and at great expense. They do not know that a vast majority of performers have a set method of securing new material. How

SONG LOGIC

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Five years ago a pal of mine and I set out to see how many of the boys who then wrote songs would writers be when five long years of smiles and tears should slowly pass away and bring the future to the past—tomorrow to today. The list that we considered held the names then close to fame, but now I scan it, end to end, and scarcely find a name.

The boys who looked sure-fire then have there been fired since; the ones who wrote the punkest stuff now write the ballads pure, the lads whom we gave thirty days to and some other field have found a place in writing ranks song steady profits yield. I realize what big surprise old Father Time has sprung—you can't dope out tomorrow while today is still quite young.

And there are names now stuck on songs which five short years ago nobody in the world of song had ever chanced to know. Of course, oldtimers still keep on, and yet it seems to me that they are slowly dropping out—a small minority. The ones who meant so much to us—the greatest of the great—are struggling now, they're victims of the irony of fate.

If I should ever make a list for five years from today I'd gather up my prophecy in a more novel way. I'd take a 'phone directory and scan the list so long until I'd find a name that ought to look good on a song. For what's the use of taking chances that for a time hold sway when every one we picked was wrong—five years ago today?—CASPER NATHAN.

APPRECIATION

An interesting psychological treatise could be written on the theme, just what part of an acknowledged genius' success is attributable to the amount of encouragement received at an earlier period, when the earmarks of talent were not so long that every passerby could pull them! Those who make good in the song world are deserving of credit. But how much more credit should be given those who appreciated the qualities of genius and (not infrequently to personal disadvantage) gave the genius to the world, and, perhaps, themselves to oblivion? We are living in an age of specialization, when, in order to truly succeed, an aspirant must do one thing especially well. Sometimes those associated with geniuses do their one thing especially well, receiving no greater reward than the proof that their surmises were correct. What a wonderful type of genius is the uncrowned and unknown genius who makes the obvious genius possible!

COLD TYPE REVIEW

EXPLANATORY KEY: LV—Lyrical issue. MV—Musical value. EA—Especially adapted for. GE—General estimate. C—Comment. PV—Phonograph value.

(AN OLDFASHIONED ROSE) MY MOTHER, words by Milton Weil and Joe Lyons, music by Gran Oliver (published by Milton). LV—Splendidly conceived "mother" sentiment, to which lyricists term has "a rose that was sweeter than some that grew." MV—Slow-moving, appealing, in 6-8 time. EA—General, yet so promulgated that it will probably get a counter start long before being heard elsewhere. GE—A worthy song. C—A slight discrepancy is found in alluding to mother in past tense in verse and present tense in chorus. It is rather hard to conceive of a mother who is apparently dead in the first verse and quite hale and hearty in the chorus. PV—Acceptable.

I'M A SLAVE (JUST BECAUSE I LOVE YOU), by (and published by) Harry Lawrence Winfield. LV—Carries out the implication of the title fairly well in detailing married life of a family pet, has approached weirdest lyrical conclusion of chorus found in any song that has come to our attention. MV—Main melody has some merit, are number is "way off" in construction. EA—Not indicated. GE—Vague ending of song spoils initial impression. C—Covered above. PV—Doubtful.

SWEET LITTLE BUTTERCUP, lyre by Alfred Bryan, music by Herman Paley (published by Remick). LV—Rather conventionally phrased soldier's farewell song, in which, as title indicates, Buttercup (much like the historical Blue Bell) is the one to whom the rustic hero will return. MV—Has a very appealing construction, possessing enough merit to lift the lyric. EA—Not precisely indicated, tho the melody should carry it thru as a counter song. GE—Its general simplicity commends it. C—If you want a war song with more romantic touch than punch this may be it. PV—Optional.

IN THAT SUNNY LAND OF MELODY, by (and published by) Al Piantadosi and Jack Glogau. LV and MV—Writers have endeavored to write another song like their On the Shores of Italy of some years ago, and have succeeded in putting up an acceptable Italian song, hinting at standard Italian construction. EA—General. GE—Quite up to the standard sought. C—Acts having room for an Italian waltz should look this over. PV—Optional.

HELLO, AMERICA, HELLO, by George Fairman (published by McCarthy & Fisher). LV—Rather novel story of American soldier abroad at wireless 'phone hinting at his return to "the States." MV—Full of pep. EA—Lighter "girl" productions. GE—Maintains a good gait. C—Verse so constructed that it admits of recitative delivery. PV—O. K.

(YOU'LL FIND A SHAMROCK) DOWN IN THE GARDEN OF EV'RY IRISH HEART, by Louis and Harry Herscher (published by Stasny). LV—Verse describes Erin's Isle with all the gusto and detail of the discovery of a place that had never before been located in song. Theme of chorus is very much like Little Bit of Heaven, the handling is somewhat different. MV—Nice metrical construction—may be termed "easy." EA—Wherever "blown-in-the-bottle" Irish songs are welcome. GE—Has the exaggerations characteristic of Irish songs. C—Covered above. PV—Optional.

SORTER MISS YOU, by Clay Smith (published by Witmark). LV—Simple verses (two) of intentionally crude construction, with a wealth of sentiment. MV—Splendidly supported by a flowing melody, full of color. EA—Concert purposes. GE—A fine contribution to its class. C—The crude expressions are splendidly blended with the high-class treatment, making this a song that will stand use from many. PV—Optional.

IN THE LAND OF WEDDING BELLS, words by Howard Johnson, music by George W. Meyer (published by Feist). LV—A description of a wedding (evidently inspired by the composer, who also composed For Me and My Gal) well knotted around the melody. MV—More pleasing than original, as much of the melodic base has been borrowed from Percy Wenrich's On Mobile Bay. EA—General. GE—Compares favorably, in many ways, with "Gal" song. C—Doubles neatly. PV—Optional.

INMAN AND NOEL

Authors of Back in the U. S. A.

Byford F. Inman, of Westfield, Ind., and Eugene H. Noel are the authors of the words and music, respectively, of the new war song, Back in the U. S. A., published by Mr. Inman at Westfield.

FROST'S NEW CONTRACT

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Jack Frost, the song writer, has secured a new contract from F. E. Root & Company (McKinley).

HOROWITZ GOES EAST

Chicago, Feb. 9.—William Horowitz, Western manager for Gilbert & Friedland, is in New York putting up a spirited plug for the numbers issued by this energetic new concern. Horowitz is well liked in the West, tho originally an Eastern boy, as he made many friends while he has been representing Harms last season.

CLARK RISKS PNEUMONIA

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Despite the fact that he is in a very sad physical condition (his physician, Dr. Harry W. Martin, saying he is running the risk of contracting pneumonia) Frank Clark, Waterson's Chicago manager, left the city on a business trip a few days ago.

BUCKEYE CAMPAIGN

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The Buckeye Pub. Co. (Chas. Roy Cox, owner) of Columbus, O., has entered upon an elaborate general publicity campaign aimed to interest dealers and the public in new issues.

INSPIRED PATRIOTS

NO. 1—A CHORUS GIRL'S EFFORT

Amelia Johnson, a fifteen-year-old California girl, whose beauty and talent have enabled her to secure a position in Ziegfeld's Midnight Frolic of miscellaneous motion picture work, guided by the theme of an article on this page alluding to the difficulty of securing a properly conceived patriotic song, asks our opinion of a song-poem entitled

THE FLAG—OUR FLAG!

I.

Onward, Americans!
And let our watchword be
The Flag! Our Flag!
Shall win across the sea.
The Flag! Our Flag!
The Stars and Stripes so brave,
The Flag! Our Flag!
In glory shall it wave.

REFRAIN

The Red of Blood, courageous Blood,
From every nation lent;
The White of Truth, so pure and bright,
That Truth from Heaven sent;
The Blue of Faith, fidelity,
With stars upon the field,
And this makes up The Flag, Our Flag,
The Flag that will not yield.

II.

Then onward, Americans;
And let our watchword be
The Flag! Our Flag!
Shall win across the sea!
For God and Home and Country,
For all humanity,
The Flag! Our Flag!
Must win across the sea!

(Reply) Amelia, in all seriousness, we must say that you're the kind of young American girl we'd like to know better—the kind that the Ziegfeld staff could profitably "investigate." At your age the expression of such thought, so ably phrased, is truly remarkable. Gene Buck ought to feel a flush of humiliation upon contrasting the sentiment in your poem with some of those he provides for The Follies. The market value of your effort apparently lies closer to the concert than the popular field, but who can tell? Amelia, we feel that we'll hear from you ere long.—SONG WORLD EDITOR.

SELDEN ENLARGES STAFF

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Al Selden, Chicago manager for McCarthy & Fisher, has increased his staff to seven "live" members.

BLOOM LANDS WORTHAM

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Murray Bloom, Western manager for Harry Von Tilzer, has made an arrangement whereby the Wortham Shows' Band will facilitate the popularization of the firm's new numbers.

MARY MURRAY AT COAST

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Mary Murray, office secretary for Waterson, Berlin & Snyder, Chicago, is spending a vacation on the West Coast.

SEND SOME MUSIC

Chicago, Feb. 9.—A. M. Wilkinson, Third Imperial Royal Flying Corps (H. M.), Jessecatchem School, Toronto, Can., writes regarding weekly shows run at the hospitals, on the bills of which several enlisted American performers appear. Wilkinson says the boys could use some up-to-date about music and would be pleased to receive contributions from publishers.

WHILE THEY'RE AWAY

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Now that Gus Kahn and Egbert Van Alstyne have taken a "work-vacation" at Miami, Fla., the big Chicago staff of Remick boosters is eagerly awaiting new numbers from the brains of the talented team.

BUSINESS UNUSUALLY GOOD

January Held Up Well in Music Sales Despite Depression in Other Lines

Music publishers ask for no better break than that received during the month of January. Sales were exceedingly brisk, and records were the rule.

One peculiar thing to be noted in the 10-cent stores is the fact that some of the best selling numbers have not yet become popularized. It apparently rests upon the fact that, now that it is extremely hard for any one publisher to line up many performers with a single song, the public finds few or no numbers enjoying tremendous popularity and buys those which were most pleasing at demonstrations, or which possess the most alluring title pages.

The ten-cent stores used to say that their purchases were governed by demand, but this business policy has been practically discarded recently, save in the case when a "natural" swept the country.

The mechanical instrument market is in a very chaotic state. Finding that the dealers are no longer an index of really popular numbers, both because programs must be made up in advance and because few numbers stand out from the rest in enjoyment of popularity, the phonograph and roll men are compelled to guess—and frequently make very bad guesses. Their conception of patriotic numbers likely to be in demand is peculiarly absurd, their catalogs showing a tendency to laud Southern generals of the Civil War, but this may be due to the fact that the publishers themselves have forgotten just what the Civil War was all about and now have a vague notion that Lee and Jackson fought to preserve the Union and democracy.

STONEHAM'S BABY

Chicago, Feb. 9.—When Billy Stoneham was presented with a 10-pound bouncing baby boy by his beautiful wife a few days ago there was something akin to excitement in the Shapiro-Bernstein Chicago office. For Bob Buttenuth's baby had just celebrated its first anniversary when Billy's came into the world. Neither parent would admit greater musical genius on the part of the other's offspring, but, naturally, Billy is the center of attraction, because the baby came last.

COLE HITS ROAD

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Bob Cole, now in Chicago for A. J. Stasny, will start out on a Coast trip for that concern next week. This was decided upon a few days ago, when Stasny visited the Chicago office and had a conference with Cole.

MUSIC NOTES

Billy Steed, who is representing the Strong & Davis Music Publishing Co. of Cincinnati, dropped into The Billboard office last week to spread the tidings that he is now boosting one of the company's latest song hits, My Old Gal, music by Louis E. Strong, lyrics by William P. Davis. Mr. Strong is a well-known song writer, and wrote the score for several musical shows, several of his numbers later becoming very popular, such as Rosa and I'll Never Be Happy Again. His best effort so far, tho, he claims, is My Old Gal. To bear out the statement the song is proving the best seller the firm has yet had.

The Musicians' Protective Association, Local 198, Providence, R. I., has installed the following officers: President, A. O. Jalbert, vice-presidents, H. I. Stoddard and F. A. Caniff; recording secretary, Patrick Kearns; financial secretary and treasurer, William Gamble; sergeant-at-arms, O. S. Hood; Executive Board, R. Gray, Jr., H. J. Langevin, F. G. Gorman, J. S. Dailey, G. Simonetti, V. Castronovo.

Henry Link, formerly of the Witmark Music Co., of the Philadelphia branch office, has gone over to the Joe Morris Philadelphia office. Mr. Link has just placed with the Shapiro Co. the latest song hit, The Rose of Liberty. While a local hit just now he hopes it will reach Songland thruout the country.

The Irvin Music Publishing Co., of Washington C. H., O., has transferred its beautiful ballad, My Flower of Italy, to the Buckeye Music Publishing Co., of Columbus, O. This song was the first number the Irvin Company published and met with popular approval from the first.

Stanley Henry, Philadelphia manager of the McKinley Music Office, located in the Globe Theater Building, has written and composed a new song called The Fighting Navy (of the Good Old U. S. A.), and it looks like a coming winner.

Ed Leach, scenic artist for the Pantages Circuit, with offices and studio in Seattle, is now preparing the scenic equipment for the new (remodeled) Pan. house in Spokane, which is scheduled to open early in the spring. Pantages shows are playing at the American Theater in that city while the old house is being made over into a more up-to-date showshop.

VAUDEVILLE NOTES

Billy De Rose, the vaudeville writer, has recently completed acts for Hal Stevens and Company, Von Sitas and Hall, Ralph F. Young and Company, Raymond S. Smitchel and Company, F. J. Morgan and Company, Carl H. Guder and Frank Scheppat. Mr. De Rose has been commissioned by F. G. Hilliard to write the book for a tabloid comedy that will receive its premiere in Chicago early in March.

Manager DeWitt, of the Lyceum Theater, New Britain, Conn., has changed the policy of his house. Henceforth the bill will be made up of vaudeville and pictures, with a change of program Monday and Thursday. The theater has been offering pictures for the past ten months. One other New Britain house—Keeney's—is also offering a mixed bill.

Al Cotton, well known on the Pacific Coast as a blackface monologist, after playing a number of dates with the Great Travelling Show has left that company and gone to Seattle, where he will remain until the spring. At that time he will again be seen in vaudeville.

Fred Bradna and Ella Derrick, who are playing the Poli Circuit with an equestrian act, were held over for an extra week by Manager Ascough of the Grand Theater, Hartford, Conn. Theirs was the first act to be accorded this honor in over a year.

Manager Norvin F. Haas, of the Rose Theater, Anacortes, Wash., reports that business has been great since a combination vaudeville and picture policy has been in vogue. Acts from the Pan. Fisher Circuit are utilized by Manager Haas.

Prof. G. Braganza is featuring the new crystal-gazing act and World War horoscope in vaudeville, using a crystal globe thirty-six inches in diameter. He is ably assisted by Princess Toki, talented young Japanese actress.

Charles Mills, formerly a well-known pianist in this country, is now a member of an English cabaret troupe, which to date has given over 250 concerts for the enjoyment of British and American troops quartered in London.

Dave Harris of Geist, Harris and Morey, the harmony trio, is in great luck. He is a song writer, and Nan Halperin and Sophie Tucker have accepted his efforts. His knitting song is the latest and one of his best.

Eddie Fleming, late of the Diamond, Fleming and Van Dine American Trio, is now doing a blackface part with the Overland Comedy Co., playing thru Pennsylvania. Eddie is the featured comedian with the show.

One of the Palace Theater's (Detroit) biggest recent hits was Charles Gaylor, the original hand-balancing, up-side-down frog man. He has had several flattering offers to appear in fairs the coming season.

Daley and Thomas are in St. Louis working for the Sistes Booking Agency. They just finished a tour of the Hodkins Circuit.

Stetson and Huber are having a successful ramble over the Interstate Time, and are booked up to May 1.

TRIBUTE TO MAE RUSSELL

Philadelphia, Pa.

"Billy Boy:"

Dear Sir—Having read with much interest your very interesting remarks in your column in last week's Billboard, anent Miss Mae Russell and her activities in the vaudeville world, I am unable to resist calling your attention to a less widely known phase of her work, which I am sure will be appreciated by you.

I shall probably be well scolded by Miss Russell should she learn of my doing this, for she is one of those rare spirits who believe in not letting their left hand know what their right hand doeth and vice versa. But I would have her kindness published to all the world that it might know how deeply we appreciate her great and quite disinterested services.

The Honor and Friendship Club, composed of inmates of the Eastern State Penitentiary, is allowed, by the kindness of the Prison Administration, a half holiday each Saturday, and for the past two years, during the fall, winter and spring season, Miss Russell has come here every Saturday, braving the most inclement weather and brought with her on each occasion a half dozen or more acts to minister to our pleasure.

She has sacrificed time and comfort and money without stint in her service, and all without expectation or hope of reward, and she has earned from us a gratitude that is undying. Two hours of vaudeville weekly may seem but a small thing to others who have all the interests and activities of life about them, but to us they are a veritable God-send and the most welcome of breaks in the deadly monotony that is the bane of all prison life. No word of praise that tongue or pen might frame could do Miss Russell's work for us justice, nor can we ever hope to render her adequate reward.

Trusting you will pardon the liberty I have taken, I beg to subscribe myself,

Very respectfully yours,
INMATE B-6380.
Chairman Board of Governors,
The Honor and Friendship Club.

THE CONCERT AND OPERA FIELD

FRED · N · WITHEY · NEW · YORK

An Interview With Reginald De Koven

AMERICAN COMPOSER

Recently The Billboard concert man wrote to Reginald De Koven, the American composer, opera director, conductor, musical critic and all round patron saint of good music, telling him that The Billboard stood for the principle of making Americans paramount thruout our entire musical life and asking him a little talk with him along those lines.

Mr. De Koven courteously replied from the Knickerbocker Club, and after a little telephoning an appointment was made for me to meet him at his house at 1025 Park avenue, New York.

Having become quite accustomed to finding the major proportion of New York musical folk living as cliff dwellers in big apartment houses, the writer was quite surprised to find No. 1025 above the front door of a big three-story and basement mansion, magnificent enough to house a standard oil magnate.

A liveried servant opened the door, and upon my asking for Mr. De Koven politely announced that that gentleman was expecting me and he would "show me right up," which was done with the assistance of an automatic elevator. Upon reaching the top door and walking thru the hall a few paces I was ushered into what seemed to me to be the most satisfying private study I had ever seen. It was on the back of the house, with windows to the east, with an abundance of light and away from the noise of the street. Quietness reigned supreme.

On the right, as one entered over a rug-covered floor, stood a beautiful grand piano, plenty of books were everywhere, a great open fireplace beckoned a welcome, and pictures, appropriate to an artistic atmosphere, hung upon the walls. A comfortable sofa, with many pillows, was close at hand, and last, but not least, there stood in the middle of the room a medium sized, but well-arranged, mahogany desk, the orderliness of which indicated the orderliness of the owner's mind. No scattered papers, no dust, no ink splashes, grimy blotters, corroded pens or confusion of papers, but instead all neatly arranged, giving but the message that the owner did one thing at a time and did it well—that the secret pigeon-holes of his mind were as well ordered as those of his desk.

In a few minutes Reginald De Koven entered the room, and, just for an instant, there was an impression of affectation, a sort of an assumed superiority which seemed to say, did you bring your references and a history of your antecedents. But this impression was only for an instant and was soon effaced by the composer's friendly handshake and straight-from-the-shoulder American, "Well, what can I do for you?" spoken with agreeable simplicity.

Mr. De Koven believes that in the past we have had altogether too much of musical snobbishness in this country. Foreign artists and directors have been brought here who have and in reality, or have affected, a contempt for everything musical in America, and especially for American compositions and American trained artists. To make this condition worse a large part of our own European inoculated musical people have, in mimicry, assumed the same attitude making themselves believe that in a musical way "no good could come out of Nazareth" (America).

Mr. De Koven holds that our musical development will come rather thru opera than by means of works in the classical forms; symphonies may show high skill in the many technicalities of musical art, but opera appeals to the eye, as well as the ear, is better understood by the great masses of people, and it will be thru opera that our musical development will come to its highest and best fruition.

Also our opera must be sung in English, our own language, the vernacular. When opera is sung in Germany it is sung in German, in Italy in Italian, in France in French. Why, then, should not opera in America be sung in English? English for an English-speaking person is the most singable language in the world, aside from the Italian with its many vowel sounds, but the advantage of having opera sung in our own language whereby the people could understand at least a part of what was sung would be an advantage which would far outweigh what our language might lack in singability as compared to Italian.

REGINALD DE KOVEN

American composer.

It is said Mr. Gatti-Casazza, of the Metropolitan Opera House, made his great reputation in Europe as a producer of the Wagner operas. A few years ago, in conversation with him, Mr. De Koven asked Mr. Gatti-Casazza if when he produced the Wagner operas in Italy they were sung in German or Italian. Mr. Gatti-Casazza replied that they were sung in Italian, of course, and, when asked why, Mr. "Gatti" replied, "So people could understand them." Mr. De Koven then asked Mr. Gatti-Casazza why the same rule should not apply to foreign operas sung in America? Past prejudices as to opera in English have not been so much because of the language as on account of bad translations of standard works.

Ballad concerts are now playing, and will in the future play, an important part in our musical development. The very fact of their popularity and understandability by the people generally is the best possible sign of their effective importance and indicate the part they will play in our future musical growth. Ballads reveal the essence of music as it is latent in the hearts of the people and reveals it in intelligible form.

Many third-class European artists have in the past been brought here, the stamp of a European director in control of our great American musical organizations put upon them, and we have then been ready to accept them as artists of the highest order, bowing to worshipful adoration despite the fact that on every hand we had American artists equal to, or superior to, many of them in every way.

We have been altogether too willing to believe that we had no great American opera or orchestra directors, hence the opening of the great war found our big opera organizations, and all but one or two of our symphony orchestras, entirely under the direction and control of foreigners.

Mr. De Koven thinks that only thru such great organizations as the Federation of Musical Clubs of America, whose motives are wholly altruistic, can we get a real expression of our American musical life and ideals, and that thru their influence and that of similar organizations will finally come the realization of American musical possibilities; that, in the near future their influence will bring such pressure that, all else being equal, the control of our great musical organizations will be given to Americans; then the American composer, singer and musician will be given opportunity to come into their own.

Mr. De Koven paid due respect to the great capabilities, large experience, and high standing of Mr. Gatti-Casazza, Mr. Campanini and the many great orchestra leaders Europe has furnished us, but he believes that now, when the sentiments of the entire country are crystallizing into such concrete patriotism as was never before known, it is also the time to solidify our latent musical patriotism, throw off the shackles of European musical bondage and insist that the American composer, singer and musician be given at least equal opportunity with the foreigner to take their rightful place in American musical life.

REGINALD DE KOVEN

Composer, born at Middletown, Conn., April 3, 1859. Entered St. Johns College, Oxford, Eng., in 1879 and graduated with degree of B. A. While there he composed his first song, Marjorie Daw. His first operatic composition was Cupid (Hymon & Co.), which was never produced. In 1887 he wrote The Begum, which had a successful run in New York. This so encouraged Mr. De Koven that he went abroad to study. While a pupil of Richard Genee in Vienna in 1889 he wrote his third opera, Don Quixote. This was followed in 1890 by Robin Hood, made famous by The Bostonians. The Knickerbockers, The Fencing Master and The Algerian followed in succession. The Highwayman, Rob Roy, The Three Dragons and most of the music for The Man in the Moon and From Broadway to Tokio preceded his opera, Happyland, in which De Wolf Hopper starred the seasons 1906-'07-'08. Mr. De Koven's The Girls of Holland, book by Stanislaus Stange, originally called The Snow Man, was seen at the Lyric Theater, New York, November 6, 1907. In 1884 Mr. De Koven married Anna Farwell, the daughter of the late Charles B. Farwell of Chicago, who was United States Senator from Illinois. He and his wife are the owners of the Lyric Theater, New York. He is a member of The Players and The Lambs. Mr. De Koven's Canterbury Pilgrims was produced last season at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York.

WYNNE PYLE WANTS A HUSBAND

In contrast to so many artists who always put on their company behavior for an interview and talk a lot of high-brow stuff about devotion to their art and their willingness to sacrifice everything for it comes the refreshing Wynne Pyle, who not only does not hold such views, but has the courage to say so. Miss Pyle is quoted as saying that she considers "matrimony the best career, for to be what the world calls a great artist one must be tremendously selfcentered, and that she could never take herself so seriously." Miss Pyle says she may have her press agent advertise for a husband. Judging from her photo there will be numerous applicants.

CLAUDIA MUZIO

If one were to characterize Claudia Muzio of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, in a brief phrase it might well be "the prima donna with the unprima donnalike disposition," for this rare artist does not even feel rancor towards critics who criticise her unfavorably. "Why should I?" is her charming way of explaining it. "If they feel that way by all means they should say so." But regardless of the critics Miss Muzio has proceeded serenely on her way to her present splendid Metropolitan Opera success. She is there to stay, too.

THE COMMONWEALTH OPERA CO.

The invitation meeting held Tuesday, January 29, at Aeolian Hall, New York, by the Commonwealth Opera, Inc., did much to put that organization on a solid basis. Over one hundred persons in the audience pledged their support. A dozen present were so desirous of becoming founders that they subscribed at once. Among the prominent persons who thus gave their support to the movement were William Wade Hinshaw, Paul Myer, of The Theater Magazine; Mme. Katherine E. Von Klenner, founder and president of the National Opera Club; Mrs. Warren Clark Van Slyke, Mrs. Ludwig Eilinger, Phyllis La Fond, C. E. Whitmore, Mrs. J. E. Harbeck, Edwin Mordant, Susan C. Roach, Adrian G. Hegeman, Mrs. Julian Edwards, Mrs. Frederick H. Cone and Lazar R. Samiloff.

HEMPEL'S ART

Of late we have heard a great deal about "art knowing no nationality," and after seeing and hearing Mme. Frieda Hempel in the Daughter of the Regiment one is somewhat inclined to the theory. At any rate we are glad such an artist as Miss Hempel has become an integral part of our American life and is now one of our very own. It is barely possible that a woman with a smaller physique would fit more appropriately into the part, but one soon loses sight of this in listening to the beauty and flexibility of her fascinating voice.

Miss Hempel's annual New York recital, announced for Tuesday afternoon, February 26, will be given that day at Carnegie Hall by special permission of the Fuel Administration.

METROPOLITAN, NEW YORK

Despite the large attendance at the performances of the Chicago Opera Company at the Lexington Theater it seems to have no appreciable effect upon the attendance at the Metropolitan Opera House, the great fountain head of American music—which continues to play to sold-out houses. During the past week Meyerbeer's spectacular opera, Le Prophete, which had not been heard at the Metropolitan since 1903, was sung, with Mr. Caruso in the title role—singing same for the first time in his career.

Other operas of last week were Madam Butterfly, Monday, with Miss Farrar and John McCormack; Francesca da Rimini, Wednesday, with Mme. Alda and Mr. Amato; Tosca, Friday, with Sophie Braslau and Senor Lazaro; Marta, Saturday matinee, with Mme. Hempel and Mr. Caruso, and St. Elizabeth, Saturday night, with Florence Easton and Mr. Whitehill.

The program outlined by Mr. Gatti-Casazza for the current week is as follows: Aida, Monday (special) matinee, with Mmes. Muzio, Homer and Messrs. Caruso and Amato; Le Nozze di Figaro, Monday evening, with Mmes. Hempel, Farrar and Matzenauer and Messrs. De Luca and Didur; Rigoletto, Wednesday evening, with Mme. Barrientos and Mr. Lazaro; Thais, Thursday evening, with Mme. Farrar and Mr. Whitehill; Le Prophete, Friday, with Mme. Matzenauer and Muzio and Messrs. Caruso and Rothier; Marouf, Saturday matinee, with Mmes. Alda and Howard and Messrs. De Luca and Rothier. Saturday evening Manon Lescaut will be given, with Mme. Muzio and Mr. Martinelli.

CAMPANINI'S FORCES IN NEW YORK

Cleofonte Campanini and his Chicago operatic forces, consisting of a very high grade galaxy of stars, continue to furnish the most interesting grand opera comparisons it has been the privilege of New Yorkers to hear since the days of Mr. Hammerstein at the Manhattan. Mary Garden is once more portrayed as one of the most brilliant actresses of her time despite her alleged bad singing. Lucien Muratore is mentioned as one of the great tenors of the day and wonderful young Galli-Curci has all New York at her feet. Mme. Melba had appeared during the past week, singing with the beauty and color of yore, and the young and prodigal Rosa Raisa is receiving praises on every hand. Others of the Chicago Company who have attracted particular attention are Anna Fitziu, Genevieve Vix, George Baklanoff, Hector Dufranne, Arthur Middleton, Charles Dalmores and Signors Rimini and Stracciari.

In spite of the fact that the attendance at the Metropolitan continues as large as ever, the Chicago Company is also attracting soldout houses. It looks as tho New York were not only able to take care of their own, but were also able to take care of a high-class company of visitors at least temporarily.

Mme. Galli-Curci made her second appearance Wednesday evening as Rosina in The Barber of Seville, and her work added fresh laurels to her already great New York success, and on Saturday she appeared in Rigoletto, with Mr. Stracciari. Isabeau was given Thursday night, with Rosa Raisa and Mr. Rimini, and on Friday Mary Garden and Lucien Muratore shared the honors in Carmen.

ALICE GENTLE SENSATION IN HAVANA

The Cuban capital is all agog over Alice Gentle, who, as prima donna mezzo soprano with the Bracale Opera Company, is sweeping all before her with her magnificent singing and acting. During the week Miss Gentle did four successive performances in Carmen, Cavalleria Rusticana, La Gioconda and Les Huguenots, receiving the most glowing press tributes for each role. Perhaps her most striking success was scored in Donizetti's Favorita, an opera which is seldom given because it is so difficult to find a singer capable of meeting its extreme requirements.

Concert artists who desire concert management, concert engagements or information of any kind with reference to concert promotion are invited to consult, either by mail or in person, The Billboard's concert man, Mr. Withey, in the Subway Central Building, 42d street and Broadway, New York; telephone, Bryant 8470. This service is entirely free, there being no charge of any kind whatsoever, and concert artists are cordially invited to avail themselves of this service.

AGREES OPERA NEVER PAID IN BOSTON

A wire from Boston says that in dismissing claims for damages filed by Walter M. Smith, a musician, and Edoardo Ferrari Fontana, a singer, against the Boston Opera Company, in bankruptcy, the Federal Court has taken judicial notice of the fact that grand opera in Boston was never a financial success, even when subsidized by the late Eben D. Jordan.

"I am of the opinion," the referee held, "that if grand opera could hardly be a success in peace times, even when subsidized, it was rendered impossible by the existence of a world war, and therefore feel that a public calamity over which the party had no control justified the management, under its clause in the contract, to terminate it."

CAROLINA WHITE TO SING

Carolina White, who was a member of the Chicago Opera Company for four years and has since appeared both in vaudeville and in comic opera, it was reported yesterday, is to rejoin the Chicago stars when they leave New York and go to Boston.

KUNWALD TO ORGANIZE ORCHESTRA

A wire from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., dated January 29, says the musical talent of Dr. J. Ernst Kunwald, former conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, has not withered under war prison restraint. The former Cincinnati orchestra director had practically consented to organize an orchestra from among his compatriots in this internment camp for alien enemies of the United States.

Dr. Kunwald appears to be resigned to the life of an enforced guest of Uncle Sam during the period of the war, and is employing his abilities in lightening the routine of internment among his fellow Austrian subjects and Germans.

AUER FOR NEW YORK

The report which appeared several weeks ago to the effect that Professor Leopold Auer, the famous violin teacher—among whose pupils are Mischa Elman, Jascha Heifetz and Max Rosen—would come to this country early in 1918 is now confirmed by advices from Professor Auer himself. Owing to the unsettled conditions in Russia he will not return there, but is sailing from Norway during the present week, and should reach New York before the middle of February, where it is expected he will open a studio.

BUCKHOUT MUSICALE

Mme. Buckhout continues her popular Wednesday afternoon recitals of dedicated songs at her home, 265 Central Park West, New York City.

By means of these musicales Mme. Buckhout is doing something for many unknown composers long to be remembered. When they can get a hearing no other place Madam Buckhout always stands ready to give them one. A large gathering listened to a very interesting program of dedicated songs by Mme. Buckhout last Wednesday.

PERCY GRAINGER ILL

Percy Grainger, the famous pianist-composer, is ill with a combination of measles, bronchitis and tonsilitis at the home of his mother, New York City. Mr. Grainger is a member of the band of the Fifteenth Coast Artillery, U. S. A., and has been stationed at Fort Hamilton.

NOT COMING

A rumor printed in le Courrier Musical, of Montreal, to the effect that Marthe Chenal, of the Opera Comique, who had a contract with Cleofonte Campanini to sing with the Chicago Opera Association this season, but did not come over, had been engaged by the Metropolitan, is now said to be absolutely without foundation.

NORDICA ESTATE

The late Lillian Nordica's $1,000,000 estate will go to her sisters and not to her husband, George W. Young, according to a memorandum handed down last week by Vice-Chancellor Stevenson, of Newark, N. J. He will formulate his decision later, confirming the ruling of the Monmouth County Orphans' Court in 1915. The sisters of Mme. Nordica are Imogene Castille, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Annie Baldwin, of Dorchester, Mass., and Ione Walker. They are the residuary legatees under a will made by Mme. Nordica on Thursday Island in the South Seas in 1914.

STRACCIARI FOR ANN ARBOR

For the opening concert of the Ann Arbor (Mich.) May Festival no less a star than the Italian baritone, Riccardo Stracciari, has been secured. The artist will sing several arias to the accompaniment of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Frederick Stock.

ILLINOIS TEACHERS

The next convention of the Illinois Music Teachers' Association, of which Franklin Stead, of Peoria, is the president, and Harry Detweiler, of Aurora, chairman of the Program Committee, will be held in Bloomington, Ill., during May 7, 8, 9 and 10. The committee is hard at work preparing interesting programs for the occasion, and one of the best conventions in the history of the association is anticipated.

FROTHINGHAM HONORED

John W. Frothingham, the New York concert manager, who went abroad last August as a member of an American Red Cross Commission detailed to investigate conditions in Serbia, Greece and Montenegro, has been honored with the rank of major by that organization. Mr. Frothingham's investigations took him to the Serbian front within sight and sound of the guns, and, upon his return to Paris, in December, he was asked to return to the Balkans to undertake the supervision of canteen and reconstruction work in the devastated countries. His New York office has just had a cable announcing his safe arrival in Salonika.

SALVINI OPENS NEW STUDIO

The New York musical world is greatly interested in the opening of a new studio of vocal art by Mario Salvini, the renowned maestro, who, it is said, is one of the foremost exponents of bel canto. The beautiful studio reveals genuine esthetic taste. It is situated in the Riverside Drive residential district, at 305 West Seventy-first street, New York.

Before locating in America Mr. Salvini had been known as a successful diagnostician, and his opinion has been sought by singers of renown in various parts of the world. It is said that he can invariably tell the condition of a voice thru his thoro and scientific knowledge of the vocal organs.

SOUSA AUCTIONS BATON

A wire from Chicago dated February 5 says Lieut. John Philip Sousa, bandmaster at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, offered his historic baton at auction for the benefit of the fund which is being raised to obtain baseball equipment for the sailors, and it was sold for $120. The wand has been in the possession of the noted bandmaster for forty-eight years, having been presented to him in 1870 by members of the band of which he was then leader.

MME. CULP TO RETURN

Antonia Sawyer has just received a letter from Julia Culp, written in December, saying how much she regrets that she will not be able to reach America this season. She writes that she will be here in August with her accompanist, Coenraad v. Bos.

WARFORD-COX

Songs of Claude Warford and Ralph Cox were features of the program at the Pleiades Club, Hotel Brevoort, New York, Sunday evening, January 27. Florence Otis, the well-known soprano, made a distinct hit in the Warford numbers, and Carl Rupprecht, baritone, was called upon for an additional Cox song after the three which made up the group.

MacMILLAN IN ENGLAND

Loudon Charlton, musical manager, Carnegie Hall, New York, has received a cablegram from Francis MacMillan, the violinist, in which he states that he has arrived safely in Liverpool, England. Mr. MacMillan is now lieutenant in the United States Expeditionary Force.

ABORN MINIATURE

The Aborn Miniature Theater is the little theater which has just been completed for the use of the Aborn operatic classes in the new home of the opera school at 137 West Thirty-eighth street, New York. It was formally opened last Saturday.

GORDON KAY'S DEBUT

Gordon Kay, an American baritone, made his New York debut in a song recital last week at the Princess Theater, and very appropriately he included in his program the music of five American composers. These songs formed a pleasing introduction, and he was equally satisfactory in his more numerous offerings from foreign composers, which he sang in French and Italian. Mr. Kay, who comes from New Orleans, has been well received in the South and Middle West. He is a graduate of Tulane University, and for three years he was a member of the New York Art Students' League.

GOTTHELF ENLISTS

Claude Gotthelf, the pianist, partner of Havrah Hubbard in the famous operalogs, has joined the Marine Band at Camp Quantico, Virginia, near Washington, D. C. Mr. Hubbard will fill a few of the remaining operalog dates with Willis, Reddick at the piano, and then abandon his popular and successful entertainment until after the war.

MASON IN NEW YORK

Redfern Mason, the cultured and brilliant musical editor of The San Francisco Examiner, is in New York for a four weeks' vacation, which he intends to spend chiefly in listening to music and associating with those who make it. Mr. Mason ranks with the most authoritative music writers in America.

MANNA ZUCCA

Miss Zucca, the composer, accompanist and soloist, also gave a recital of her compositions in Aeolian Hall, New York, week before last, not only wrote the music for the entire program, twenty-six numbers in all for vocal and instrumental soloists, but played all the accompaniments and four piano solos besides. Her compositions for contralto, soprano, tenor and violin were interpreted by Elsie Lyon Dortmont, Florence Otis, Mary Schiller and Vernon Stiles and Nicholas Garagusi. A large audience appeared to enjoy all of the music.

VIVID LETTERS OF TRENCH LIFE REACH HILDA SPONG

Cecil Spong, Her Brother, Twice Wounded, Writes Realistic Word Pictures Which Are Touched With Flashes of Pathos—Says America Will Be Last Straw to Huns

New York, Feb. 9.—America will be the last straw against the Huns, says Private Cecil Spong of the Australian contingent in a letter to his sister, Hilda Spong, the clever English actress, and adds: "Thank God she is a heavy straw." Private Spong has been twice wounded in trench fighting, and he writes of the bombardments, in which he was injured, as tho they were great adventures. His letters are vivid word pictures of life in the trenches and in no man's land.

To his mother, after being wounded with a shrapnel bomb, he wrote:

17th Ward,
No. 18th Gene Hos. B. 12
Etapes Hospital,
2-10-'17.

My Darling Mater:

You will by now have received my Trench Card—doubtless imagining all sorts of things. However I am very pleased to set your mind at rest, for I am very much alive and kicking, tho I had an awful experience and a narrow escape. I sent you a T. C. as soon as I got to the front and from there onwards—my time was very much occupied—Lord, mater, dear—old hands swear it was the severest bombardment ever experienced, and I quite agree with them. It was one continual slaughter, blood and fire. Even my old woodenhead ached like fury from the incessant roar of thousands of guns. The trench got blown in time after time. Personally I dug myself three dugouts. Fritz favored every one of them. My meals chiefly consisted of sand, mud—or mixed—according to where the Fritz located his shell, with a slight [illegible] of Bully beef and Anzac wafer.

The last night we were to have got in in the front line I and five others were detailed to go out into "No Man's Land" and raid a machine gun posse of Fritzes, but, unfortunately, we did not know the exact position, for we walked right into it (twenty yards away) and got the warmest reception you can imagine. They opened upon us with their guns and things fairly shrieked for five minutes. The chaps in front of me were lucky in having a shell hole to pop into, but once me only possessed a slight rise in the ground, or rather a mound nine or ten inches high. However it was good enough to protect me from the bullets. How it did I do not know, but the fact remains.

Fritz dropped to this after wasting three or four hundred rounds and then started throwing bombs, with one of which he got me. Thank God it was one of his own, for if it had been one of ours I would have been as dead as a maggot, instead of which I am only suffering from shrapnel in the left shoulder and back, fairly painful, but not serious, not half serious enough to get to Blighty.

After getting cracked a slight bank of fog came over, and I rushed successfully to a shell hole, where I stayed (in six inches of water and mud) for two and one-half hours. Lord, mammy darling, it was cold and miserable, and those d—d Huns kept up one continued stream of fire, so that it was impossible to move an inch.

Eventually thick fog came over, and we all crawled, snakewise, into safety. I was jolly thankful, sore, cold and weary, but mighty glad to have got out as luckily as I did. I arrived here this a.m. Haven't seen the doctor yet.

By the way, I'm on the cadge again. I lost everything I possessed up there; even had to discard my shirt, as it was soaked with blood. If you can possibly do it I would be glad for a pound. Send it in a pound note and register letter.

I have seen the doctor, but with little result, as to where I am to go or stay, length of time or anything else. How are you, mother darling? Drop me a line like a dear, won't you?

Your affectionate son,
TOBBS.

On Christmas Day, back in the line, he wrote his sister the following letter:

45th BATT. (A. coy.),
A. I. F.,
France.

My Darling Hilda:

If I remember rightly I was somewhat rudely interrupted in my scrawl to you. Half an hour later I was tearing madly across France—per express train—for this ungodly part of the line. It was wonderful work, and shows the efficiency of our "heads" to move a whole brigade some (?) miles in half an hour, especially when we (officers and all) thought we were out for a spell. Fritz broke thru here, and I believe things didn't look too promising. However we pelted him back good and sound and heavy, and by the present moment's sound of guns he is not too pleased.

I am at present some distance from the (strafe) and have been here for over a week—but just near enough for no lights—so I am scribbling this by the fitful glare of an oil drum, which I converted into a brazier in my tent. (I happen to have one for myself.) This same tent is rather leaky, and my left shoulder is accumulating quite a bank of snow. The fuel for the brazier I got out of one of Fritz's dugouts. I must tell you of these dugouts some day; they are simply perfect—no doubt he is the Dugout King.

By the way, while I remember: I haven't told mother nor father that I am right in it again. I told them that I was in the forward area, but that was all. I can now wear two gold stripes. Got my left hand damaged—shrapnel. I received a letter from dear old mother. I answered it rather briefly, and have not yet received a reply. In it I asked them to send me an electric torch. You have no idea how useful a torch is in digging these lousy (excuse expression) Huns out of their dugouts. They go down for anything from 10 to 100 feet underground, and so again there are all sorts of dangers (not allowed by censor to mention). A lot of the brutes crawl down these places, some wounded and some in fun. When we go down the wounded ones are the worst, for if they get half a chance they pot you from the darkness and then throw their rifle or revolver away and pretend to be dying. My God, Hilda, dear, you have no idea what they are—all for the Fatherland and trained to the tooth in the most diabolical, treacherous and unscrupulous methods of warfare.

There is nothing overhand or underhand that they are not absolutely conversant with. They are strong (at present), and stronger than we are, but America will be the last straw, and, thank God, she is a heavy straw.

She has the men (and fine types of chaps they appear), the money and the planes, and also the same determination that we have to win the war. When they get properly going, which, please God, won't be long now, the war will not be long in coming to a close.

Many thanks for those lovely parcels. It would take too long to enumerate all their different usefulness, especially those warm, woolly things you knitted. Oh, what a blessing they were to be in this outlandish cold, frozen place.

Our winter issue stuff is not exactly bad, but very thin and light. That kit bag of mysteries was indeed wonderful and caused amusement to my curious onlookers as one thing after an-

DRAMATIC NOTES

For the benefit of Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund a special fifteen-act vaudeville show was given at the Metropolitan Theater, Seattle, Friday noon, February 1, by Mitzi Hajos and members of The Pom Pom Company. Fifty cents admission was charged to all parts of the house, and the performance netted $200 for the tobacco fund. The So Long, Letty, Company gave a similar matinee performance while playing that city and over $500 was realized for the smoke fund.

The Boston Grand Opera Company and Captain Kidd, Jr., have canceled Northwestern dates, according to Manager George Hood of the Met., Seattle. In their stead will be a return engagement of Kolb and Dill, Seven Days Leave and The Show of Wonders.

Rehearsals began last Wednesday morning, under the personal direction of the two authors, Frederick and Fanny Hatton, of their comedy satire, entitled The Squab Farm, which is being produced by the Shuberts, and deals with life among moving picture actors. The cast engaged is as follows: Lowell Sherman, Alma Tell, William Gibson, Julia Bruns, Suzanne Willa, Harry Davenport, Henry Gsell, Oliver Smith, Helen Barnes, Ann Andrews, Jeannette Horton, Charles Scov, Florence Doyle and others.

Marguerite Sylva, of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will produce a musical play early next season. It will be a romantic drama with incidental music.

The Hippodrome, New York, has paid $45,000 war tax to the Government for the past three months.

Nora Bayes has written a sketch called The Tailor-Made Girl, which she intends to present from time to time at cantonments and charitable entertainments.

Caroline White, formerly of the Chicago Opera Company, will be seen in Rock-a-Bye, Baby, as prima donna, presented by Messrs. Selwyn & Co. John Cumberland will act the leading role.

Grace Fisher has been added to the cast of The Love Mill.

A second company of The Love Drive is being organized by Sydney Rosenfeld, so successful has the first one been.

Yolande Presburg has been engaged by Andreas Dippel for the feminine juvenile role in The Love Mill.

The Washington Square Players will give their first long play of the season at the Comedy Theater, New York, Wednesday evening, February 20, when Youth, Miles Malleson's three-act comedy, will be presented.

Leonore Energie is Chilson Ohrman's successor in the role of Sally Farnsbee in Doing Our Bit. Miss Ohrman is returning to the variety stage. Doing Our Bit concluded its engagement at the Winter Garden, New York, last Saturday night and has gone on tour. Its succeeding attraction at the Winter Garden will be Sinbad on Thursday night of this week.

More than two score of prominent actors and actresses, including George M. Cohan, Edna Wallace Hopper, William Rock, Frances White, Savoy and Brennan, Van and Schenck, Carl Randall, Constance Binney, Hal Ford, Harry C. Brown, Houdini, Frank Fay, Duncan Sisters, Carrol McComas, Jack Norworth, Lillian Lorraine, Harry Watson, Earl Williams and the Elm City Quartet, entertained the troops at Camp Upton, N. Y., last Tuesday evening.

NEW PLAYS

SUCCESS

SUCCESS—A comedy-drama in a prolog and three acts by Adeline Leitzbach and Theodore A. Liebler, Jr. Produced by The Lieblers at the Harris Theater, New York, Monday afternoon, January 28, with Brandon Tynan.

THE CAST:

Dolly Dean	Carree Clarke
Willis Potter, an actor-manager	William Hassan
Phil Lawton	L. Melton Clodagh
June Arlington	Helen Holmes
Ferguson Holt	Louis Leon Hall
John Treadwell	Arda La Croix
"Mike" Lewis	Jess Dandy
Margaret Hamlin	Emily Callaway
Barry Carlton	Mr. Tynan
Joe	Richard Abbott
Nich Walker, the press agent	Geo. Leffingwell
Henry Briggs	James Durkin
Gilbert Gordon	Lionel Glenister
Rose Randolph	Marion Coakley
Ruth	Margaret Lapsley

New York, Feb. 9.—A theatrical justification of the old maxim that "Nothing succeeds like success" has been attained thru the enthusiastic reception accorded the Liebler production of the play so entitled, which began its run at the Harris Theater January 28. Success, the joint work of Adeline Leitzbach and Theodore A. Liebler, Jr., and featuring Brandon Tynan in the principal role, is a play replete with values that invariably create popular appeal and insure a long and happy future for the piece. The press agent, supported in his contention by enthusiastic audiences and approving critics, bills it as "The play that has everything—laughter and tears, thrills and the sweep of drama, beauty and romance, and a touch of spectacle."

Success is a story of regeneration thru love, the story of an actor, who, shown in the prolog at the threshold of a great career, succumbs to a weakness for drink, superinduced by doubt and jealousy. In the play proper he is seen as a wreck of his former self, hiding himself under an assumed name to keep the glory of the old name alive, and living only thru the charity of old associates who loved him for what he once meant to their art and their profession. It is only when he finds his own daughter in danger that the soul is reawakened and struggles thru the [illegible] of years wasted in dissipation to attain the only success that really matters, that which is won by pain and suffering, by sacrifice and self-obliteration. In the role of the actor, Barry Carlton, Brandon Tynan has an opportunity to display his splendid gifts to better advantage than at any time in his career, and he has scored even more heavily than he did thru his memorable performance of Joseph in Joseph and His Brethren.

With Mr. Tynan in the excellent cast provided by the Lieblers is Jess Dandy, playing a "straight" comedy role, a characterization of a commercial theatrical manager, with a sound skill that keeps the house rolling in laughter and balances the play's appeal to the heart with an appeal to the risibilities with a fine sense of proportion. Helen Holmes gives a beautiful performance of the actor's wife that has many moments of sustained power that hold audiences in a vise-like grip, and Marion Coakley's fresh beauty and charm of personality in the part of the daughter have caused many critics to single her out as a star of the future. The cast thruout is worthy of highest commendation.

The play was staged under the personal direction of Ira Hards, who had the valuable aid of Livingston Platt as art director and of Elliot Schenck in the arrangement of the incidental music in providing a production distinguished by its taste and dramatic effectiveness.

The New York American, viewing the play from its popular appeal, declared that Success was the greatest play since The Music Master and stated that it abounded in laughs, thrills and tears. "It has the good old heart stuff," declared The Times, and The Tribune asserted that its human qualities would not [illegible] to draw people from both sides of town.

OH, LADY! LADY!!

OH, LADY! LADY!!—A musical comedy. Book and lyrics by Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse. Music by Jerome Kern. Presented by Ray Comstock and William Elliott at the Princess Theater, New York, Feb. 1.

Oh, Lady! Lady!! is full of charm. The music, tho somewhat reminiscent, is tuneful and

THE LEGITIMATE

CONDUCTED BY THEODORE A. LIEBLER JR.

Before many weeks have rolled by America will have been knee deep in the world war for one entire year and the American theater will not have seen one play specially designed to further her cause or to inspire her people with fresh enthusiasms for the great task in hand. True, there have been a couple of English made dramas that effectively had served such a purpose on the other side, and they have met with a sufficient measure of success to demonstrate that an American play, by and for and about Americans, would raise the roof and jam the houses to capacity. In the days of Theodore Kreamer there would have been war plays thronging the popular price houses within a month after the declaration of war, and as a result there would have been an added impetus to enlistment, liberty bond buying and all the other voluntary duties of the moment. But showmen have either lost their courage or their "pep," and the year has passed without a single big contribution to the cause by our profession.

It isn't that patriotic plays have not been written. We know of several promising pieces fashioned by practiced hands that are still to find a producer. There are a few more that have been announced for immediate production, and at least one has been put into rehearsal.

This particular play is not without its element of danger, and its producers are to be congratulated on their courage in producing it, for it was planned to be of national service. The play in question is that which is to star Louis Mann and Sam Bernard jointly, and is tentatively called Our Friendly Enemies. At first blush it would appear that a play starring Mann and Bernard would suggest a reversion to the Rogers Brothers school of slapstick musical farce, but the fact is that these earnest character comedians are to portray German American citizens in a play of the moment that approaches tragedy in some of its situations and climaxes, but is punctuated and relieved thruout by comedy of vital and timely significance. Mann plays the part of a German who has settled here, who retains his belief in the Vaterland, who cannot believe that the reports of German atrocities are not "lies manufactured in the Times Building," who cannot picture his beloved brothers and cousins and friends in the old country as butchers of babies and ravishers of women—in short he plays the rabid pro-German we all knew in the period of American neutrality. He has a son, who hears the call of humanity and enlists. The father discovers this and vents his embittered wrath on his offspring. The father has become so thoroly wrapped up in the cause of his old country that he has subscribed to the extent of his means to funds supposedly to be used for propaganda purposes to counteract the allied "lies" in circulation. It is not until he learns that more of this "propaganda" money has been invested in a bomb that has been placed in the hold of the troop ship that is carrying his son to the front that he awakens to the terrible truth, and the climax of the third act finds him singing for the first time the lines of The Star-Spangled Banner, the American Wacht am Rhine—intoning the syllables with all the reverence of a man at prayer.

The danger in centering the action about a man whose viewpoint is distorted and unpopular thru the greater part of the action has apparently been obviated by the treatment of the part played by Mr. Bernard, who characterizes a German who realizes that the reason he sought American shores was merely Prussianism and who is bending every effort to make his countrymen over here see the true light.

One of these days someone is going to write an Uncle Tom's Cabin of the moment, and it will probably live for generations as the expression of the great ideals that motivated American participation in the great war. It may be that in the new play described above the authors have hit upon the theme for such a play, for the great problem that now confronts us the is the attitude to be taken towards our friendly enemies, the alien enemies and the unenlightened, naturalized citizens of Teutonic origin that surround us, just as the big problem of the '60s involved our attitude toward an understanding of the negro. But there must be other big themes to be found in the sweeping drama that is convulsing the world, themes that we may not yet understand in their vital import, but which some master dramatist may be able to handle with such skill as to make them contribute to the winning of the common cause. We have been waiting anxiously and impatiently to hear how Augustus Thomas and Edward Sheldon have been spending their time in these critical days. Or the play we are awaiting may come from some unexpected source. That, as a rule, has been the experience of the past.

E. B. Sheldon, who wrote The Havoc, is credited with having done a war play without introducing the horrors of actual carnage, an element that is to be avoided at a time when the most terrible aspect of warfare may be brought home to us at any moment. The first long casualty list is momentarily expected at the time this article is being written, for the report of the sinking of a transport, with the loss of many lives, has just come in. The publication of such a list is bound to have a depressing affect to the theaters the country over for some time to come, and other lists, unfortunately, must inevitably follow. In time the public will become hardened and calloused to such terrible tidings, excepting, of course, where the blow hits the home, but the depression would be intensified were slaughter and sacrifice actually depicted before their eyes. The Sheldon play, we are told, was written to serve a patriotic purpose, tho its theme has not yet been told us.

That the government has not made a special effort to foster the production of such plays as may serve its purposes is a matter of surprise to many. That the government has appreciated the services contributed by the theater in its special campaign in favor of the bonds and the American Red Cross has been made manifest, but in its harnessing of the various lines to the hearts and minds of the people thru its committee on public information it appears to have overlooked a bet in not utilizing the power of the stage.

Neither the printed word nor the pulpit are able to reach so many attentive ears as are the players, whose public pays handsomely for the privilege of hanging on to every syllable they utter. True, the public pays to be amused or entertained and not to be instructed or lectured, but playwrights have long since discovered that modern audiences cannot be provided with satisfactory entertainment unless there is meat and cookies in the material offered for the purpose.

ODDS AND ENDS LEAVING

New York, Feb. 11.—Odds and Ends of 1917, which has been running successfully at the Norworth Theater for the past three months, will leave that theater next Saturday night. The season will be finished in Philadelphia and Boston. The original cast will go on tour.

SUNDAY SHOW IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Feb. 8.—The National Theater here, one of the oldest in the country, last Sunday inaugurated a new policy, that of Sunday openings. Polyanna, which has appeared here before to big audiences, was on the bill for the first Sunday performance.

It was pointed out in connection with this innovation that, locally, the legitimate drama was thus brought into line with the custom of Sunday performances which has been followed for a long time in regard to lectures, concerts, vaudeville and motion pictures.

TAKES MOTHER'S PLACE

Cleveland, O., Feb. 9.—Anna Held II, or better known as Anna Held's daughter, sprang a surprise here this week at the Colonial by appearing in the role made famous by her illustrious mother in Follow Me. The change was made necessary, according to Manager Jack Hale, of the Colonial, owing to the serious illness of Anna Held herself. After arrival here Miss Held found she could not go on with the company, and has gone South for the balance of the winter.

PLAYWRIGHTS,

Adapters and Translators

Annie Hughes is another name to be added to the fast-growing list of actresses who are turning playwrights. Miss Hughes chooses the comedy vein for exploitation.

Whitford Kane, Irish actor, stage director and more recently dramatist, has completed, besides his three-act Irish comedy, Dark Rosaleen, a short play, which is to be shown in New York.

Augustus Thomas' new play, The Copperhead, opens in New York early this week. Produced by John D. Williams, the play has been appearing on tour for the past two weeks.

Samuel French announces the immediate publication of a library edition of plays by Channing Pollock. The Little Grey Lady will be the first to appear, and will be followed by Such a Little Queen, Clothes (written in collaboration with Avery Hopwood) and The Secret Orchard.

Cyril Harcourt has written a new play, entitled Petticoats, which The Shuberts will produce in Atlantic City February 18. The piece is the outcome of Mr. Harcourt's observations in London last year. Mr. Harcourt will be remembered as the author of A Pair of Silk Stockings.

Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman, who wrote Business Before Pleasure, are now at work on another comedy for Al H. Woods. It will probably be produced in a Broadway theater early next season.

NEW PLAYS

OH, LADY! LADY!!

of the kind that wields a rythmic spell, almost compelling the audience to beat the time or sway (mentally at least) with its luring melodies.

But the music of this comedy is not its only charm, for the book has a novel plot.

Youth and beauty is the dominant feature of the production.

Beautiful youth sans sophistication, with just enough of the professional to qualify, is the personnel of the chorus.

The principals are also quite young and exhibit a distinctive style.

On the whole, Oh, Lady! Lady!! is as refreshing as an April shower, even to the novel methods of kissing (for the engaged) introduced by the stars, Carl Randall as Willoughby Finch and Vivienne Segal as Mollie Farrington.

The kisses are not of the brand Mary Garden could employ in grand opera, but for this kind of intimate drawingroom musical comedy they are ideally suited, because they are devoid of vampiric struggle on the part of either of the participants, being rather a sort of bear-hug kiss of notably well-balanced execution.

Another of the assorted kiss varieties transpired neatly to the last beat of a rollicky, frolicy dance duet. Vivienne Segal finds herself on a staircase at the same time that Carl Randall finds himself on a nearby bench. He raises his arms upwards and backwards, while she bends her head forward over the banister, and their lips meet on the finish beat. "Oh, Lady! Cute business!!

The gowns are in admirable taste, with no hint of the bizarre.

Carroll McComas was striking in a salmon pink gown. She carried a large peacock blue fan of ostrich feathers. Carl Randall fairly revels in his graceful dancing, which he performs with amazing effect. Vivienne Segal sang prettily. Margaret Dale was excellent. Edward Abeles and Reginald Mason were amusing.

Harry Browne's handsome face is the least of his stage assets. He sings creditably.

Among the song hits were Not Yet, Do It Now, Our Little Nest and You Found Me and I Found You.

The scene on the studio roof was restful, with the vine-covered trellis and its tall brick chimneys silhoutted against the deep azure sky of twilight, but the soothing effects of the picture were soon dispelled by the gay movement of dance and song, and the sensation caused when Fainting Fanny (played by Florence Shirley) stole the pearl necklace.—M. F. L.

Excerpts from the New York dailies follow:

Times: "Oh, Lady! Lady!! scores heavily."

American: "Oh, Lady! Lady!! is up to the usual Princess standard."

Tribune: "The music was pleasing and tuneful."

World: "Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse have written a clever book and bright lyrics, and Jerome Kern's music is lively and tuneful."

Sun: "The dancing of Carl Randall approaches the standard of classical Russian in his daring leaps."

ANGELL COMPANY TAKES TO THE ROAD

Now Playing Thru Pennsylvania After an Engagement of Two Years at Park Theater, Pittsburg

After a solid run of two years at the Park Theater, Pittsburg, Pa., the Angell Stock Company, owned and managed by Joe Angell, is again on the road, playing three and four-week stands thru Pennsylvania, and finds business very good. A car load of special scenery is carried. The roster of the company consists of Joe Angell, Frank Root, Charles White, Perry Norman, Allan Fisher, Barry Donnelly, Alice Bowdish, Dorothea Bowdish, Alice Collisson, Nova Fisher, Tom Alton, business manager, and last, but not least, the famous bulldog, Jack.

Patriotism is not lacking around the Angell troupe. Every member is the proud possessor of a Liberty Bond and is also a member of the Red Cross, joining at Connellsville, Pa. Manager Angell has a brother, Cyril M., serving in the Aviation Corps at Fort Worth, Tex., who is expected to sail for France any time, as he has passed all examinations necessary.

DAVE WILLIAMS REOPENS

Seattle, Feb. 9.—Dave Williams' repertoire show will open at Roslyn, Wash., next week, in Ole, the Swede. This show was playing Southern Idaho territory a few weeks ago when the floods, which tied up railway traffic in the Northwest, caused them to close until transportation was again something like normal. The cast includes Dave Williams, Lettie Ellis Smith, Clara Williams, Carl Caldwell, Raymond Appleby, Angelina May, J. S. McEvoy and Sanchez, a Spanish dancer.

BYERS' STOCK COMPANY

Succeeds Where It Was Said Success Was Impossible

It has been said of Great Bend, Kan., that it was impossible for a repertoire show to play there to any kind of business, even under the most favorable conditions. But this—if the engagement of the Byers Stock Company there can be accepted as a worthwhile standard of gauging the town's capacity for theatricals—was purely a myth, and born, no doubt, of an overdose of inferior attractions for the gullibility of the inhabitants of Great Bend. During three days of the Byers players' six-day engagement in that city the S. R. O. sign was hung out, it being estimated that the number of people turned away would total almost a thousand. This only goes to show that the spoken drama and repertoire is a long way from being dead, and that a high-class assembly of players, of the character of the Byers Stock Company, can draw patronage.

ELMER LA ZONE

Manager of the Original Williams Stock Co., who was recently made a Shriner (Morocco Temple) at Jacksonville, Fla. Mr. La Zone will reopen the show under canvas the latter part of March.

ROY E. FOX SHOW

Sulphur Springs, Tex., Feb. 7.—The Roy E. Fox show has just finished its second week here and will remain one more week. Altho the weather has been very bad business has been very good. Several changes will be made in the cast in the near future. The Four Copelands and Little Alverna Copeland will leave show Feb. 9. White and Irving and other people to be announced, later will replace them. Verne Douglas will also leave the show in the near future and go to Los Angeles to enter the pictures. The Copelands have not as yet announced their plans.

Several members of the show have had severe attacks of la grippe. Eddie See, Jas. Walker, Verl Tolky, Billie Sousa, Dad Clarke, Andrew Copeland and Brooke Baxter have all been under the weather.—ED C.

MR. AND MRS. J. C. ADMIRE

A late picture of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Admire, who have been with Terry's Uncle Tom's Cabin for the past six seasons. They will again be found with this show this year, Mr. Admire as general agent and Mrs. Admire handling the press and mailing department. Mr. Admire was formerly a circus agent.

BYBEE STANDARD STOCK

To Be Motorized Next Month

The Bybee Stock Company will open its eighth season March 15 at Larned, Kan., playing the same territory it has played the last six seasons. The large tent will be transported by four big motor trucks and two trailers. All members of the company will travel in Bybee's two big new automobiles.

Six weeks will be played in houses before going under canvas. All the plays are royalty plays, leased from W. C. Herman and the Chicago Manuscript Company. The following plays have been leased: By Order of the Court, Where the River Shannon Flows, Sweetest Girl in Arizona, Under Fire, Sins of Society, Any Man's Sister. Those making up the roster are: Agnes Geyer, leading lady; Chang Blount, Wallace Bruce, U. S. Allen, Frank Everett, Mrs. Tansey Everett, W. S. Earl and wife. Mr. Bybee will do all his own directing. Mrs. Anna Geyer will have charge of the front door, Clarence Sowell will paint all the special scenery, Mrs. June Norris will do soubrettes and specialties, and Mrs. Bybee will have charge of the reserved seats and concessions. The three Bybee boys are getting up in an entire new line of specialties for this season. Baby Donald, three years old, working for the first time.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Chet A. Keyes, formerly manager of the Keyes Sisters' Stock and Chet Keyes' Players, and who is now an attorney in Kansas City, Mo., contributes the following: "With the frequent agitation by reformers and welfare workers thruout the United States and the ever-ready cry of immorality of the stage, it is a pleasure once in a while to find a few statistical facts which rebut that sort of an argument in the very figures of those who make the accusation. Attached hereto you will find an excerpt from The Kansas City Post, of recent date, which speaks for itself. Kansas City is a fair example of the above argument."

We will not reprint the entire article, as it would take too much space, but it pointed out that in closing houses of an immoral character it was found upon investigation that the percentage of the inmates who had been connected with the show business at any time was the smallest of any of the occupations enumerated. Out of 238 cases investigated but nine were shown to have ever been in the show business.

TOBY'S COMEDIANS

Organized by Haggerty & Leffingwell

San Pedro, Cal., Feb. 9.—Haggerty & Leffingwell, who have been working in dramatic stock in various companies on the Pacific Coast, have organized Toby's Comedians and are presenting three bills a week at the Auditorium, having rented the house for an indefinite period. Business is growing for them, and their Saturdays and Sundays have become regular turnaways. Vaudeville by members of the company is given between the acts. The cast includes Irene Spooner and Joe Haggerty, leads; L. L. and Mrs. Spooner, characters; Alfred Aldridge and Boris Karloff, character heavies; George Leffingwell, comedian; Mrs. Leffingwell, ingenue. Mrs. Haggerty is treasurer, Professor Frank Becker musical director and Little Kathleen Haggerty mascot.

REPERTOIRE NOTES

Willis Pickert and his wife are spending the winter at their home, Miami, Fla.

Jethro Almond has his private car on a side track at Camp Greene No. 1, Charlotte, N. C., and is building a theater, which will offer vaudeville and pictures at Camp 1. The theater will open about February 20, and will be known as the Camp 1 Theater. It was thru the kindness of the Southern Public Utilities Company that Mr. Almond was enabled to get close to his place of business. The company built the side track into Camp 1 to accommodate him. Mr. Almond has the exclusive privilege to show vaudeville and pictures at Camp 1. He states that the building and operation of this theater will not interfere with the tent season. Both, on the contrary, will run full blast, as they say in manufacturing circles.

Bud Bonner, formerly with the burlesque company at the Gaiety Theater, Seattle, from where he joined the Willis West Musical Comedy Company at the Empress Theater, Seattle, closed with the latter organization Sunday, February 3, to accept an engagement in Chicago.

DRAMATIC STOCK

MUSICAL STOCK FOR NORTHWEST TERRITORY

George Dore Organizes Company With Richard Lonsdale as Feature—Opens at Olympia, Wash.

Seattle, Feb. 9.—George Dore has organized a company to play the Northwestern territory with a musical stock show. The company opened at the Rex Theater, Olympia, Sunday, and will play Aberdeen, Hoquiam and other Gray's Harbor cities.

Richard Lonsdale, the Swedish comedian, who had a musical comedy organization at the old Tivoli Theater, Seattle, for the greater part of last season, is the feature of the organization. Others in the cast are Eddie Harris, Dick Hyland, George Dore, Joe Locer and a chorus of six. The show has its own special scenic effects, and the wardrobe is up to date and quite extensive.

HER THIRTEENTH SEASON

Buffalo, Feb. 11.—With Cheating Cheaters the Jessie Bonstelle Stock Company opened its thirteenth annual season at the Star in Buffalo January 28. Few similar organizations can boast of so remarkable a record of perennial popularity. Miss Bonstelle was tendered an ovation on her appearance and tremendous applause greeted the several former favorites who returned with her. Robert W. Frazer, leading man and newcomer here, gained instant favor. Other members of the company are Marie Curtis, Katherine Cornell, Arri Bodman, Guy D'Ennery, William Pringle, Franklin Pangborn, Robert Adams, Arthur Albro, Earl House and Walter Naylor. Willamene Wilkes is again acting as stage director, and Mabel Buell has charge of the scenic details.

PAUL GILMORE PLAYERS

Are in Jacksonville for Indefinite Stay

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 8.—Paul Gilmore and associate players arrived in this city Monday and commenced rehearsals of Captain Alvarez, the initial bill, which will be presented at the Duval Theater Sunday, when the company will commence an indefinite stock engagement. The Duval management is confident that the engagement of Mr. Gilmore and his company of players will prove one of the most successful in the history of Jacksonville. Mr. Gilmore is supported by a very capable cast.

FIRST TIME IN HOME CITY

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Katherine Cornell, daughter of Dr. P. C. Cornell, general manager of the Majestic and Star theaters, Buffalo, has just made her first appearance before audiences in her home city. She is appearing as a member of the Bonstelle Stock Company, playing at the Star. Miss Cornell was a member of the Washington Square Players in New York, and before that she had charge of the dramatic department in the Merrill School in Mamaroneck.

LIBERTY STOCK COMPANY

The Liberty Stock Company, under the management of Bowman & Fletcher, has recently completed a ten months' tour of Pennsylvania and New York State to excellent business. The company numbers fourteen people, and has made a most excellent impression wherever it has appeared, due to the fact that only the latest productions are presented by capable artists. Manager Bowman is at present negotiating for a permanent location for this organization.

WOODWARD'S NEW VENTURE

Denver, Col., Feb. 9.—O. D. Woodward, the well-known stock manager, has given up that branch of the profession to enter the motion picture field as a producer. He is now in the East signing up stars for the screen. He has a big studio just outside of Denver, and the work of filming will get under way in the near future. This marks Mr. Woodward's first venture into the silent drama field.

STOCK AT WORCESTER

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 8.—Rehearsals were started this week for a season of stock at Poli's Grand Theater. Frank Wilcox is leaving the cast of Yes or No to act as leading man of the Poli organization. Other members include Jessie Brink, Frances Williams and Robert Bentley. The opening bill will be Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford.

MUSICAL COMEDY BACK

Marcus Company Returns to Portland, Me.

Portland, Me., Feb. 9.—After an absence of over three years the Marcus Musical Comedy Company is playing in this city again with a much larger organization than ever before and at the legitimate house, the Jefferson Theater. The opening bill, The Carnival of the Theatrical Troupe, has never been played here before and was well received by unusually large audiences. The personnel of the company is as follows: Mike Sachs, first comedian; Bob Alexander, second comedian; Charles Abbatte, third comedian; Dave Harris, juvenile; Jack Cleary, characters; Alice Wallace, prima donna; Bee Miller, soubret. Chorus: Marie Gerard, Four Keene Sisters (Four English Rosebuds), Ethel Green, Evelyn Williams, Ada Morse, Buster Brill, Peggy Walsh, Billie Graves, Lou Hanley, Ruth Elmore and Gloria Katz.

SHELDON BOOKS MILWAUKEE

Chicago, Feb. 9.—When C. A. Nygemeyer reopens his stock company at the Shubert Theater, Milwaukee, in addition to Harry Minturn, who returns as leading man, Harry Sheldon, the Chicago dramatic agent, has supplied the following supporting company: Earl Way, Robert Jones, Will Balmont, Sheridan Davidson, Cora King, Olive Ramley and Jack Livingstone (director).

MAYLON CLOSES

William Maylon has closed his stock organization at the Auditorium Theater, Pocatello, Id. The B. Forest Taylor Company is playing out of there now, and reports excellent business in the Southern Idaho city.

CHARLES ECKELS WOUNDED

Charles Eckels, for the past four years a cornet player with the Beveridge Players, is reported to be in a critical condition at St. Francis Hospital, Litchfield, Ill., suffering from four knife cuts alleged to have been inflicted by Walter Duncan, a former carnival trouper.

Mr. Beveridge, who advised Billyboy of the condition of Eckels, is unable to state the cause of the quarrel in which Eckels received his injuries, as at the time of this writing the wounded man was unable to give any information and his alleged assailant had not been apprehended.

While the wounds are serious the hospital physicians report that Eckels will recover. He was cut once on the neck, on the wrist and two deep slashes in the abdomen. Everything was done to make Eckels comfortable at the hospital. A few letters from friends will no doubt help to cheer him up while convalescing.

THE NEW HENRIETTA

Offered in Somerville, Mass.—The Menace Next

Somerville, Mass., Feb. 9.—The Somerville Theater Players, Clyde E. McArdle, manager, this week presented The New Henrietta, and, while it is not the best play the company ever appeared in, it's one of them. At least that was the consensus of opinion of the audience which filled every seat and the back of the theater to overflowing last Monday afternoon. It's a play of laughter principally, altho it has its serious moments, too, both being happily intermingled in a manner that pleases heavily. Arthur Howard, as Bertie, was new in the first role of this type he has had, and carried it off creditably. John M. Kline, as Old Nick, also shared in the honors. Adelyn Bushnell, as Agnes Gates, portrayed the role in her usual clever manner. All the other members appeared to advantage. The staging was good.

Next week a new play, entitled The Menace, from the pen of Edward Harold Crosby, for twenty-seven years dramatic editor on The Boston Post, will be produced. It is awaited with much interest.

STOCK NOTES

The American Play Co., Inc., has released Daybreak, Jane Cowl and Jane Murfin's three-act play, for stock.

After being out of the cast for about a month Edythe Elliott returned to the Empress Stock Company, Vancouver, B. C., Sunday, January 27, as leading woman in Little Peggy O'Moore. Miss Elliott is Mrs. Charles Royal in private life.

Charles D. Royal, actor-author-producer, now managing a stock organization at the Empress Theater, Vancouver, B. C., has written a new patriotic song, entitled Good-by, Yankee Sue.

Del Lawrence, well known in stock circles, closed on the Pan. Circuit at Tacoma Sunday January 27.

George Rand is back in the cast of the Wilkes Players at the Wilkes Theater, Seattle, after a two weeks' vacation. Most of his layoff period was spent in applying fresh coats of paint to his mobilette, according to Johnny Cooke, auctioneer at the Wilkes showshop.

Robert Hyman, late in the cast of Seven Chances at the Pitt Theater, Pittsburg, opened as leading man at the Crescent Theater, Brooklyn, Saturday Night, February 2.

James Guy Usher, leading man at the old Seattle (Wash.) Theater several years ago, and recently on the Hip. Circuit in a vaudeville sketch with his wife, is now a member of the Alcazar Stock Company, Portland, Ore.

Our Little Wife, Avery Hopwood's three-act comedy, is now available for stock production in all territory. Released by the American Play Co., Inc.

The Pickert Stock Company was held over for a second week at the Royal Theater, Wilmington, N. C. Alma, Where Do You Live, was the offering the second week.

IRA J. MARTIN

To Manage Sunny South Floating Theater the Coming Summer

The ever popular Ira J. Martin will guide the fortunes of the Sunny South Floating Theater the coming summer, it is learned from an authoritative source. Grave fear has been felt for the safety of the Sunny South during the past few weeks, because of the ice gorges in the Ohio River, but the danger now seems past. Mr. Martin is at present doing heavies with the Guy Hickman Company, playing thru Iowa.

TOM IRVING

Tom Irving, of the Irving Bros.' Singing and Dancing Comedians, has been out of the theatrical field for a few years, but is to re-enter the game the coming season. He will have the management of the Irving Bros.' Comedy Company, which will open early in April and play Northern New York and Pennsylvania, under canvas, and carry about fifteen people. Mr. Irving is now located at 311 Otisco street, Syracuse, N. Y., and would be pleased to hear from his old friends at any time.

LYCEUM & CHAUTAUQUA

CONDUCTED BY FRED HIGH

Lyceum Editor Still Pro-German

Arthur E. Gringle Preaching a Dangerous Doctrine in Disseminating Charges That the I. L. A. Is Being Manipulated To Help Make America an English Colony

The I. L. A. has a member in good standing who is perniciously active in trying to discredit not only the I. L. A., but the great cause of democracy for which our country is fighting. Month after month he has poured forth pages upon pages of his pro-German and anti-Ally infectious literary germ of that same fatal propaganda which has wrecked Russia, Italy, and with which the German propagandists have tried to wreck America.

Arthur E. Gringle, Editor of The Lyceum World, a lecturer and one of the charter members of the International Lyceum Association, is worthy of more consideration at this time. Why? Mr. Gringle is a Lutheran minister, he lives at Batesville, Ind., and publishes a magazine at Indianapolis. What is he doing and saying?

Some months ago he wrote: "We received information that during recent months the membership list of the I. L. A. was padded with names of people who were conducting a pro-British propaganda, and had special reason for influencing our organization." We published that statement and called attention to its utter untruthfulness. What has been the result? The Executive Committee of the I. L. A. has remained as silent as the Sphinx of Egypt. Why? We suspect that one reason is that so many of our own members actually pat Mr. Gringle on the back and encourage him in his work that the officers may feel that he actually represents a force it takes moral courage to reckon with. Certainly The Billboard has met a far more vigorous defense put up for Mr. Gringle than approval for sane criticising what he is doing. But we believe that we should face the propagandist in our own ranks before we preach and talk against those on the other side of the ocean.

The recent issue of Mr. Gringle's magazine starts with a five-page anti-British diatribe on the Anglo-Irish relations, saying such things as "Could you go all the world and find a more sacred trinity of privileged power than is furnished in the persons of Sir Edward Carson, Bonar Law and Mr. Balfour? The war has brought them into power. Mr. Lloyd George is described as the rubber stamp of that trinity." Just think of a great world statesman like Lloyd George being branded by a contributor to the lyceum world as a rubber stamp for three political plutocrats, one of which has since even resigned from the cabinet. Think of a lyceum editor circulating such rot.

What does this article strive to do? Set the Irish on edge. Set the poor against the rich. The article says: "A few barons own the land and a few Rothschilds own the money." Of course that is said to bring about a better feeling between capital and labor. "The Irish are the world's greatest optimists, the Scotch the world's greatest pessimists, the English are the world's greatest liars, and the mills of the liars are the property of the privileged class." That is more calculated to bring peace and amity between the English, the Scotch and the Irish than it is to add fuel to the fires of hate isn't it, neigh?

Then here is a choice one which is aimed to bring Canada and America into closer relation of brotherly love: "You hear a good deal about the freedom of Canada. Well, there is more snobbery to a square foot of Toronto than in a hundred square miles south of the St. Lawrence River."

"The national self-abasement of the Scotch is at once the most surprising and most pathetic spectacle of its kind that the world presents." Of course, that is mighty good doctrine to scatter broadcast at this time. Then the writer takes a whack at the English Government for trying to curb booze in the city of Glasgow. He says: "I haven't the statistics at hand, but I venture the assertion that throughout the entire German Empire there were not for a like period as many arrests of men, women and children for drunkenness." And the Reverend Gringle furnishes the means of circulating these more assertions, ever tho they are against the very principles which he professes to advocate.

The writer then weaves a web of hate, which shows that he is trying to stir up the historic enmity of the old feuds between the Normans and their "dull-witted Saxon vassals."

England has her Irish problem, but so has Ireland, and Ireland could have had her independence long, long ago if the Irish could have united on what they would do with it when they got it. America has her negro problem, which even this lyceum editor has tried to stir up, but all other problems must take a back seat until we win this war. Sanity should dictate that policy. Self-preservation should make this the inevitable course.

But not content to stir up hate among our Irish, English, Scotch and Welsh friends this editor goes after his own country. He starts out with bold type heading, WHERE ARE OUR BOASTED AMERICAN LIBERTIES? So after almost a century and a half of building this great Republic we have nothing to show for this wonderful toil and sacrifice but "boasted liberty?" But this editorial is too long to try to review it. The best way to answer it is for each one who reads this to send 15 cents to Arthur E. Gringle of Batesville, Ind. Get a copy of the November issue of The Lyceum World (it came out the last week of January). Read it and then do a man's part. Don't write and ask the Postoffice Department to stop this magazine. This is a dirty piece of linen we must wash out ourselves. Write and ask the president of the I. L. A., Mr. Montaville Flowers, to have Mr. Gringle submit his evidence upon which he based the implied charge that the I. L. A. membership was padded. If the I. L. A. hasn't the moral courage to face such a charge as this when made against our own organization then let's know it.

Mr. Gringle pretends to want a fair discussion of the principles which he sets forth. Months ago we answered his article in which he tried to show that we could not blame the 12,000,000 negroes in this country if they arose in rebellion against the white race because a few negroes had been lynched in the South. But this only brought forth more propaganda for the Kaiser's cause and a deep created silence as the points which he stated. He now goes into ecstasy over the Postoffice rules and regulations covering the rights of editors to say what we think and to publish what we please. He starts a nationwide campaign and calls upon all libertyloving editors to arise and assert our rights to discuss these obnoxious laws until they are repealed. He says: "We do not want something worse in this country than the German Kaiser, but if we do not pay the price of liberty—eternal vigilance to see that the press and speech remain free—it may come."

Then he throws out this piece of editorial defiance: "As to THE LYCEUM WORLD we shall expect to go on using our liberty until prevented or stopped. The law enacted may mean for those publications that resolve to maintain their American rights, death. But if any publication values its American heritage it will say with Patrick Henry, 'Give me liberty or give me death,' and there will be written on its tombstone, to its greatest honor, 'Blessed are the dead.'"

Is it more important that Rev. Arthur E. Gringle shall have the right to sow seeds of discord and publish issue after issue of this magazine in which he has never a word of appreciation of what is being done by the heroic sacrifices of the people of our own country, who are sacrificing comfort, yes, even the necessaries of life, that we may back up our boys at the front, but fills his pages with hate and untruth, or shall we even abridge some of the privileges which he is now abusing that we may better win the war? Let's not resort to secret machinations, but fight this battle out in the open light.

Mr. Gringle has severely criticised Lee Nichols, who spoke at the recent I. L. A. Convention, even going so far as to charge this gentleman with being "the paid agent of the British Government, whose object is to help England make the American nation a British Colony."

This of itself was an insult to an invited guest, and the I. L. A. should have officially reproved Mr. Gringle for offering it. But what we wish here is to set forth is a part of an article written by Mr. Nichols and published in The Chicago Herald, in which he says:

"Now we know the reason for the Russian defeat. Munitions made by the Russians or received from her allies were sidetracked or shipped to the east, making Hindenburg's 'victories' inevitable. Whole trains were lost and even advertised for, but never found.

"The Italians, too, did not suffer a military defeat. The slime of the German anaconda first did its work in the rear. The bravery of the Italians needs no indorsement. Forged copies of two of Italy's leading papers reached the trenches of the second army. They were dismayed to read in them that British cavalry has plundered Turin and the British cavalry were shooting down civilians in Naples. Propaganda behind the lines set thousands of ignorant women writing to their peasant husbands, telling them not to throw away their lives, for peace had come. Prayer chain letters were also used.

"Doubtless the women were sincere, but they were easy victims of German propagandists. Not until the morning of October 28, when the Italians threw down their arms to return to the 'joys of peace,' did the oncoming of the hordes of Germans reveal to these that they had been tricked.

"Intrigue accounted for the disaster to Roumania.

"Today even Sweden and Norway are flooded with lying peace reports and communiques. Only by such methods has Germany succeeded at all.

"Let us keep before us this fact—her propaganda has ultimately succeeded every time inertia, apathy and our ridiculous idealism have paved the way for Germany's successes."

Our duty at this moment is to stop the poisonous outpour of untruth and German propaganda, whether it be wrapped in the thin guise of "A Prayer for Peace" or the insinuations that wreck the morale of the great masses who must stand behind the boys who are behind the guns. Do your bit by spending a few cents on The Lyceum World at this time. Now is the time for us to act where our actions will aid our cause. We may weep over the death lists of those who have given their lives for our country. We may feel sorry for the families of the dead boys who have died on the battlefield or have been sent to a shifting watery grave by the treacherous submarine bases, but that will not help us do our bit. We have to see that our own ranks are purged of all who are giving aid to the enemies and hindering our own cause. That is our duty. Are we big enough to perform it like men?

GOOD ROADS BRING BETTER SCHOOLS AND IMPROVE SOCIAL CONDITIONS

There have been many authoritative testimonials as to the value of the automobile and good roads, but not often are such testimonials presented in the form of sworn evidence. That this has been made possible in Texas thru the recent judicial proceedings to test the validity of the State Highway Commission law (which was held valid) adds an additional flavor to such testimony.

One of the witnesses for the defense was Howard Bland, of Taylor, a member of the Legislature and one of the joint authors of the law under attack. He testified:

"I live in Taylor, Williamson County. As to my business, I have some farms up there, and a stock interests and wool interests, and some interests in the town. I am president of the Good Roads Association of Texas and know something of the advantages of having good roads in the State. It would take me quite a little while to relate my experience with good roads and the advantages of good roads.

"I will state that our part of Williamson County gets very muddy when it rains. We had quite a struggle there to build the first macadamized road ever built in Texas, to get a bond issue for it. It increased the value of our lands on the roads, where we have macadamized roads I think the lands are worth from $10 to $25 an acre more than the lands that are off the roads.

"Every farmer reaps the benefits of good roads. One advantage to a farmer on a good road is the tonnage he can haul. For illustration, if a man lives ten miles from town he can put eight to ten bales of cotton on his wagon and haul it to town, whereas formerly he could haul only two or three, or perhaps four, bales, and in muddy weather he could not begin to haul that many. He can haul his stock, hogs and cotton seed to town over good roads, where otherwise he could not.

"Good roads are a great thing for the farmers. They bring you better schools, bring you better people to the country, and I will say that it would take me a long time to tell all the benefits of good roads. I don't suppose there is anybody who has had more experience with roads than I have, because I went to Williamson County in 1878, and then it took two horses to pull a small load from my ranch into town. The building of good roads has no effect upon the opportunity of people to attend churches and other religious services; people move six or eight or ten miles to town to attend church who did not go to church at all before; they move in automobiles, as well as other vehicles.

INCREASES SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

"I would say that the construction of good roads in this State has increased the educational opportunities of people who live in the country at least 60 or 80 per cent. People can get their children to school where they could not before; some of them have little trucks in which they send them, and more have buggies. Before we had good roads, when it rained in the black land districts the children had to stay at home; now they can go, no matter how much it rains, if they don't go in a little car they go in a buggy. Having in mind what I have stated with reference to churches, I will say that good roads are beneficial to the morals of a community."—DALLAS (TEX.) NEWS.

FOOD CONSERVATION AND THE CHAUTAUQUAS

The following is from a letter to Frederick C. Walcott, Food Administrator at Washington, D. C., written by the Chautauqua Managers' Association. It is in response to the solicitation of the Food Administrator asking the co-operation of the chautauquas in the campaign to inform the public on the food situation:

"Realizing the important part that the food problem is to play in winning the war and appreciating the splendid opportunity for the widespread publicity the subject can be given by its presentation to chautauqua audiences, we suggest that each manager select the best lecturer on each circuit, whose message would be in harmony with the discussion of the food problem. Such lecturer will be required to thoroly inform himself and to devote from ten to twenty minutes of his lecture time to the most effective presentation of the food problem.

"We request further, if necessary, your department would incur the expense of transportation of each lecturer from his home to Washington and return. You could require him to attend such conferences as you may arrange and to receive the instructions you desire to give him. The Food Department to pay no other expense for such lecturer, the management defraying every expense of every nature for such lecture, thru the entire season. This will require thirty-five to forty speakers if each circuit accepts the plan.

"We understand also that the Food Administration will co-operate with the Department of Agriculture in furnishing an expert demonstrator for the purpose of giving a lecture on the day following the presentation of the food problem, at which time an admission shall be charged.

"It is understood and agreed that the demonstrator shall be of the very best and satisfactory to the chautauqua movement."

This letter was written and read to Food Administrator Frederick C. Walcott, at his office, Nineteenth and G street, N. W., Washington, D. C. It was signed by Managers F. M. Chaffee, Paul M. Pearson, Chas. F. Horner, W. V. Harrison and Arthur C. Coit.

Every time you ride a mile in an auto needlessly you cheat yourself out of a part of a Thrift Stamp. Also you waste the gasoline on which the nation's future safety may depend. Think it over. Fewer joy rides—more Thrift Stamps.

Guy Bingham is an interesting talker and pleased all who heard him at Oil City, Pa.

Farnhamville, Ia., has contracted for another Midland course for season of 1918-'19.

The Stockelberg-Silber Recital was under the auspices of the Music Club at Chadron, Neb. The company drew a full house. It carries a special organ, which was shipped out from the State University especially for the recital.

"One of the best and liveliest lyceum numbers we have seen for years was presented at the City Hall. It was patriotic thruout, and their program is worth much to any community as a means of teaching patriotism." That is the way the Schuberts made them feel at Kasson, Minn.

Ernest J. Powell is a good commodity and town booster, says Committeeman C. R. Denley, of Billings, Ok.

Elkhart, Ind., said of Rollo McBride: "Best pleased of any audience we have had. We must sign him for next season sure." H. A. Rowe is the committeeman and is secretary of the Lecture Course in the band instrument city.

The Gray-Lhevinne Duo are anxious to go over to France to entertain the soldiers. They are circulating a petition asking the Government to send them to the front. Already several thousand have signed their petition.

Floyd Featherstone Concert Co. certainly came thru this week with a great bunch of reports. Mr. Featherstone sent us his lists of Iowa dates which he had filled for the Western Lyceum Bureau under the management of W. I. Atkinson, or rather Brother Williams sent them for Mr. Featherstone and the committees responded with the reports as we have them. We wish all bureaus would have attractions which they could risk the judgment of the local committees to report or to the degree of satisfaction. Committees booking for next year will do well to give the Floyd Featherstone Co. a place on your course. This company is willing to allow you the right to say whether you are pleased after its appearance on your course and to have the world know what you think of its performance.

MACON'S GREAT CHAUTAUQUA

The following is taken from The Macon (Ga.) Telegram, and as it sets forth a real bird's-eye view of this great Southern activity, we are glad to present it for the benefit of our readers and the general enthusiasm of the movement.

"In a message just received from New York Director Bourland reports a remarkable interest in the chautauqua of the South, and the further fact that the standards for the first season were so high and the appreciation of the people of Macon and the surrounding areas so genuinely enthusiastic that the greatest of American artists are glad to have a part in the program for the second season.

"It was feared that there would be some difficulty in transferring dates from April to May, especially as the income of these artists is so great that the fees the chautauqua pays are to them insignificant. The interest in the Macon enterprise is so real, however, that practically every artist has willingly consented to make an extra trip to Macon without extra charge, which the directors of the chautauqua feel sure the people of Macon will properly appreciate.

IN TOUCH WITH ARTISTS

"Altho Dr. Bourland has been in New York only two days he reports that he is meeting with the greatest encouragement in getting in touch with the artists who are desired for the approaching season. He writes that he feels certain now of the coming of Madame Louise Homer, Madame Alda, Frieda Hempel and Mabel Garrison. He is in position to get Sophie Braslau, Evan Williams and the great tenor, Martinelli. Further announcements of the definite agreements with the latter artists will be received here in a few days.

"Who is first among the four artists who are definitely coming is a question that stirs a veritable Kilkenny discussion.

"In a conversation the gifted Elsie Herndon Kearns, leading lady of the Ben Greet Players, was emphatically of the opinion that the most brilliant success of the season at the Metropolitan Opera has been made by Miss Garrison.

OPERA STAR COMING

"Dr. Bourland has not given up the hope of getting that miracle of a singer, the star of the Chicago Opera Company, Mme. Galli-Curci—it is a question of an open date. The manager assured Dr. Bourland that if it is possible to work in a date it will be done.

"The suggestion was made to Dr. Bourland by a friend of the chautauqua that he believed the people of the South and especially Macon would be glad to see some of the world's great actors brought into the lives of the masses of the people. These artists who bring the mighty messages of human interest in tragedy and comedy will be on the program this year.

"This suggestion which came from a New York man appealed to the director so much that he got in touch with William Faversham and Louis Mann, and many other leading actors. He writes that he believes these men will be brought to Macon this spring, and that they will represent the noblest in the drama, just as Homer, Alda and Hempel in song.

"The Ben Greet Players are looking forward to their appearance in the new auditorium with eager interest. They are hard at work on Romeo and Juliet, As You Like It, and a side-splitting comedy by Moliere for the program this spring. Those who heard them last year will prod their neighbors to travel many miles to hear Shakespeare and Moliere, the greatest of the English and French character creators, live in their souls thru never-to-be-forgotten hours.

SEES LAUDER'S MANAGER

"Already Dr. Bourland has had an interview with William Morris, Harry Lauder's veteran manager, who promised that if the inimitable Scotchman can be held in this country a couple of weeks longer he will do his best to send him to Macon. 'We are going to use all the rope it takes to pull the only Harry Lauder to Macon,' adds Dr. Bourland.

"A great feature of the program this year will be the coming of the men from the battlefront, bringing their burning messages right out of the most stupendous struggle in human history. These men have been thru what mortals have never been thru in all the world's history. Their messages are always precious to us. It is expected that we shall have at least one of these 'men out of the fire' each week of the session.

"There will be a group of our great national leaders with their messages on the problems of the hour to help make up the most notable program in our history—the most remarkable because it is out of the most remarkable time in our history. The names of these men will be given out in a few days.

"There can be no doubt in the mind of the people of the city that the program this year will have an appeal for everyone. The chautauqua of the South is rapidly developing into a great university for the people, and the community is realizing the great opportunity which has come to us."

JOTTED WHILE WAITING AT THE JUNCTION

By THOS. ELMORE LUCEY

Frederick Paulding, well known Shakespearean actor, for years with Modjeska, Louis James and our own Frederick Warde, is giving dramatic lecture recitals in and about Gotham. His subjects embrace selections from well-known Spanish and Russian novelists and dramatists, also Kipling and Barrie. DuMaurier's Peter Ibbetson and Alfred Sutro's The Two Virtues are conspicuous in his repertoire. He has appeared on some of the regular lyceum courses with good success.

The long-anticipated release of the Chapin-Paramount photocycle, A Son of Democracy, is booked for February 12, the birthday of America's beloved martyr. As this Billboard goes to press no doubt millions will be laughing and crying over this fine picture, which has been so long in preparation by our gifted and energetic friend, Chapin.

J. F. Kanatzar and J. R. Hutchison, who have done much quartet singing on the various lyceum circuits for the Coit-Alber, Redpath and other bureaus during the past half dozen years, are now cleaning up some good, solid iron men in the hotel business in Oklahoma City. Mr. Hutchison was lately granted his discharge from Camp Travis, where he was serving with a lieutenant's commission in an Oklahoma contingent.

Charles D. Foster, one of the army of educators who invaded the new State of Oklahoma a decade ago and have seen that magic commonwealth grow like a Griffith photoplay, is a real platform fan, and has done a good deal to develop the lyceum spirit in Bartlesville, Oklahoma City and other points in his home State. Foster is the author of a Comic History of Oklahoma, which has had an encouraging sale, and is chockful of the lore of the red man. He hails from Nebraska, one of the liveliest lyceum States of the Union.

An effort to run a big one-show-a-week lyceum course at the City Auditorium in Oklahoma City by one of the big bureaus is only another story of lyceum unpreparedness. The flivver was due to several things—principally the fact that the newer and faster growing cities, which are built largely upon oil, gas and mineral development, are not the sort of places that encourage the lyceum form of relaxation, unless fed in broken doses. The day will come when they will be hungry for it, but you can't force paregoric down a fast-growing infant easily.

The Sunshine Concert Company closed a successful season under management of H. H. Davis in the Southwest last week and returned to Los Angeles. Miss M. C. Hutchinson, who appeared over the same circuit, reports: "Every town is good for a rebooked course."

Antonio Sala and his company are connecting in the Southwest, this blizzardy month.

Thomas Elmore Lucey entertained a big and delighted audience at the big city auditorium, Oklahoma City, February 6, the occasion being a patriotic benefit. Billy Morris, City License Inspector, promoted the affair as a patriotic civic enterprise, and a number of fraternal men readily purchased blocks of 100 tickets each at 50 cents' admission. That city, by the way, is the home of Alton Packard, Nola Darling, Jess Coffer, J. R. Hutchison, J. F. Kanatzar, and perhaps other platformists, so the chautauqua spirit is far from dead there.

Overheard in one Oklahoma town, lyceum representative to principal of school: "What about doing some business with you, professor?" Prof.: "Oh, we have had several lyceum attractions, and have decided to cut 'em all out." Rep.: "What's the trouble? Lose money?" "Oh, no, we broke even. Just simply don't care for them." "But I understood you had a fine, progressive school." "Well, they fibbed to you; that's all." And the representative went away wondering if that town really needed a press agent.

DE FUNIAK SPRINGS CHAUTAUQUA

Malcomb Bruce is the manager of that grand old Florida assembly, where so many of us have had a hand in trying to entertain the masses. The big Saturday excursions will continue. There will be but four big Saturday programs instead of five, as formerly. Roscoe's Band goes back again. Manager Bruce has a great array of good attractions for this year. The sessions begin March 14 and close April 6.

BOB SEEDS BETTER

Col. Robert S. Seeds, who went to the Mayo Bros.' Hospital early in the fall and was there detained for treatment preliminary to undergoing an operation, is back again on his old stamping ground at Birmingham, Pa. Bob says, "I am twenty-five pounds lighter, a little weak, but feel better than I have felt for years. The operation was a success. I hope soon to be able to resume my work on the platform." Bob's many friends will sure be glad to hear this good news.

THE REMNANT QUARTET

The Redpath News, house organ for the Redpath chain of bureaus, announces: "The Remnant Quartet, four singing soldiers who were wounded in the great war and sent back from the front."

My good, Mabel, called the floorwalker, Here's a bargain.

Pussie up, Liz. Don't buy a pig in the poke; wait till youse see what part of their anatomy was shot away before youse buys one, see?

Ah, go on, don't be a boob. I hear dat all dat dese guys has lost is deir voices. Does youse get me, Mab?

Seriously—isn't it a shame to think that a great bureau catering to the great lyceum and chautauqua public would so far forget the dignity that is due the American soldier as to call them mere remnants? Lyceum committees buying this kind of camouflage add insults to injury to the American soldier and are no better than the silent mechanics who slap such junk together. If there are four boys returning from the war so injured that they can't take their places again at the front then for God's sake don't call them remnants. They are heroes. Wonder if the Remnant Quartet will be booked for the cantonments?

TALENT WANTED

Geo. H. Frugue, Camp Social Director, wants all lyceum and chautauqua attractions which may be in reach of Camp Cody, New Mexico, to arrange with him for whatever time they can give to entertaining the soldier boys. Write direct. Here is a good chance to serve.

TABLOIDS

Billy Purl, comedian with the Little Miss Oklahoma Musical Comedy Company, was called to the colors, and Nat Cross has succeeded him. Little Miss Oklahoma Company is meeting with gratifying success on its tour thru the South. Following is the personnel: Barney Williams, manager, Eddie Mack, Tom Allard, Nat Cross, Dena Craven, June Howard, Mrs. Nat Cross, Sophie White, Billy McCoy, Edna Crystle, Bunny Steel, Ella Barlow and Lenore L. Connelly, musical director.

Billy K. Meyers, owner of the Roseland Maids Company, now playing thru the South under the management of Virge Downard, has set a high mark for tabloid shows. The Roseland Maids Company is a brilliant show gauged from any angle. It has twelve high-class performers, beautiful wardrobe and special scenery sets of the best design. Featured with the company are Downard and Downard, specialty artists, and the Comedy Trio, under the direction of Joe J. Bennett. Harry Mack is still with the company and playing straights. Billy Meyers' No. 2 show—The Honeysuckle Girls—is also having a successful tour. At present it is playing thru the Middle West and maintaining the standard set by the Roseland Maids. There are eleven people with the Honeysuckle Girls company. A No. 3 show—to be known as the Meyers Musical Revue—is now being organized and will be sent on tour about February 12. It will feature a jazz band and orchestra, under the direction of Paul R. Goss.

Morton's New Kentucky Belles Company had its opening in Atlanta, and, judging from the reception it received from the audience, the show is better than the Old Kentucky Belles, and should be a big drawing card on its trip thru the South. The present is the fourth Manager Morton has made over the V. C. M. C., booked by Joe Spiegelberg. All new bills are offered by the Kentucky Belles Co., and special musical numbers have been written to fit each bill. The company numbers fourteen people, headed by Johnny Keehan, principal comedian. The week of Jan. 28 the show played the Camp Theater, Anniston, Ala., and immediately after the initial performance was booked for a second week by House Manager Levi. Little Mary Faye Morton, Mr. Morton's daughter, was stricken with pneumonia while in Atlanta, but is now well on the road to recovery. She was sent home to Houston, Tex., to recuperate, and is doing nicely.

Florence Markert, chorus producer at the Orpheum Musical Stock Company of Louisville, Ky., gave the performers a blowout February 5. Among those present from the Orpheum were: Charles LaFord, Billy Baud, Jack Wilson, Clara LeRoy, Bessie Miller, Helen Jenkins, Mergie Bessome, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mathews; Albert Hamon, from the Star Theater; Joe Reed, from the Every Girl's Experience Company, at the Gayety; Abe Lowenthal, manager Casino Theater, and young Jack, who hopes some day to be a straight man. A good time was enjoyed by all present. The party numbered about 35, and all stayed until the wee sma' hours of the morning.

Jimmie Elliott has just closed an engagement of forty-five consecutive weeks in musical comedy stock in Toledo, O. For thirty weeks he appeared at the Colonial Theater, seven weeks at the Arcade and eight weeks at the Orpheum. Mr. Elliott has assumed the management of the H & B. Amusement Company of Toledo, and by the looks of things it will be many a day before he will put on the old grease, as he is more than pleased with his new position, financially and otherwise.

The Piccadilly Girls are being successfully piloted thru the Virginias and Maryland by T. Warne Wilson, and altho the selective draft law took two of the male members of the company within three weeks' time the company is holding the enviable reputation it has made since it was launched. Billie Bryant and Josephine Costello are new additions, having joined while the show played the Grand Theater, Morgantown, W. Va., which was the most pleasant engagement the troupe has ever had. During the engagement in Cumberland, Md., Evelyn Murray took a trip to Baltimore and spent several days visiting her mother, rejoining at Frostburg, Md., the following week. The company now numbers fourteen people: Harry and Eva LaReane, Billie Bryant, Bill Morse, Buck Maughlman, T. Warne Wilson, Francis Wentsell, Josephine Costello, Baby LaPorte, Evelyn Murray, Mary Wilson, Marion Livingston and Warren Sisters. Clair Churchill, who was with the show for a week painting some special scenery, and to leave Saturday, February 2, to fill a contract previously made, but will return shortly to make two special sets for the Piccadilly Girls.

Jack Amick, manager and owner of Amick's Pennant Winners, after an illness of several months, is again back in harness and booked solid over the Barbour Circuit. The Pennant Winners have been completely reorganized, and are now considered one of the best tabs. on the circuit. The members of the company are Bennig Kirkland and wife, C. F. Wayne and wife, George Barth, Ruby Pilgreen, Martha White, Winnie Wilson, Dolly Woodward, Miss Maxine Ferr, leads, and Bobbie Roberts, musical director.

After playing thirty-five weeks on the Gus Sun Circuit (breaking the record for receipts in seven theaters and being held over for two weeks at Brantford, Ont.—a split week house) Ray V. Troy and his All-Girl Revue is now in vaudeville, touring the United Time. He thanks Mr. Jace for his brass band and orchestra, which consists of the three Barbean Sisters, Moschell Sisters, Florence Bentley, Geen Du Mont, Anne Albany and the Kernel of all cut comedians, Ray Troy himself. As the first show to go over the Sun Time with an all-girl band and orchestra the only show on the circuit with but one man in its personnel and with exclusive songs and bills in support of this comedian, it was bound to be a success. The people love originality, and it was an original offering. H. Thor is the agent directing the show on its tour over the United Circuit.

The Pike's Peak Theater, Pueblo, Col., is offering Thompson & Conley's Speedway Girls in the musical comedy, Mike Casey, the New Porter, and this exceptional organization of artists is daily packing the theater. Those with the company who been received special mention from the press of Pueblo are: Ben Lambert and Jack Conley, comedians, Ethelyn Thompson, Marvel Robles, Helen Bowles, Mary McDougal, Eva Clark and Phyllis Thompson. Manager Reinbeckel of the Pike's Peak is utilizing Japanese lanterns for exterior lighting purposes on lightless Mondays. This novel and blase effect has given the theater an oriental setting, and has caught the approval of its patrons.

Ray Adair has launched another achievement in the tabloid musical comedy field, under the novel title of The American Fusiliers, a miniature spectacular production in detail, offering three of his own bills, Hello, Honolulu, The South Sea Isle and Hello, France, with special music, scenery equipment and complete costumes. The title of each bill and of the show all mean something and that something is in each case brought out. Everything is up to the minute, different, novel, full of surprises and on the comic opera order. The cast of twelve people and a musical director put the performances over with a punch that registers, and the chorus is an excellent one. The show is booked by the Gus Sun office and is breaking records everywhere. At Morgantown, W. Va., Grand Theater, on Monday night last week, the company played to an exceptional audience estimated at 2,300. The No. 2 show will open the first week in March if Mr. Adair's plans are carried out, and will follow the No. 1's route.

Business is good down at Little Rock, Ark., writes Jack Lord, of the Lord & Vernon Musical Comedy Company, with an early closing or heatless days yet to close them up. Billy Malone and Georgia Mack opened February 4 on the No. 2 show as principal comedian and prima donna, respectively.

Fred Siddon and his Empire Girls are still at the Lyric Theater, Wilmington, Del. Lamott Lewis, Jennie Veber and Mae Pierce left the show last week and have been replaced by George Slokum, Irma Slokum and Lillian Taylor. Mr. Slokum will produce a few of his bills, his opening bill being The $10,000 Beauty. The next bill will be On the Mexican Border. Business is very good, and the whole show was booked by the manager, Mr. Blum, last Thursday night to appear at the Nudie Hotel Cabaret after the show, and was tendered a big time and a turkey supper after the performance. Roster: Fred Siddon, manager and producer, Wesley Wigham, straight; George Slokum, second comic; Ada May Prevost, soubrette, chorus, Lillian Taylor, Irma Slokum, Verna Belton, Myrtle Howard, Jennie Morrow, George Mull. Fred Siddon has leased a summer resort to open about Decoration Day, and will produce tab. musical comedy all summer. He is now getting things in shape for the opening.

Campbell & Wayland's American Maids opened an indefinite engagement at the Lyric Theater, Charles City, Ia., January 31. Three different bills are used by the company each week, and turnaway business has been the rule so far. The show has the "natives" talking, which amounts to a great deal. The roster: Marie Russell Moore, prima donna; Harry Harker, straights; Dewey Campbell, producer; Ben Wayland, comedian; Mr. Durell, characters. Chorus: Bessie Wayland, Florence Campbell, Pauline Perry, Flossie Perry, Irene Dutton, Mrs. Durell. Grace Lovell is directress, and she is a capable one. The company has splendid wardrobe and scenery, and it is not amiss to say that it is one of the best in the Northwest territory. From Charles City the show goes to Boone, Ia.

W. J. Redford and wife, known professionally as Jimm Maher, late star of the Holland tab., The Movie Girls, joined the Woolfolk tab., Six Little Wives, at Quincy, Ill. Redford succeeded Eddie Allen, who has gone back to Chicago.

Ed Gavin and his All-American Girls are showing at the East Side Theater in Des Moines. Babe Marble is featured as the little girl with the big voice, and has a big following from the Camp Dodge boys, quartered a few miles north of Des Moines.

The Belles of Broadway Company broke all records at the Orpheum Theater, Durham, N. C., and the show was held over for a second week by Manager Daniels of the Orpheum. Mr. Daniels stated that it was the best show that ever played his house. The company, which is playing the V. C. M. Circuit, is under the management of Joe-Ethel Carr, and is featuring The Lester, Dutch comedian, and Charles Golden, Hebrew comedian.

Harry Downing, formerly with The Six Little Wives, is now playing leads with the International Revue.

Sam Loeb's Hip, Hip, Hooray Girls Company is now in its third year in the Oklahoma territory, and reports that it is still doing more than an average share of business, which continues to come in. Mr. and Mrs. James Topping recently joined the company. Mr. Topping is known as one of the best musical directors thru Oklahoma. Altho Oklahoma is reported to be having the coldest weather they've had in 18 years, business is holding up fairly good for all the shows. The roster of Loeb's company follows: Sam Loeb, manager, owner and principal comedian; Tanny Galloway, Lew Marshall, Walter Wright, James Topping, Misses Galloway, Du Verne, Black, Topping, Kraemer, Garland, Brown and Tappen. Manager Loeb has received several offers from Spiegelberg at Atlanta, but has not finished with Oklahoma booking.

The Chas. Davis Musical Revue Company reports great success in the Middle West. The No. 1 show is featuring Babe Hooper and the No. 2 show Sugar Foot Gaffney and Pat Patterson. Manager Davis' recent ad in Billyboy brought over fifty answers.

Lyon's Broadway Maids also Lyon's America Maids have both closed for the season, and will go into stock later.

—Mae Golden's Jewel-Golden Company is now in its 138th week of solid work with only four weeks' layoff, doing big business in the Southern territory for the Barbour Agency.

Yen's Uncle Sam's Belles No. 2 opened an indefinite engagement at the Novelty Theater, Evansville, Ind., January 28. Business is very good. The company is headed by Allen Forth, Harry Pepper, Bert Ray and Viola Pepper. Chorus: Charline Allen, Kittie Gilmore, Josie Smith, Stella Kelly, Marie Cheney, Bobbie Jacobs, Mazie Gelhaus and Maida Montgomery. Two bills a week are played, produced by Harry Pepper. Viola Pepper, that peppery soubrette, is fast becoming a favorite. The company is managed by Allen Forth.

Application has been made in Chicago to the office of the State License Department for a theatrical license by Ashton & McCarthy. The agency is to be known as Harry J. Ashton's Musical Comedy Exchange. The office will be under the personal supervision of John E. McCarthy and will cater exclusively to musical comedy. Mr. McCarthy, formerly of the team of John and Nelle McCarthy, for a number of years has been identified with the Gus Sun Circuit and was part owner and manager of the Grand Theater, Hamilton, O. Harry J. Ashton is the well-known writer of many successful musical productions.

VISIONS FROM VIN

It is stated that Troy's Tip Top Tourists tipped over before they reached the top of their tour.

Where are all the producers who were going to launch ten tabs. this season? They must have run out of matches, whereas some of the "quiet" fellows have succeeded in launching two or three tabs.

The Princess Players from London, Ont., Can., recently landed in the U. S. A. and are enjoying a few weeks on the Liberty Circuit, but it is rumored that they will soon be homeward bound. Possibly they don't like our climate.

The Twilight Theater at Latrobe, Pa., did not pay the one-day salary for January 29; neither did the management subject the performers to any extra performances on the day before, the business was big. Therefore there was no cause to complain.

The Hello, Girls, Company lost Thursday night, January 31, at Latrobe, Pa., due to no lights, caused by a breakdown at the power house, but the house management paid them their salary. Inasmuch as the loss was no fault of the performers it was an unusual act on the house manager's part and deserves public mention.

When a show plays a theater for three straight weeks and after leaving is "panned" by the house manager, there is evidently something wrong somewhere, and said h. m. is worth watching.

Quite often it is rumored that performers leave shows because they don't get their salary, and said shows are playing guaranteed time. What's the cause? Such rumors are most frequent of late. Possibly a little publicity would stop this form of crookedness.

MAGIC & MAGICIANS

BY WILLIAM J. HILLIAR

Address all communications for this column to WILLIAM J. HILLIAR, care of The Billboard, Subway Central Building, New York.

I saw a Bosco perform the cups and balls, I saw Professor Depres present his rising card trick, I saw Dr. Lynn do his looking-glass card trick, I saw at the Egyptian Hall in London the evolution, stage by stage, of Maskelyne's levitation, I saw Devant's incomparable effects with handkerchiefs, I have seen the magical performance in the Theater De Robert-Houdin in Paris, I saw T. Nelson Downs' first appearance at the Palace Theatre in London, also Howard Thurston's. I was at the Alhambra Theater in London when Harry Houdini opened in England, and I have been entertained by many magical societies thruout the country, but never in my life have I been so completely fooled, bewildered and entertained as I was the evening of February 5 by Dr. Samuel C. Hooker at the private theater in his palatial home in Brooklyn, N. Y. I know, when I tell you, that this gentleman showed us the greatest series of card tricks that this world has ever known, and that the principle employed is absolutely new to magic, that I will, perhaps, be accused of exaggerating, but will mention that all of the members of the Society of American Magicians who have been privileged to witness this almost supernatural entertainment, are unanimous in declaring that Dr. Hooker's Magic totally eclipses all previous effects with playing cards. Admission to the seance is only obtained by personal invitation, and the night that I was one of the honored guests Arnold De Biere, Charles J. Carter, Oscar S. Teale, W. G. Stewart and myself made up the audience. Houdini was coming, but at the last minute had to go to Yaphank to entertain the soldiers.

Dr. Hooker calls his program Impossibilities With Miltiades III., and includes twenty-one absolutely new and original effects. On the stage were two side tables, totally devoid of drapery. On one was a bear's head, which the Dr. called Miltiades III. It answers all questions, rolls its eyes and rises two feet in the air without any support whatever, and, remember, all of this on a brightly illuminated stage. An examined skeleton houlette was placed on the table and a pack of cards put in it, and instantly ANY card called for rose from the deck, even the front one, and there were positively no threads used whatever. In fact the Doctor seemed to be able to do anything with his cards asked by the audience. Cards would rise two feet in the air, stay there absolutely motionless until commanded, and then they would RETURN to the pack. The climax of the evening was the causing a previously selected card, on which we had written our names, which had been returned to the pack and thoroly shuffled, to rise from the houlette. The Doctor uses new packs of cards for nearly each trick and allows everything to be minutely examined. Carter said: "I never believed such things possible." De Biere said: "I don't believe I have seen it." Teale, who had been a fortunate spectator at a previous seance, said: "I am more mystified than before."

After the performance, which lasted about two hours, and we had regained our breath, we were entertained with refreshments in the library, and a new epoch in the art of card conjuring had been ushered in.

I had a long talk with Hornman, who was one of the lucky few at a recent performance of Dr. Hooker's, and he assures me that at present he has no conception of the modus operandi.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Please do not enclose stamps for replies, as all questions asked, except of a personal nature, will be answered in this column.

C. La Dare, San Antonio, Tex.—John G. Hauff's address is 824 Northwestern avenue, Chicago, Ill. Hornman & Co., 470 8th avenue, New York, are very reliable people.

Pachwa, the Hypnotist—Very many thanks for your letter.

James Hamer, New Bedford, Mass.—I am much obliged for the information contained in your letter.

Richards, the Wizard—Those are true words.

O. B. M., Buffalo, N. Y.—Yes, Professor Hoffman has written a late book on magic. Harry Houdini has the manuscript, and is seeking a publisher for same.

MAGIC STAGE ACTS—Billiard Ball Act, 50c. "Production Act and Patter," $3.00; "Comedy Act and Patter," $1.00. "Ventriloquial Act and Patter," $2.00. "Slate Trick and Patter," 50c. "Impromptu Act and Patter," $1.50. "One Hour Show and Patter," $5.00; Folders on other Acts, 10c. MAGIC BOOK STORE, Oradell, New Jersey.

O. Thomas, Zanesville, O.—Am sending you the desired information.

Martin L. Hauf, Camden, N. J.—In reply to the first question in your letter will say no. Most stages are built differently, and it would be an utter impossibility to have the trap always in the same place. Second, I doubt if any lyceum magicians are getting more than the amount you mention. The late Maro used to get as much as $150 a performance, but he was a great drawing card, and as a magician in lyceum he stood out so far ahead of the others that his place has not yet been filled. Third, all illusionists carry their own stage coverings. No trouble at all to answer your queries—glad to do so at any time.

B. L. M., Washington, D. C.—Leon Herrmann is dead.

Professor Browne, Butte, Mont.—Yes. Nate Leipzig is considered the most artistic and finished card conjurer on the vaudeville stage. No, he is an American—born in Detroit.

Can anyone tell me what became of the clever magician and juggler, Toko, the Anglo-American Jap, who played thru the United States in 1893. Some of his features were transformations, vanishing eggs, with bare arms, with eggs held at the finger tips. This artist appeared before Yank Hoe and Omene. This information is wanted by Edward J. Russell, General Delivery, New York. Personally I have never heard of Toko.

J. H. Stevenson, the Wizard of the West Coast, is an enthusiastic admirer of this column. He is now located at Mejillones, Chile. Mr. Stevenson recently was very prominent at a benefit for the Red Cross Fund at Valparaiso promoted by the British Consul. The South Pacific Mail gives this gentleman the lion's share of its column review of the show. Mr. Stevenson was one of the original members of the Society of American Magicians. He gets The Billboard regularly.

George Hewitt from faraway Douglas, Alaska (my, where does not The Billboard go?), sends me the description of an original handkerchief trick, which I think is one of the most subtle effects I have ever heard of, and asks me to publish same in this column. I am very sorry to disappoint my friend, but I have made a hard and fast rule that nothing shall appear on this page detrimental to the best interests of the art of magic, and when a trick is exposed to the public one is only killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. Would suggest to Mr. Hewitt that he send his excellent trick to Dr. A. M. Wilson, the publisher of The Sphinx, as that is essentially a magicians' publication.

The Mysterious Dunninger, he of the flowing raven locks, appeared at the Harris Theater last Sunday for a war benefit.

Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent English scientist, once said of The Zancigs: "I have personally tested The Zancigs and find their work 95 per cent pure telepathy." Sir Oliver would have been an easy purchaser of the Masonic Temple in Chicago, the Brooklyn Bridge or the City Hall in Philadelphia.

A certain motion picture serial is going to show a series of magicians' tricks and illusions, with correct explanations of how they are accomplished. In their publicity they say: "One of America's best known magicians, a man whose name is known from Coast to Coast, is going to demonstrate how the effects are obtained in so graphic a way that anyone can go and do likewise. All I can say is that I do not believe any magician "whose name is known from Coast to Coast" would be guilty of such an absurd and harmful display of idiocy. He had better beware of the wrath of the Society of American Magicians, whose power is subtle and far-reaching.

Cuba Crutchfield, the wonderful fancy roper, at Healy's Golden Glades, is a lover of magic. So, also, is his rival, Tex McLeod, who is at Churchill's.

Houdini received much publicity in the New York papers on account of moving his home, and four vanloads of books, from Flatbush to New York.

Mysterious LaSelle, who has been playing around Chicago, says he will shortly be seen in a new act with ten people. He expects to be in New York February 11.

Curtis Baldwin writes me a very encouraging letter from Pine Island, Minn. Many thanks to you. Yes, you are perfectly right, I am the guilty party.

C. A. George Newman of Kenyon, Minn., writes me he has the second largest collection of newspaper and magazine articles appertaining to magic in the United States. He is going to bind all of the Magic and Magicians pages into one volume. He adds: "Keep the good work up, for I am confident that your pithy and interesting articles are doing much to advance the mystic arts in the estimation of the theatrical profession in general, and managers in particular. Hoping that your articles may be with us for a long, long time." Thanks, George, thanks.

C. H. Love, 38th Aero Squadron, Wilbur Wright Field, Fairfield, O., is greatly interested in magic. He asks me to send also a catalog of magical effects. Any dealer advertising in The Billboard will be very pleased to do so. I do not sell any tricks.

Thurston played the Orpheum Theater, Nashville, Tenn., week of February 4. He was billed like a circus. The fact that Nicola played the Vendome there recently probably had something to do with Howard's lavish expenditure for paper. Nicola made a tour of the world a few years back under the direction of Vic and Charles Hugo.

Hal Rammel, manager of the Community Club of Long Prairie, Minn., sends me an appreciation of Magic and Magicians. Mr. Rammel is also taking care of the amusement end of the Todd County Fair, which happens to be one of the biggest in Minnesota. Mr. Rammel is very anxious to have a big illusion act, which he can feature, for the fair this coming season. They have never had an attraction of this kind, but feel that now that magic is in the air that such a form of entertainment would be highly profitable. Now, you illusionists, write to Mr. Rammel.

Leon Sylvian, proprietor of Sylvian's Magic Shop, and Anna M. Fleming were married in January. They live in Providence, R. I.

I get so many reports of the excellent show given, and the wonderful business enjoyed, by Richards, the Wizard, that it is very evident he is some showman. Four correspondents from different parts of the country this week have written me about Richards. L. E. Robinson, the manufacturing magician of Boston, has just completed for the Richards Show an Oriental Flower Growth Illusion, and has several others under construction.

Professor Cripps, the Mystic, is doing exceptionally good business in Western Canada, and altho the temperature has at times been from 40 to 60 below zero whole families have driven

Editorial Comment

That Mr. McAdoo, in his devoted and sincere efforts to realize the beneficences of Goverment Control, is being slyly impeded, subtly hindered and craftily handicapped by a certain cabal deeply interested in discrediting Government Control in order that Government Ownership shall come into marked public disfavor goes without saying.

There is a big conspiracy afoot.

The conspirators have plotted cunningly and deeply.

They have determined that growing sentiment in favor of Government Ownership must be curbed and killed.

No risk is too great to take—even treason.

And these designing scoundrels are doubtless big subscribers to war bonds and have made princely donations to the Red Cross while secretly planning the undoing of the President and Mr. McAdoo.

What does it matter to them that the city of New York has gone almost fuelless, that all of New England is in even worse straits, that the poor have felt the pinch of cold and misery, that our allies have not received the foodstuffs we pledged them, that our troops have not had needed supplies, that the very winning of the war has been jeopardized?

All that the swine can see or think of is that a great feed trough, at which they have fattened for years, may be lost to them.

The idea that they may never get their dirty snouts in it again fills them with great fear and nameless dreads, for railroad looting is the only trade they know.

But discreet, careful, insidious and artful as they are it looks as if they have gone just a little too far and that they have not covered their tracks as carefully as they planned to.

W. G. Lee, head of the Trainmen's Union, openly made the charge at Washington, before a hearing of the Railroad Wage Commission February 5. He said also, and very pertinently: "No, I do not think that everybody from the president down to the dispatchers of the roads were in the conspiracy, but I think a certain picked few were interested in working to increase delay and make Government Control a failure." Continuing Mr. Lee also said: "If I looked for the real cause—the instigators—the head of the conspiracy—I think I could trace it back to about four banks in New York City."

If Mr. Lee thinks he could there is no doubt that the Government surely could, and if it can it should.

We do not suppose if guilt was fastened upon these wealthy, but sordid-souled, bankers that they would be shot, as they so richly deserve to be, but at least they would be put away for a while, and the scorn and contempt that would ever after be their portion would be some solace.

It is a certain few very wealthy thieves that need to be landed, and they are bankers—not really bankers either, because real banking is but little practiced now. Loaning money at legal rates is too slow for these fast days. Banking today means scalping, promoting, speculation, underwriting and the wholesale robbing of the unprotected estates of widows and orphans.

There are decent bankers left, of course—lots of them, thank heaven—and even a few very wealthy concerns that are fairly clean and decent.

But there are a few—four at least—that the heavy hand of the Government should smash utterly. A few Senators and Congressmen (their paid retainers) will go into the discard with them, and, perhaps, a few (not over three or four) prominent railroad men.

There is a chance, furthermore, that they will get their deserts. Mr. McAdoo has never yet made a failure of an undertaking. Neither has President Wilson. Both are strong men of tremendous determination. Mr. McAdoo has the President's complete confidence. The President has the confidence of the American people.

Mr. McAdoo is going to make a success of Government Control. Let us hope that in order to attain his end he will be compelled to smash those four swinish banking houses.

A CONSPIRACY TO HINDER AND DISCREDIT MR. McADOO

Opponents of Government Ownership, Driven Desperate, Hesitate at Nothing, Not Even Treason

Washington, Feb. 8.—Inefficient operation of the railroads, resulting in traffic congestion, with its grave attendant evils, was attributed by union labor leaders, at a hearing today before the Railroad Wage Commission, to a desire on the part of the managements of the systems to make a failure of Government control.

The commission was told by W. G. Lee, head of the trainmen; A. B. Garretson, head of the conductors, and other witnesses that this situation explained why the transportation systems of the country, including roads of splendid record, such as the Pennsylvania, suddenly collapsed. The brotherhood leaders used such vigorous expressions as "rotten railroading" to convey their opinion of the way the railroads have been carried on since the Government took charge, and they offered to produce scores of instances of delayed crews, charges to personnel, and misuse of rolling stock to prove their statements.

Mr. Lee's charges were made twice at the hearing. First he told the commission that he had evidence to prove that experienced railroad men were not permitted to operate as their training dictated. Later he said the commission should not overlook the fact that the managements wanted to make the cost and delay due to the law as great as possible.

"Do you mean that the operating officials made the increased costs greater than they should have been?" Chairman Lane asked.

"Yes, that was natural. They desired to cast reflections on the law," Mr. Lee replied.

"I do not think it was natural. I have not so cynical a view of human nature," returned the Chairman.

"We are prepared to show many instances of rotten railroading," the union leader replied. "On a railroad not far from here I know of a crew that was called out and the sixteen-hour law overtook them before they left the terminal. The operating employees can not prevent these delays and instead of a train dispatcher there is back in the yards a train delayer."

"Such a policy must go from the president of the railroad down to the dispatcher," Mr. Lane remarked. "Do you think they conspired?"

"No, but I think a sufficient number were interested in working to increase delay and cost of the eight-hour law and to make Government operation a failure," Mr. Lee answered. "If I looked for the head cause I think I could trace it back to about four banks in New York City."

"Can you tell me why the Pennsylvania, long regarded as the model railroad, should fall down all of a sudden? Why was a veteran trainmaster at Alliance, O., replaced by an inexperienced man who was still in there? Trains have been delayed for hours at that point. Why do reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission show that in Philadelphia recently more engines were allowed to freeze up overnight than ever before? One required two weeks for repairs. We have had winters before. Why is all this congestion just now?"

"The old managements do not want Government operation made a success," said Mr. Lee. "Do you think the public will let the railroads go back to the old system if Government management proves efficient? That's why I want to see the Government make a success of operating the railroads."

Mr. Garretson supplemented his colleague's statements.

"The operating employees are thoroly aware of the type of clearing congestion which was in effect before the Government took over the roads," he said. "They then were aware of the kind of transportation now being given. But I want to say there is one class of employees not engaged in giving a demonstration of what a failure Government operation is."

D. W. Helt, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen, asserted that the work of the Wage Commission was being "used as a cloak" by some of the roads to discontinue negotiations with employees which were begun before the commission was appointed. He said the signalmen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford were on the verge of quitting their jobs because of inability to obtain satisfaction on demands made in December.

TEA WITH THE LADIES

New York, Feb. 9.—Times are gloomy enough without being made more depressing by careless or inharmonious dressing, says Blanche Yurka, who has decided theories regarding the psychology of clothes. She was looking radiant the other day in a brown cloth suit, with handsome furs and big black picture hat and the happiness of planning for a new production that she won't discuss yet.

Miss Yurka's theories are quite cheering in these times of altitudinous prices, for she believes that good dressing depends more on good judgment in selection than on an unlimited purse.

"In Daybreak," she says, "I had to try by every means to get sympathy for the woman, because it was a man's play. We selected the softest, most neutral toned frocks in gray and other dull tones, and I don't believe more than two or three persons in any audience knew the kind of frock I had on. When people would come back to see me I would ask them, 'How did you like my gowns?' And they would nearly always say something like this: 'I don't remember what you wore, but it was very becoming.' That was the effect we wanted to create. We wanted the character to stand out distinctly and we used no harsher material than chiffons and velvets."

Fashions of the stage have improved greatly Miss Yurka thinks. She adored the frocks in Leave It to Jane and is going to copy one of them for her summer wardrobe. Good taste is winning out over the bizarre in stage costuming, she says, the stage frocks nowadays being the kind any nice person would like to wear in every day life.

Fortune has been remarkably kind to Percy Haswell, who is spending the winter at her Flushing (L. I.) home. Whenever her coal bin has been depleted to the last black treasure and the coal dealer has said he couldn't get any at all and Miss Haswell has been at her wit's end to know how to keep warm on the morrow, then an unexpected ton of coal has arrived. Three times this has happened, and, altho she says she has been driven nearly to nervous prostration by the threatened coal famine, she hasn't been entirely without coal all winter.

Her husband, George Fawcett, who is in pictures in California, constantly writes or wires inquiries regarding her comfort, and on zero days, when Miss Haswell reads of his picking flowers on the Coast, she is tempted to close her house and join him on the Coast. Their daughter is planning to enter the radio service if the Government decides to accept women in the service.

An instance of the widespread interest in the work of the Stage Women's War Relief and especially in the windproof jackets that soldiers in camps are finding such treasures, is given in the following letter from a Maryland woman which Miss Bonstelle received this week:

Silver Spring, Md., Jan. 21, 1918.

Miss Jessie Bonstelle,
Chairman Kid Gloves and Waistcoat
Committee, Stage Women's War Relief:

Dear Madam—My attention has been directed to the paragraph in The Woman's Home Companion for January in regard to bits of old kid gloves, etc. Would you kindly let me know if you could make use of newborn lambs that have died when a few hours or days old? I live on a farm with my daughter and am a half-blind shut-in who is anxious to do something or anything for our soldier boys, and we have had many deaths among our flock from the extreme cold the last two months. We thought the skins would make good, warm linings for leather or other coats, and I would be glad to send them to you free of cost if you can use them. Please let me hear from you at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) MRS. L. STEWART,
P. O. Takoma Park, D. C., Route 5, Box 181.

Could anything be more charmingly patriotic than this half blind shut-in's desire to do her bit?

According to her press agent May Allison was born and brought up on a Georgia plantation and her transition from the quiet seclusion of an old-fashioned Southern home to the part of Vanity in a Broadway production was not made without stern opposition from her parents, who had given her the same kind of training they had received and their parents before them. When she determined to come to New York to test fate in the light opera world she was accompanied by her mother, who, unwilling to let her daughter go upon the stage, was more unwilling to let her come to New York alone. It wasn't until her role of Vanity in Everywoman was changed to that of Beauty that her parents became reconciled to the career she had chosen.

Pauline Starke thinks the art of blowing soap bubbles should be made one of the regular courses of all recognized art schools. In her new Triangle play, Innocent's Progress, she has to blow shining toy balloons from soap suds without any of the usual devices youngsters use. She fills her cupped hands with soap suds and puffs out her cheeks and sends forth gigantic bubbles. But it's very difficult, she says, and one ought to have had some previous training.

Geraldine Farrar bought the first box sold for the Lambs' Gambol benefit for Sunday night, February 17. Seven of the boxes, which are $100 each, had been sold Wednesday, the other subscribers being Fred Perry, Robert Burnside, Mr. and Mrs. George Grismer, Georgie Caine Hudson, Roi Cooper Megrue and Mr. Solomon. The entire second balcony of 260 seats has been bought by the Stage Women's War Relief.

A committee consisting of Frances Starr, Mrs. Joseph Grismer, Mrs. Chauncey Olcott and Mrs. E. S. Garrison is canvassing the department stores for the sale of Smileage Books.

THEATRICAL NOTES

The Unique Theater, Nampa, Id., has been sold by the owner, Mrs. Ida Howell, to a Mr. Wardell. Mrs. Howell has purchased the Emma Theater, Fayette, Id., and will run pictures there and play road attractions also.

Louise Buckley and Lenore DeLarsh are still with George H. Bubb's Ikey and Abey Company, which organization they joined August 18 last. The company has toured the Coast territory and is now headed East. The cast includes Irene Solomon, Louise Buckley, Lenora DeLarsh, Geo. Smith, Arthur Callahan, Mr. Phillips, Dave Rivers and Edna Covey. George H. Bubb is the manager.

Brunswick, Ga., will have an airdome if the City Council will grant the permit for its erection. Harris M. King, proprietor of the Bijou Theater in that city, is backing the venture.

PRESS-ADVANCE AGENTS

Clarence Hyde was in Cincinnati last week paving the way for the engagement of Ruth Chatterton at the Grand.

Harry Yost, in advance of Gus Hill's Minstrels, had a home-coming in the Queen City last week. Harry, years ago, worked at the Grand and it was from Cincinnati that he started his stage career with the late J. Fred Helf.

Ben Kraus is now headed East and will be in Duluth, Minn., shortly. Ben was in Portland, Ore., February 2 and experienced the first snow he has seen this winter.

Harry E. Crandell has been on the sick list in Chicago, having been confined to his virtuous couch with a near-pneumonia attack.

E. A. Warren, well-known agent, last season with Parker's Greatest, blew into Chicago week before last.

Eddie Jackson, with the Gentry Show last summer and the Hugo Show this winter, also arrived in the Windy City with the last big storm. Eddie and Harry Crandell formerly trouped together on the Gollmar Shows and paved the way out of Chi. for "ball shows" for many moons.

Charley Goettler, advance man for Dillingham's Chin-Chin, reports the show going "over the top" in every city it has played in the Central West and at many places the S. R. O. sign was hung out early.

Roy Sampson put over the following in a Staunton (Va.) daily recently:

"Oh, no, you don't catch me opening that package."

"Don't let it drop, and for goodness sake don't touch it."

"Run, get a cop."

That was part of the running fire of excited spasms of articulation gleaned on the edge of a crowd which early last night stood riveted to the pavement in front of the Beverly Theater, while their eyes remained steadily fixed on a suspicious looking soft leather case on the steps of the playhouse.

Directly the cop came, bringing with him several additions to the crowd. Someone had summoned Officer Harris, the tall, sturdy oak of the police force, and when the genial patrolman hove into sight there was a general movement of bystanders to safe places farther down the street. On tiptoe, and with a sure step, the cop passed several circles around the leather case, and decided that it shouldn't be touched.

Somebody called for John Joliffe, one of the managers of the Beverly. John didn't know what the package contained either, so he called papa, and papa came down from the box-office, bringing a foreign looking stranger with him. The foreign looking stranger proved to be the advance agent for Step Lively, a musical comedy scheduled for the New Theater, who had been paying a call on Mr. Joliffe, who is an old friend. The stranger opened the package. It contained a portable typewriter, which he had left on the steps to save the trouble of carrying it upstairs.

Maybe the typewriter could be used for writing blackhand letters. Certainly, if like those to some newspaper offices, it might justly be called an infernal machine, but, however that might be, it certainly made some people "Step Lively" for a moment, and dismissed a much relieved crowd when its real identity was proven.

An agent recently called on Wells Hawks and found him about the busiest man in Washington. Hawks is in the publicity department of the Navy, and is commissioned a lieutenant. He is only too glad to see any of the gang, however, and welcome them as well as show them around as far as the rules will allow. His recent visitor had to go thru a thoro examination before he could gain admittance to the Navy Building and then was given a paper that would permit him to get out. Not thinking of its importance he very nearly destroyed this paper; in fact, was just on the point of tearing it up when Lieutenant Hawks stopped him and informed him that had he done so he might have been interned for the rest of the war.

Bill Hoddy writes friends that he is working hard and abusing his Corona; that during his spare minutes he is rehearsing a minstrel show somewhere "over there."

F. R. Gervers, at present pushing ahead of the Sterling Dramatic Company, expects to be doing special work ahead of one of the big white tops the coming season. He says if the circuses are banned he will be ahead of some show boat.

Ed R. Salter, publicity exciter, to use his words, for the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, blew back into Orlando, Fla., from Jacksonville with a million-dollar suit on and said Orlando was the best town in the State. All it needs, he says, is twenty fellows who don't have to get up every morning and take ginger to make 'em boost the town.

Harry Beale has been appointed to an executive position with the Chicago Grand Opera Company at the Lexington Avenue Opera House, New York. Harry was formerly manager of the Hippodrome and more recently of the Century Theater.

F. J. Lee, one of the oldtimers, is now general manager of the J. Johnson Company, national distributors of signs, with headquarters in San Francisco. Lee says he has departed from the show business, tho the firm has vaudeville interests. Jules Johnson, president of the company, was with Powers in Chicago for years, and Arthur Lowenthal, vice-president, wrote all the former La Salle Theater successes with Joe Howard, and is a brother of Fred Lowenthal. Lee says further in a recent letter that while in the outdoor advertising game he still stops where all the good fellows do, and recently at the Continental in San Francisco saw Lee Parvin, John King, Vaughn Comfort, Stan Stanley, Percy Mattox and George Primrose—all good ones.

GENTRY BACK IN DENVER FROM EAST

Preparing To Open Sells-Floto Circus Early in April—Palmer Is Again In Charge of Pit Shows

Denver, Col., Feb. 8.—After more than two weeks spent in the East Henry B. Gentry, general manager of the Sells-Floto Circus, returned to this city and at once continued his preparations for getting everything in readiness for the approaching season, which will open early in April. While in the East Mr. Gentry made several purchases, besides closing up a great many deals, and among the former he secured a talking monkey, which will be added to the amusements he will have for the children during the tour.

"Doc" Palmer, who had charge of the pit shows during last season, will again be with the circus. He came here last week from his home in San Antonio, Tex., and attended to a number of business affairs in connection with the department of which he will again be in charge. "Doc" was given the glad hand by his many friends at winter quarters. Leslie Stevenson, one of the ticket sellers last season, is now in Uncle Sam's army, and Duke Mills, who had charge of the side-show No. 2, is in San Antonio, where he is timekeeper for a large concern. Mr Hoyt, 35 years old, who had a position as candy butcher last season, and who had been ill for some time with lung trouble, succumbed to the disease here last week, funeral services being held last Sunday at Fairmount Chapel. Those who acted as pallbearers were his former associates with the circus: Leo Hamilton, Joseph Brandon, Bobbie Warth and Fred Stewart.

Leo Hamilton arrived in winter quarters early last week and went to work at the training quarters. He is instructing a large number of the canine family in new acts. Willie Wells is turning a similar trick at the training quarters of the ponies, while Nobby Clark is kept busy at the barns putting the horses thru a number of new stunts. Mickey Goldberg's friends with the circus last season claim that Mickey is afraid to get down to a steady job now fearing the shows will pull out bright and early some morning without his knowledge leaving him behind. Some of the Sells-Floto folk in Denver would be pleased to hear from Frank Menette, who was last heard from in Hot Springs, Ark. Andrew Carty, Will Bobbie, Mickey Goldberg, Meyer Schloss, Dennis Wallace, in fact the entire bunch here, have succumbed to an attack of that old circus disease known as "itchy feet," and they are counting the days until the circus again starts on its 1918 tour.—EDDIE DECK.

MOLLIE BAILEY'S SHOW

Houston, Tex., Feb. 8.—The Mollie Bailey Show, when it takes to the road February 23 will be much larger than heretofore. It will again be under the management of the Bailey Brothers, who have had it overhauled and repainted, and it now stands ready for the opening. Willie K. Bailey will take charge of the advance for the coming tour, while Walker Harris will have the band instead of W. K. Bailey. There will be ten pieces in the band. In addition to touring Texas the show will invade Arkansas and Missouri.

NOTES FROM TOLEDO

Toledo, O., Feb. 7.—Frank P. Spellman, president of the U. S. Circus Corp., who is in the East, is expected to return to Toledo soon. The winter quarters of the motorized show is a very busy place these days, with a corps of carpenters and mechanics busy at work. Three weeks ago a strong wind blew down a wall of one of the buildings, causing a slight delay.

Harry (Fud) Johnson has joined out with the advance of the Ringling Bros.' Circus for the coming season.

Frank Lukey and George Wong, assisted by Harry Howe, are with Fred Irwin's Big Show (burlesque), and have a very clever offering, which never fails to gain much applause.

Messrs. Horwitz are making an effort to lease the Arcade Theater until the Colonial, which was partly destroyed by fire a short time ago, is repaired.

Bert Carroll, property boss of the John Robinson 10 Big Shows, is here, and expects to remain until spring. He made himself useful at the auto show here January 11-17.

George Edmonds, billposter of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Show, is working at the Empire Theater.—H. O. STANTE.

BOSTOCK ANIMALS

Again on Exhibition in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Feb. 8.—Prior to sending the Bostock animals on to the United States Circus Corporation, which has purchased the lot, the collection has again been placed on exhibition for a short time at the Bostock Arena here. The exhibition was carried on for some time a year or more ago in connection with the operation of the David Horsley film plant at Washington and Main, formerly Luna Park.

LADIES' AUXILIARY OF S. L. OF A.

Showing Much Progress

Chicago, Feb. 8.—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Showmen's League of America is making rapid strides forward, and in a very short time it will mean something to say you are a Member of this organization of live, hustling women. Meetings are being held every Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in the Showmen's League clubrooms, and every lady connected with the outdoor amusement business who is eligible for membership will be gladly welcomed at these meetings. Letterheads, membership cards and application blanks are now in the printer's hands and as soon as these are ready the membership committee members begin their campaign, but in the meantime they will be very glad to hear from any and all ladies who wish to join the auxiliary. The By-Laws Committee has drafted a set of by-laws and presented same for the approval of the members at the last meeting, and, while all present expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with the by-laws as laid down by the committee, it was decided to let them remain open for a period of two weeks that any alterations or additions might be made before they were finally approved and printed.

Plans are now under way for entertaining the out-of-town ladies who will be in Chicago during the week of the banquet and ball given by the Showman's League of America and the present indications are that the visiting ladies will be royally entertained.

JOSEPH MAYER AND SONS

Joseph Mayer, the well known circus program publisher, and his two sons, Frank J. and Harvey A.

J. E. HENRY'S SHOW

Taloga, Ok., Feb. 7.—The J. E. Henry Show, which has always been a wagon outfit, carrying from twenty to thirty wagons and from seventy to ninety head of horses, will be mostly motorized the coming season. Manager J. E. Henry has just received new trucks for all of his heavy paraphernalia, and is now having bodies built for the trucks to suit the requirements. One truck will be used for the canvas, one for a pole wagon, and for reserved seats, two for the blue seats and two for the two side-shows. The show will travel in two sections and will have its own electric light plant.

JOSEPH MAYER

Has Two Sons Doing Their Bit for Uncle Sam

The Barnum & Bailey Circus is noted for the number of "long term" officials and employees whose names are to be found upon the institutional ledgers. Prominent in this list of "the faithful" is Joseph Mayer, who for forty years has followed the fortunes of "The Greatest Show on Earth." Mr. Mayer began his circus career in the late seventies as custodian of programs and has been a valued member of the Barnum & Bailey official staff ever since. His business ability has continually asserted itself in smoothing out many a tangled condition. He is now the publisher of the Barnum & Bailey and the Ringling Bros.' official programs.

The picture on this page shows Mr. Mayer and his sons, Frank G. and Harvey A., two fine, strapping lads, who are doing their bit for Uncle Sam. Frank is in actual service and Harvey is in training.

UNDER THE MARQUEE

By CIRCUS SOLLY

THE CIRCUS JOCKEY

We may wander afar
'Mid scenes grand and rare,
With the exquisite pleasure it may bring,
We'll never find that joy
We found when a boy
Riding in the old circus ring.
Riding in the ring—
Riding in the ring—
Riding in the old circus ring!
—A Trouper.

R. H. Johnston, of Palmetto, Ga., has been exempted from military service on account of physical disability. He says that the coming season will find him explaining to the country folks how easy the circus bills come off the new barn or the sheet iron garage just when it rains. Johnston also adds that he is operating a successful mail order business in Palmetto.

Homer Martin, circuit clerk of Pike County, Mo., and an ex-circus trouper, died Friday, February 1, at his home in Bowling Green of heart failure. His death was unexpected, as he was apparently in good health. Mr. Martin was born in Pike County, Mo., about 59 years ago. He was a peanut boy on the first train that ran out of Louisiana, Mo. He afterwards accepted a position with the John Robinson Shows, and spent a great part of his life under the white tops in the capacity of ticket seller. His wife survives him.

W. A. Hodgson, of Cheyenne, Wy., made a special trip from "'way out West" to Kansas City especially to attend the sale of the J. H. Eschman Railway Circus, held there January 30, but not reading The Billboard carefully, as he should, thought the sale was to be January 31, and so arrived on that day. However, he took it goodnaturedly and said that he expected to put in ten days in that town anyway, as he had business matters with C. W. Parker.

Merle Evans, late "music master" with the Buffalo Bill-Jess Willard combination, is now with the Gus Hill Minstrels, holding down the same position with the sixty merrymakers. Merle is hitting them up on his My Dear Sir just like a coming Eugene Wack, the town folks all coming to the front doors when the troupe moves along the streets. Some baby you have, Merle.

The following note, signed "A Billboard Reader," has just been received by Solly: "As some of the circuses next season will travel on motor trucks I suggest that the usual parade be eliminated, which I think will not harm the ticket office receipts at all, and will give more time to performers and employees all around."

Bill Dunbar, of the Old Forepaugh Show, is stage manager of the Academy of Music at Lynchburg, Va. He would like to hear from some of the old boys who were on No. 21 car in 1900.

Lee Mitchell was stricken with paralysis five weeks ago, and is now unable to walk. He is living at Palmetto, Fla. (Box 412), where he would be pleased to hear from his friends.

Forrest (Foy) Wallace, of the well-known clown team of Stoddard and Wallace, last season with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, is in the employ of Uncle Sam, having enlisted in the 416th Railway Telegraph Battalion. He is stationed at 3813 Forrest avenue, Chicago, and expects to be in France ere long. Stoddard is operating a vaudeville and picture show at Charlevoix, Mich., and doing well, thank you. He has already started to build a new vaude-picture house to seat 600, and is planning to open it about May 1.

Freddie Biggs and the Kafka Trio, iron jaw wire act, arrived in Kansas City, Mo., recently from the Pacific Coast, and were entertained by George Brown and family at 820 Washington street. Other guests included Dewey Ralley and wife, Walter Rhodes and T. Harris. Biggs will be with the Sells-Floto this year.

The Aerial Earles are working the W. V. M. A. Time, and hold contracts which will keep them busy until the middle of March. They will take a few weeks' vacation before opening with the white tops. The Earles would like to know if the Leahy Brothers remember the night Dan Sechia led them and a number of others to a pig pen in an effort to make a short cut from the lot to the cars while with the LaTena Show. Some fence climbing, eh, boys?

William Gilman, business manager of The Great Nicola, was in Lynchburg, Va., week before last billing his attraction, and had a pleasant visit with J. Maurice (Jake) Tyree, assistant manager of the Academy of Music Theater there. "Jake" has become quite a popular young man in the box office and will again be with the white tops this year, provided Uncle Sam doesn't call him. "Bill" was on his way to Chicago. He hasn't know with which outdoor show he will be this year, but is thinking seriously of taking out a stock company.

Leon and Jack Roth, billposters, are spending the winter at their home in Urbana, O. They are undecided as to their plans for this season.

Jay Bial is doing a little special work for the Red Cross association in New York until the Barnum & Bailey Circus opens at the Garden.

Whitie Lykins signed up last week as boss hostler with the Sparks Circus. He was with the La Tena Circus last year.

Will H. Hill's motor train circus is preparing to take to the road about May 1, the path for which will be blazed by Frank Bucca. Mr. Hill has just lost a big lion, which was left at Burrell's farm. He is going to have the skin made into a rug, which will grace the reception hall of his new home at Mountain Lake, N. J.

THE NEW IDEA

By DOC WADDELL

Hon. Milthe Westlake, former circus man, now Vice-Mayor and President of the City Council of Good Old Columbus Town, is to the front with "The New Idea." He proposes that the owners and managers of the big circuses do this: Arriving in Columbus on Sunday for a stay of a week, put up canvas and let Monday be Chillicothe Day; Tuesday, if a layoff account war order, Patriotic Day, contributing the big top to the Government and the public for patriotic mass meeting or entertainment; Wednesday, Washington C. H. and Springfield Day; Thursday, Delaware and Newark Day; Friday, Lancaster, Athens and Circleville Day, and Saturday, COLUMBUS DAY. This would bring the people from all surrounding towns to the show, thus in a way showing these towns. MR. WESTLAKE proposes that the circuses, if this program is carried out, be given in Good Old Columbus Town for the week, FREE GROUNDS, FREE WATER and FREE LICENSE. Which will be the FIRST IN? It looks good to FATHER, and the children ought to think well of it. Every other big city can be played in the same way.

"Will the Government prohibit the circus? Will it HAUL them?" Listen, the circus has never lost a season since it started in this country, which counts from RICKETT'S CIRCUS away back in 1765. There have been other wars. The circus kept right on. We now know the present HELL will not stop it as UNCLE SAM, absolutely and positively, is going to transport the greatest amusement institution and the mightiest piece of efficiency in all the world. In war or peace, command me to showfolk.

NEWS AND NOTES

Picked Up Around Winter Quarters of Sparks Show

With two big army stoves keeping the building at an even temperature of 60 work is going on satisfactorily in the painting and decorating department of the Sparks Circus, wintering at Carthage, O., and, tho a late start was made this year, it is more than probable that the work will be finished at least two weeks before the opening date. Fletcher Smith came up from Salisbury last week and took charge of this department. He has a force of five men at work, and five cages lack only the gold leafing to be classed as ready for the road. Over in the animal barn Lewis Reed has his bulls out in the ring daily, and has taught them an entirely new routine. The school arena has been erected also in the ring barn, but no cat animals have been trained as yet.

Superintendent Gerry Vanderbilt is proving the right man in the right place, and he is here, there and everywhere all the time, but still finds time to put in several hours daily in the paint shop. Frenchie Miller is out here doing the master mechanic work after eight years' apprenticeship with the Mighty Haag. The high cost of living has not hit the quarters a jolt as yet, and Chef Scottie Webber is serving three squares a day that will force you to let out your belt a notch or two after a week's sojourn with this clever young man. Frank Skinner is back again at his old job, blacksmithing, and seeing that the wagons are in the best of shape before the painters get at them.

Walter Guice, who stopped over in Cincinnati last week, was a visitor and spent a pleasant hour with the boys. He is doing his bit in vaudeville, working the horizontal bars with his wife and a partner. Robert Drummond, who was with Butch Fredericks last season, and who has been in the advertising business in Jacksonville, was a visitor the past week on his way to Chicago. Jerry Mugivan came out with the Governor the other day and looked over the outfit.

The draft has hit the bunch a jolt, and Walter McLain and Chauncy Jacobs have been called. The former was examined and passed here, but Chauncy was summoned to Fort Wayne, Ind., his home town. Jess Cohn, chandelier man, doesn't find much time to write the boys this winter, as he is holding down a job for the Government at Pittsburg. Harry Willis, calliopist and organist extraordinary, sends greetings to the bunch from Eau Claire, Wis., where it is so cold the pipes on his organ have frozen solid. Curly Newman, who has the elephants with John Robinson, Jr., spent a pleasant hour with Lewis Reed the other day.

Maybe you won't believe this, but it is the gospel truth. George Singleton, boss canvasman with the show, has a fullblooded bulldog named Jack. This winter he has been allowed to associate with the rather aristocratic English collies that work in the statuary act, and their refining influence and good breeding worked marvels with Jack. George arrived at quarters last Monday from Aberdeen, Md., where he has been working for the Government, and was not dolled up in his good clothes, as usual, at this time of the year. He brought with him a pound or more of juicy steak for his old side pard, none Jack would have aught to do with his former master! In fact, George just managed to save the part of his trousers that wear out the quickest, and he was so mad that the English collies had an unexpected treat, with Jack trying his best to break his chain and finish his intended onslaught. Jack has no master now but the dog boy, and they are not on very good terms.

Two fine-looking, well-dressed gentlemen, checkers on the job, and looking as much alike as two peas in a pod, walked into the paint shop last Monday afternoon and made themselves at home. They were the two famous boat floaters, Whitie Lykens, late of the Downie Show, and Jake Posey. They both looked like ready money and didn't appear to be worrying about an early opening. Walt Gollmar writes a breezy letter to friends of the quarters from Evansville, Wis., that he is enjoying (?) the winter with the thermometer 34 below daily.

Rumor has it that H. S. Rowe and James Patterson are to fit out a ten-car show in the spring to play the territory that Rowe knows so well.—FLETCHER SMITH.

PETE ROGERS APPEALS

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Pete Rogers, an oldtime circus and carnival man, who has trouped with the old Barnum Circus, Yankee Robinson, Sells and Hagenbeck-Wallace shows, is laid up at the American Theatrical Hospital in Chicago and in need of assistance. He would like to hear from any of his friends and former associates with whom he worked, and will appreciate anything they can do for him in a financial way. He has been unable to work this winter, and is in hard straits now.

Wild West Wisdom and Frontier Frivolity

THE CORRAL

By ROWDY WADDY

The following letter just received from Guy Weadick. We are publishing it in detail, as we think he has said a mouthful in regard to the betterment of the Frontier Contest game: "Replying to your letter of recent date, asking about one set of rules to govern all contests, the now famous ladies' hobble stirrup wrangle, etc., etc., I simply say the following is my opinion of the whole thing. Of course, there may be many who do not agree with me, but, nevertheless, I'm sticking to my opinion, because I have come to the following conclusion from actual experience, not hearsay. You may publish this letter or you may not; it is up to you. I'm simply stating what I know to be facts and for the best interest of the Wild West game in general and the Frontier Contest end of it in particular. I think there is a great future for the Frontier Contest, if, first of all, the committees in charge of the various contests get together. If they don't the game is going to die a natural death, caused by irresponsible and inexperienced people trying to put on a contest in every little town and village in the country, and in the end these little jerkwater affairs will become so common that the name Frontier Contest will not stand for anything but a little dinky fourth rate would be Wild West show. If the various managers will get together and form an association, whose members have to be bona fide officers of a committee that is going to have a bona fide contest, no matter how large or small, this association would have rules to govern its members the same as the fair secretaries' associations have, or the same as the various baseball associations have. They could then agree to one one set of rules at all contests, such rules to be decided upon by the representatives of each Frontier committee. The question of judges, purses, guarantees, etc., could all be decided by the association. Dates could be arranged with as little conflicting as possible. Whenever a town wanted to hold a Frontier Contest it would have to join the association and abide by its rules or else contestants who attended contests run by members of the association would be barred from attending a contest whose committee was not a member of the association. In this way the contestant is sure of getting a square deal and the money advertised, because that would all have to be absolutely guaranteed beforehand to the association before the committee could join the association. I really think, owing to the great distances between the various places where contests are held, that it would be a hard job for the different committees to get representatives to one place to meet. So I would suggest that Mr. Cahill, of Cheyenne, Mr. Collins, of Pendleton; Mr. Corcoran, of Ft. Morgan; Tex Austin, of Las Vegas, and Joe Bartles, of Dewey, Ok., be asked to form a committee of five to get in touch with each other and devise ways and means for the organization of a Frontier Contest Committee Association. The reason I mention these gentlemen is because each represents a contest that is a recognized annual event in their respective parts of the country. They are all aware of the evils that exist in the game, and I've seen if they get together and then get every other contest manager who is going to have a contest, whether for one year or each season, they can soon straighten the thing out where it will be the greatest thing that ever happened for committees and contestants alike. At any contest I ever have in the future I'll be glad to use any rules and join any association that may be formed by the gentlemen I have named. Regarding the hobble stirrup riders I'll say this: I know most of the ladies personally and have seen most all of them perform. But I mean the arguments indulged in among themselves thru the columns of The Billboard and also verbally at various contests put the damper on them as a very strong attraction in the future. No matter what any one may tell the ladies, whether they pretend to them they are in earnest or not, I'll tell them that the average bronk rider doesn't like to see them ride, because he claims it cheapens his riding, and, because, when a woman is popped around on a horse with her stirrups tied, it sure looks tame to see a man get up and ride one. These are facts, and I'm telling you what hundreds have expressed to me personally. Some of the girls got overanxious and overplayed their hands when they started out to make a set of rules and say what they would have to get. I think Prairie Lillie Allen it was whose name I saw attached to the letter which appeared in The Billboard with all the whys and wherefores that she and her 'sister' lady bronk riders must have. That is where your big argument started. People outside the business read it and expressed their opinion on it, and from the majority of articles I have read and from what hundreds of people, both in the game and out, have told me I've come to the conclusion that lady bronk riding, whether hobbled or slick, is passe. They don't want it and would rather not have it. As I stated above, these are my opinions, based on what I KNOW. Others can do as they like, that is their business, but at no contest, show or exhibition of a Wild West nature that I have anything to do with will there be lady bronk riders of any description, age, color or nationality, hobbled or slick. There are plenty of other events on a Frontier program that a lady can become skillful and proficient in that will make a bigger hit with the public than ladies riding bronks. I did not always think this, but I sure do now. I think 1919 will be the best year the Frontier game ever had. It's an all-American show, and the sooner all get together and announce their dates early so the contestants can form a regular route the better. Remember the draft has taken many contestants and will take more. Now is the time plans should be announced. With best wishes to your department and all in the business."

Merle Evans, late of the Buffalo Bill-Jess Willard Show, he being the popular band director, is now directing the band with the Gus Hill Big City Minstrels. The show is now to play the larger cities, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago. Mrs. Evans (Little Lou) will join the smoked artists for the city dates. Merle has a collection of real trouping musicians, they forming an assemblage hard to surpass.

Dakota Max and wife were in Jacksonville, Fla., last week, hiring working men and sending them on to their winter quarters in Orlando, Fla., where the Dakota Max Wild West opens this week, with the Johnny J. Jones Exposition.

"In reply to a recent inquiry as to where I am and what I am doing, will say that after closing with the Patterson-Gollmar Circus at Paola, Kan., October 3 last, I immediately joined the Robinson Ten Big Shows. After leaving same in Houma, La., with the Rooney Riding Troupe I spent four days in New Orleans, leaving there for Baraboo, Wis., where Elizabeth Rooney and I were married on November 2. Since then I've been living in Detroit, Mich. The only Wild West folks I've seen since being here were Chet Morris and 'Pollock' Perry. Perry is in vaudeville with a good partner—'Dixie', the trick mule. To those who know me I'll say the single life is all right, but I prefer being married. We send our best regards to all. Would like to hear from Joe Webb, Dakota Max, Jim Eicher, Leonard Stroud, Wattie Robbins and Oklahoma Slim. All mail addressed to me care of The Billboard will reach me."—CARL A. ROMIG, originator and champion bareback trick rider.

John M. Francis—Why so quiet? Drop a line.

Nebraska Bill McDonald—How is the winter troupe?

Fred Collier—A few lines from you.

Edna M. Gardner, formerly Mrs. Jim Kidd and now Mrs. J. W. Hopkins, sends this as the latest. "Question in your issue of January 12, asking who can furnish the names of the performers who were with the Luella Forepaugh-Fish Show. To the best of my knowledge there were very few Wild West performers in the Forepaugh-Fish Show in 1902. The names I partly recall are Kit and May Cody, also the Shooting Savages who did their shooting on the tight wire, Broncho Bob and wife, from Flushing, L. I.; Capt. Marty Horn and wife, Harry Horn being the lecturer of the Wild West department; Jim Kidd and yours truly. There were the many fill-in workers who did not know the game. Out of a bunch of thirty or more only two lady riders and about four or six men made good. The long and short of the story was we were all left sitting on our trunks on the lot on N. Broad street, Philadelphia, wondering why, as most of the fill-ins were working for $4 the week, a few at $8 per week, and the real Wild West riders were getting from $9 to $10 and $15 per week, we were to be cut down. Horn and Kidd claimed they protested against the cut in salaries. The reason I can't give you the names of all is that I had never seen any of them before that date or since."

Tex Austin, Mr. Cahill of Cheyenne, Joe Bartles, Mr. Corcoran, of Ft. Morgan, Mr. Collins, of Pendleton. Let us hear from you, boys, as to what you think of forming a contest association. Send in your views on the matter.

Leonard Stroud—Inquiries as to whether or not you are in the army. Advise us.

Edward T. Boyce, boss lithographer on John Robinson's Advertising Car No. 2 the fore part of last season and later promoted to the No. 1 car in the same capacity, is putting in the winter at St. Joseph, Mo., as route foreman for the Jewel Tea Co. He will again be with the Robinson Show this season, which will make his eighteenth year on the road, during which time he traveled with, besides the John Robinson Circus, Campbell Bros., Gollmar Bros., John Sparks, Hagenbeck's Greater, Hagenbeck-Wallace and Wheeler Bros.

JACK COUSINS

Writes Interesting Letter of His Activities in War to Nobby Clark

Will showmen make good for Uncle Sam? That question has already been answered by the many who have gone to the various camps in the manner in which they have been utilized for peculiar duties. If they have not yet had the chance to show them that they will make good in the fighting sense. A story of service rendered is related in the following letter from Jack Cousins, well known to circus troupers, to his old friend Nobby Clark. You might think it a page from one of the novels of Jack London or Rex Beach, it smacks so of adventure. The letter runs:

New York City, January 30, 1918.

Nobby Clark:

Dear Old Pal—You will no doubt be surprised to get a letter from me. I only just returned from France two nights ago, making seven trips I have made across and back. I see The Billboard all the time so as to keep in touch with the business I was born in, as were my father and mother. I saw your name mentioned in the Showmen's League news in one of the copies of The Billboard I had sent to me, and it set me to thinking of the old times and what we had gone thru together. We have been to the topmost rungs of the ladder and have fallen to the bottom, but we never gave up or took the count.

Well, old man, I joined the Government Transport Service and was listed as a vet., and put in charge of horses and mules for shipment to the other side. I have landed over ten thousand of them so far and I am still alive, altho I've got a hole or two in my legs and a few splinters in my body. Otherwise I am O. K. I have been to the Italian front, and four weeks ago I had breakfast at a campfire where the Austrians were trying to shoot the coffee pot off the fire. I have ridden hurdles and jockey acts over the top of torpedoes. I ran a race—man against horse—around the track (with a submarine playing the horse) for eight miles, but the horse never caught the man. I have been behind the English and French lines, right up at the front, and, believe me, they are some pippins as fighters. They've got the Huns licked to a frazzle. The French don't fear the Germans and the English boys hold them in contempt. In the spring when our boys get into the game (there are a lot of them over there now. A fine bunch of boys, they are, too. I bet they take the first ten thousand over) it will be as easy as chasing a bunch of jack rabbits across the Texas prairies. Any one of them is equal to ten Germans. If they get a chance to break away from their keepers they will be in Berlin before April 1.

Well, old pal, I will be fifty years old February 24, and I passed the exams. for thirty-five. How about it! Some frame. I am as hard as nails, weigh 160 pounds, and am fast and clever on my feet. They found out my correct age from my daughter the last time I was here, and asked me if I would like to have a position on land so I would be able to go and visit her once in a while. This is what I told them: "You are putting fifty thousand cavalry down on the American border. Give me a sergeant's stripes and send me there and I will stay home. But I must be on active service or quit altogether."

Yesterday I was talking to a General, in command of this department in the East, and he knows as many show people as he is like one of us. He told me that any time I felt like going back to the business I could have a six months' lease, but would still be in the service and would be called if needed.

I don't know just when I will go over again, Nobby, as the weather is not favorable right now.

Guess I will call it a day and finish this letter. Give my regards to all who care, and if you see Rhoda Royal, Joe Cousins or Art Eldridge tell them my address and give them my best. With best of wishes to Mrs. Clark and yourself, I remain,

Your old pal and side-kick,
JACK COUSINS.

FAIRS and EXPOSITIONS

FIRST WINTER FAIRS ARE HELD IN FLORIDA

Pinellas County Fair at Clearwater January 23-26 and Lake County Fair at Tavares January 28-February 2 Prove Successes in Every Way

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 8.—The Pinellas County Fair, which had a successful four days' run at Clearwater, closed Saturday, January 26. Notwithstanding the frost and freezes there for the past few weeks the exhibits of field and grove products were even better than those of last year, when crops growing in the open had been subjected to comparatively little cold.

The exhibits in all of the other departments were also far ahead of those of last year, the amusement features being excellent, and everybody who attended the fair pronounced it a great success.

President B. F. Francke, of St. Petersburg, gave two addresses during the fair, and in one told of the purchase of fifteen acres of land adjacent to the county experiment farm near Largo for a permanent home for Pinellas County fairs, on which it is expected suitable buildings will be erected before next year's fair.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 9.—The sixth annual Lake County Fair closed at Tavares after one of the largest and most successful fairs ever held in that county. The fair lasted one week and each day the fair grounds were crowded to capacity. The beautiful weather conditions aided greatly in bringing such a large attendance. Special programs were held for the entertainment of the many visitors.

Bread making, using the wheat substitute, was held by Miss Hoyt, county agent, the process being shown in a modern kitchen on the first floor of the main fair building. Meat substitutes were also served to the people.

Wednesday, which was designated as Negro Day, was largely attended. In a building set apart for their work were specimens of dressmaking, fancy work and manual training, which were significant of the great degree of excellence they are making. Old plantation melodies, negro songs, dialect readings and speeches were given on this day.

Athletic contests were held on Thursday, including running, jumping and pole vaulting contests, and in the afternoon a spelling contest was held. Oratorical addresses by high school students were held in the evening.

The schools of Lake County turned out in a body Friday and a large parade was held.

Nearly every section of Lake County had a display of vegetables on the first floor of the fair building. The various farm products, citrus fruits, canned goods and other products as grown in the lake region of Florida were beautiful in their display considering the recent weather conditions, which for a time threatened the citrus fruits.

The upper floor of the fair building was devoted to displays by women, including handiwork, school exhibits, both vocational and classroom, and many Red Cross hospital garments. Every school in the county was represented and many first prizes were given.

There was an excellent exhibit of poultry and live stock on the grounds, and judging from the fifty coops of fine fowls the Lake County citizens believe in the best of poultry stock. In other parts of the enclosure were live stock exhibits.

There was the usual quota of small shows which follow a fair.

The proceeds from the refreshments sold at the fair were turned over for the benefit of the Red Cross.

ARMY SUPPLY DEPOT

To Be Erected on Keystone State Fair Grounds

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 9.—The Keystone State Fair Association is enjoying a remarkable career. A monster exposition was planned by the directors last year, and prominent men of the State, such as M. S. Hershey, the chocolate king, and D. Norman App, agriculturist, were interested. When the war broke out plans were indefinitely postponed. Recently the Keystone Industrial Association was announced as having taken over the land as a large industrial manufacturing company's site, and last week the government announced details of a monster army supply depot to be erected on the exhibition site. The land has been leased from the Keystone Industrial Association by the government. Over 400 acres of land will be used for the erection of a $13,000,000 supply depot. A veritable city, with hotels, theaters and all conveniences, will spring up in a few months for the accommodation of at least 5,000 workmen who will be employed.

Fair association officials say that the land has been leased for three years, with option of purchase after that time. Plans for the big fair and exposition are therefore postponed until it is learned what the government will do with the land after the three-year lease expires.

HART SUCCEEDS SCOW

As President of Todd County Agricultural Society

Long Prairie, Minn., Feb. 7.—At a recent meeting of the Directors of the Todd County Agricultural Society H. B. Hart was elected to succeed M. O. Scow, who retires after seven years of service as head of the society. G. Holmquist was re-elected secretary and Hal Rammel was made assistant secretary and manager of the society.

During Mr. Scow's seven years in office $15,000 worth of buildings have been erected to house the various departments, the premium list has been doubled, twenty acres of land have been added to the tract owned by the organization, making forty-five acres in all, and the business at the gate has trebled.

The 1918 fair will be held on August 26, 27, 28 and 29. Plans include an increase of $500 in the appropriation for free attractions and $500 increase on the premium list, which will contain two new departments. For the first time in its history the organization's books are clear of debt, with a balance on the credit side of the ledger.

UPPER MICHIGAN CIRCUIT

Upper Michigan has organized a five-fair circuit, composed of Escanaba, Manistique, Newberry, Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette, and arrangements are now being made for booking from six good shows and three rides on a percentage basis. All of these fairs are reported to be moneymakers and should prove big winners for the persons making the circuit.

The Schoolcraft Agricultural Society's Fair is held at Manistique, the 1918 dates being September 17-20. The officials of this association are F. N. Cookson, president; E. H. Jewell, treasurer, and C. E. Kalbfleisch, secretary.

L. C. JONES

Makes Report of Franklin County Fair

L. C. Jones, secretary of the Franklin County Agricultural Society, Ottawa, Kan., sends The Billboard a condensed statement of the receipts and disbursements of the Franklin County Agriculture Society for 1917 as follows:

RECEIPTS

Cash on hand	$ 15.64
From county	856.27
From gate receipts and all other sources	6,528.48
	$7,400.39

DISBURSEMENTS

Premiums	$1,772.85
Free attractions	805.00
Races	2,096.35
Judges and starter	67.60
Printing and advertising	500.12
Insurance	27.41
Band	130.00
Supplies and postage	214.46
Salaries	200.00
Labor and lumber	262.33
Police	62.00
Miscellaneous expenses	422.58
Cash in bank	600.87
	$7,400.39

"You will note that our balance was only $15.64 at the beginning of the year," writes Secretary Jones. "This was our 51st annual fair and we had used up a surplus of $2,000 in the last few years and several years only paid premiums in part. A change in policy making it a four-day fair instead of three days, raising the admission from 25 cents to 35 cents, spending $800 for free attractions, advertising in The Billboard and horse papers, and having something doing every minute the week of the fair, resulted in the above showing of a profit of $600.87, all premiums and bills paid in full.

"Our dates are not positively set for 1918, but think it will be week of September 24. The fifty-second annual fair will be the largest ever. Our plans for this year are free attractions, a great midway, a night show, a great racing program, competitive running races of farm horses from each township in the county each afternoon, the winners from each township in a grand final the last day, with about twenty starters, these in addition to the professional running races."

KANAWHA FARM BUREAU

Rejects Proposition To Organize County Fair

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 9.—The Kanawha Farm Bureau by unanimous vote has rejected a proposition to organize a county fair and racing association, purchase a fair ground, lay out a race track and in the future have racing and professional exhibits as features of the county fair. The bureau decided such features would detract from the agricultural extension department of West Virginia University Agricultural College and also threw cold water on the suggestion to hold race meets. So the bureau will continue giving the same kind of fairs that has been customary in Kanawha County for the last four years.

In the absence of President C. C. Lewis, Jr., Secretary R. H. Wiley, of Malden, officiated as chairman, and W. A. Burgess, of St. Albans, secretary.

WOODFORD COUNTY FAIR

Elects Officers and Fixes Dates

El Paso, Ill., Feb. 9.—The Woodford County Fair has just reorganized with the following named officials, and expects August 27, 28, 29 and 30 to be the biggest fair days in its history: J. J. DeMotte, president; A. E. Fleming, superintendent of privileges; F. C. Nichols, chairman Speed Committee, and Horace E. Baker, secretary.

The 1917 fair was a three-day raceless fair. Heavy rain the last day made a two-day fair of it. The big attraction was Katherine Stinson, aviatrix. This year the association will return to the four-day plan and will resume racing. The association is in its 39th year and has the fastest half-mile track in Illinois, with $15,000 grounds and a new grand stand seating 3,000.

ANNUAL MEETING

Western Canada Fairs Association

While last week's Billboard contained a brief account of the meeting of the Western Canada Fairs Association, held at Calgary January 28 and 29, the following report has been sent the fair department by Secretary W. J. Stark:

"The annual meeting of the Western Canada Fairs Association was held on January 28-29 in the Hotel Palliser, Calgary, Alta. At this meeting five new exhibition associations made application for membership and were allotted dates. In order to meet the growing requirements of the Western Canada Fairs Association it was decided to divide the members into two classes—those paying $10,000 in prizes for utility classes qualifying for Class A and all others being in Class B. The experience of past years has shown that the carnival companies and attractions could not be taken by all the members of the association. The classification as now arranged is intended to permit the Class A fairs to engage such carnival shows and attractions on

RIVERVIEW, CHICAGO, GETTING READY FOR BIG SEASON

Geo. A. Schmidt and Al Hodge Busy All Thru the Winter in Making Improvements and Arranging for Attractions and Concessions for 1918

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Did you know that Chicago has an amusement park which remains open every day in the year—rain or shine, blizzard or cyclone? Never in the history of Chicago has such inclement weather made itself manifest as that which held the city in its grip this winter. Yet this one resort—internationally known as Riverview—is open all the time.

True it is that Riverview announces its season between dates embraced in that part of the year which is usually marked by balmy summer weather. But the season proper is the least of Riverview's work or worry. To the happy throngs who besiege the amusement wonder of the world the summer season is all-important, for then it is that the best attractions the amusement world offers are on display, affording a maximum of enjoyment for a minimum of expenditure—and introducing periods of prosperity for concession holders that few of them had previously deemed possible (unless they were fortunate enough to co-operate with the same exposition in previous seasons).

But to the far-sighted men who compose the personnel of Riverview's directing management the summer season is ushered in when the hardest part of their year's work has been consummated. All thru the dreary winter George A. Schmidt and A. R. Hodge—the men who make Riverview possible—with their eyes turned toward summer, work like proverbial beavers—nor can winter's most inconsiderate blizzards cause them to deviate from their plans, which insure ever added interest in the attractions offered.

"I believe the time for carpenters' hammers to reverberate thru the park is long before the crowds start coming in," explained Hodge, giving an insight into the managerial policy. "Of course this means making concession arrangements when many parks are still idle, under great handicaps and at more than ordinary expense, but it pays in the long run."

The Riverview management sincerely believes the oncoming season will prove the most successful on record—even more so than the record breaking one which Riverview closed last September. The inexpensive amusements afforded by a park of this size, with attractions and comforts catering to all tastes and requirements, are the ideal antidote for worries of wartime. They are willing to gamble heavily on the expectation of this prosperity, and are more particular than ever regarding the caliber of concessions included, because they want to give full value for profits received. The Riverview patrons have been trained to look forward to the best the amusement world affords, and the management realizes the enormity of its task in making each season better than the preceding one.

That's why Riverview now holds the unique distinction of being "the park that's never closed."

NO "TAX PAID" REQUIRED

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 8.—Manager Vogelsong, of the American Coin Register Company, making automatic coin machines for theaters, parks, etc., has received a letter from Congressman J. A. Elston, giving him assurance that the ruling of the Revenue Department requiring the words "tax paid" on each ticket will not apply to registering coin machines which are used for admissions instead of tickets. It is expected that the local collector will rule on this phase of the collection of the admission tax within a short time.

GRIFFITHS & CRANE

Lose Wheeling Park Account Conversion for Building Property

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 9.—Griffiths & Crane, in an amicable arrangement with the West Virginia Traction and Electric Company, canceled their lease on Wheeling Park a few days ago, and the park will no longer be operated as an amusement resort. The rapid growth of the population of this city and the restricted available sites for dwellings rendered the 40 acres comprising the park more valuable to the Traction Company for building purposes than for an amusement park. This fact, combined with a proposed increase of carfare to and from the park were determining factors in the cancellation of the lease, and after a conference of those interested an agreement was reached satisfactory to both the Traction Company and the lessees.

Wheeling Park has been in continuous operation as a pleasure resort for upwards of 40 years, and has always been financially successful, but during the past five years, under the management of Griffiths & Crane, all previous records were broken, both as regards to attendance and the high moral manner of operation. Deep regret was expressed by the community that the beautiful outing place will be abandoned.

Griffiths & Crane are already planning to assume lease and management of other parks, many of which have been offered to them, and their long experience in outdoor amusements gives assurance that they will make as great success in new fields as they have just with in Wheeling and elsewhere.

PLANNING MANY ATTRACTIONS

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Feb. 9.—B. F. Lamkin, manager of Superior Springs Amusement Park, intends to fill the park to the brim this season with all the best in the way of musical comedies, stock and vaudeville, as well as more of the best concessions, of which many have already been booked. The Superior Springs Park is scheduled to open June 1, and to close November 1.

WENONA BEACH PARK

To Appoint New Manager for Coming Season

Bay City, Mich., Feb. 9.—Samuel Ball, manager of the Saginaw-Bay City Railway Company, which operates Wenona Beach Park, will in the near future appoint a new manager of the resort to succeed L. H. Newcomb, who managed the park last year. Wenona Beach usually opens the second week in June and closes on Labor Day, which is the last day of the beach season here.

C. C. SHETTERLY

Lessee and manager of Junction Park at New Brighton, Pa. Mr. Shetterly is in the South this winter, having leased a fine residence at Tampa, Fla. He has his mother, Mrs. D. H. Shetterly, 78 years old, his sister, Ida Shetterly, and little niece, Clare Shetterly, of Franklin, and, as well as Maude Janke, a trained nurse of Indianapolis, with him. He has purchased a new touring car, and when not automobiling can be found hunting or fishing.

BUSINESS MANAGER MILLER

Makes Annual Report of Cincinnati Zoo Gardens

That Cincinnati's civic pride in the Zoological Gardens was awakened by the efforts of the prominent citizens of Cincinnati who saved the beautiful gardens for the public was shown in the annual report last week of Business Manager Charles G. Miller at the regular annual meeting of the stockholders. Even the extraordinary conditions due to the war were overcome by the widespread, new interest in the gardens. As a result there were important additions to the collection of animals, birds, etc., there was an improvement in the appearance of the grounds, the attendance was considerably greater and the highest form of entertainment was possible in the first year of the new management.

Trustees elected at last week's meeting were Mayor John Galvin, ex-officio; Charles P. Taft, August Herrmann, Walter A. Draper, Charles J. Livingood, Alfred Mack and Chas. E. Rembold.

The report of Manager Miller said in part: "It is gratifying to report that during the calendar year 1917 there were 278,757 paid admissions to the Zoo, an increase of 27,434 over the preceding year and, in fact, a very material increase over any year since 1910, with the exception of the year 1915, when 'Cincinnati Week' at the Zoo caused the figures for that year to be only slightly in excess of the figures above shown. It is gratifying to say, also, that the special outings given at the Zoo during the year by various Cincinnati organizations, firms and department stores contributed materially to the total.

"While, of course, not only the high standards maintained, but the pleasing and appealing character of the attractions and entertainment amid such an ideal environment furnished to the patrons of the Zoo the past year were conducive to a large attendance and made a visit to the Garden distinctly worth while, yet it is the belief of your business manager, based on many expressions he has heard, that this pleasing increase was due in a large measure to an awakened civic interest in the Zoo, caused by the noble manner in which it was preserved for the citizens of Cincinnati, who thus had reason to ponder over and recognize anew its great value as a civic asset, and to appreciate more keenly what an irreparable loss would have been sustained had its continuance not been made possible.

"From these figures, gratifying as they are, it must not be assumed, however, that the financial problems of the Zoo are fully met, for as the treasurer's report shows, in common with all enterprises there has been a very large increase in the cost of maintaining and operating the garden, due to the increased cost of food, fuel and labor as well as of all necessary material and supplies. This fact, however, has not resulted in a curtailment of adequate expenditures for proper maintenance and operation or for high-class attractions and educational and entertainment features commensurate with the standards desirable to keep the Zoo a source of pride to our citizens and a place where lofty ideals are inspired.

"Your trustees have given and are giving conscientious consideration to the expenditure of the $125,000 raised by the citizens of Cincinnati for improvements at the Zoo. Plans for various improvements are now being matured, altho for obvious reasons the present is not considered a propitious time for large expenditures in this direction.

"In conclusion, while, of course, the uncertainty now existing due to war conditions makes it difficult to predict just to what extent and how the attendance at the Zoo will be affected, your business manager is proceeding on the theory and is firmly of the opinion that we may look with confidence to the future, for a people in wartime, as at any other time, must have some relaxation and entertainment. In fact, it is essential in order that maximum efficiency now so necessary in the performance of their work may be reached, and where can a clearer vision of and inspiration to perform the great task before us better be secured than amid the ideal environment at the Cincinnati Zoo."

The war gardens conducted by Superintendent Sol Stephan produced good results. Stephan's report also shows that during the year 104 animals, 602 birds and 80 reptiles were added to the collection. Among the animals born at the Zoo were: One lion, two leopards, one camel, two buffaloes, three elk, one zebu and eight deer. A large collection of animals and birds was received from Australia, too late for the summer crowds, as they will all be new to the public this spring. This collection included seven red kangaroos, four giant kangaroos, five wallaroos, two brush-tailed kangaroos, one emu, two giant kingfishers, seventeen phalangers and twelve white cockatoos.

STORMS CLOSE THEATERS

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 7.—A. H. Hackney, proprietor of a theater and owner of the summer resort at Seaview, Wash., says the recent storms have closed all the theaters on the Nahcotta Beach. The Bell Theater at Ilwaco is the only house that is running every day in the beach towns.

WABASSO PARK

Owned by City of Hamilton, Ont.

Hamilton, Ont., Can., Feb. 8.—Wabasso Park is owned by the city and controlled by a park board. A seven-year contract has lately been entered into with the Canada Steamship Lines to furnish up-to-date ferry service between the city and the park, a distance of about one mile and a half across Hamilton Bay. A pavilion was finished late last fall, costing $25,000. The pavilion is built of concrete and steel and consists of open pavilion, lunch counter and dining room on the first floor and a dance hall on the second floor.

The park board has let the contracts for other buildings to be finished early next year.

BOBBY McLEAN WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Chicago Speedster Takes World Title From Edmund Lamy, of Saranac Lake—Two-Day Races

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Bobby McLean, of Chicago, bested Edmund Lamy, of Saranac Lake, in the 440-yard, half-mile pursuit and three-mile pursuit races held here yesterday, taking the world's professional speed skating championship. McLean also had won the day before the 220-yard and mile events, but lost the two-mile event to Lamy.

In the races yesterday McLean took all three races by safe margins. Two weeks ago McLean won over Oscar Mathiesen, the European skater, at Chicago. It was Lamy's first defeat since he retired undefeated after holding the American amateur championship several years to compete in professional races.

Professional Summaries—440-yard, Bobby McLean, Chicago, first; Edmund Lamy, Saranac Lake, second. Time, 0:40. Half-mile, McLean, first; Lamy, second. Time, 1:21 1-5. Three-mile, McLean, first; Lamy, second. Time, 9:00.

In the amateur races yesterday Charles Jewtraw, of Lake Placid, won three of the four races.

Amateur Summaries—440-yard, final, Charles Jewtraw, first; R. Bryant, Lake Placid, second; D. Ambriel, Saranac Lake, third. Time, 0:41 1-5. Half-mile, final, Jewtraw, first; Ambriel, second; R. Hasbo, Saranac Lake, third. Time, 1:32. Three-mile, Bryant, first; Ambriel, second; Hasbo, third. Time, 10:20. Jewtraw fouled Bryant at finish and was disqualified. 220-yard, final, Jewtraw, first; Bryant, second; Hasbo, third. Time, 0:21 4-5.

RINK INSURANCE

The Billboard's skating editor has received the following letter from James A. Tinney, manager of Riverview Rink, Chicago, relative to the item appearing in these columns last week about rink insurance:

"Dear Sir—I saw your inquiry relative to insurance of skating rinks in The Billboard of February 9. We have a very good insurance company writing liability insurance for both our rink employees and patrons. It is the Georgia Casualty Company, Suite 1606, 208 South La Salle street, Chicago, Ill., care T. H. Miner. We have found all adjustments made by them satisfactory."

MAKES HIT AT WARREN

Baby Margaret Chapman received a very complimentary press notice about her engagement at the rink of Manager Everett Mean, Warren, Pa., where she gave an illustration of what a child of ten years of age can do on the roller skates. It was a wonderful exhibition and the entertainment was pleasing as well as instructive to all that attended.

PHILADELPHIA NOTES

The skating game in Philadelphia is thriving, also the only drawback is the lack of rinks. At the present time there is but one rink in the city and it is far from capable of accommodating the enormous crowds which are on hand nightly. It is hoped that next season there will be a real large rink in operation in this city, and if so there is little doubt but what it will enjoy a thriving business. Skating fans are endeavoring to induce Manager Clarke of the Palace Rink to open another rink next year and it is probable that he will consider doing so. Mr. Clarke is a veteran in the roller skating business and knows the game from A to Z. He has met with unusual success wherever he has been and his careful considerate treatment of beginners is said to be responsible for his success. The Palace Rink which he is now conducting is an example of what good management can do and the patrons are delighted with the way in which the Palace is conducted, the only complaint offered is that the rink is not large enough to accommodate the many followers of the grand old sport.

BONNIE LEWIS AT PIQUA

Bonnie Lewis (Mrs. Nelson Barger) during her recent visit to Miss Billie Ruhlman at Piqua, O., gave an exhibition of trick and fancy skating at the rink of H. D. Ruhlman, which more than pleased the fans. Miss Lewis was the recipient of much social attention while in Piqua and a banquet in her honor was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hayes.

NOW DOING A SINGLE

Peggie Bruha is doing a single skating specialty with an act called What Woman Can Do, and she is meeting with success. Miss Bruha is from Milwaukee. She was formerly with the Roy Harrah Troupe.

JOE FORREST MAKING GOOD

Joe Forrest, who for several years was one of the foremost speed skaters in the game, is demonstrating beyond a doubt that it is possible for a racer to "come back." That is, providing he takes care of his physical condition and gets down to business. Forrest came back into the game after an absence of over three years, and from indications he is good for many more starts. At present he is racing in and around Philadelphia and New York and is out with a challenge to race all comers. Forrest is serving with the Marine Corps. His recent races with Billy Marion were the best seen in New Jersey for some time, and on February 12 he meets Charles Kelly, a promising speed skater of Philadelphia. This match will be skated in the Palace Roller Rink in that city and a great deal of interest has been aroused as to the outcome. Kelly has only lost one race this season, and his friends are confident that he can defeat the sea soldier. The men will go over the two-mile route. The result of this contest will be published in The Billboard.

VISITS SAN ANTONIO

Harold R. Walters, former professional skater who is now a mechanician with the Field Artillery stationed at Leon Springs, Tex., paid a visit to San Antonio recently, and visited the Soledad Roller Rink, which has just opened under the management of Clarence Tumlinson. Mrs. Tumlinson is cashier, Eddie McConnell doorman, Eddie Thomas skate man, Mrs. M. Villestingo check room, William McFall floor manager, who claims to hold the Texas championship for fast skating and is willing to meet all comers. Walters says the Soledad is one of the finest rinks he has ever seen. A Wurlitzer organ furnishes the music and there are two sessions daily.

DOYLE TAKES AMATEUR RACE

At the East Market Street Gardens Roller Rink, Akron, O., February 2, Leo Doyle defeated Jimmie Zufall for the amateur championship of Akron. Zufall won the first race at the Main Street Rink two weeks previous to this, Doyle winning the one there at the Gardens, which gave him the championship. A large crowd turned out to see the race which was one of the most exciting ever witnessed in Akron. Zufall took the lead at the crack of the gun and kept it for the first half mile, when Doyle went to the front and held the lead for four laps. Zufall then passed Doyle and the race was fought for the balance of the distance. On the last two laps the boys skated neck and neck and it looked like a dead heat on the home stretch. Doyle, by the hardest kind of sprinting, forged ahead and passed over the line a winner by scarcely a foot. The time was 3:11. Manager Thamann, of the Gardens, announced after the race that he would take both Zufall and Doyle to Pittsburg Friday night to race there against Dillinger and Mackenzie.

SKATING POPULAR

Roller skating has been so popular at Riverview Rink, Hartford, Conn., that Manager Charley Driffin runs skating four nights a week, with dancing two nights. Speed races and fancy skating will be tried out at the rink. Hartford has not had a skating rink in five years previous to the opening of Riverview.

MARVELOUS FRASER WRITES

Marvelous Fraser, professional exhibition skater, writes The Billboard from Quincy, Ill., as follows:

"Skating Editor—Thought I would drop you a few lines, as I am settled down here in Quincy for the winter with my wife and baby. One of the recent acts here playing the Orpheum Theater was Beeman and Anderson, and it is the neatest act I have seen thru here. They went big every night. I had a visit with them one afternoon and we talked over old times when Beeman was playing rinks as a single and I was playing single some eight years ago. I consider Beeman and Anderson the McIntyre and Heath of the rollers."

SPECIAL WEEKLY ATTRACTIONS

The roller skating rink recently opened at Trenton, N. J., is running big, according to recent reports. The management has provided special weekly attractions in the form of carnivals and exhibition skaters. Adelaide D'Vorak was engaged for this week and is giving exhibitions in fancy skating at the night sessions. Saturday mornings at the rink are devoted exclusively to the children. A full brass band plays at all sessions.

RINK NOTES

E. S. Fries (Freezy) is getting to introduce on the market his book on the Real System of Roller Skating, which he expects to be ready for distribution not later than April 1. Freezy says it is not an advertising scheme, but good common sense rink information from the best men in the game. He is welcoming those who wish to contribute something to go in the booklet.

The Skating Macks, after closing a successful engagement for C. M. Lowe at his Palace Rink, Columbia, Mo., were at the Royal Theater, Ashland, Wis., last week for a three-day engagement with another vaudeville appearance at Minot, N. D., to follow the last three days of this week.

Lewis Payne is reported to have found the snow too deep at Dixon, Ill., and closed his rink at that place. Payne is now said to be at Beaver Dam, Wis., at the Hopf Hotel, teaching the natives to play rhum while waiting for the bluebirds to fly.

Lucky Manno, speed skater, formerly of Newark, N. J., is at Kelly Field, Tex., in the aviation section of the regular army.

Everett Mean is managing the rink at Warren, Pa., and opens only for three days each week.

and will develop the resort to every possible way. Among the plans contemplated for next year are a bathing beach and the installation of new rides, etc. The park has every prospect of being developed into one of the most popular in the Province of Ontario.

Last year eighty excursions were booked from Hamilton and vicinity and twenty from Toronto, as the steamers from Toronto call directly at the park. Hamilton being connected with many outside cities and towns and a rich agricultural section of the country by four suburban electric lines, besides having itself a population of about 110,000, being an industrial center, there is little doubt of the success of this, its first venture, in the amusement park field. J. G. Cloke is chairman of the park board and A. F. Kappelle, secretary. The season will open May 24 and close about September 10.

INDIANA TRACTION COMPANY

Has Three Prominent Parks on Its Lines

Anderson, Ind., Feb. 9.—The park system of the Union Traction Company is peculiar to its own lines, one being at Eaton, Ind., known as Riverside Park, a point eleven miles north of Muncie, another known as Mounds Park, three miles east of Anderson, and Broad Ripple Park—the largest on the system—situated on White River at Broad Ripple, Ind., eight miles north of Indianapolis. All of these parks are served by the street railway lines and all of them are outing parks and not strictly amusement resorts.

There is no gate charge to any of the parks, they being entirely free to the public. They are all supplied with standard amusement devices, such as skating, dancing and merry-go-rounds, also boating, roller coaster, etc. Every effort is made by the Union Traction Company to maintain these parks at a high standard. Broad Ripple Park is supplied with probably the largest concrete bathing pool in existence, this being approximately 250x500 feet, with a depth ranging from 18 inches to 8 feet. This pool is supplied by a special water purifying plant, all the water going into the pool being filtered and sterilized.

Monroe Park, operated by the Mobile Light and Railroad Co., at Mobile, Ala., will open its season May 1 and close October 15.

GEORGE WESTERMAN PUTTING OUT SHOW ON MOTOR TRUCKS

Caravan Will Bear Title of Allied Motorized Exposition and Tour New England Territory, Opening April 27—Coulihan and Durkin Book Whip With the Trick

The name of the coming season show which will be under the management of George W. Westerman will be the Allied Motorized Exposition. This organization will tour the New England territory, as have Mr. Westerman's organizations the past two seasons. There is probably not another showman who has been as successful as he in securing the confidence and support of New England committees. Last season the business done by the World of Pleasure Shows, of which Westerman was manager, was really phenomenal, despite bad weather and adverse railroad conditions. The show moved on trains thruout the season at a time when other companies were unable to get movements. The banner stand of the season was Burlington, Vt., where the show played upon the streets in one of the season's most successful dates, the gross business done being in the neighborhood of $10,000.

The Allied Motorized Exposition will travel via motor trucks exclusively. Contracts have already been made for eighteen three and five-ton trucks, and these have been leased for a period of two days each week—Saturday night, Sunday and Monday forenoon. There will be three trucks leased for the season and carried with the show. These trucks will be used during the week for band concerts, and also to transport the patrons of the show from some given central spot to the cities in the show grounds. They will run on a ten-minute schedule. This will be quite an innovation in the outdoor business. Free transportation should prove quite a drawing card. Mr. Westerman emphatically announces that he is heartily in accord with Wm. Judkins Hewitt's exposition propaganda, and will not under any consideration carry illegitimate concessions of any kind, girl shows, '49 camps or athletic shows.

Coulihan and Durkin will again be with Mr. Westerman with their Whip. They are now having auto trailers built to be used in connection with the trucks. All riding devices will be on wagons.

The show will open April 27 in one of the real money spots of New England. The winter quarters of the show, as usual, is Torrington, Conn. Mr. Westerman wishes to call special attention to his large display advertisement, which will appear in the spring issue of The Billboard.

POWERS JOINS HAMILTON

George H. Hamilton and A. A. Powers have formed a partnership and have opened offices in the Gaiety Theater Building, New York, Suite 205, where they will transact business in the interests of the Eastern carnival owners. It is their purpose to serve in an executive capacity. For instance, Mr. Carnival Owner is stuck for a town on account of cancelation at the last minute, or his agent takes sick, or the railroads refuse to handle his outfit, he either wires or phones to these professional expert agents his needs and in double-quick time his wants are taken care of.

While the idea is not new, as Hamilton has been doing this for the past year, still the demand was so great for his services that he realized that he needed help, and, in looking around for someone who was competent, capable, honest and trustworthy and a man who had a national reputation, found it almost a difficult task until A. A. Powers forsook the West and came East. When approached Mr. Powers immediately saw the possibilities, and after he had arranged his other business interests so he could devote his time the pair were not slow in getting out and have already contracted with quite a few of the Eastern showmen to help them this coming season.

This firm will give a luncheon party to general agents this week, and will at that time make themselves plain to them, as there won't be any jealousy resulting, for it is their object to help and not harm them in any manner.

KANELL TO MANAGE GORDON

Dare-Devil Jack Gordon, famous for high dives, last year connected with Wonderland Shows, will this year be under the management of Capt. Wm. Kanell, who is booked with Sam Kaplan Shows, to open in Brunswick, Ga., some time in March. Gordon is now in Beantown and intends to leave for the South soon. Dainty Miss Butler, and hoop-la girl, Mr. Gordon's partner, will be with him again this year.

ANDERSON JOINS CANADIANS

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Charley Anderson, well known in carnival circles, who worked the State Fairs last year, has left Chicago for Toronto as a member of the Canadian army. Anderson was determined to see service, despite the fact that he is three years above the age allowance of the American army, so he decided to "strafe the Kaiser" by the Canadian route, where the regulations are somewhat more lenient.

"WAR-SAVING STAMPS mark an epoch in our NATIONAL LIFE."—Secretary McAdoo.

ROBERTS' UNITED SHOWS

Albany, Ga., Feb. 9.—The past week, with its summer weather, has made the feet of all troupers around here begin to itch, and one day the thermometer climbed to 88 degrees, putting new life into the hustle and bustle at winter quarters. The folks are beginning to arrive, and many have announced their intentions of arriving during the coming week.

Mr. Roberts took a flying trip last week and purchased a ferris wheel, which will arrive in a few days. H. H. Bain, who will be the general agent this season, and who was with the Murphy Shows last season, has arrived and will immediately take to the road. Chas. S. McCarthy, last season secretary for the Brown Greater Shows, has been engaged in the same position with the Roberts Shows, and arrived this week to take up his duties. Rosa Clark is back from a trip to Florida, and is busy overhauling the cookhouse. John Ewell reports the bandmen arriving. The Side-Show is completed and is a beauty—100-foot top and front with a real show inside. Mr. Corey has signed up with his untamable lion act, Garden of Allah and long-range shooting gallery, and is expected to arrive soon from Jacksonville.

Besides having his attorney, Ernie Adamson, at the meeting of the Georgia Railroad Commission February 21, Mr. Roberts will also be on hand, as should every showman who can possibly get here.

On the staff of the Roberts Shows, besides those mentioned above, will be R. B. Braden, legal adjuster, and Whitey Masenheimer, lot man. Several new ones to be added within the next few days.—W. T. S.

LEGAL INSTITUTION

Is San Antonio Pals' Club, District Court Judge Decides

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 9.—The San Antonio Pals' Club is a legal institution, according to a far-reaching and deep-studied decision handed down here by Judge of the District Court. The decision came after five days of examination, and was written by a Judge of many years' experience and an authority in the State of Texas. Several weeks ago an injunction was served on Big Chief Pal Jacum Hathaway prohibiting the sale of liquor pending a decision on the legal status of the club. In his decision the judge went into the matter very carefully and declared that as long as the club abided by the rules adopted by the clause in its charter it was strictly within the letter of the law of the State of Texas, and as such he dissolved the injunction. It was a most decided victory for the Pals, and again opens the door of fraternalism to those of the show world who in a strange land seek the companionship of their kind. The Pals' Club is strictly for showfolks, and such will find at all times a cheery welcome in San Antonio. The playground of the Southwest for showfolks is not an outlaw institution, but, with the stamp of judicial approval, it is open for the amusement of all those who amuse others. Pals' nite will again be the every Thursday night event.

As a sendoff Walter Stanley and wife, who went to New Orleans Wednesday morning to assume the managerial reigns of the Wortham & Rice caravan, now in winter quarters there, were tendered a banquet. It was a big affair, altho prepared hurriedly. There were music, dancing, wine, refreshments and an exhibition of that companionship of humanity nowhere so well exemplified as among showfolks.—C. M. CASEY.

READY TO START

C. A. Wortham Shows Open Preliminary Tour This Week

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 9.—The clans are gathering. Showfolks of every description who are going with the C. A. Wortham Company for the winter tour are arriving and the winter quarters is a busy place. The train will leave here February 12, and the show will open at Laredo February 14, closing February 24. There is no place for the laggard at "Worthamville."

Donald McGregor, the Scottish giant, and Baby Alma, the Australian giantess,) have joined the Wortham forces and will be on the winter tour. Baby Alma is not a "fat girl"—she is the biggest chunk of femininity ever on tour—she is 6 feet, 10 inches, and weighs 558 pounds, and she is just 16 years of age.

C. A. Wortham is at New Orleans with Manager Stanley and General Agent W. H. Rice. He will return here shortly. When he does he will find everything ready to load on the train and the train in shape to move. Homer Jones has arrived from Kansas City and is ready for the trip, while the writer goes ahead to blaze the way for the short tour. Capt. LaDare departed for New York this week, where he will superintend work on his new attraction. According to LaDare, it will be an attraction that will prove a sensation in the outdoor show world. J. J. Bejano is here completing his new attraction, and, from every indication, Bejano will have another that will prove a big popular feature. A. D. Murray's Land of Arc is going to be another sensation. J. T. Backman is preparing to present an animal show that will prove a distinct departure from former years, and Essie Fay and her co-workers are working day and night on a new program.—C. M. CASEY.

RUTHERFORD GREATER SHOWS

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 8.—Everything is progressing very nicely at the Rutherford Greater Shows' winter quarters, located in the land of sunshine for the first time in its history, at Ocala, Fla. From the appearance of the grounds the paint has been flying fast, according to Manager H. B. Polack, who paid a visit to the quarters the other day. Mr. Kelly has completed the wagon front for the Submarine Diving Girl Show, which is to be one of the many features with the company. Mrs. Webb has entirely repainted and papered her big Circus Side-Show, and received new canvas. Mr. Isabella will again have charge of Mrs. Webb's show and reports having engaged several high-class attractions. T. W. Kelly has completed the Edna Show. Said he would positively not allow anybody to laugh at him again, so he has completed an A-1 platform show. Ira Watkins paid a visit to winter quarters and closed contracts with Mr. Polack to furnish the drome.

Several of the people connected with the Rutherford Shows are taking advantage of the wonderful fishing, hunting and bathing at Silver Springs, which is located about ten miles from Ocala.

Among the many recent visitors at the Pittsburg offices were William Glick, Lou Friedman, Frank Schueck, Frank Balch, "Governor" W. L. Irwin, M. B. Golden, Milton Holland, John S. Holland, James T. Clyde and Joe Paige.—AL.

RUBIN & CHERRY SHOWS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 7.—While it is a little early to give the line-up of shows and attractions for the 1918 season, and as the writer has mentioned winter quarters and the work around there a number of times, it would not be amiss to say a few words in regard to the way the Rubin & Cherry Shows will be handled this year, both front and back. The advance will be in the hands of one of the best representatives in the game, when it comes to handling committees. He has just closed a deal for one of the early towns, which will long be remembered in the annals of contracting. The show proper will be under the direct supervision of Rubin Gruberg. "System" is the watchword, and Mr. Gruberg not only demands it, but insists upon it. There is probably not a manager in the game who is more particular regarding the general appearance of fronts, wagons, cars and everything connected with the outfit. His paint arsenal is probably more than equal to any show on the road.

David Christ, who owns and controls the three rides carried by the R. & C. caravan, is still in York State, but will arrive shortly with his family, ready to start. Roberti's Dog, Pony and Monkey Circus will be here soon from New Orleans. This will be the feature attraction again this year.

The business staff for this season will be as follows: Rubin Gruberg, owner and manager; W. S. Cherry, general representative; Frank S. Reed, secretary-treasurer, and L. B. Van Diver, concession manager.—FRANK S. REED.

JONES' DIXIELAND MINSTRELS

Johnny J. Jones' Exposition has not had a minstrel show with it for two years, but Mr. Jones has decided to put on a neat "nigger" show, starting at Florida State Fair and Exposition at Jacksonville February 26. It will not be one of the commonly called plantation shows. Mr. Jones' idea is to give a performance equal to any witnessed in high-priced, first-class theaters, and the added feature will be a solo band, known as Johnny J. Jones' Jolly, Joyous, Jingling Jazz Jammers.

RATCHFORD HORSES

A Feature of the Wortham & Rice Caravan

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 7.—The famous Ratchford horses, under management of Arch Johnstone, will be one of the features with the Wortham & Rice Caravan season 1918. There will be plenty of other features, and they will all be of the kind that will make the organization one of the strongest and most meritorious on tour. The Water Carnival will be the big feature, and, according to those in charge, it will be on a scale never before attempted in any department of the show world. Answers to a recent advertisement in The Billboard have practically swamped the office. Many of the best attractions in the country have been offered the management. The letters contain some of the most original, as well as sensational, ideas that can be made practical, and that, if presented with a company, would prove revolutionary in the carnival world. The company last year known as the Wortham Greatest Shows, will, when the time comes for opening, be equipped with a line of attractions that will make it one of the new top organizations that is bound to win on merit.

General Manager Walter Stanley is on the job at New Orleans, and his years of experience is being utilized to whip into shape a mighty organization of entertainment. And to make the going all the stronger C. A. Wortham puts his personal guarantee behind the enterprise. With a man of the caliber of Harry Potter ahead of the show it is certain that excellent time will be booked, and, with the added incentive of "Bill" Rice, what more could any amusement manager ask or show owner desire?—C. M. CASEY.

GREAT WORTHAM SHOWS

Kent, Wash., Feb. 7.—Members of the Great Wortham Shows are daily receiving letters from the East and reading newspaper accounts of the terrible blizzards and extremely cold weather that is prevailing thruout most of the United States, while during the same period the thermometer here has not been down to freezing one time. This section is having its full share of rain, but the floods are over. However, so many people on this show have in former years trouped with Bill Rice and his Water Show that a little wetness does not bother them, and they have decided that swimming is preferable to snowshoeing. During the present crisis this section of the country is truly fortunate. It has no coal shortage, no shutting down of factories, and no curtailment of electric current.

Work is progressing rapidly in winter quarters. Repairs are now completed on the train and the force has started on the wagons and the building of the new shows, which will be featured in 1918.

General Agent Harry Noyes made a flying trip to the Coast, and, with Manager Beckmann, attended the meeting of the Pacific Coast Fair Managers at New Westminster, B. C. The consensus of opinion at the meeting was that never in the history of the circuit did any show ever give the general satisfaction that the Great Wortham Shows did last year, and Messrs. Beckmann and Noyes brought back with them the contracts for 1918. A wire from Barney Gerety states that he will be here in a few days unless called in the next draft.

Reports from Mrs. Katherine Bowen, who went to Phoenix, Ariz., about four weeks ago on account of serious illness, states that she is rapidly improving, and will soon be able to rejoin the Great Wortham.

Hundreds of Elks in show business who know Fred Beckmann will be glad to learn that after going so many years without joining any secret order he was initiated in Seattle Lodge No. 92. Treasurer J. A. Schneck was there to see that he got all that was coming to him.

EVANS WITH HILL'S MINSTRELS

Merle Evans, for many seasons with the S. W. Brundage Shows, and later with the 101 Ranch and the Buffalo Bill-Jess Willard combination, directing the band with each of those organizations, is now dodging automobiles, drays and laundry wagons every day at noon as the Gus Hill Big Minstrel parade passes down the lanes of the smaller towns and the streets of the bigger cities, this "corked" outfit playing them all and making good. Merle joined the "sixty big" at Jacksonville, Fla., during the early part of January, his band at this writing being one of the best balanced and fastest stepping minstrel bands on the road. When it moves along it certainly gives "some demonstration" to the natives.

Buy War-Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps and save this country not only from the vice of extravagance, but save for it the greatest heritage of all times—that priceless treasure of liberty and democracy.

JOHNNY J. JONES

Secures Underground Chinatown

Johnny J. Jones announces that W. B. Adams has booked his Underground Chinatown with him, but on account of the immense amount of detail work in constructing this attraction it will not be in readiness to open until the Florida State Fair and Exposition, to be held at Jacksonville for two weeks, starting February 26. This attraction depicts actual life and scenes of the once famous sight of the Barbary Coast of San Francisco. Some thirty people are necessarily employed to make a correct and proper presentation.

GREAT WHITE WAY SHOWS

Columbus, Ga., Feb. 8.—Preparations in winter quarters are assuming a new aspect, with every department in full operation, especially the painters, who are using the white paint in every nook and corner to uphold the name of the aggregation. C. M. has purchased a 20-k. w. Eli electric light plant from J. T. Todd & Son, which will add greatly to the illumination of the midway. He has also purchased two new shows, which are now under construction in New York City. In regard to the shows C. M. says he is not going to keep them up his sleeve. They are Over There and Over the Rapids.

Ed King, the long-range shooting gallery man, made arrangements with the company for the exclusive soft drink parlor, which will be a piece of beauty, finished in white enamel, with bronze trimming. Mr. Shaffer also has made a brand new and very nobby cigaret shooting gallery. Harry C. Hayes and Roy Duncan, concessioners, are also booked with the Great White Way. Mr. Banks and Mr. Atkins will soon be on their way back to winter quarters. A. W. Ludka, nephew of C. M. and former manager of the B. P. & S. Lunches in Detroit, has arrived and is remodeling one of the cars for a dining car. He will also have the "hotel" on the lot.

C. M. is optimistic about the 1918 season, and is sparing no expense to beautify the midway. Mrs. John Wallace has purchased a new khaki tent, 20x100, for her pit show, and also some new banners. Mr. McAbbie has signed up as general agent. Frank Angel has arrived in winter quarters, and is busy getting the Jubilee Minstrels in shape. This makes his fourth season with this aggregation.

All the private cars are being painted Pullman green, trimmed in white, the same as last season. The weather here has been anything but pleasant—lots of wind and plenty of rain. Should any troupers come this way the management would be pleased to have them call. The show opens here March 16.—BINGO.

SUBWAY CENTRAL BUILDING, NEW YORK.

EVERY OUTDOOR SHOWMAN should get to Chicago for the big doings.

C. G. GREGORY and Mrs. Gregory are in Norfolk, Va., for the present.

H. E. POTTER sends his regards to all from Brownsville, Tex.

W. DAVID COHN is some agent and has booked a big one for the C. A. Wortham in Brownsville.

W. A. KING has them a lot for the outdoor showman.

COL. WILLIAM WESTLAKE is still on the Pacific Coast.

JOE RACKARDS will some day be one of the biggest men in Arizona.

DR. B. E. HANNEFOURDE—Are you coming to the meeting in Chicago?

ST. LOUIS seems to be awfully still this winter.

J. C. WODETSKY—How did you get lost?

ROBERT C. NEWCOMB returns this season as a talker.

BABA DELGARIAN is listed for an all new and original show.

DAVID LACHMAN—We have many inquiries for you.

HARRY LEWIS is requested to speak for publication.

GEORGE N. D. HENNESSEY is expected to be on the front of a big Wild West.

PERRY THIBEAU will be on one of the ticket boxes.

"down on the farm" up in Connecticut. It turned out just the way you said it would, Friend Davis.

HARRY YOUNG—Where is the Plantation Minstrel Show of yours playing? How are you, anyway? It has done a long time since you were heard from.

NO ONE in the outdoor show business has yet set a standard or pace that can not be successfully maintained. The "ideal" organization has not yet been remotely approached.

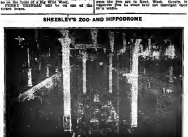
A. D. MURRAY, Mrs. A. D. Murray, Andy Carson, Al Latto, Mrs. Al Latto, James McNulty and a whole lot of others. What are you all doing in Chicago, and where are you going when the season opens? Going to be at the ball?

GEORGE CALLIHAN hasn't done much this winter to keep Abilene, Kan., on the map. Why not something from the original home town of C. W. Parker?

WHAT'S THIS? Parker's Greatest not going out this season! And after that announcement, too. Why, C. W.? Many inquiries for you in New York this winter. Let the world know who your big city representative is—it might help a little.

BARNEY S. GERETY—You are not forgotten even tho you are in Kent, Wash. Gerety, it behooves you to come into the limelight once in a while.

SHEESLEY'S ZOO AND HIPPODROME



Interior view of the Zoo and Hippodrome which J. M. Sheesley, general manager of the Greater Sheesley Shows has in operation at Norfolk, Va. It can truthfully be said that the venture has proven a grand success for Captain John.

ARTHUR HOFFMAN—Speak for publication.

H. J. WILLIAMS—What circus this season will you be in advance of?

TEXAS WILL SOON be in the throes of a mighty invasion, as will Florida.

THOMAS F. CUNNINGHAM will show up at a number of the Eastern doings.

WALTER K. SIBLEY is in Florida.

C. GUY DODSON is going to have a big and meritorious organization.

W. J. KEHOE will again qualify as a press agent who can and does tell the truth about the show he represents.

F. PERCY MORENCY—We hear a lot about you of late. Same place and making good?

BEN KRAUSE will spring a surprise soon.

GEORGE S. MARR will soon make some noise from Mt. Olive, N. C.

NEW MACHINERY—The Progressive Toy Company, of which Joe End and Mike Friedman are the leading spirits, has installed new machinery in its new plant in New York. The addition looks like the firm is getting ready for an entirely new "doll" novelty.

F. A. GILMAN states that he will have several of the Parker monkey speedways in parks and expositions around New York the coming summer.

A. A. POWERS and George H. Hamilton have a new idea that they are going to bring out shortly from their New York office. It has all the earmarks of being a winner.

WONDERLAND SHOWS—George M. Bistany says be patient. He is framing up just the very best and is getting some of the best dates. He wants all that might in any way be interested in his labors to keep their eyes peeled for his advertisements that are to appear from time to time in The Billboard.

IF YOU have not fully decided on your plans for the coming season it is about time now for you to get busy. The season is nearly ready to open. You will move all right. Don't worry about that.

E. A. WARREN passed thru New York en route from Fitchburg, Mass., to Pittsburg. It looks like he will be press agent for Polack Brothers this year.

WASHBURN BAND. Antonio Olivelo will furnish the band for the Leon W. Washburn Shows, which will be under the management of J. W. Brownlee.

PLANTSVILLE, Charles O. Davis—The boys on Broadway want to know just how things are PIONEERS WANTED. Don't be afraid, outdoor showmen, to be pioneers. Every herd she to have a bell cow to lead it to green pastures. You are all sort of tame in neglecting to get that "new idea" outdoor amusement exposition. It will in time prove to be the best yet. Some man is going to do it and do it right. You will find out in time. Why not be the first?

J. GEORGE LOOS and Fred Faber—How is that International concession bazaar doing in Waco, Tex.? Where is William Young? Is he there, too? Getting back to the concession bazaar. That is a great idea. The writer called Dick Collins' attention to its possibilities some seasons ago and it was thought at that time he was going to have one with the World at Home. If you want the full details of this idea just write and it will be given you in full in these columns. One for all, all for one. It's a big top idea right in the center at head of the midway. Now, who wants it?

J. H. FITZPATRICK—Tell us how the concert tour is. Are you going to be in the outdoor field this season? Fitzpatrick, all the boys would again like to have you tell them the story about "Dear Old Hadley" and the wilds of Canada. That story about how Medicine Hat got its name was a dandy, etc.

CON T. KENNEDY has a dandy story to tell about the Englishman at one of the exhibitions in Western Canada offering to get him a stimulant. Get him to tell you the next time you see him.

HAS PASSED—The strictly speaking "ballyhoo" show has passed, but you can not get the average outdoor showman to see that it has. It is not good business policy to change a thing until you have a good substitute for it. Regarding the ballyhoo show, you have the logical substitute, so make immediate use of it. If you do not know what it is we will tell you in plain words if you want to know.

LOOKS LIKE the World at Home Shows are going to be a big organization of independent shows with independent showmen managing it. We venture that W. A. Sanges and Omar Sami are among those who will figure in the pie.

JAMES T. CLYDE, when in New York recently, was bombarded by showmen, riding device operators and concessioners at the Elks' Club. With all that he seemed to keep his equilibrium in a most placid fashion.

THIS IS good. Adolph Seeman tells this one about Thomas A. Edison, the great inventor;

IT IS A PROVEN FACT
That the OPTIMIST is growing more popular with the Ride and Carnival men each month. F. L. Flack, President and Manager of the Northwestern Shows, says: "The OPTIMIST is today the classiest little trade paper that I know of; may it always continue as such." Henry V. Gehm, President of the Venice Transportation Company, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "The OPTIMIST is a very newsy and neat issue and is everything its name implies. I sincerely hope it may continue to bring optimistic thoughts to its readers." The Amusement World knows F. L. Flack and Henry V. Gehm as men of prominence among amusement men. Rest assured that both of these gentlemen have read copies of the OPTIMIST and know whereof they speak. Ask us for a copy of the January and February, 1918, numbers and see what others say of it. After you have read these copies thoroughly, if you wish it, we will place your name on the regular mailing list. Remember, the OPTIMIST will be mailed you free each month, if you are interested. If you see it in The Billboard, tell them so.

Some years ago Edison received the news that a cobalt mine had been discovered in some place in Alabama. So he got on the train and went down there. Hired an old rickety team at the station and started to find the man that had discovered the mine. On the road he met an old darky and, following his usual practice of propounding questions, he started to fire questions at the darky in this fashion: "How's crops?" "Got a big farm?" "Folks all well?" "Been living here all your life?" To the latter the old fellow replied: "Not yet." This brings to mind at a recent meeting of the Showmen's League of America, New York Branch, at which time one of the members asked Edward C. White, the secretary, if they had enough money in the treasury, to which White replied: "Not yet, we have a long life in front of us." We may add that the fund is growing every day.

REMEMBER THE old minstrel? I had a dream the other night, a dream that made me shiver. I saw a catfish for a fish and a shad row up the river. James J. Armstrong had a dream the other night that he was out looking for some circus acts, and, realizing that as all the circus men were registered at the Showmen's League Clubhouse, New York Branch, he started out to look for it. Not remembering the exact address on Sixth avenue he started north from the Hippodrome. Unable to locate the league he started to do a little "sky gazing," and his eyes fell on the largest service flag he had ever seen. There were some ten thousand stars in it and he said to himself that must be the Showmen's League place. He went there and found that he was right in his surmising. This brings out a suggestion offered by Adolph Seeman, who must have been talking to Armstrong. Seeman proposed that every showman in America contribute ten cents to buy such a service flag as Armstrong described in his dream, and that it be hung in front of the Showmen's League. We add one in Chicago and one in New York in front of the Showmen's League headquarters. Let's do it. Who is doing his "bit" any more than the showman in this world conflict? Who will start it? John B. Warren, bring it up at the next meeting in Chicago, and someone will do the same thing in New York.

IN SPEAKING OF a certain man in the outdoor show business in the office of The Billboard in New York the other day a concessioner said: "As a man to go out and book towns and fair dates he is supreme, but as a manager 'back on the lot' he is 'Major' General John Bumble in all his glory." Moral—Every man to his own calling.

THE WRITER claims all credit for suggesting that the Showmen's League of America, New York Branch, be opened on the fifth birthday of the Showmen's League of America, February 12, 1918.

VICTORIA ATTRACTIONS, welcome back season 1918. Harry Witt is going right ahead with his plans. The world and the outdoor show business goes on. The office will be in the Times Square district, New York.

J. GOLDIE has left New York for a long Western trip. First stop, Erie, Pa., where he called on J. W. Fleming, of the Erie Exposition, and Charles E. Ferigo, the aviation man. There is something doing. Watch.

SUCCESS, as the name of an independent show made up of unusual novelties, would be a big hit, says William J. Hilliar. We add, why not one about this time called "Optimism?"

MANY CHANGES, consolidations and combinations are now being perfected in the outdoor show world. We want to know how "Nothing and Nothing" can combine and become "Something."

TENTS WANTED like Thompson & Vandiver once turned out from their shops in Cincinnati. Material, workmanship, and knowing just what showmen wanted made that firm famous.

MADE-IN-AMERICA trades exposition is not a bad idea for some live showman to develop after the conflict.

UNIVERSAL AMUSEMENT exposition is not a bad title. It's yours, take it.

E. J. AUSTIN—Give us a scenic spectacle, entitled Earth's Creation and Destruction. It will hit those with the creative and destructive natures alike. What do you say? Well, let's have it.

MAX KUNKELEY'S Society Circus is a great idea. Get Kunkeley to show you how to do it. If you are looking for something new here it is. You will find him at the plant of Foster, Stewart & Company, Brooklyn.

WHAT BECAME of the Cherry Sisters of the "carnival" world? How would they do for a pit show attraction? Answer!

WE THINK we have at last gotten rid of all the moral and refined ferris wheels. Thanks to the Big Eli Bridge Co.'s new ticket booths. Another step forward. Moral—Those that have by any possible oversight "moral and refined" painted on their ferris wheels, will they be so kind as to paint them out? How can a steel structure be moral and refined is what we want to know? Thanks, awfully, for your attention to this.

COL. MAURICE LAGG came into New York from Jacksonville a few weeks ago. Plans for coming season in the making. Called at The Billboard office.

HARRY DUNKLE is operating a monkey speedway in one of Cleveland's department stores.

W. H. DAVIS arrived in New York recently. He is now in the big city in much abundance, after coming from Havana, Tampa, Jacksonville, Orlando, Chicago, Memphis and other points. He will be one of the big showmen with Johnny J. Jones the coming season. He has abandoned his plan to take out a dramatic show under canvas the coming season. He talks about a big illusion pit show with the Jones Amusement Exposition. It is more than talk.

RALPH FINNEY is back in New York after a trip in the interest of the Williams Standard Shows.

MADAM MARANTETTE, equestrienne, is at her farm in Mendon, Mich. Altho she is 78 years young she is ready and willing to compete against any horsewoman for any amount, in high jumping and manege riding, says Tex McLeod. She will be with Tex and Emily Stickney in one of the big parks the coming summer.

HARRY D. MORLEY is in New York at present.

OVER THE TOP is a new idea the writer will give to whoever wants it. A man like H. F. Maynes or J. W. Zarro could build it to perfection, and don't forget W. E. Isshaw either.

JOSEPH G. FERARI promises to bring back the Great London Ghost Show in the right and proper manner in which it should be.

CLEANLINESS AND DETAIL, as displayed around the shows like J. C. Sturgis' Volcano, J. E. Morris' Trilby, Fred B. Holmes' Girl From Up There and John H. Shields' Lunette, is something really worth while for the present day independent showmen. All will remember how neatly the "tops," banners, fronts, awnings and general equipment was kept and put up. How the seats were arranged and how showmanlike the performances were given. Get next to yourselves, present-day independent showmen. Sometimes, yes many times, the shows mentioned would take in as much gross as everything around them combined.

HARRY HOUDINI could frame a wonderful show under canvas. Who will get him? A small vanishing elephant as the feature, with the submarine chest and all that. Just think of it. Moral—Get Harry Houdini back in the outdoor show business. How his name would draw. Yes, verily.

CAPTAIN A. M. BARBER and Captain Louis Sorcho—What is that new show? Looks like something well worth while. You will get it in time and it will be worth noticing.

WE HAVE GOT TO get some new talent, faces and things in the outdoor show field, and we must get them before the season opens.

PLENTY OF MONEY is now available for the man who wants to really do some big things. This is the age and has been for some time for big things. Takes men who can broaden their visions to do big things, however. Some will announce the engagement of some things as features that have been before the public since Hector was a very small dog, by Heck.

"NEW IDEA WORLD at Home Exposition." Will it be that in the hands of the independent showmen? We think yes. Some one is going to do it, it might just as well be them.

GEORGE T. McCARTHY—You are on the list for a new independent show?

STELLA, WHERE are you? Eddie Vaughan—This season would be a good one to give us that bungalow style of outfit for "Stella." Yes? No? Well, what then?

NEW IDEA means fully co-operative, and if not so it is not "new idea," but the same old rut, same old shows and same old rank and rabid management.

JOSEPH E. ORI and Charles Ori, of the Pneumatic Air Calliope Company, of Newark, N. J., visited Broadway recently and were much pleased with the present season's outlook. Air calliopes for the Barnum & Bailey Circus, Santos & Artigas Circus, Al G. Barnes Circus, Ringling Brothers' Circus, Sells-Floto Circus, Johnny J. Jones, Leon W. Washburn and many others have kept the factory busy for many months. Every outdoor show should have a machine like the pneumatic men send out. Get one. Write today.

WILLIAM GEORGE EVERETT has had so many offers for his illusion pit show that he doesn't know which one to accept. We guess that he will be with the Smith Greater.

MAURICE LAGG is a most intelligent and convincing agent. He drives his points over in well chosen and concise words. He talks strictly business to committees. He has an ideal idea for an amusement exposition to play around New York with.

PIONEERS ARE VENTURERS. Some things at best are ventures. But who is it who has not ventured who has gained anything in this world? Hit or miss and stand the consequent criticism. Better to try and fail than never to have tried. Don't fold your hands in abject silence and inertia and then expect to get some place—for you won't. Try some new shows for season 1918. You might strike a ten-time winner, which would be worth all the sleepless nights you put in planning it. Fear not to make a substantial investment. The outdoor field wants to be conquered. You do it.

BEAUTY AND BEAST is a new idea for an illusion wall show that is clean, entertaining and will be a money maker. A wagon, a big glass, some electric fixtures, some current, some lions, a cold show woman that is a good-looking woman, a good talker and a swell art banner, moving staircase and some showmanship and you are on the right track with "Beauty and Beast." Get it, you show constructors. Here is another name for it: "Miss Daniel in the Lion's Den." It's yours.

EVERY YEAR the same equipment under a different name, with a different manager, is not necessarily a new organization of merit and magnitude as some owners think. Oh, we are progressing all right.

PLATFORM PIT SHOW. One like Alfred T. Holstein had some years ago could be revived successfully. A trained and talking horse was one of the pit attractions. It was an open-front show and framed up swell. Let's have a platform pit show of half dozen pits or so.

MRS. WILL H. HILL is playing successful vaudeville engagements around New York with her Society Circus. Will is a busy man also.

SLOUGH OR DISMANTLE. W. H. Davis was in North Battleford at the exhibition last summer and it was Saturday afternoon. The secretary was walking by and Davis said: "If there are no people on the grounds at 3 o'clock I am going to 'slough.'" The secretary said: "No, you can not 'slough.'" Davis then said: "Well, then I will dismantle." To which the secretary replied: "It's all right to dismantle, but you must not 'slough.'"

IMPORTANT!!! SHOWMEN!

No. 1—THROUGH THE TRENCHES

A light, compact, portable, authentic reproduction of the Great War Trenches, consisting of a section of the captured Hindenburg concrete trenches, with dugouts, machine gun pit, crevices, fighting top, trench periscopes, etc. A series of underground tunnels and a section of the Allied front line trenches, just as it is "over there." A Walk Through Show that proved its worth at Toronto, Danbury and Hero Land, N. Y.

No. 2—"OVER THE TOP"

A mechanical Grind Show, reproducing all the thrills of a trip in a British TANK, "over the top," with realistic effects of a machine gun in action, jarring and jolting of advance, and the screaming climax when "she" goes "over the top." A repeater because it really thrills.

No. 3—UNDERGROUND CHINATOWN

Another Walk Through Show, faithfully reproducing all the weird and interesting sights of San Francisco's Chinatown as it was before the great fire and the days of reform. Showing the opium dens, gambling holes, joss house, secret tunnels, slave girls, etc.

WORTHAM BROS.' SHOWS

To Carry About Sixteen Attractions—H. M. Dempsey Superintendent

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 7.—All the optimistic showfolks are not located at San Antonio. From far-away Phoenix, where the Wortham Bros.' Shows are getting ready for the summer tour, comes a letter from Manager H. M. Waugh breathing the sweet breath of cheer and hope. The future thru the territory that will be toured by the shows looks rosy to Waugh and Hofer. They are going to take a caravan with them that will be made up of about sixteen attractions—attractions that will please official and patron—and, with the ability ahead and back that is on the organization there ought to be a nice profit at the end of the season.

H. M. Dempsey, formerly of the C. A. Wortham Company, is superintendent with Waugh and Hofer, and, according to reports, is proving a "find" in that department. Every piece of paraphernalia in any way connected with the aggregation is being put in first-class shape. Special Agent R. C. Elgin is working the opening stand—Phoenix—on the down-town streets, and reports say he is getting some nice promotions.

The Trained Animal Show will be one of the big features, as will Underground Chinatown and Witching Waves. The latter is not a ride, but a new idea of Waugh's that he declares will prove a good moneygetter. Josephine Fleming, the diving Venus, is on the job getting ready, and so is Carrier with May Joe. Also there will be a Hawaiian Village of eight performers and a Jungleland Show second to none in the country. Harry Hofer, general agent, is closing some nice contracts.—C. M. CASEY.

ALLEN HERSCHELL COMPANY

North Tonawanda, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Concessionaires and amusement park managers will be interested in learning of the organization here of the Allan Herschell Company, Incorporated, a corporation founded for the purpose of manufacturing carousels, merry-go-rounds and park amusements. The incorporators are Allan Herschell, John Wendler and F. W. Fritschie, all of the Tonawandas, and for many years identified in the manufacture of carousels and other amusement devices. The notable feature of the enterprise is the return to business of Allan Herschell, whose name is familiar to every amusement promoter in the United States, Canada, Mexico, South America, Australia and South Africa.

Mr. Herschell as a member of the former firm of Armitage-Herschell Company, of North Tonawanda, began making merry-go-rounds thirty-three years ago, and three years ago retired because of ill health. He again re-enters the manufacturing in fine physical condition and with the undying love for the old business imbedded in his heart. It was he who created the first galloping horse or steam merry-go-round, and about twenty-five years ago took one of the machines on a tour of the world, visiting India, China, Japan, the South African Colonies and Egypt before his return. He had many remarkable experiences, not the least of which was the conflict he had with a Hindoo because he drove a tent stake into a hill of sacred ants.

The new Allan Herschell Company, Inc., is erecting new shops, a warehouse and round houses, and expects to begin the manufacture of carousels about October 15, introducing animals of new design and a complete machine light of weight and easily transported, a road carousel that will be popular with carnival men and others making quick shifts. The firm will manufacture magnificent carousels for amusement parks and will do repair work of all kinds.

Mr. Herschell's associates, Messrs. Wendler and Fritschie, have more than twenty years' experience in the business, and have entered into the new venture with the enthusiasm that insures success. The company's ambition is to incorporate new ideas into the manufacture of carousels and maintain the standards that have made the Herschell carousels famous.

The new factory is located at Vandervoort and Thompson streets, within a block of the Buffalo and Niagara Falls Traction lines. Their friends and customers are always welcome and assured of courteous attention.

CHANGEABLE SIGNS

The Kinney-Wagner Co. is getting very popular among our agent readers. This firm has put on the market a very ingenious changeable sign that is gaining a big play thruout the country, especially in the small towns where there are no sign manufacturers available and the local merchants are glad to secure a low-priced sign complete and ready for service. The New York offices of this firm are at 309 Broadway.

SAN FRANCISCO FACTS

Tom Fox, former owner of the trained chimpanzees, Bis and Casey, arrived in San Francisco January 23 en route to Australia, sailing for Sydney January 28. Fox has two small "chimps" which he is training and will exhibit them in vaudeville in the antipodes. He states that the death of Bis and Casey caused him a loss of over $6,000.

M. B. Golden (Mike) has arrived with his European War Relic Exhibition, recently on display in Los Angeles, and has secured a lease on the store next to Hale's Department Store, one of the largest establishments in the heart of the retail district. The average "walk in" each day should be enormous, judging from the large numbers of people who pass there daily.

Jack Stewart, well known locally as a musical comedy juvenile, has been engaged as "song plugger" for Leo Feist, with headquarters in the San Francisco office.

Elmer Hanscom, formerly manager of the orang-outang show with Foley & Burk, writes from Camp Lewis, at American Lake, that he is a member of the 363d Infantry Regiment. Mrs. Hanscom is staying at Tacoma, within easy travel distance of the camp. News of our old friends Bobby Kane and Milt Runkle, filters in thru Hanscom's letter. They had a sure-fire store show in Tacoma, and were doing good business till the store was leased by a permanent enterprise recently.

A. A. Tromp, food show promoter, is manager of the Fresno Retail Grocers' Association Patriotic Food and Household Show, to be held in Civic Auditorium, Fresno, March 23 to 30.

Oscar C. Noble, well-known trouper, writes from San Diego that he has made a deal for the Broadway apartments of that place, and is moving there and will run the house for himself and wife in the future.

In a letter from Honolulu, Bluey Bluey, midget dwarf, with M. A. Gowdy, announces the safe arrival there of Gowdy, Josie and himself, and states that, contrary to general reports, the Mid-Pacific Carnival will be held as usual, altho not on the usual elaborate scale. Gowdy expects to play plantations and towns "still" while awaiting the opening of the carnival.—BOZ.

JONES' REMARKABLE ROUTE

Johnny J. Jones has contracted for this coming season one of the most remarkable routes ever secured by any outdoor amusement enterprise. He opens his season at his winter quarters, Orlando, Fla., this week by playing his seventh consecutive engagement for the Sub-Tropical Mid-Winter Fair of Orange County, held at Orlando. From there he goes to the Osceola County Fair at Kissimmee, to be followed by the Florida State Fair and Exposition at Jacksonville, Fla., February 26 to March 9.

In June Mr. Jones starts at Calgary, Northwest Canada, to play his fair dates, and, after all the big time in Canada is taken up, he returns to this country for the State fairs and this time runs him into December. Many of the big State fairs of the Middle West and South are included in the Johnny J. Jones itinerary.

SHEESLEY'S ZOO & HIPPODROME

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 7.—When it comes to regular winter and snow Norfolk the past few weeks compares favorably with the place Peary and Cook had their controversy over, but in spite of this handicap the Sheesley Zoo and Hippodrome last week registered the biggest week of its already successful season. With Tuesday dark the gross receipts far exceeded any previous week, thus proving beyond a doubt that J. M. Sheesley is thoroly established.

Jean Libbera, the double-bodied man, opened Monday, and, owing to the immense crowd, was placed on a platform on the main floor, where the patrons could, and did, entirely surround him. After the lecture, when he offered his pictures for sale, to the writer it seemed that every hand was in the air eager to purchase, reminding one of the days when the high pitchman, with "Stand where you are and every one who has bought one of my packages put up his hand," was in his heyday. Others on this week's bill are Carrie Holt, fat girl; Upside-Down Irwin, C. George, modern Hercules; Ashborn's Dogs and Monkeys, Victor Lee and Company, new illusions, and five animal acts.—ED C. DART.

DUNCAN IN KANSAS CITY

H. H. Duncan is stopping at the Hotel Wyandotte, Kansas City, Mo., for a month or so before going out again. He reports much success for the Cosmopolitan Shows, with which he was until they closed the season in Macon, Miss., the last week in January. The trick went from there into winter quarters at Union City, Tenn.

PIPES

BY GASOLINE BILL BAKER

It was no bull we were shooting when we spoke of Johnny Manny's new wholesale house in Cleveland. It's a fact, and Johnny says that he has installed six reclining couches in his pipe room for the benefit of the Doughnut Club members. That club will also fit the room up with dictographs to cop all the pipes that to be published in the column. Johnny has fitted his pipe room floor with a beautiful Venetian rug which has a baldheaded spot in the center and which is beautifully inscribed with these words: "This spot was worn out by a man who stood here for seven years asking for credit." Johnny's new location is 304 Superior Avenue, West, Cleveland.

On New Year's Eve Dr. J. F. Williams of Springfield, Ill., gave a dinner-dance at the Auto Club in San Antonio, and among his guests was Dr. T. A. Smith and wife of Waco.

Sagebrush or underbrush. Which is it, Charley Tryon?

Sam Mills says that a silk cord is a great cover of embarrassment and a help for his gyroscope demonstration.

Boys, don't forget the big doings in Illinois this year. Big centennial. The State is 100 years old. Lots of closed towns will be open.

Tell us about the time that Claude Lawes was pinched for wearing his $2,000 sparkler, Jetty Meyers.

Nothing grieves us more than to relay the sad news of the death of our good old friend, Robert Hilliard Walker. Robert had been sick for a long time following the last hold-up in Youngstown, O., when his jaw was broken. This grew worse and worse. On January 14 he suffered a paralytic stroke, and died January 21. A letter of consolation from you to his widow would help a great deal right now. And it won't cost you anything, so get busy, boys, and do a kind deed. Mrs. Walker especially asks to hear from Fay Watson.

One of the best towns in Canada, Kitchener, Ont., is now closed.

Dr. H. C. Laird says he wonders if the silver crowned king of good fellows, Jim Ferdon, remembers the play, The Boy Tramp, that he wrote and read to Doc. The genial oldtimer says of Jim Ferdon and his embryonic playwright: "As I remember it was excellent, and had lines and some gems in them. I am yet assured that if Jim had turned his talents to producing plays or chosen the career of actor-manager he would have been famous the world over."

The tobacco cure man, Doc Copeland, has laid his keister and tripes away for the nonce and is now knocking out a nice pay check every week in a gill shop in El Dorado, Kan. Doc says there's nothing like the old sheepskin in times like these, and if any of the boys hit El Dorado they don't want to forget to look him up, and he'll be good for a feed and a little cheer.

Al Shields says the reason for his being mum so long was because he was dry—extra dry, as you might say. Al is copping the kopecks in Newport News, Va., and says he may be seen shortly in Jacksonville cutting out silhouettes as in the good old days.

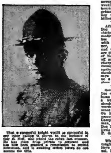
There is another oldtimer who saved his jack, invested it in a paying proposition and is now reaping the harvests of an honest man—Dave Jarrett, who is treasurer and manager of the Rockford Poster Advertising Co., of Rockford, Ill. Dave is making more than good, and is a regular fellow. He was a good pitchman as well as showman. He would like to hear from his old friends, and when any of the boys go to Rockford he wants them to look him up.

Little Frank Stauffer and his wife, and Claude Lawes and his Missus are holding forth in Detroit. But for his failure to get passports Claude would now be in Cuba. This merry quartette is doing nothing but eating, sleeping and making merry. The address is General Delivery, Detroit, and they dare the gang to write.

Doc Sutherland of med. fame is working opera houses and halls thru Ontario, Can., carrying a crew of sixteen people and doing good business.

One of those poetic epistles from Doctor Harry Simms in Muskogee, Ok., blew in on us last week, and we can't help but give this airy message full advantage. Says Doc: "The night is dark and stormy and the wind is blowing wild, as under its raging influence I feel constrained to pen you a few lines, thereby giving you a little information with reference to the gentry who follow the noble calling of selling their commodities to the dear public by the high pitch methods. As I write Doc and Dinah Ward come in—hailing from the sunny (?) South, looking fine and prosperous and take their seats within the sacred circle of the pipe-shooting party, which is holding forth in the "amen corner" of the Hotel Huber, of which your legal friend and coadjutor, W. Harris, officiates as manager. The exclusive gathering aforesaid consists of the following members, who rank according to their tremendous ability in the fine art of cutting up big money and projecting the pipe, which will command the most instantaneous and widespread attention. Of course it is needless to say that yours truly stands at their head as the chief of the chieftains in this particular, yet exclusive, field. The others who fall in due order are as follows: Dr. J. Stanley Howard, who stands eminently and conspicuously at the head of his line in the medical field; Slim Hunter, the pioneer of med.; Mills, Amos Mathews, notions; Hiney, Chinese herbologist; Bob Myers, ditto; our venerable brother, Jackson, 72 years old, and still throwing the buckskin back there, and Birdie Beems, who has closed her store in St. Louis to open up here for her coming season in an extensive campaign of the State of Oklahoma. Dr. J. Stanley Howard and Dr. Harry Simms, pronounce business better, greater and of a cleaner and more refined character than it has ever been with their knowledge of work, which ranges back over a period of thirty years. After all it's the man who makes the business what it really should and ought to be who succeeds. All of us appreciate your valuable talents and the breezy, newsy items that weekly gladden the hearts of the pilgrims as they journey from hence to hither."

SERGT. GUY E. NEFF



That a successful knight would be successful in any other calling is proven in the instance of Guy E. Neff, who joined the colors last summer. He has risen from private to sergeant and has now been granted a commission to second lieutenant, and is awaiting orders before he can assume the title.

After 20 years Doc Barnett, the oldtime talker and medicine lecturer, has again doubled with his old partner, Nat Blossom and wife, and they are now in the wilds of Nebraska picking off some virgin territory with Clifton Remedies. Carnival again this season—should say not—says Doc. It will be a big platform show for Doc.

Seen coming down the street in Oklahoma City, Ok., with a bundle over his shoulder: Doc Edwards, the genial scout of that city. On investigation it proved that Doc Campbell, the paperman, had enticed Doc Edwards into a little walk near the P. O.

When it comes to tough luck we believe that Geo. Bensel, Louie's brother, comes in for the honors. Recently George was walking down a street in Bellaire (Ohio) somewhere about the witching hour when he came upon a woman standing out in the snow with nothing on but a man's coat, and crying to beat a thunder storm. George did what any other would do in such a case—asked the fair lady what could be her trouble, and she said that she was locked out. George says: "Does your husband live in there." Whereupon she replied that he resided there. George told her to call a copper, but she said she did not want to. Just then a big greaser comes out of the house; George told him to take the woman in, and for his trouble the gambo hit George a wallop on the jaw. Now George is handy with his mitts, and gave that selfsame chap one of the hottest lickings of his career, and wound up by making the chap take the woman into the house. Having done his manly duty George went on down the street to catch his car. He had hardly got on when the belabored one rushed up and shot George, the bullet making a glancing wound. The trio were soon gathered up by the patrol, and George ended his evening at the hospital. George says it will be a long time before he will champion the cause of another woman. He is getting along fine.

Uncle Bill Gardner, the Cherokee Herb Man, spent last week in El Dorado, and in spite of the snow and cold weather got better than a cow buck, and then moved to K. C.

General Cohen, the wine manufacturer, is getting very popular among the boys working the cantonments. His joint in New York is getting to be a regular round-up place for the boys when they visit the big burg. Cohen's long suit is ladling the coffee and cake when they blow in.

Mike Whalen is still at the Monroe in Cleveland, knocking them dead with his pipes. Jetty Meyers fell over some time ago when Mike shot one.

Frank B. Bosworth, who is at present located in the big burg, says he wonders if C. Edw. Williams the lightning calculator man, remembers the Johnny-Come-Lately who blew in from Eagle Bridge, N. Y., to Rutland, Vt., and Big Foot Wallace hired him as an assistant and what happened to Big Foot Wallace. Frank wants to hear from you, Williams. His address is 89 Lexington avenue, New York.

After the big vacation in the sunny (?) climes of Jax Charley and Belle Gow are back on the Kresge Circuit in Washington. And Harry Morris is also in the Capitol playing his little tune on the sgud sniper. Charley says we were shooting the bull when we argued about the M. R.

Dr. J. E. Rullison of East India Remedy fame is another oldtimer who has made his past pave his future, and is now enjoying life and an excellent practice in Toledo, O. Doc is one of the most respected physicians in that city, and was one of the best known of the oldtimers. Doc is a graduate of Ann Arbor, Mich., and has made every dollar he has with his East India cure. He has been a citizen of Toledo for over forty-five years, and when he was on the road he had the strongest medicine show traveling, carrying thirty-five people, uniformed band and orchestra, and he paid the largest salary of any medicine man in the country. These items are given as facts by Harry Chapman, his old colleague, who traveled with him for ten years, and Harry says that Doc was the strongest office worker the world ever produced; in fact Dr. J. E. Rullison was in a class by himself, and one of the few successful doctors who never got a swelled head. We would like to hear from this eminent veteran.

Those boys who intend working Canada this spring will find it a tough proposition to cross the border, as the immigration officers are very strict, letting nobody in or out of Canada. Passports are required showing that only urgent business calls you there.

EXCELLENT RESULTS

Read the following letter from one of our pleased patrons:

1930 Washington Street, Boston, Jan. 18, 1918.

The Billboard Pub. Co.,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed please find my check for $5.00 to cover renewal of Trades Directory advertisement for the first six months. I also wish to express my indebtedness, to give my view in regard to the EXCELLENT RESULTS I have received from Trades Directory advertising in The Billboard during the past several years. I have been using classified advertising for nearly twenty years in many publications, but to my surprise I have found that your Trades Directory Department has brought me better results than any other publication I have ever used.

Respectfully yours,
L. S. KALLAJIAN.

MUSICAL COMEDY NOTES

Dick Hyland, well known in vaudeville and musical comedy circles, has quit the theatrical game for the present, and is now holding down the position of clerk at the Arlington Hotel, Seattle, Wash. This hostelry was recently acquired by Ryan & Babcock, owners of the Sound Amusement Co., Seattle.

Clyde E. Anderson's The Girl From Broadway is playing one-night stands thru Canada, carrying twenty-five people and a carload of scenery and is having no trouble with the railroads. The show is drawing capacity business in almost every town, and, because of its phenomenal success, will probably stay in the Canadian territory the season thru.

ROUTES IN ADVANCE

Managers and performers are respectfully requested to contribute their dates to this department. Routes must reach The Billboard not later than Friday of each week to insure publication.

The Billboard forwards all mail for professionals free of charge. Members of the profession are invited, while on the road, to have their mail addressed in care of The Billboard, and it will be forwarded promptly.

Put the American Theatrical Hospital on Your Salary List
Every manager should feel responsible for the treatment and care of members of his company who fall ill while in his employ.
WE will take care of them free of charge, but YOU will feel better if you have the right to send them to us.
You obtain that right by placing us on your payroll for as low as $1 per week. Address
DR. MAX THOREK,
Care of American Theatrical Hospital
CHICAGO, ILL.

EVERY CITIZEN A SOLDIER ON DUTY AT HIS HOME

Everyone must help if we are to win. The soldier must obey orders or there will be no army. The people must be one or there will be no nation. So that we win, all of us must Follow Directions.

This is Your War guide for use in Your home.

It tells you what foods we must save to provision ourselves and our allies; it tells how we can stretch our supplies so everyone will have enough—without any hurt to your health or your strength.

Your Government does not ask you to give up three square meals a day—nor even one. All it asks is that you eat less of the foods we need to keep the armies going and eat all you want of the other things that we have in plenty.

Eat plenty—keep up your strength and your vim to help win the war. You have dedicated to the Nation everything that you have; you are asked now to give up—just some habits of the kitchen and table.

America and her Allies must not run out of Wheat, Meat or Fats. If we let that happen Germany will win the war.

We must save Sugar, use every drop of Milk, and—we must learn to Follow Directions.—OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

SPARE CHANGE WILL MAKE A NATION OF BOND OWNERS

A nickel here, a dime there, a quarter—we Americans have never watched the little expenditures very closely. But now it's that "spare change"—those small savings—that can make us a nation of bond owners.

The Government of the United States offers us its own "baby bonds" in sizes that we can all buy. You can start with only a quarter. Take it to your bank, post-office or store. Buy a Thrift Stamp. Paste it on a card that will be given you. The next time you have 25 cents saved buy another stamp. Your Thrift Card will hold 16 of these stamps—$4 worth. If you have it full before March 1 13 cents with it will buy a War Savings Stamp and a certificate, to which it should be attached.

This certificate is a "little baby bond." It will earn a good rate of interest. On January 1, 1923, that interest will make the stamp that cost you $4.13 worth $5.

You may buy the $5 (maturity value) size outright for cash, but rather than wait, if you must, put your quarters into Thrift Stamps. Save them. Start today.

Here is the chance for every American to help.

are required to meet their needs, and it also permits the Class B members to obtain carnival shows and attractions which will fill their requirements. The spirit of co-operation, which has been a factor in making for the success of the association in past years, dominated the meeting, sacrifices were made cheerfully. The contract for carnival shows for the Class A members was given to the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows, and the attractions will be furnished by Henry Meyerhoff, of New York. For the Class B members Mr. Meyerhoff furnishes both attractions and midway.

"In order to meet the requirements of all members it was necessary to arrange two circuits. The following are the dates as fixed for 1918. Calgary, June 28-July 6, Edmonton, July 8-13; Saskatoon, July 15-20; Brandon, July 22-27; Regina, July 29-August 3, Weyburn, August 5-7; Yorkton, August 5-7; Moose Jaw, June 10-12; Swift Current, June 13-15, Medicine Hat, June 18-20; Lethbridge, June 22-26, Red Deer, June 29-31; Camrose, August 1-3, North Battleford, August 5-7; Prince Albert, August 8-10.

"New Westminster and Vancouver Exhibition associations are associate members of the Western Canada Fairs Association, their dates for 1918 being, Vancouver, August 19-24, and New Westminster, September 30-October 5.

"The officials for the year 1918 are as follows: President, J. Q. Hettle, of Saskatoon; first vice-president, B. L. Richardson, Calgary; second vice-president, J. F. Day, Red Deer, secretary-treasurer, W. J. Stark.

"The meeting also went on record as appreciating the work done by E. Louise Mahone, secretary to Mr. Stark, and who has handled the clerical work of the association for the past two years."

MICHIGAN ASSOCIATION

Carrying Out Plans Outlined in Grand Rapids

The Michigan Association of Fairs is carrying out the plan outlined at the recent meeting in Grand Rapids by forming circuits for free acts, shows and rides. Under the supervision of O. S. Karland, who is general director of amusements of the West Michigan Fair at Grand Rapids, the success of the plan is already assured, as a more practical man than Director Karland would be hard to find.

WILLIAMS TAKES CHARGE

The Courtney Theatrical Exchange of Indianapolis, Ind., announces that Harry Williams has taken charge of its promoting and producing department, and will produce and manage acts for fairs, chautauqua, summer resorts and cabarets. Mr. Williams has been in the promotion advertising business in Indianapolis since leaving the profession as a performer.

FRAMING FAIR ACTS

Eugene Marcum writes The Billboard from Salem, Ill., that he did not play fairs during last season, but is busy at this time framing four acts to play the 1918 fairs. They will be known as Marcum Bros.' Free Attractions, and will include high tight wire act, comedy ladder act, novelty strong man act and novelty Western rope spinning act.

PLANS NOT YET MATURED

Blue Rapids, Kan., Feb. 8.—C. J. Brown, secretary of the Marshall County Stock Show and Fair Association, reports that the 1918 plans are not yet matured, but the dates will probably be two weeks earlier than usual—about the last week in September. The officers have been elected and are: M. M. Haskins, president; Wm. Acker, vice-president, W. J. Kinsley, second vice-president, J. N. Wanamaker, treasurer, and C. J. Brown, secretary.

Last year's fair, held October 9-12, was very successful, considering all conditions. The display of agricultural products was great, and would have been a credit to any State fair. The swine exhibit filled the thirty-two pens in the hog barn and an overflow tent, and included several State fair winners. The cattle and horse displays were very good in size and quality. The races were fine—all being square tests of speed and making good records. Outside of the running purses there was paid $1,377.50 in premiums and a ten per cent dividend on the $9,920 of capital stock issued, with $1,000 left in the treasury for new buildings needed.

T. Y. Williford, County Agent for Toombs County, Lyons, Ga., has advised that this year's dates have not as yet been decided upon nor have the officials for the ensuing year been elected.

PROPOSED NEW AMENDMENTS FOR TRANSPORTING OF FILM

Submitted by Bureau of Explosives to Committee of National Association of Motion Picture Industry—Attaching of Advertising Matter to Outside Container Prohibited

New York, Feb. 9.—The Bureau of Explosives has submitted to the Transportation Committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry several new sections, to be included in the proposed amended paragraph No. 43 of the regulations governing the transportation of explosives and other dangerous articles by express.

The new sections, c, d, e and f, refer to shipments of unexposed motion picture film, noninflammable film and shipments of film with advertising matter, and should be given careful attention by distributors, exchanges and exhibitors.

It is expected that the recommendations will be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington for final approval at an early date. The amended paragraph, No. 43, as revised to date by the Bureau of Explosives, follows:

REGULATIONS FOR THE TRANSPORTATION OF EXPLOSIVES AND OTHER DANGEROUS ARTICLES BY EXPRESS

Proposed Amended Paragraph No. 43

43 (a) Motion picture films must be packed in sparkproof metal boxes or cans complying with Specification No. 32. Not more than eight reels (approximately 1,000 feet each) may be packed in one such outside container.

(b) Motion picture films may also be packed in outside wooden boxes complying with Specification No. 10, provided each reel is placed in a tightly closed inside metal container. The gross weight of each a package must not exceed 400 pounds.

(c) Unexposed motion picture film in tight rolls must be packed in interior metal cans, not to exceed five rolls (approximately 2,000 feet) in one inside can; the cover of each inside can must fit tightly and be held in place by a strip of adhesive tape or paper. The interior cans must be securely packed in outside wooden boxes complying with Specification No. 19. The gross weight of one outside container must not exceed 400 pounds.

(d) Noninflammable motion picture (cellulose acetate) films may be accepted without other restrictions when securely packed in strong packages of sufficient strength to carry to destination without rupture or leakage of contents; each outside container must be plainly marked MOTION PICTURE FILM, and in addition must be marked NOT DANGEROUS, as prescribed by paragraph 24 (c).

(e) *When noninflammable motion picture films are packed in the same outside container with in-

DOCTOR AND THE WOMAN

Exhibitors Showing Lively Interest in Picture

New York, Feb. 11.—Twenty prints of The Doctor and the Woman have been ordered by the New York Branch of Jewel Productions, Inc., as the result of the requests for bookings that have already been forthcoming from exhibitors in that territory.

Announced as the companion picture to The Price of a Good Time, the newest Jewel release has aroused the anticipation of those exhibitors who have run its predecessor. Both were produced by Lois Weber and feature Mildred Harris.

According to Harry M. Berman, sales manager of the Jewel organization, the feature will be released on March 4, and every effort will be made to have all the first-run houses in the New York territory show it within the thirty days that follow. Should more than twenty prints be required to fill the demand they will be ordered.

A special trade showing will be held within the next two weeks. It is likely that a run at Carl Laemmle's Broadway Theater will be given The Doctor and the Woman prior to its general release.

That True Boardman will be co-starred in the Mary Roberts Rinehart story will be welcome news to exhibitors. Altho most of the advertising on the production had already been prepared, requests that came in from the various exchanges telling of Boardman's popularity in their territory caused The Jewel officials to make the changes requested.

HIS BEST GIFT

U. S. Insurance Film Ready for Release

Washington, Feb. 11.—A two-reel dramatic moving picture with professional actors and actresses in the leading roles will be shown at all military and naval camps thruout the country beginning this week as part of the Government's war insurance campaign. The photoplay, which is called His Best Gift, was produced by the Photographic Division of the Signal Corps, U. S. A., under the direction of Captain Edwin R. Hesser, a well-known motion picture director, and formerly in charge of photoplay propaganda for the Canadian Government.

Approximately one thousand persons take part in the action of the picture. A battalion from the 314th Infantry, Camp Meade, and an Engineer Battalion from Washington Barracks take the leading part in the military action, which is portrayed with full and picturesque details. Realistic overseas battle scenes feature the picture.

Lieut. William Sherwood of the Signal Corps, formerly a well-known cinema actor, takes the part of The Man, and Miss Elise Bartlett, well-known Washington actress, is The Girl. Lieut. Bernard Granville, of New York, takes the part of the insurance officer.

The photoplay is one of strong dramatic and emotional interest and in addition it drives home with force the message of United States Government insurance for our fighting forces.

Fifty duplicates of the reels will be sent to all camps and cantonments, to the principal naval stations and departments, to ports of embarkation and to the American Expeditionary Forces. Officers in charge of insurance of all units will take direct charge of the reels and will see that they are projected on the screen in Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. tents, in the auditoriums of the Commission on Training Camp Activities, in the Liberty theaters, and in the theaters adjacent to the camps. Efforts will be made to bring the photoplay before all persons in service.

THREE SELIG SUBJECTS

Acquired by E. & H. Distributing Co.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 11.—Arrangements were completed yesterday between U. L. Hull, of Chicago, and The E. & H. Film Distributing Company, of Atlanta, Ga., for the distribution of three big productions for the Southeast, including The New De Luxe edition of The Spoilers, which is in twelve reels, Beware of Strangers, and Who Shall Take My Life, all productions of The Selig Polyscope Company. Hull came to Atlanta with the intention of opening an office for the distribution of his pictures, but after looking over the plant of the E. & H. Company decided he could obtain better results by placing his productions with this company for distribution. Hull intends spending several weeks in the South and will co-operate with the E. & H. Company in exploiting his pictures. The E. & H. Company owns the franchise for the following pictures: The Billy West Comedies, The Art Drama Productions, The Ne'er-Do-Well, The Submarine Eye, The Crisis, The Little Girl Next Door, Babbling Tongues, and other subjects.

JOHN B. O'BRIEN DIRECTOR

Will Have Charge of Doris Kenyon Features

New York, Feb. 11.—The Street of Seven Stars, the first picture to be produced with Doris Kenyon at the head of her own company, De Luxe Pictures, Inc., will be directed by John B. (Jack) O'Brien. O'Brien signed a contract this week to direct The Street of Seven Stars, which is Mary Roberts Rinehart's most beautiful and human story. He expects to start actual work on the feature, which will be of six reels, on or about March 10.

Theodore C. Deitrich, president of De Luxe Pictures, Inc., selected Mr. O'Brien as Miss Kenyon's director from a long list of the foremost men in the business.

O'Brien directed a number of the most famous pictures of Mary Pickford, including Hulda From Holland, The Foundling and others considered among her best. He has also directed Blanche Sweet, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Alice Brady, Charlotte Walker, Emmy Whelan, Bessie Love, Louise Huff, Olive Tell, Edna Goodrich and many other stars.

FIRE PREVENTION FILM

Mayor Hylan's Proclamation Put on Screen

New York, Feb. 11.—The proclamation on fire prevention recently issued by Mayor Hylan, of this city, has been vividly illustrated in motion pictures by the Industrial Department of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. This first link in an educational campaign on fire prevention, which is to eventually spread from Coast to Coast, is to be shown to the public in one of the early issues of the Universal Animated Weekly.

This campaign is receiving the personal attention of Harry Levey, manager of the Universal's Industrial Department. Governors of many States, fire officials and fire underwriters are giving the movement their wholehearted support. Mayor Hylan himself recently wrote to Universal as follows:

"I heartily commend your fire prevention campaign. I can not think of a more effective drive against the enemy at home than you propose. The film which you propose to use will bring the matter of fire prevention directly to the attention of the people, which, I am sure, will have a tendency to make them more cautious and to better appreciate the necessity of care in conservation of property by preventing fires."

One of the incidents mentioned in the Mayor's proclamation and impressively shown in this first film of the campaign is the usual result of carelessness on the part of a workman who believes he is employed in a fireproof building which is deemed safe from any sort of conflagration. It also shows the necessity of having a properly equipped watchman to prevent disaster which may arise from carelessness of this nature. Of particular timeliness is the preventive methods suggested as a means of combating the spread of loss caused by the Kaiser's arson fiends, who are now proving themselves so effective in hindering the productions of war necessities.

HAS ZERO SETTING

Broadway Bill Presents Unusual Atmosphere

New York, Feb. 11.—Broadway Bill, Harold Lockwood's newest Metro all-star series production, which is released today, promises to afford the screen with what is characterized as one of the most impressive pictures set in the North that has ever been presented.

Staged for the most part in Northern Maine while the mercury in the thermometer reached a point as low as 42 degrees below zero, with the ground covered with a four-foot depth of snow and with a Northern blizzard raging, the background thus formed in Broadway Bill not only lends color to the drama, but takes on a distinguishing feature in the way of rare scenic views as well.

Apart from this, however, Broadway Bill is impressive for the character of its story and the manner in which it is produced. It is a virile story of a real man who abandons his dissolute habits for the sake of a girl, and, in the face of the most discouraging circumstances, works out his regeneration.

The usual carefully selected cast seen in Metro pictures appears in Mr. Lockwood's support. Among the players are Martha Mansfield, Stanton Heck, William Clifford, Bert Starkey, Cornish Beck, W. W. Black, Raymond C. Hadley and Blanche Davenport.

The story of Broadway Bill was written by Fred J. Balshofer, who also directed the making of the production.

VAUDE. ENGAGEMENT LIMITED

Mollie King To Return to Camera After Nine Weeks of Variety

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 9.—Mollie King, recently a serial film player for Pathe, and who has been in Pittsburg for a few days, says that she is going to return to pictures at the conclusion of her vaudeville engagement, which terminates in nine weeks. She claims that her present absence from the movies is due more to the fact that she desires a rest from serial acting than anything else.

She is arranging to form a company of her own to produce five-reel features. In April she will begin her first feature. She says she has received an offer from her former employers, but as she wishes to discontinue work in serials she will plan to enter the five-reel end of the motion picture program.

AS THE EXHIBITOR SEES IT

Under this caption we propose to publish the views and expressions of opinion of exhibitors from all parts of the country. We confidently believe that the personal and candid opinions of representative exhibitors as to the present status of the motion picture industry, and especially suggestions for the betterment of present conditions affecting them, will be read and appreciated by exhibitors everywhere.

Will YOU do your part by sending us a brief right-to-the-point expression of your views, together with a short summary of conditions as they obtain in your locality? Your co-operation in this connection will result to the mutual advantage of all exhibitors reading this column.

Your letter will be published in the order in which it is received as space in this department permits.

Address all communications to MOVING PICTURE EDITOR, care Billboard, Cincinnati, O.

A novel and interesting incident turned up in Cincinnati recently where three houses were showing productions starring Douglas Fairbanks. Two of these houses chose to call their plays as "the latest," and the only conclusion that could have been drawn was that "somebody lied." The Commercial Tribune, in speaking of this predicament, said: "Let the managers be candid with themselves and their public. The theater which shows first-run pictures and pays extra to get the first service should be permitted to have undisputed claim to the distinction. As a matter of fact the movie public is pretty well informed about the doings of their film favorite, and when they read an ad promising a 'latest production' and remember they saw the same play nearly a month previously they will doubt the statements of the mistaken manager."

F. M. Kenney, of Cleveland, one of the founders of the local M. P. E. L., and until recently its treasurer and vice-president, has left the field and has joined the sales force of the Gerlock-Waldman Company, real estate brokers of that city.

The New Jersey House of Assembly passed a bill recently requiring exhibitors of that State to flash on their screen a diagram of the house showing the exits as a safety first measure.

The lightless nights are not hurting the theater crowds in Oklahoma City, Ok., very much. They turn out as big as ever. The Folly Theater does wonderful business, and has large crowds continually. The house shows tab. and Universal pictures, with a change every two days.

"Paper, plenty of paper artistically arranged," says Manager Gribbell, of the Walnut Theater, Cincinnati. "Let them know what stars and what features you have. Put the stuff up where they can see it a square away if you can, and then make them swallow your bait with an attractive lobby display. It makes me sick to see some of the theater fronts. Music! Well, I should say so; it's as essential to the success of a house as the picture itself. My patrons call up and want to know who is playing. They even have their favorite players. Now take the picture we are showing this week, The Whip. The wreck in there would be flat without the effects and the music. And another thing, comedies go over a hundred per cent stronger with effects and suitable music. I have watched the audience, and know from experience that it's music that makes the picture—better." And let us say that Manager Gribbell knows what he's talking about, for he has a packed house all the time, and the Walnut is known as the house of good pictures.

Doc Crum, manager of the Arcade Theater, Walla Walla, Wash., has at last installed his new organ and everybody is anxious to hear the kind of music he is going to offer. Doc has been packing them in with Artcraft and Metro Pictures at twenty-five cents a shot.

Newspaper advertising is a strong feature in promoting picture success of the various houses thruout the country. Take Greensboro, N. C., for instance. The manager of the Bijou Theater there took half a page of the local daily when he put on the Artcraft feature, Rose of the World. Needless to say this enterprising manager mopped up with it.

Albert Peterson, manager of the International Falls (Minn.) picture houses, has his programs all worked out for the coming season, and got back with a pocketful of contracts.

G. Marshall Taylor, formerly railroad ticket agent in Butte, Mont., has assumed the responsibilities of manager of the Orpheum Theater there.

Herbert Thatcher is having the front of his Strand Theater, Salina, Kan., remodeled.

The Oklahoma Moving Picture Supply Company has closed its office in Oklahoma City, Ok. Mr. Kelly, manager of that concern, has taken over the management of the Monarch Film Company there.

Those Who Pay, with Bessie Barriscale in the star part, played at the Rex, Seattle, for a week's stand recently. This is an exclusive first run, and one of the best pictures seen in that city for months.

N. H. Gibbons has taken over the Columbia Theater, Junction City, Kan. He was formerly an exhibitor at Lawrence, Kan., and is making a success of his new proposition.

Doc Crews, manager of the Liberty Theater, Walla Walla, Wash., is at this time confined to his bed with pneumonia. Nothing serious so far and we hope that he will be out in a short time.

Report from Los Angeles says that the exhibitors are finding it pretty tough picking generally.

Slides are being prepared by the Government to aid internal tax collectors in collecting income tax. The slides will be furnished exhibitors to be flashed on the screen before every performance, reading: "DON'T FORGET YOUR INCOME TAX." Even this reminder won't bother a lot of exhibitors.

This may be hard to believe by the brothers of the effete East, but, nevertheless, it's true. On New Year's Day the Liberty Theater, of Walla Walla, Wash., sent twenty-five boys up and down the principal streets of the city barefooted, all carrying signs and blowing horns. Walla Walla has had but two nights this winter so far that the temperature has been registered freezing. Going some for a dry town. What?

The rental of pictures for a week is today considerably greater than it was six or seven years ago, as will be seen by the following figures showing the comparative total weekly expenses of Loew's three Boston theaters: Orpheum, 1918, $6,874.90; 1917, $6,315.25; 1916, $4,963.20; 1915, statement mislaid; 1914, $3,601.44; 1913, $2,582.80; 1912, $2,442.21; 1911, $3,094.98. Columbia, 1918, $2,189.42; 1917, not open; 1916, $1,427.09; 1915, $1,308.13; 1914, $1,324.29; 1913, $1,185.04. St. James, 1918, $3,803.33; 1917, $3,372.16; 1916, $3,184.75; 1915, $2,816.75; 1914, $2,142.78. Douglass Flattery, Loew's Boston representative, gives the following facts regarding the situation. "The cost of operating moving picture theaters and those operating pictures and vaudeville has increased in proportion as much as any other commodity, because not only have the salaries of actors, stage hands and operators, as well as the cost of machines advanced, but the cost of films has increased out of all proportion to any other item of public use which I can now recall. Of course, the quality of the pictures has also improved greatly, so that the public is getting the benefit of such improvements, but nevertheless the general cost of operation has increased so much that very few theaters can carry the burden and make a reasonable profit on their investment and enterprise. It is nothing uncommon to pay $200 or $250 a day for a feature, when a manager wants the exclusive first run. This payment is only a part of the total expense of the entertainment."

The Liberty Theater at Clinton, Ok., is doing a nice business with a Universal program.

Moving pictures of camp life at the American Lake (Wash.) cantonment have been made by cameramen in the employ of the Turner & Dahnken Circuit. E. M. Asher, head of the exchange department of the concern, is now in the Northwest in the interest of the First National Exhibitors' Association. As soon as the pictures have been approved by the War Department officials at Washington they will be shown over the T. & D. Circuit in California, and later sent to the Pacific Northwest territory.

Another hint from Frank Thompson: "If you need film cement in a hurry don't stick the film together with chewing gum or some other junk to cause the next operator a barrel of trouble. Go to the drug store and ask for ten cents' worth of banana oil. If it should happen to be too thick have the druggist put in five cents' worth of ether, and then shake it up. You then have a fine cement for inflammable film. This will not work on noninflammable film. Remember, when you make a poor, thick, hard and misjointed patch, perhaps a hundred operators will have a jump at that location in the film and that it is irritating to the audience, and right now help is so scarce that film exchanges are not inspecting the films as they should, and every good patch is made for our mutual benefit."

Lee A. Thompson moved from Wisconsin to Illinois with his traveling picture show and says business is just as good as the weather, but he will get his when he again opens his tent show.

The entire output of the Educational Film Corporation of New York, a series of educational scenic, scientific and zoological subjects, will be shown exclusively in Seattle at the Palace Hip Theater. Ackerman & Harris signed up for these features last week.

The Strand Theater, at Watertown, Mass., which is the only picture house there, is beginning to draw a fine business. The new Monday holidays started them coming and business has increased at the Strand fifty per cent during the past three weeks.

A Theda Bara admirer at the Metropolitan Theater, Seattle, gave Treasurer Frank Hood a huge bouquet, with instructions to pass it over the footlights to the lady who was "vampiring" at the time in a screen version of Cleopatra. Bouquet and instructions went to the orchestra leader, but Hood didn't wait to see what the musicians did with the flowers.

For the past three weeks Manager Levaugi of the Palace Theater, Boston, and a large force of workmen working day and night repairing the damage done by a fire which burned out the upper gallery around the picture booth last month. The Palace up to a few years ago was used as a burlesque house by Charlie Waldron, who now operates the Castle on Hanover street. Of late years the Palace has been used as a picture house, devoted exclusively to Italian photoplays.

Doc Cram, manager of the Arcade Theater, Walla Walla, Wash., handed one of these goody-goody guys with a big mouth an awful wallop the other day. The aforementioned holier-than-thou chap was picking out the picture show and holding it up as a breeding place of crime and divorce, and called them and their allies, the billboards, newspapers, periodicals, etc., dens of iniquity and incentives to corrupt the nation. After Doc gave him his spanking he has been very much pianissimo.

B. F. Brack and M. E. Stuber are erecting a new picture house in Galatia, Kan.

The Keith Theater, at Buffalo, has hit a high mark with the series of twelve Mutual-Chaplin comedies. The entire series has been repeated eight times in the Buffalo house, a total of ninety-six from twelve releases.

Report from The Official Bulletin says: "A group of Austrian and Hungarian dealers in films have organized a society with headquarters in Vienna and a branch in Budapest. The object of the society is the exporting of motion picture films for the Balkans. The society is capitalized at 1,000,000 crowns, equivalent to $200,000 in normal times. An independent enterprise is also being established at Budapest.

Intolerance finished a four weeks' run at the Globe Theater, Boston, last week and made a cleanup. Since Manager Meaghee changed the policy of the Globe from stock to pictures business has been very good and gaining every week.

According to latest reports Los Angeles may drop the film censor plan. The indications are that no appointment of a film censor, whose job was recently created by the City Council, will be made, and that a modified measure will later be presented to the Council."

Manager Fisher, of the Newton Opera House, Newton, Mass., has the only picture theater in that town and is making a cleanup. His matinee business has doubled due to the closing of the schools and he is now booking films that are making a great hit with the children.

Ascher Brothers are building a new movie house at Rockford, Ill., to be called the Midway. This will mean their fifteenth movie house and the same high standard of pictures and musical programs will be followed as used in their Chicago houses. The Rockford's location on East State street is a good one and the house is being built on the same plan as their Chicago house, the Chateau, at Broadway and Grace streets. The complete roster of Ascher houses include the Adelphi, located at North Clark and Estes avenue, Chicago; their finest and largest house, the Chateau; the Albany Park, the Calo, Columbus, the Cosmopolitan, the Frolic, the Lakeside, the Lane Court, the Metropolitan, the Milford, Oakland Square, the Peerless and the Terminal. The Rockford house is the first one the Ascher Brothers have outside of Chicago and its suburbs and the new field is a promising one and should pay them big returns.

The Strand, Walla Walla, Wash., is doing wonderful business these days, and Manager McDonald has a smile for every one. Good business makes them all smile.

The Old Dreamland, at Beloit, Kan., has been reopened, this time under the management of H. C. Genns, of Salina.

W. B. (Billy) Arnold, energetic advertising man, has been appointed manager of the Crystal Theater, Nashville, Tenn. Arnold has put the last fifteen or twenty years in the theatrical business and is fully capable of making a success in his new position.

The Queen Theater, Frederick, Ok., is doing a nice business, running Pathe pictures. There are two houses there and both are doing nice business, running above thirty-day releases.

Manager Tate, of the Opera House, Perry, Ok., reports business very good. He is running features and vaudeville.

The Trenton Theater, Lynchburg, Va., has discontinued its policy of Keith vaudeville, and is now running pictures exclusively.

A trade showing of the first three episodes of The Eagle's Eye was given to the Boston exhibitors last week at the Fenway Theater. A great many of the exhibitors from Boston and surrounding towns were present and all thought well of the serial, many making arrangements for booking.

FILMS REVIEWED

THE KNIFE

Five-reel Select picture from the play of the same name by Eugene Walter. Adapted by Charles Maigne.

THE CAST:

Kate Tarleton	Alice Brady
Robert Manning	Frank Morgan
Billy Meredith	Crauford Kent
Louise Meredith	Helen Lackaye
Jimmy Bristol	Paul Doucet
Stella Hill	Alice Hollister
Hampton Gray	Johnnie Walker
Detective Ellis	Frank Evans
Photographer	H. L. Physioc
Director	Robert Vignola

Alice Brady, star; Eugene Walter, author, and Robert Vignola, director, is a combination that ought to spell success. As a matter of fact the combination is responsible for a prodigiously exciting screen melodrama in The Knife.

Following the stage play closely the picture has the advantage of settings of sumptuous beauty. Alice Brady has the role of the superstitious Southern girl, created for the stage by May Buckley, a role of varied emotions that she plays with authority. In her Southern home she radiates sunny charm, and in the lair of the New York leeches her work is singularly affecting.

Sensationally daring is the plot which deals with a noted surgeon, whose theory that science should use the knife on the bodies of healthy criminals for the benefit of society results in a wonderful discovery for the good of mankind, while it subjects the doctor to a charge of malpractice that is immediately dropped. When the doctor discovers his own fiancee unconscious from drugs in the home of a fortune teller he kidnaps the man and woman who had drugged her and makes them the subjects of surgical experiment.

It is a daring plot splendidly constructed, and acted by a distinguished cast, with Frank Morgan giving a quietly repressed performance as the surgeon, and Crauford Kent lending distinction by his work as the surgeon's lawyer friend. The photography and direction are faultless.

Exhibitors should be able to cash in strongly with The Knife.—M. D.

KEITH OF THE BORDER

Five-reel Triangle feature. From the novel by Randall Parrish. For release February 17.

THE CAST:

Jack Keith	Roy Stewart
Hope Waite	Josie Sedgwick
Christie McClaire	Josie Sedgwick
Black Bart	Norbert Wills
Bill Scott	Pete Morrison
General Waite	William Ellingford
Dr. Fairbain	Wilbur Higbee
Mr. Murphy	Alberta Lee
Director	Cliff Smith
Photographer	Steve Rounds
Scenario by	Alvin J. Neitz

All the elements of a successful Western picture are found in abundance in Keith of the Border. The action races along at a mile-a-minute clip that keeps the spectator sitting up straight most of the time. And there is a wonderful fight in a lonely cabin and breakneck rides across the picturesque border country.

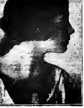
There the resemblance to the usual Wild West film ends. There are no dance hall scenes, for which we register thankfulness, and in the climax the director has dared dispense with the conventional kiss-and-embrace fadeout. Instead he has supplied an ending with an unexpected laugh in it.

Roy Stewart is one of the best portrayers of Western types on the screen, and he plays the border ranger with the usual unaffected skill and ingenuity. He has the ability to make the spectator feel that the things he does are imperatively important. His supporting cast is an especially strong one, with Josie Sedgwick playing a difficult double role easily.

The story deals with a ranger who finds in the desert two murdered men lying beside a burning prairie schooner. Black Bart, leader of the band of border wolves who committed the murder, swears out a warrant for the arrest of Keith, who, in the hope of obtaining further information, permits himself to be arrested, then digs himself out of jail in time to escape lynching. By chance he learns the bandits' plot to rob a girl of a small fortune, and he plays their own game with infinite finesse.

Keith of the Border is a better Wild West picture that any audience will like.—M. D.

SHIRLEY MASON



Star of the new Edison picture of old Japan, with working titles of Aliens and Weavers of Dreams, which will soon be presented at a Broadway theater.

THE GUILTY MAN

Five-reel Paramount picture. Adapted from Al H. Woods' Broadway stage success. For release February 18.

THE CAST:

Marie Dubois	Vivian Reed
Marie Flambon	Vivian Reed
Claude Lescuyer	William Garwood
His Father	J. P. Lockney
Flambon	Charles French
Gaston Marceau	Hal Cooley
Jean Michaud	John Steppling
Jacques Ristac	J. Hayward Mack
Claudine Flambon	Gloria Hope
Director	Irvin V. Willat

The sins of a father and their effect years later upon the life of his unrecognized daughter furnish the theme for this drama of vital realism. The picture closely follows the stage version of Francois Coppee's novel, translated by Ruth Helen Davis and dramatized by the late Charles Klein, and is filled with situations of great dramatic strength.

Claude Lescuyer, a young lawyer, complies with his father's commands to divorce the wife he had secretly married that he may marry for wealth and position. The second wife dies, leaving him a lonely, but successful, man. Meanwhile the woman he had divorced returns to him the money he sends her and to assure a home for her child marries a brutal cafe proprietor.

Years later, nearly blind from constant mending of cafe linen, she is a haggard, unattractive woman, whose only comfort is the pretty daughter. The stepfather compels the girl to sing in the cafe, and insists upon her marriage to a drunken beast to whom he owes money. When the girl refuses he attacks her. When the mother interposes he tries to kill her, and the girl, to save the mother, picks up a revolver from the floor and shoots her stepfather.

Her trial in a French court, with her own father as prosecuting attorney, and the father's denunciation of himself in the courtroom, is a thrilling situation.

Gloria Hope, as the girl, is charming, and Vivian Reed gives a finely drawn character study as the mother. All of the other characters are extremely well done, and the beautiful exteriors, taken in Southern France, add charm to realism.—M. D.

THE INNER VOICE

Five-reel Russian Art Film, featuring Ivan Mosukin. Directed by I. A. Protazanov. For release thru Pathe February 17.

This new Russian film is frankly a study in ethics. It is so entertainingly presented, however, that most ignorant audiences will find it a satisfactory program feature.

Ivan Mosukin is a capable actor with a nice sense of dramatic values, and the all-Russian cast that supports him has been well selected. The phases of Russian life shown have a general interest quite apart from their dramatic worth.

The story shows Ivan Ermoloff, played by Ivan Mosukin, a youth about to enter college, fired with high ideals and determined to let conscience guide him thruout life. In college temptation finds him a willing victim. He is made treasurer of his college club and loses the club's funds at cards. He tutors the son of an old general and succumbs to the charm of the general's wife. He wantonly deserts a girl who loves him and goes on thru life, always sacrificing the beautiful thing for the expedient thing, until he sells to advance the power he hopes to attain as a member of the Duma to obtain money for his election. And when he is elected the tortured hag, Conscience, confronts him.

A good presentation has been given the picture, except in the part concerning middle life, which is somewhat disconnected. The final climax is forceful and dramatic.—M. D.

THE SIN OF INNOCENCE

Fourth two-reel photoplay in Pathe series, The Price of Folly.

THE CAST:

Milton	Daniel Gilfether
Charles Lord	Lake McKee
Sonia Ellis	Ruth Roland
Lafe Wells	Charles Dudley
Donald Lord	Frank Mayo

An idyl of the woods develops into a tragedy when innocence meets guile in this newest The Price of Folly series.

A man of wealth and sensitive ideas comes home unexpectedly to find his wife in the arms of a younger man. He takes the infant daughter to the mountains, where he brings her up in ignorance of the world. An injured stranger is cared for in his cabin, and his shaving mirror is the first mirror the girl of the mountains has ever seen. The stranger locks the old man who helped him in a closet, takes his money and donkey, tells the girl the father had instructed him to show her the world and life, and departs for a doubtful civilization.

Like the earlier pictures of the series The Sin of Innocence is given a careful production. Ruth Roland easily fits the character of the girl of the wilds.—M. D.

MEN WHO HAVE MADE LOVE TO ME

Five-reel Essanay feature. Released at Rialto Theater, New York, week of February 3.

THE CAST:

Mary MacLane	Herself
The Callow Youth	Ralph Graves
The Literary Man	R. Paul Harvey
The Younger Son	Cliff Worman
The Prize Fighter	Alador Prince
The Bank Clerk	Clarence Derwent
Husband of Another	Fred Tiden

Mary MacLane herself, she of the soul stuff that caused literary curiosity a few years ago in the book, I, Mary MacLane, allows others to see her as she sees herself in her new effusion, Men Who Have Made Love to Me. Here is a baffling personality, apparently blase, but always suggesting the possibility that the bored recklessness may be a pose to hide a sentimentality that will not be exploited. And it is this question, constantly obtruding itself, that holds the chief interest of the picture as it did of the author's first book.

There are six episodes in Mary MacLane's love affairs. The first is a Callow Youth, attracted by Mary's disregard for opinion and bored by her smoking and drinking in public. He thinks he is in love with Mary but he is easily fascinated with the possibility of showing what a regular fellow he can be.

Next comes a Literary Man, cold, brutal, critical, who dominates the heroine even to the extent of suppressing her smoking, until Mary ends this hectic chapter by returning his ring and resuming her cigarettes. Then the younger son of a baronet is determined on conquest, but a prize fighter saves Mary from a painful situation and takes his place in her life. Really, one suspects that Mary loves, or might love, the pugilist, but she learns of a pretty girl in the fighter's own class and—gives him back.

She is quite depressed when a bank clerk and the Husband of Another make her acquaintance. But the bank clerk has saved five thousand for a honeymoon in Naples. He is an ardent lover and Mary MacLane finds herself thrilling to the beautiful word-pictures he paints. But at the end of eleven days of bliss and thrills and ardor and romance the bank clerk discovers that Mary MacLane smokes!

The Husband of Another tries to follow, but he doesn't make much of a hit.

The picture is novel and entertaining, and Essanay has given Mary MacLane, she of Butte and soul stuff, a good supporting cast and good backgrounds.—M. D.

FROM TWO TO SIX

Five-reel Triangle feature from Arthur Stringer's story, The Button Thief. For release February 17.

THE CAST:

Alice Stevens	Winifred Allen
Howard Steele	Earl Fox
John Stevens	Forrest Robinson
Baron Kuhn von Wiederholtz	Robert Fischer
Madame Elsa	Margaret Greene
Richard Steele	Clarence Handysides
George Worth	Charles B. Wells
Margaret Worth	Madeline Marshall
French Maid	Amy Somers
House Detective	Riley Hatch
Director	Albert Parker
Assistant Director	Thomas F. Tracey
Photographer	Roy Vaughn
Supervised by	Allan Dwan

Film fans generally will adore From Two to Six. It starts off with a mystery that captures attention in the first inch of film and holds absorbed interest to the end. It has cleverness of plot, punch, speed and suspense, and it is played by a cast whose names alone should be a guarantee of box-office receipts.

The action occurs in four hours. In that short time a Hun spy plot is foiled, two rich fathers, who have planned to marry their unwilling children, are thwarted; a romance develops and youth and justice triumph.

The opening scene shows an inventor's cottage in the mountains near the Hudson. Beside the road nearby a pretty girl stands in an automobile and watches thru field glasses a youth who stealthily approaches the cottage, cuts the telephone wires, and, after reconnoitering, signals the girl in the car, who goes to the cottage door, presents a card with "U. S. War Department" engraved in the lower corner, and is shown by the credulous old inventor the plans for the anti-submarine invention. When she is challenged by the inventor's daughter she seizes the plans and flees, leaving her coat behind, and in the coat pocket an envelope giving the New York hotel where the master spy is staying.

The plot is developed in Arthur Stringer's best style. Winifred Allen, as the inventor's daughter, is a captivating heroine, and Earl Fox plays with easy distinction the rich man's son, who, in trying to evade his father, gets into the apartments of a German baron and is forced to witness an amazing intrigue. Margaret Greene is convincing as the female spy.

A timely theme, a popular author and a talented cast, with faultless production, should make this picture a valuable one from the standpoint of the exhibitor.—M. D.

isn't new, but it is entertainingly presented, and the star does extremely good work.

Just why the title isn't apparent, for the story is not of society, except incidentally. Instead it is a story of New England factory life, of a sensuous foreman whose girl employees, to keep their positions, must keep his personal favor, and of the kind of factory owner who opens his plant by a clock that is three minutes fast and closes by a clock that is three minutes slow.

When Nora Carey, who has to support her school girl sister and herself on her salary of $9 a week, resents his personal attentions she loses her job. The factory owner's son, an idealistic young college man, finds her a place to live and sends her sister away to a boarding school, and Nora becomes an outcast so far as the head of an Uplift Society, who had appointed herself to regulate the factory girl's expenditures and pleasures, was concerned. The foreman's fiendish revenge introduces a bit of Hun ruthlessness.

Whims of Society is elaborately staged and holds interest thruout.—M. D.

THE SONG OF SONGS

Five-reel Artcraft feature. Released February 11.

THE CAST:

Lily Kardos	Elsie Ferguson
Stephen Bennett	Cecil Fletcher
Dick Laird	Crauford Kent
Senator Calkins	Frank Losee
Mrs. Kardos	Gertrude Berkeley
Phineas Bennett	Robert Cummings
Ann Merkle	Corinne Uzzell
Mr. Atwell	Charles Wellesley
Mr. Kardos	Henry Leone
Director	Joseph Kaufman
Scenario by	Charles Maigne

Elsie Ferguson's fourth picture easily maintains the high artistic standard set by her earlier releases. It is one of the final achievements of Joseph Kaufman, who directed it.

In adapting the story for the screen Artcraft has kept to Edward Sheldon's stage version, which was produced at the Eltinge Theater two years ago, and the Lily Kardos of the screen is a sensitively idealistic young person, who, in trying to find her song of songs, plunges into jarring discords.

Lily Kardos' father is a musician and composer, who, after twenty years of marriage to a drunken slattern, leaves home forever after first giving his daughter the just finished Song of Songs. The mother, enraged over his desertion, tries to kill her daughter, but ends her own life instead, and Lily goes to work in an exclusive shop. Men of wealth offer her gifts, which she returns, until ex-Senator Calkins offers her marriage. Marriage was a wonderful word to Lily, and she accepted. A jealous housekeeper plans to compromise the young wife. The Senator won't hear an explanation and Lily is driven to the other man. Eventually she finds her song of songs, but she won't accept it when it comes.

Perhaps the kind commentary on Elsie Ferguson's acting is that while living unconventionally she gives to the character of Lily Kardos a convincing quality of purity and innocence. She makes the part sympathetic always. Incidentally she wears some fetching frocks and priceless jewels. Frank Losee, as Senator Calkins, and Crauford Kent, as the other man, head the notable supporting cast.

Elsie Ferguson is always an irresistible box-office magnet, and in the Song of Songs she establishes more securely her place in the hearts of film fans.—M. D.

PAINTED LIPS

Five-reel Louise Lovely production. Scenario by Charles Kenyon.

THE CAST:

Lou McTavish	Louise Lovely
Captain McTavish	Alfred Allen
Jim Douglass	Lewis Cody
Andrew Slater	Hector Dion
Mrs. Callahan	Mrs. A. E. Witting
Mrs. Silver	Beatrice Van
Rose	Betty Schade

Beauty may be only skin deep, but a coating of lip carmine, cheek rouge, eyebrow penciling and white powder may keep the most beautiful soul from shining thru successfully if the beholder is unwilling to be convinced.

Jim Douglass determined to get rid of Andrew Slater, whose money bought him access to the smart set, by arranging a marriage for Andrew with a member of the painted set. With this purpose in view he visits the notorious Straw Cellar, where he discovers Lou McTavish, frightened and innocent-looking in spite of her painted lips and penciled brows. When the place is raided by the police a few minutes later Douglass takes the girl to his own home and turns her over to his housekeeper to make a lady of her. He refuses to believe her story that her father was a sea captain, that she had always lived at sea, that her father had been killed in a fight and that a kind lady had taken her home, given her clothes and taken her to a ball to cheer her up, and the preparation for the sacrifice goes on.

Charles Kenyon, who wrote Kindling for Margaret Anglin, has made a photoplay that is more than usually artistic from a dramatic standpoint, and Louise Lovely is a captivating Lou. Jim Douglass, a new Universal actor, plays with unemotional calm that is a profound relief.—M. D.

HANDS DOWN

Five-reel Bluebird photoplay, written by E. J. Clawson. For release February 11.

THE CAST:

Stuyvesant	W. H. Bainbridge
Hilda	Ruth Clifford
Tom Flynn	Rupert Julian
Dago Sam	Monroe Salisbury
Marina	Rita Pickering
Jack Dedlow	Al Flynn
Director	Rupert Julian

A Western picture of gambling and gunplay has been given unusual treatment, with the hero a carefree, singing, cheating Italian, in whom no one, not even his own people, believed. The author hasn't been afraid to depart from beaten paths in developing his story, and the picture is breezy and interest compelling.

A goldseeker named Stuyvesant strikes a rich vein of ore, and plans to send his daughter East to school. On his way to the recorder's office to file his claim he is shot, falls from his horse down a mountain side, and his papers, giving the location of the claim, are taken from his pockets. Dago Sam, on his way to Eldorado, witnesses the shooting, laughs, and goes happily on.

At the Eldorado dance hall Tom Flynn saves his life, and the Dago, in gratitude, saves Flynn's sweetheart from the man who had tried to kill her father, and his pals. Pretending to be one of the gang he gambles with them for the girl, and when his hand is too low he uses two automatics. He takes the girl, protesting, to his cabin, and tells her Flynn is his good friend. But she won't believe him. His Italian sweetheart will not believe him, and when he goes to Flynn and the girl's father neither will believe in him, and Flynn is determined to kill him. So he takes the girl to a cabin in the hills, determined to deserve their distrust.

Monroe Salisbury is happily cast as the misjudged hero and Ruth Clifford is a pretty Hilda.—M. D.

Oklahoma Branch of American Exhibitors' Association Calls Upon Film Companies To Invest the Money in Such Manner — A. B. Momand Re-Elected President

Oklahoma City, Ok., Feb. 11.—The sixth annual convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors, now known as the Oklahoma Branch, American Exhibitors' Association, convened at the Lee Huckins Hotel at 11 a.m., February 5. Sixty-two exhibitors from various parts of the State were present, Oklahoma City, Muskogee and Tulsa being represented by the per cent membership. Roll call of officers showed all to be present: A. B. Momand, president; H. H. Jones, vice-president; H. W. McCall, second vice-president; C. D. Jackson, treasurer, and L. W. Brophy, secretary.

The entire complement of officers were re-elected for the coming year by acclamation. Representatives of the various film companies were present and made short talks at the open meeting. Hoyt Morrow, the representative of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, gave an interesting talk on their plan of manufacturing and distributing film.

Fourteen new members were admitted in membership at this convention. The convention went on record as being opposed to the deposit system and agreed to give preference to film companies that show a disposition to be fair.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted and a copy wired to Hon. W. G. McAdoo, Washington, D. C.:

Be It Resolved, That the American Exhibitors' Association, Oklahoma State Branch, in convention assembled, do hereby give consent and authorize the United States Government to request that the film companies convert into Liberty Bonds the vast amount of the exhibitors' money now held by said film companies as advance deposits for film service, such bonds to be held by the film companies as security deposits on film service furnished to the exhibitors by the said film companies to the end that this money, which is now lying idle, may be used in the prosecution of the war. Oklahoma members of the association who are now receiving interest on advance deposits in excess of the rate paid on Liberty Bonds agree to accept the reduction in interest in the amount paid on such bonds.

We further pledge our continued support of the Government to all war measures. Our screens are open to all patriotic movements and our theaters open to Four-Minute Men and other duly authorized speakers.

SHIRLEY MASON'S NEW ROLE

To Be Presented as a Nippon Bride

New York, Feb. 9.—Shirley Mason, the piquant heroine of Seven Deadly Sins and the former Appletree Girl, is being starred by the Edison Company in a novel Japanese production now in the making at its New York studio, for release by Perfection Pictures. Provisionally called Aliens or Weavers of Dreams, the play is not yet finally titled.

The story deals with a pretty Japanese bride who is obliged to forsake her white husband, a young American, because of the conflict arising from difference of race. Miss Mason takes the principal role and is surrounded by a capable cast, including Matt Moore, Orml Hawley, Frank O'Connor, T. Tomamoto and Messrs. Sakima and Wada.

The handling of the theme is quite different from Madam Butterfly, and L. W. McChesney's story is thought by Director Bernard J. Durning to have even a stronger appeal. Real Japanese actors were secured for all the native roles except the star's, while Miss Mason herself passed the most exacting series of tests suggested by an art advisory board.

The staging has been of the most elaborate character and scrupulously artistic as well, thru the assistance of prominent Japanese-Americans resident in New York. Shirley Mason's costuming calls for fourteen changes of dress, among them being some exquisite examples of antique flowered fabrics. This six reeler is now nearing completion, and a series of metropolitan runs in the early spring will precede the release date.

VIRGINIA CENSORSHIP

Exhibitors Frame a Compromise

Washington, Feb. 11.—The Virginia Motion Picture Exhibitors' League has prepared a compromise censorship bill, which is being urged before members of the Virginia Legislature now in session, this compromise measure to take the place of a measure now before both houses of the Legislature.

The exhibitors have agreed unanimously that their measure, which provides that a law be passed providing that only such films as can be shown and have been approved by the National Board of Reviewers of Motion Pictures, or by some board of censors or reviewers created by law, probably based upon a similar law in some other state.

FLORIDA EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE

Holds Successful Convention at Jacksonville

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 9.—One of the most successful conventions ever held in the State of Florida was opened Tuesday by the Florida Motion Picture Exhibitors' League. Success not only from a standpoint of large attendance, but the get-together spirit shown by each and every exhibitor present was manifested from the very start.

The opening session of the convention was held in the private rooms of James D. Kelly, general sales manager of the Consolidated Film and Supply Co., at the Seminole Hotel. After luncheon the regular business session was held in the new offices of D. J. Sparks, general manager of the E. A. Lynch Enterprises in the Arcade Theater Building, at which the most important subjects of this regular semi-annual convention were taken up and discussed.

At the regular election of officers C. D. Cooley, of Tampa, was re-elected unanimously as president of the league, as was also R. A. McIntosh, of Orlando, vice-president, and Al H. "Happy" LaBelle, as secretary.

The next regular convention of this organization will be held during the second week in May at Daytona, Fla., and a full attendance was requested by President Cooley.

After this meeting over fifty members and exchangemen were the guests of D. J. Sparks on an automobile trip to Camp Johnson and return, and many flowery compliments were paid by the out-of-town visitors on the completeness and general make-up of our splendid army reservation.

Following the trip to Camp Johnson the Hon. H. T. Titus, of Daytona, and L. D. Joel, of Jacksonville, entertained all members and exchangemen at a sumptuous banquet on the Mason Hotel Roof Garden, the honored guests of the occasion being Harold Lockwood, of the Yorke-Metro Company, and Harry T. Morey, of the Vitagraph Company. Harold Lockwood was introduced to the guests present by James B. Kelly, of New York City, who has known Mr. Lockwood for some time, having become acquainted with him several years ago in California. Mr. Morey was introduced by Walter J. Price, of the Select Pictures Corporation.

Among the guests present at the banquet and evening were: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Benuet of Ocala, Mr and Mrs. Louis Kalbfeld of Palatka, Mrs. Kalbfeld, acting as the "toastmistress;" Miss Nell Kalbfeld, Palatka; Thornton Parker, St. Petersburg; Frank Conover, St. Augustine; C. D. Cooley, Al H. LaBelle and Fletcher Catron, Tampa; B. Beacham, Jr., Orlando; Hon. H. T. Titus, Daytona; C. T. Dadie, Tallahassee; Wm. Dunworth and Master Dunworth, Miami; D. J. Sparks and Mrs. Sparks, Jacksonville; W. L. Whitehead, L. D. Joel, Mort Seligman and Geo Seligman, Jacksonville; Parrish & Carter, Gainesville; Joe Marentette, Goldwyn Films; Charles Kessnick, manager Mutual Film Co.; C. R. Beacham, manager First National Exhibitors' Corp.; W. T. "Doc" Koch, manager Consolidated Film Co., Atlanta, Ga.; Walter J. Price, Select Pictures; John R. Barton, special representative of the Consolidated Film & Supply Co.; Robert Similer, manager General Film Co.; Harry K. Lucas, of the Harry K. Lucas Supply Co., Atlanta; Moses Levy, special representative, and Richard Anderson, manager the Pathe interests, Atlanta; George Weaver, manager World Film Co., Atlanta; Frank Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain, of the Paramount and Artcraft Film companies; E. T. Cofkey, manager of the Masque of Life Company; Mike Coyne, manager of The Birth of a Nation; C. T. "Stag" Jordan, manager of Consolidated Film & Supply Co., Jacksonville; Walter Schmidt, special representative Paramount Film Co.; William P. Spivens, proprietor of the Greenwich Barrel Co., of New York City; James B. Kelley, general manager of the Southern States Film Co., Atlanta; Aleck R. Ninninger, special representative Vitagraph Co.; Francis Rodgers, of the Selznick-Select Corp., and Claude Barton, of the Consolidated Film & Supply Co.

Among the many little talks that were made by members of this happy gathering the principle ones were those by Walter J. Price, who spoke on The High Price of Film Rentals; Aleck Vougence Ninninger, who made a stirring address on Film Salesmanship, and John R. Barton, whose charming personality shown in his talk on The Two-Barrel System, won the plaudits of everyone present.

CAMOUFLAGE

If The New York Banks Really Want To Cast Out The Treasonable Members In Their Ranks Let Them Not Only Invite, But Insist Upon A Governmental Investigation. Not Lee, Nor The Union Behind Him, Could Stand The Expense Of Uncovering Subtle Carefully Concealed Tracks. The Government Could, However, And Mayhap The Government Will.

Walter E. Frew, chairman of the New York Clearing House Committee, acting for the associated banks of New York City, sent a telegram February 6 to W. G. Lee, head of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, demanding that he submit proofs of his statement before the Railroad Wage Commission to the effect that the railroads were working against making a success of Government operation and that this could be traced back to four banks in New York City. The telegram said:

"Conscious that your statement must be entirely without foundation, we call upon you in behalf of the New York banks to present your proofs, and if you have no such proofs you should frankly concede that fact. The financial institutions of New York, as a whole and individually, have worked and intend to work loyally to aid the Government in every field of its operations, and it is unjust that reflections of this character should be made upon them."

PETTIJOHN AND REMBUSCH

Will Address Chicago Theater Owners' Assn. on the "Manufacturer to Exhibitor Direct" Plan

Chicago, Feb. 9.—A great impetus to the "Manufacturer to Exhibitor Direct" plan, as decided upon at the Washington meeting of the Allied Exhibitors, will be given by C. C. Pettijohn, Harry Rapf and Frank J. Rembusch, Wednesday, February 13, when they address the members of the Chicago Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association.

These well-known organizers will bring with them Passing of the Third Floor Back, Herbert Brenon's latest release, which will be shown to exhibitors of the aforementioned organization, but not exclusively, as the idea is to continue the co-operative plan of the Allied Exhibitors, and members of this organization and those belonging to the Illinois chapter of the M. P. L. of A. are urged to forget organization limitations in order that all may benefit from the amalgamation plan.

It is understood that both local organizations will make exceptional efforts to interest members in this project, as it aims to save money for exhibitors if a sufficient number endorse the fram

THE WORST IS YET TO COME

Men who have made a study of conditions in the motion picture industry in France, Italy, Great Britain, Canada and Australia contend that those engaged in the game in this country have only begun to experience trouble.

They say that things will be much worse before they are better, and point to the fact that the pictures are still slipping in all the warring countries above named.

HEAR AMBASSADOR GERARD

Is Guest of Honor at Luncheon and Delivers Address

New York, Feb. 9.—My Four Years in Germany, Inc., 220 W. 42d street, this afternoon entertained several members of the editorial staffs of the New York newspapers and trade journals at a luncheon in the Art Room on the eighth floor of the Hotel Astor, when Ambassador James W. Gerard was the guest of honor and addressed the gathering.

After the dinner Ambassador Gerard was introduced, and immediately won his audience by declaring that he was not feeling particularly well, as he had that morning received a punch in the nose from his doctor. As a matter of fact Mr. Gerard has been troubled with a minor nasal trouble, but the slight operation he submitted to did not prevent him from keeping his appointment of the afternoon.

He said it was just about a year ago this time that he returned to America and, in his own inimitable way, he painted verbal pictures of his experiences in Germany, his celebrated interview with the Kaiser, when the Kaiser expressed himself so vividly regarding this country and its citizens; he told of the autocracy rampant there, the brutality of the German soldiers, describing the prison camps and picturing the hardships the war had brought upon the country.

He said that at the time he was in Germany he knew little about the great picture industry. He had been there four years and all this time was practically behind closed doors so that the picture field was one little explored by him.

After his address, which lasted about an hour, Mr Gerard answered many questions put to him by those present. Each person present also received a volume of his book, My Four Years in Germany, and Mr Gerard autographed each copy in the presence of the owner.

The picture, which is being eagerly waited for all over the country, will be ready in two weeks, and My Four Years in Germany, Inc., will probably handle the State rights direct. During the afternoon a flashlight picture was taken, and the occasion proved one that will long be remembered by all who were fortunate enough to be present.

DOMINION THEATERS

Will Not Be Closed Unless Coal Situation Gets Worse

St. John, N. B., Feb. 9.—Great consternation was caused among the local theatrical and motion picture exchange men last week when word was received in the city that the Dominion Government was contemplating the closing of all theaters and amusement houses for three days a week in order to conserve the coal supply. On hearing of the proposed order the local men interested in the movies and and decided to send a delegation of five men to Ottawa to ask the Government not to make this move on the plea that it would throw thousands of Canadians out of employment. The delegation, who left for Ottawa, consisted of W. D. Golding, of the Imperial Theater; F. G. Spencer, of the Unique Theater; A. E. Smith, of the Famous Players Exchange, G. A. Margetts, of the Universal Exchange, and W. Romney.

Official word was received from Ottawa later to the effect that, tho some action might be found necessary to close theaters if the coal situation should reach a more acute stage than now obtains, there is no likelihood of such a drastic step being taken just at present.

I. P.-E. A. START ACTIVITIES

Will Announce First Three Selections Soon

New York, Feb. 11.—The seven independent producers engaged in the project of marketing films direct from producer to exhibitor thru the organization to be known as the Independent Producers-Exhibitors' Affiliated will, in a few days, announce the names of the first three or four pictures to be released.

The first showing of finished products was held Sunday afternoon, February 3, for the purpose of considering themselves whether or not the features completed were up to the standard which they desire to maintain. As soon as a feature is passed by the Producers' Committee it will be shown to an Exhibitors' Committee. Trade showings will be held during the early part of this month in at least the prominent cities of the United States of features which have been passed by the Producers-Exhibitors' Affiliated, and the schedule of releases and exploitation of these features will be advertised generally in the trade papers.

DON BARCLAY IN FILMS

New York, Feb. 11.—Essanay is now producing a series of one-reel comedies featuring the Ziegfeld Follies comedian, Don Barclay. Mr. Barclay, who in his stage career has evolved numerous original characterizations, promises something entirely new for film fans.

JOHNNY JONES' EXPOSITION FIRST BIG SHOW TO OPEN

Splendid Line-Up of Attractions Uncovered at Subtropical Midwinter Fair, Orlando, Florida—Wars of the Clouds and Terrors of the Ocean Among New Features

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 11.—Johnny J. Jones' Exposition, one of the largest outdoor amusement enterprises in America, was the last big show to go into winter quarters, and it is the first one to start the new season of 1918. The opening occurred at Orlando today at the Orange County Subtropical Midwinter Fair. The weather was warm and delightful, and the opening attendance was the largest in the history of the fair. Never before were there more and finer exhibits at the fair, and the stock show is double in size, proving Florida is going in for stock raising. The orange, grapefruit and citron exhibit is marvelous, and the horse rams are excellent. The school educational exhibit is most interesting.

This is the seventh consecutive year that Johnny J. Jones has furnished the amusements at this fair, and this season he has twenty shows and three rides, probably the most attractive outdoor exhibition this country has ever seen.

It is almost impossible to find words adequately proper that can do justice to Johnny J. Jones in describing this really gigantic enterprise. To start with there are three big riding devices, the famous $20,000 Johnny J. Jones carousal, which utilizes 1,900 lights for proper illumination; the Giant Eli ferris wheel and the Whip.

The Johnny J. Jones Trained Wild Animal Show has a most elaborate new front, steel arena and organ, and the menagerie has been augmented by another elephant, the famous Gyp, which now gives Mr. Jones what are conceded to be the largest and smallest elephants in captivity. There are five more lions, and Captain Cody Wilson, chief animal trainer, has put on some thrilling stunts while in winter quarters. Princess Iola has a new act with the four tigers. The two elephants have an act, and Captain Gilfoil puts the leopards thru some new stunts. W. Harold Curtis' One-Ring Circus has been enlarged, and much improved upon. America, the Show Beautiful, which features Bootsie and Hody Hurd, seemed to be the talk sensational of the opening. H. F. Maynes' the Witching Waves, newly painted and with a few extra thrills added, as usual, catered to the society portion of the attendance.

One of the new features this year is called The Wars of the Clouds. It was originated, built, patented and copyrighted by Captain Geo. M. Simpson for the Johnny J. Jones Exposition and cannot be seen with any other show. Dakota Max's Wild West is composed of about twenty cowboys, girls of the plains, Indians, wild horses, buffaloes and wild steers. Another new attraction is Terrors of the Ocean. This attraction was originated, patented and copyrighted by Captain Ringman Mack, F. M. Hauer and T. Meltzer especially for Johnny J. Jones' Exposition.

The big little feature is Johnny J. Jones' Midget City, including Prince Denison, Baron Little Finger and Princesses Marguerite and Louise. Margaret Gael, the Mile-a-Minute Girl, has a new auto and motordrome. She has five assistants, including the beautiful Hopewell Sisters. Capt. Geo. W. Simpson has another attraction, called The World's Fighting Navies. Johnny J. Jones has provided some laughing features—one is the Haunted Hotel, with Shorty and Slim as the fun creators. The London Ghost Show's drawing power is remarkable. The Circus Side-Show is in charge of a veteran, Col. Wm. H. Davis, and he has put on a wonderful show. There is a Fat Girl's Congress (Ed R. Salter has named it Hooverized Idiosyncrasies). The English Siamese Twins are another feature, managed by Myer Myers, and then there is Zama, the Monkey Girl.

Here is where you get off. Everybody change cars for the Bug House. Everybody goes there—it's larger and more commodious this year. One of the most interesting attractions is the British Government War Exhibition, in which is seen more interesting relics and historical scenes, and is under immediate supervision of the Great Britain War Department, and every person connected with the attraction has seen service at the front and been wounded in the discharge of their duties.

Johnny J. Jones is to be congratulated upon securing the services of Antonio Oliveto and his Military Band and Symphony Orchestra and 25 soloists. All of the many attractions are massive in size. There is not a platform or pit show with the organization. Every ticket seller is in uniform. There are three immense organs, two una-fons and a calliope with the show. Every front and every wagon is resplendent in newly-painted clothes, and the Jones Steel Flyer of thirty four cars has all been repaired, burnished, decorated and painted.

The new sensational ride, called by Ed R. Salter the Cyclonic Helter Skelter, and two shows, Underground Chinatown and Dixieland Minstrels, were not ready for the opening, but will be added to the Jones Midway soon.

G. W. CHRISTY

Sells His Show to E. H. Jones

G. W. Christy, manager of the Christy Hippodrome Shows, having received his classification card, which leads him to believe that he will soon be called to the colors, has sold his show to E. H. Jones. Mr. Jones will open the show about March 2, and will retain the title of Christy Shows. Mr. and Mrs. Christy sailed from Galveston, Tex., on Feb. 8 for Cuba, where they will tour the island for a few weeks, and then return to their Eastern home and await Uncle Sam's call. Nine members of the Christy Shows are now serving the colors. Personal mail addressed to the Christys will reach them in care of The Billboard.

FRED B. HUTCHINSON

Engaged as Business Manager and Treasurer by Frank Spellman

New York, Feb. 8.—Frank P. Spellman arrived this morning from Toledo, and registered at the Hotel Astor. He called up The Billboard office and expressed himself as pleased to be able to announce the engagement of Frederick Felley Hutchinson, formerly manager of Sells-Floto Circus, as business manager and treasurer of the new United Million Dollar Motorized Circus. This verifies a prediction made in the columns of The Billboard some weeks back. Mr. Hutchinson will arrive in the city from his home in Parkersburg, W. Va., Monday morning for a conference with his chief. Mr. Spellman said that in 24 hours he would officially announce the name of the general manager of the United States Circus, and hinted that The Billboard readers would hail the announcement with much acclaim and delight. He laughingly evaded comment of the recent Ringling rumor in connection with the sale of the United States Motorized Circus.

Mr. Spellman will remain in New York several days, and will be kept busy on matters of vital importance in connection with the launching of his modern circus enterprise.

PATRICK'S WIDOW SUES

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Warren A. Patrick, widow of the well-known theatrical journalist, has entered suit against a casualty company to recover $7,500, the full amount provided for in an accident policy.

Warren A. Patrick, Western manager of The New York Clipper, committed suicide in his Chicago home on June 18, 1915. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of "suicide while temporarily insane." As the accident policy provided for nonpayment in event of suicide the company refused to settle. However, the widow maintains that the "temporarily insane" phrase in the coroner's verdict establishes the apparent suicide as an accident entitling her to full payment.

$5,000 ON TEX McLEOD

New York, Feb. 11.—Apparently Cuba Crutchfield's challenge in The Billboard for a roping contest with Tex McLeod is attracting attention, for McLeod is in receipt of the following telegram from Richard T. Ringling:

Tex McLeod,
Churchill's, 49th Street,
New York, N. Y.:

Hear you are to rope against Cuba Crutchfield. Would like to place $5,000 on you if it has any backers. Tell Bob I will rope against him for a thousand on the side.

RICHARD T. RINGLING.

DROP SUIT AGAINST BARKOOT

Chicago, Feb. 10.—The many friends of K. G. Barkoot will be pleased to learn that the $10,000 damage suit brought against him in the Chicago courts was dismissed Friday. The suit was brought by the family of a child who, they claimed, was injured by falling from a merry-go-round at the K. G. Barkoot Shows while showing at Hawthorne four years ago.

CARNIVAL CARAVANS

By Ali Baba

A license of $250 a week has been placed on traveling '49 Camps in Collinsville, Ok., which practically closes the town against them.

Al F. Gorman pulled off one of the biggest indoor carnivals ever in Columbus, O., recently, for the Eagles. Jimmy Grattlean came off with a nice share, Chief Montour had a big week, meeting all comers with the Athletic Show; Jeanie Allen got rid of over a ton of candy, George Westcott had charge of the scenery, W. F. Walker and the dancing hall and was kept busy, the Mayor, George Karb was mayor of the camp, and Sheriff Bill Slack also took an active part, Louis M. Forcht was master mechanic and decorator, J. Kramer had a neat country store, Nat Narder was a visitor, Bob Tellers had charge of Paris at Midnight and Gorman is going to put on another production, which looks like a second big one.

Don't extend a helping hand to an ungrateful dog. You are liable to have it bitten for your reward. Frank Albert intends to wear armored mitts in the future.

Some of the guests at the pinochle session held at the Hurley Hotel in Philadelphia are: J. Augustus Jones, Bert Rutherford, Howard Robinson, John Lancaster, Lew Welch, H. Weller Loise, Sig. Sautelle, Irving Polack, Joe Payne and Jack Wilson.

Jake Goodman is now serving the colors at Camp Greenleaf, Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., and would like to hear from his friends.

Frank Albert knows the anvil chorus by heart. Every strain and every variation of it is perfectly familiar. He also knows some of those who are at present helping to swell it and will know more. Some of these hammer wielders are going to have a disagreeable minute or two when they come fawning around him after he has won out.

Doc Barnett, who is now working a medicine show in Nebraska, says he will have a swell platform show this coming season.

W. H. Cummings is down in Madison, Fla., passing the time away waiting until the bluebirds sing, and says that shows are few and far between and carnivals a rare species. Cummings says: "In fact, the South is getting a long needed rest from carnivals, which will probably make business better in the future."

Every outdoor showman that believes in organization should attend the called meeting of NOSA at the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, February 18-19. Your presence is of great and grave importance. Upon the representation at this meeting depends the fate of NOSA. The men who have been giving time, work and money to the movement are fast losing patience. The indifference with which their earnest efforts have been met is disheartening. They will not stand for it longer unless decidedly encouraging evidence of interest and a desire to co-operate is manifested at this meeting by a MAJORITY OF the OUTDOOR INTERESTS. If you believe in organization attend this meeting or be prepared to hold your peace for years to come.

Bill Gregory has closed his 10-in-1 after a season of sixty weeks with the Clifton-Kelley Shows and is spending the winter at Helena, Ark. Bill says he will have one of the strongest pit shows on the road when he goes out next season, and is adding two more pits to the lineup.

C. R. Shorty Cornell, owner of the Cornell Amusement Company, was here in Benton, Ark., recently, and bought some show property and shipped it back to the show, which is playing "somewhere in Louisiana." The show is doing nicely at present, and will start North soon and have a big spring opening in a live Illinois town in May.

Roy Gray is getting poetic these days. Some poet, Roy. He's still in Reform, Ala. How does the town stack up with its name, Roy?

W. O. Eph. Gettman, the cookhouse man, can be seen twice a week at Jacksonville fish market selling fish that he catches at Mayport. It's a business proposition with Eph.

Ali Baba firmly believes that Frank L. Albert is the right man in the right place. Ali also believes that it is rotten bad judgment to swap horses in crossing the stream.

Fred Howard says he isn't running a store show in Detroit, as you can only get a permit to run for forty-eight hours, then you have to renew it, and that takes about two days. He is playing vaudeville dates in and around Detroit at the present time.

Frank Connelly, press agent of the Rutherford Shows, spent a pleasant week in Cincy, hobnobbing around with Eddie Owens, of Smith Greater fame. Frank looks fine and is headed for Chicago with the [illegible].

JACK B. BENNETT

Sick and Greatly in Need of Aid

Friends of Jack B. Bennett, the motordrome rider, will read with regret that he is at present seriously ill. It is very urgent that he receive assistance from his friends immediately. Mr. Bennett was formerly in the employ of the C. A. Wortham and S. W. Brundage shows, and both Mr. Clarence Wortham and Mr. Brundage recommend him as a worthy showman. Send all donations to Jack B. Bennett, care of Mrs. Della Riley, 1000 East Jackson street, Joliet, Ill.

BARKLEY'S ADVICE

Outdoor showmen should take up all matters regarding their shows in Washington with Frank L. Albert, care Hotel Raleigh. He is a sure result-getter, and is taking care of our interests in an excellent manner. All individual wiring and letter writing by showmen should cease, for it is not getting anyone definite results.

My advice, after spending several days in Washington with our secretary and witnessing his securing a wonderful concession for our show, is for all showmen to quit bothering officials here with individual requests, because you can not get the results Albert gets. Let him do it. He knows how. I didn't think he did, but he sure does. He is in on the ground floor.—A. H. BARKLEY, General Agent, Johnny J. Jones' Exposition.

EMERGENCY CALL

FOR MEMBERS OF

National Outdoor Showmen's Association

TO DISCUSS AND ACT ON ALL WAR REGULATIONS. VITALLY IMPORTANT MEETING FOR ALL

FEBRUARY 18-19, AUDITORIUM HOTEL, CHICAGO

Association now recognized as a National Institution of Consequence. It's up to the members to perpetuate the organization into one of real high-class business eminence by getting together in Chicago. Bury hatchets, cut out jealousies and work for the common good and salvation of the outdoor show business.

We want all the live members we can get. Let every member bring in a new member to this convention.

A valuable prize to the one who brings in the largest number of new members at this meeting.

N. O. S. A. holds world's record for action, high-class members and accomplishments over any similar organization that has held only one meeting.

YOU CAN'T BUILD A WORLD IN A DAY

N. O. S. A. can accomplish wonders if its present membership will put its shoulder to the wheel, stick and fight.

Lay out your early routes West of North and South Meridian line running thru Chicago; stay away from congested freight districts or territory. Call on railroads for contracts as usual. Notify this association's headquarters if you have any trouble; you should be treated fairly by all railroads. The Director of Railroads will do so if you have right on your side. So don't lose your temper, Mr. McAdoo is a square and fair man.

OBITUARY

ADAMS—Mrs. Rebecca Adams, widely known singer, died February 7 at her home, New York City, at the age of 60 years. She was born in Ireland. Her husband, Robert Adams, of the Hoboken Land and Improvement Co., survives.

ADAMS—Raymond Adams died at his home, 156 West 74th street, New York City, February 7, after a brief illness. Mr. Adams was born in Lodi, Cal., and was 26 years old. For some time he had been appearing with the wife in a dramatic sketch in vaudeville.

ARMSTRONG—James J. Armstrong, well known vaudeville agent, died at his home, Jersey City Heights, N. J., February 3. He was born in New York City, and was 66 years old. In 1888 he was manager for Dick Fitzgerald's Early Birds Company, and in 1889 took charge of Mr. Fitzgerald's vaudeville agency. Upon the death of the latter in that year he continued in the business with Kate Fitzgerald, assuming full charge at her death, which occurred in 1890. Since that time he had run the business under his own name.

BIXBY—Frank Bixby, veteran manager, producer and director, died February 8 at his home, 50 West 105th street, New York City, in the 69th year of his age. His widow survives. A native of New York City, Mr. Bixby had been engaged in the theatrical business for over forty years, early in life managing stock companies and serving as advance man for many stars and plays and later winning an enviable reputation as a manager, stage director and producer. Many years ago he managed the old Madison Square Stock Company. Funeral services were under auspices of the Actors' Fund.

BLAKENEY—William Blakeney, widely known as a blackface minstrel in the decades before and after the Civil War, died at his home, New York City, February 10, at the age of 89 years. Mr. Blakeney was a native of Ireland, and his first appearance with a minstrel company was in 1847 as a violinist. In 1876 he left America for a tour that extended over a period of seven years, and made American minstrel entertainment famous the world over. The company was that of Kelley & Leon, noted minstrel managers of that day. In Australia the organization stayed long and reaped a golden harvest, but in India adversity was encountered. Here the company was merged with the light opera organization of Davis & Frost, which had met with little success in a tour of Australia. The amalgamation added Jefferson De Angelis to the Kelley & Leon Company, and from then on the organization's offering of a combination of light opera and minstrelsy was crowned with great success in a tour of India, Japan, the Islands of the South Sea and England, from which country the company returned to America. After the world tour Mr. Blakeney toured South Africa as a director of the orchestra of a minstrel company. Twenty years ago he retired.

COOLEY—Mrs. Lillian Cooley, wife of one of the best-known men in the amusement business, Hollis E. Cooley, and at one time a noted [illegible] soprano, died February 6 at the family home, Greatkills, Staten Island, N. Y. For the past three years Mrs. Cooley had been a confirmed invalid. She was married to Hollis E. Cooley at Springfield, Mass., in 1882—a romance that harked back to their school days—and shortly after this she made her debut on the singing stage in Girofle-Girofla with the California Opera Company. Then followed appearances with several eminent organizations, usually in character roles, among them an engagement with the musical star, Corinne. She had also sung before Antipodean audiences, making a trip to Australia with The Belle of New York. Her last appearance in New York was with Camille D'Arville.

COREY—John Corey, for seven years stage electrician with leading shows, died February 5 at the General Hospital, Pittsburg, Pa., aged 38. His last engagement was with the So Long, Letty, Company. Mr. Corey was a native of New York City.

EDDELMAN—Ethel Eddelman died in St. John's Hospital, St. Louis, Mo., January 28, after an illness of one week. She was playing at the time in the Zig Zag Revue. Manager Charley Marsh and the members of the company sent a beautiful floral offering to accompany the body to Eldorado Springs, Mo., where interment was made. Before joining the Zig Zag Revue Miss Eddelman was a member of the Six Little Wives, a tabloid musical comedy company.

EGENER—George Egener, father of Minnie Egener, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, died February 1 at the Polyclinic Hospital, New York City, after an operation. He was 66 years old, and came to this country from Amsterdam, Holland, in which city he was born. Forty years of his life were associated with opera. He was assistant stage manager under Stanton & Habelman and Conreid & Grau, and was also an expert musician.

GLOVER—Edwin W. Glover, known the country over as a choral conductor and one of Cincinnati's most prominent musicians, died at his home in the Verona Apartments, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, February 8. A native of Coshocton, O., Mr. Glover came to the Queen City as a young man and was one of the first graduates of the College of Music. In 1886 he was appointed choirmaster of the May Festival, a Cincinnati institution known thruout the world. In this position he became closely associated with the late Theodore Thomas, and was the latter's valued assistant in great choral events. He also became director of the Orpheus Club, a noted male chorus of the Queen City. Mr. Glover founded and for several years conducted the Musical Art Society. His widow, a son and a daughter survive.

HAROLD—Mrs. Donald Harold (May Thompson, the actress), widow of the oldtime actor, Donald Harold, who passed away January 24 last, was found dead in her room, 419 North Greene street, Baltimore, Md., February 2, by Manager Charles E. Sedtler, of the Palace Theater, Baltimore. Her death, it is believed, was due to grief over the demise of her husband. The Harolds had been married twenty-nine years and were greatly devoted to each other. Both won distinction on the stage, making many appearances together in celebrated plays, and both appeared for the last time before the footlights in the revival by Robert Campbell of his father's (Bartley Campbell) play, The White Slave.

HERBERT—Harry M. Herbert, an actor on the American stage for over 30 years, died at the German Hospital, New York City, February 7, at the age of 50 years. He was born in the metropolis, and appeared in many well-known productions, including an important part in the famous Black Crook Company. For the past several years he toured in vaudeville as a member of the York-Herbert Trio. A son survives Mr. Herbert.

HUBBARD—Mrs. Bertha Hubbard, for seven years a member of the Haag Shows, died February 4 at the Schumpert Sanitarium, Shreveport, La. She is survived by the husband—H. D. Hubbard—and her infant daughter, also by two brothers and a sister.

KAUFMAN—Joseph Kaufman, well-known motion picture director, died of pneumonia at the Polyclinic Hospital, New York City, February 1, following an illness of ten days. He became ill while directing Billie Burke's latest picture, Let's Get a Divorce. Mr. Kaufman was 38 years old and a native of Russia, coming to this country in his youth. He made his entry into the theatrical business as an actor, first appearing in stock in Washington, D. C., and later in Cohan & Harris and Edgar Selwyn attractions. His work as a motion picture director was crowned with unusual success, and in this capacity he had been associated with some of the greatest screen stars of the day, notably Clara Kimball Young, Pauline Frederick and Marguerite Clark. At the time of becoming ill he was associated with the Famous Players-Lasky organization, his last picture for this company being The Song of Songs, in which Elsie Ferguson is starred. Mr. Kaufman also directed George M. Cohan's first screen appearance—Broadway Jones. His widow (Ethel Clayton, the motion picture actress) survives.

KREITNER—John Kreitner, one of the founders of the Shea Amusement Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., and an associate in other theatrical enterprises, died recently in Buffalo. Mr. Kreitner was born in Buffalo in 1855, and was educated in the public schools of that city. About 25 years ago he became a partner of Michael Shea, and until a short time ago was actively interested in the Shea theatrical ventures. Mr. Kreitner and Mr. Shea established the vaudeville house in Buffalo known as the Garden, and later the Park (now Shea's), and recently the Hippodrome. About a year ago Mr. Kreitner disposed of his interests in the Shea enterprises, retaining only his holdings in Shea's Theater, Toronto. He was also the owner of the Montreal Baseball Club at one time.

LAMB—Frank E. Lamb, actor-director, died February 3 at the Roosevelt Hospital, New York City, in which city he was born. Lamb was the son of the noted actor, George Lamb and went on the stage at the age of 17, subsequently enjoying years of success as a dramatic actor, organizer of stock companies and stage director. In the capacity of director, tho, he was best known. He directed John Drew for ten years, their association terminating eight years ago, and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence, as well as other noted actors and actresses. He had also been associated with Sargent and with Frohman. Lately he had been dramatic instructor at the American Academy of Dramatic Art, Carnegie Hall, New York City. The funeral was under auspices of the Actors' Fund.

LOCKWOOD—Baby Lockwood, four-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lockwood, who are playing leads with the Otto Johnson Players, died at the Middle West Hotel, Webb City, Mo., January 30.

MILLER—Emily Miller (Mrs. Emily McGinn), formerly a dancer, died at the Bellevue Hospital, New York City, February 4, an hour after giving birth to her baby. The infant survived the mother only a few minutes. Emily Miller joined Lew Fields' Sun Dodgers Company four years ago, and made a pronounced success of a small dancing part that was given her. She then gave exhibition dances at the Hotel Shelburne, Brighton, N. Y., and later appeared at Maxim's, New York City.

SAUL—George R. Saul, father of T. Robert Saul, the circus agent, died at the family home, Adrian, Mich., December 17, 1917, it has just been learned.

SCHUMAKER—V. V. Schumaker, Portland (Ore.) representative of the Ellison & White Lyceum Bureau, was killed in a train wreck at Sedro Woolley, Wash., February 2.

SUTFIN-MILLS—Mrs. Annie Louise Seale Sutfin-Mills, a teacher of music, died suddenly February 1 at her home, 386 State avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WRIGHT—Frank Wright, 63 years old, ever the fancy skating champion of New Jersey, died of heart disease in a restaurant at Grantwood, N. J., February 6.

YERBURY—Mrs. Ella May Yerbury, wife of Charles S. Yerbury, well-known professor of music, died at New York City in the Prospect Heights Hospital February 5.

ZERADO—Adgie Zerado, well-known circus performer, died at the Touro Infirmary, New Orleans, January 27, from cerebral meningitis. She was stricken early in January, while touring Cuba with the Publiones Circus. Her husband of six months—Karyle Zerado, the female impersonator, now touring the Pantages vaudeville circuit—survives, along with one sister, Belle LaRose, of New York City. In private life The Zerados were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Gibson, said to be from Clinton, Ia.

BISTANY BROTHERS

Decide To Enlarge Wonderland Shows

New York, Feb. 9.—Bistany Bros. have decided to enlarge their Wonderland Shows with the addition of Streets of All Nations. No expense is to be spared by the management to make this an outstanding feature, one that any amusement organization might well be proud of. The office of the company is besieged daily with showmen and concessioners making inquiries as to the possibilities of booking with this new giant in the Eastern outdoor show world.

MAX KLASS

Sails for Honolulu

The sixth season of the Max Klass Pit Shows will be opened at the annual carnival in Honolulu February 20. The entire outfit was slated to sail from San Francisco February 7. Those comprising the party are M. M. Klass, Fred Klass, Lala Coolah, Barney Nelson, Natalie, Aztec, Madathe Hagiel, Mrs. Helen Fuller, Alfred Pilgrim and the orang-outang owned by Lala Coolah. The show will return to the States about March 1, and again tour the country as an independent outfit, playing the large State fairs in the fall.

SERIES OF ENTERTAINMENTS

Chicago, Feb. 8.—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Showmen's League of America is planning a series of entertainments during the week of February 23 for the visiting ladies who are eligible to join the organization. An open meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, February 21, in the Empire Room of the Grand Pacific Hotel. There will be a short business session followed by an entertainment and tea. The Auxiliary is growing by leaps and bounds, and applications and donations are coming in rapidly.

Frank L. Albert, secretary of the National Outdoor Showmen's Association, on Monday wired The Billboard from Washington that he had just received from the office of the Director of Railroads a copy of a letter sent out by C. H. Markham, Regional Director of Southern Railroads. The letter is as follows:

Office of the Regional Director of Southern Railroads.

Atlanta, Ga., February 7, 1918.

Circular letter No. 2, to all lines in Class One, Southern District.

Subject: Reply to inquiries as to what is the Government's attitude toward the movement of circuses the coming season:

Dear Sir:

Circuses should confine their activities the coming season to territories not within congested districts. If this is done no objection is found to their being moved as usual, subject to the stipulation that, if necessary to relieve freight congestion or to aid other war activities, contracts for their transportation may be canceled.

(Signed) C. H. MARKHAM, Regional Director.

Mr. Albert has also received a statement, regarding the movement of outdoor shows, issued by Mr. Chambers, Traffic Chief for the Director of Railroads.

T. M. A. NEWS

The secretary of Boston Lodge No. 2, Brother John J. Barry, informs us that he is still among the living after this severe winter, for Boston, too, has had a long siege of it this season. Brother Mose Pickering is getting along nicely, but not rapidly. With the coming spring we want to see you about again, Mose.

A special dispensation has been granted Louisville Lodge No. 8 for a period of sixty days so that it will be enabled to take in members below the regular initiation fee. Many of the theatrical profession are taking advantage of this offer in Louisville, while playing or passing thru. Louisville expects to add many to its membership during the next sixty days.

Our old friend, Charlie Schweitzer, seems to be doing well with the Vitagraph Film Co. A word from him says that he loves that kind of work, and is making good. His territory lies in the northern part of Ohio, and he is kept busy with this film business. You have our best wishes for every possible success, and a line to us now and then will be appreciated.

Brother William S. Moore is the new president of New York City Lodge No. 1. Address him at 281 West 50th street, New York City. Edw. W. Otto and William T. Butler were retained as the secretaries, one as the recording and the other as the financial. No. 1 has twelve members that have joined the colors in the past two months; all reported doing well. The final statement of the annual ball given January 12 shows a greater gain than any one previous year.

On January 26 Butte Lodge No. 79 duly installed its officers for the year. President, Carl Fredericks; vice-president, W. Spiegel; past president, O. N. Olds; treasurer, Joseph Levesy; recording secretary, R. E. Moulton; financial secretary, W. A. Kyle; marshal, J. Laury; sergeant-at-arms, J. Joyce; chaplain, L. H. Clayborn. Brother O. N. Olds was the installing officer, and also has the distinction of being the deputy grand president for the State of Montana.

Cincinnati Lodge is about to give its annual benefit in the nature of a fancy dress and mask ball. It will be given February 12, Mardi Gras Eve, at the Central Turner Halls, 1407-1413 Walnut street. This affair will be the last of theatrical balls given this season. The Cincinnati theatrical people give a series of three dances annually, the first being given by the Moving Picture Operators, the second by the Stage Employees and the third and last one by the T. M. A. proper, which combines all men in the theatrical profession. Of the success of this ball we are without doubt, as there is a large advance sale of tickets, and the advertising has been attended to splendidly.

M. J. Cullen of Newark Lodge has come to the surface again, having dug himself out of the deep snow that has had the old city covered up for the past couple of weeks. Mike, it won't be long till the sun shines on both sides of the street, and the boys can get busy with the paste and brush, for circus time is close at hand.

Received some information from the Texas State. Brother Sam H. Webb, who is the financial secretary of Dallas Lodge No. 60, T. M. A., states that they are doing very nicely in Dallas, that they have their minds on several new applicants for the next meeting. Brother Webb is attending to the duties of the recording secretary, Brother Templeton, who is on the road. Visiting T. M. A.s are always welcome in Dallas Lodge, which has its quarters on 1824½ Main street.

In answer to a query of recent date regarding Pittsburg Lodge officers: James Groth, 2 Cypress street, president; William H. Torrence, 440 Bellaire avenue, Brookline, recording secretary; William A. Bauer, 114 Millridge street, Knoxville, financial secretary. All reside in Pittsburg.

John Varley, advertising agent Lyceum Theater, Cincinnati, reported dangerously sick.—ED HOLLENKAMP, Box 756, Cincinnati, O.

WANT TO BUY Lord's Prayer Gold Pin and Microscope. Also Live or Stuffed Vampire. Odd things. Tents, any size; must be in A-1 condition. Describe. SHAW, Victoria, Missouri.

LETTERS

Free, prompt and far-famed, the Mail Forwarding Service of The Billboard stands alone as a safe and sure medium through which professional people may have their mail addressed. Thousands of performers and showfolk now receive their mail through this highly efficient department.

Mail is sometimes lost and mix-ups result because performers do not write plainly, do not give correct address or forget to give an address at all when writing for advertised mail. Help The Billboard handle your mail by complying with the following:

Write for mail when it is FIRST advertised. The following is the key to the letter list:

Cincinnati ....(No Stars)
New York ....One Star (*)
Chicago ......Two Stars ()
St. Louis ....Three Stars ()
San Francisco ....(S)

If your name appears in the letter list with stars before it write to the office holding the mail, which you will know by the method outlined above. Keep the Mail Forwarding Department supplied with your route and mail will be forwarded without the necessity of advertising it. Postage is required only for packages—letter service is absolutely free.

Mail is held but thirty days, and can not be recovered after it goes to the Dead Letter Office.

Mail advertised in this issue was uncalled for up to last Sunday noon. All requests for mail must be signed by the party to whom mail is addressed.

SERVICE!

That's what did it. Quick action, thorough understanding and intelligent and discriminating handling of mail resulted in practically nine-tenths of the professional entertainers of America making their address to care of The Billboard. Service is rapidly attracting the others.

WE ARE NOW FORWARDING AN AVERAGE OF OVER 1,000 LETTERS A DAY EACH DAY THEY ARE RECEIVED.

Many of our clients are not put to the necessity of writing for their mail more than once or twice a season.

We do not have to advertise 8% of the letters that pass through our offices.

IN WRITING FOR MAIL THAT IS ADVERTISED, USE A POSTAL CARD. A self-addressed and stamped envelope is not necessary. Give your route far enough ahead to permit your mail to reach you. Write names of towns, dates and signature plainly.

MAIL IS HELD BUT ONE MONTH

and thereafter is sent to the Dead Letter office. It is advisable to write for mail when your name FIRST appears in the list. Address your postal to "Mail Forwarding Service," The Billboard.

other, in seemingly endless succession, came to light. Of course the lads didn't enjoy the candies—not a bit—to use our expression, "they didn't touch the ground." There is still one box of candy to arrive, probably tomorrow.

This is Xmas Day, but we've had no Xmas dinner; only a bit of pudding. Orders came around that we were to have it when we came out of the line, which, I hope, won't be long now. This is a very pretty place at present. 'Tis the ruins of an old French village, very badly shelled and knocked about. It has been snowing for some days, and everything is covered with snow. The roads are frozen hard and really dangerous to walk on.

Our C. O. has just paid us a visit with a very acceptable tot of whisky. He thinks we have fine officers, also thinks we will probably get away from here tomorrow. Fritz is mad, and no mistake about it, tonight. He is throwing over enough heavy stuff to blow the whole lot of us to heaven and back again. It looks as tho he's preparing for a big stunt. Must roll into my blanket now. It's getting late, and my wood is on its last legs. Will endeavor to write you a decent letter one of these days, when my surroundings are a trifle more congenial.

Do not forget to convey my heartiest thanks to those friends of yours who were so good as to add to your parcels for me.

Fondest love and tons of good wishes.

Ever your affectionate brother,

TOBES.

THE LITTLE TEACHER

dear little teacher. This well-acted comedy-drama, so simple and so human in its appeal, bids fair to become one of the season's successes.

Tears and laughter alternate. If a tear comes with the storm of emotion a laugh follows as closely as a rainbow, making each tear a pearl, and The Little Teacher contains pearls enough for a beautiful necklace—the most precious gem of which is Mary Ryan.

The story concerns Emily West, teacher in Goshen, Vt. Two little children of her school were habitually beaten by a Sicilian mother and a drunken father, so the Little Teacher kidnaped them, taking them to live at her boarding house, which brought murderous threats from the parents and disapproval from the villagers, except one, Pug, a roughneck lumberman, who loved her and constituted himself a sort of body guard until gossip drove him from town. At the School Board trial it was detected that the Sicilian woman was not the mother of the children, but a kidnaper, and the children were restored to their rightful mother, whose place the Little Teacher consented to take in France as head of a home for Belgian orphans. Meantime the lumberjack had enlisted and returned to Goshen. The closing scene saw the two preparing to go over there together.

The play was staged with successful appreciation for detail, the tidies, whatnots, worsted mottoes—all of the rural interior seems happily related to each other. They did not stand out separately like a prize collection.

Miss Ryan was altogether charming as Emily West, and played the role with sympathetic appeal. Curtis Cooksey did remarkably clever work. The well-rehearsed children simply captured the house. Kate Mayhew was excellent. Lillian Dix, Marie Haynes, Viola Leach, Vina Morris, Edward Robinson and Horace James proved themselves capable support.—M. F. L.

Excerpts from the New York dailies follow:

Evening Sun: "It is safe to predict that The Little Teacher will have a long run at the Playhouse."

Evening Mail: "The crowd that sat thru the first performance cried a little, applauded a great deal and seemed entirely satisfied."

Morning Sun: "The sincere applause, and, still more, the constant laughter of the audience, showed what a strong appeal The Little Teacher will make to the public."

Times: "This kind of play has never been better written or more truly characterized."

Morning World: "It would not be surprising if The Little Teacher should become the 'Way Down East of the Great War period."

This is a belated review and only runs now because The Billboard is a record as well as a weekly digest. The Madonna of the Future belongs in that long list of plays that had better never have been written.

They bring discredit upon the stage and its people.

Several of our critics referred to it as daring. It is not. It is merely dirty. Also it has "written for royalties" stamped all over it.

Take some filthy subject matter, hang its research on the idle rich, smear it up with epigrams and raw allusion, provide it with a happy ending, give it an irreverent, not to say a blasphemous, title, and you have a great box-office attraction—a big winner.

Mr. Dale's play is not even fit to present to audiences of the "men only" and "women only" stamp, for the simple reason that it starts from an utterly improbable, not to say false, premise and gets nowhere.

Servant and shop girls may find it absorbing, but it is to be hoped that the greater part of the theatergoing public will find it tedious and tiring.

The critics of the New York press were surprisingly mild and indulgent.

theatrical programs announcing the event. Mandel Bros. will supply all the interior decorations free. In addition to the usual frame slides will be circulated to motion picture theaters, and 500 half sheets will be prominently displayed in store windows.

A glance at the attractions to be unveiled promises remarkable entertainment for those who avail themselves of the opportunity to attend at the reasonable rate of 50 cents for adults and half that much for children. Those who are wont to picture such affairs as "hold-up" propositions will be glad to know that Mrs. Singer has rigidly insisted that all costs shall range between 10 and 25 cents, surely not beyond the reach of any pocketbook.

A unique feature will be the Antique Shop, conducted by Amy Leslie (the dramatic critic) and Mrs. May Hite. Professional performers will contribute trinkets and valuables (all bona fide), such articles holding individual interest because of historic association. And those who have loved noted stage personalities at a distance may secure these quaint articles identified with their careers at an absurdly low price.

Some of the many professionals who will assist in making the affair successful are Zelda Sears, Ann Sutherland, H. B. Warner and his wife, Rita Stanwood, Fanny Brice and Will Rogers of the Follies cast, Mildred Richardson and Alyn King.

should they know that performers set up certain definite demands for material desired—demands seldom if ever met by the amateur's product? Who is to tell them, that the orchestra leader, made critical by long contact with the kind of numbers his patrons want, seldom awards their compositions more than a cursory examination before discarding them entirely?

It will be seen that the printer invariably "gets his." The song may not sell ten copies, but because a higher charge is levied for short runs of regular and professional copies, also orchestrations, the printer sees a profit from the beginning all thru the transaction.

The song shark was put out of business because he made popularization promises which were never carried out. The printer implies the same thing, tho he is permitted to do business undisturbed.

There is nothing wrong about letting people who want to see their names on title pages enter into negotiations with printers. They possess the right to do so. But they should be warned that this is a sacrifice to their pride and not the beginning of a profitable business enterprise. It is highly ludicrous to eliminate the song shark when the worst aspect of his activities (printing) is permitted to flourish.

Most of the printers are honestly inclined ones who would forego their illicit profit if regulations concerning their activities were universal. But in these days of great competition it would be folly for one to refuse this work from the unsuspecting only to permit rivals to secure the profits.

It would be a boon the established publishers to eliminate the amateur pest from the dealer's daily round. Performers would not be sidetracked by being showered with material they couldn't possibly use. Orchestra leaders would be in a better position to concentrate upon real material.

In this connection it must be emphasized that all small publishers do not come within the amateur class. Some, well knowing the difficulties of the game, persist and succeed. But it would be far better for them if the out-and-out amateur were not imposed upon. Under present conditions many performers mistake enterprising publishers, whose limited facilities have made them unknown outside a limited zone, for amateurs. Most of the properly constituted smaller publishers would like to see warnings issued to prospective printers' victims.

When anybody tells you about "protecting" the music publishing game by eliminating abuses ask him what action has been, or is likely to be, taken regarding this greatest abuse of the song world—the printer's silent victim.—CASPER NATHAN.

constructive step expressed by the inauguration of this Bureau of Administration is a reflection of the consistent progressiveness that has actuated the course of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation from its inception. The new identities within the organization also reveal the motive for the recent surrender by Hiram Abrams and B. P. Schulberg of the executive supervision of the Paramount organization.

At the time of the transfer of these duties Mr. Abrams issued a statement explaining that the action was taken in advance of a well-developed plan to establish closer co-operation between producer and exhibitor than was ever before possible. The present declaration of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation indicates the materialization of this plan.

DOWNIE RENAMES CIRCUS

Secures Title of Walter L. Main Fashion Plate Shows

Havre de Grace, Md., Feb. 11.—A deal has just been completed between Andrew Downie and Walter L. Main, of Geneva, O., whereby Mr. Downie has secured the title of the Walter L. Main Fashion Plate Shows and will substitute it for the La Tena Three-Ring Wild Animal Shows the coming season.

The La Tena Circus, under its new name, will be larger than heretofore, and many improvements will be made. The show will be transported in eighteen cars, and will begin its tour April 25 at Havre de Grace, Md., Mr. Downie's winter quarters. Mr. Downie will be sole owner and manager, and all contracts made for the La Tena Show will hold good with the Main show outfit. He is now here, but will leave shortly for Chicago, where he will be from February 17 to 20, making The Billboard his stopping place there.

RUTH LAW IN DEMAND

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Ruth Law, the aviatrix, is in great demand. After spirited competition among a number of big State fairs the Indiana State Fair at Indianapolis was successful in securing her for Labor Day week. It is understood the salary is a topnotcher—big, and then some.

HOMER JONES PROMOTED

Will Manage Wortham's World Exposition Co.—Eddie Brown Assistant

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 8.—Homer V. Jones, last year treasurer of the C. A. Wortham Shows, has been named manager, and J. Eddie Brown, last year manager of the Wortham Greatest Shows, has been made assistant manager of the C. A. Wortham World's Greatest Exposition Company for the season 1918. The new manager has had a world of practical experience in the outdoor show business. He has served in every executive capacity, and because of his ability, progressiveness and loyalty C. A. Wortham has rewarded him with promotion. "Eddie" Brown is not a newcomer in the business. His experience in the tented world has been gained from hardheaded, practical showmen. He also has served in many capacities, and has always been on the up-climb. As manager of the Wortham Greatest Shows last year he displayed a managerial ability that attracted the attention of Mr. Wortham, who has again placed him in a responsible position.

These are busy days around "Worthamville." Everybody is getting ready for the opening of the winter show February 14 at Laredo, Tex. The several weeks' tour has been booked by General Agent Harry B. Potter.

Walter Stanley, who has been made manager of the Wortham & Rice Caravan, has gone to New Orleans to assume his new duties and whip the organization into shape. Mrs. Stanley accompanied him, and the night before the departure friends gathered together and gave a hearty "So long, Walter and Missus." Jay Coghlan and wife, Marie, have gone to Kansas City for a visit, as have Homer Jones, wife and Mrs. Richards, mother of Mrs. Jones. Harry Knight, superintendent of privileges, is here getting ready for the tour. How about your service flag? The Wortham flag has thirty-two stars on it to date.—C. M. CASEY.

RINGLING OPENING APRIL 20

A Proclamation by the President.

By the authority vested in me as president of the Showmen's League of America, I hereby proclaim Wednesday, the 20th day of February, A. D. 1918, a legal holiday for all outdoor showmen of these United States of America, and propose that all loyal citizens of the showmen's clan band together in Chicago on that date for the purpose of participating in the most important event pertaining to Showdom in our national history, given under the auspices of the world's greatest Outdoor Showmen's social and charitable organization, i. e.,

THE SHOWMEN'S LEAGUE OF AMERICA

Fourth Annual Banquet and Ball

GOLD ROOM, CONGRESS HOTEL, CHICAGO

Wednesday Evening, February 20th, 1918

This date has been selected by the Executive Committee as most suitable because of its happy adaptability to the calendars of the Fair Secretaries, The American Trotting Association, COMA and the National Outdoor Showmen's Association. All those in attendance at the various conventions being held in Chicago during the week of February the 17th are cordially invited with their families and their friends to be present on this occasion. I further earnestly solicit the heartiest co-operation on the part of all members of the Showmen's League of America in making the Fourth Annual Banquet and Ball not only the greatest event of its kind in the history of Showdom, but also the most enjoyable and truly profitable to all in attendance.

THE LAMBS GIVE BIG WAR GAMBOL FOR "OUR BOYS" IN THE SERVICE

Approximately $6,000 Netted at Benefit Performance

Staged at the Hudson Theater, New York City

Pretentious Program Given Before Packed House

New York, Feb. 18.—The Lambs' War Gambol last night netted approximately $6,000 for the benefit of "Our Boys" in the service and afforded an evening of bubbling mirth, with occasional tears, for the audience that filled the Hudson Theater from the $1,200 stage box occupied by former Mayor Julius Fleischman, of Cincinnati, to the second balcony, filled with members of the Stage Women's War Relief and their guests.

Joseph R. Grismer made an introductory address and read a letter from an actor-soldier over there, who hoped the members of the Lambs' Club would sometimes think of him, and Augustus Thomas spoke briefly of the need to "think courageously." Raymond Hitchcock and Leon Errol were not on the program, but they interpolated a bit of nonsense, and Hitchcock auctioned off a gold vanity case of Geraldine Farrar's.

The program included two war plays, an operetta, a burlesque of Lombardi, Ltd., a dramatic satire, a tense little sketch, songs and pantomime, and Uncle Tom's Cabin up to date.

Waiting was the first number, arranged by John Sainpolis, and featuring Sainpolis, George LeGuerre and Harry Clarke. This was followed by Ernest Torrence, in Scotch songs and jokes.

The Rejuvenation, an operetta by Kenneth Webb, score by Roy Webb, was an ambitious and artistic offering, with Harrison Brockbank as Art, Hal Forde as Wisdom, Francis J. Boyle as Cynicus, George Hamlin as Antique, Frederick Santley as Painting and Crauford Kent as Sculpture.

Fred Walton, with two dummy soldiers and a war medal, was a wordless laugh producer. A Trench Fantasy, by Percival Knight, was transferred from a local theater. It presented a trench dugout on Christmas Eve, with a Sammy, a Tommy and a Poilu, played by Capt. Wm. Harrigan, Percival Knight and James Crane, with Tom Wise as Santa Claus and W. L. Abingdon as the Shadow of Death lurking in the dugout.

Charles A. Stevenson and George LeGuerre interpreted a father and son in

SHUBERTS BUSY ON PLANS TO ADD THEATERS FOR BIG FIGHT

Strengthening Themselves for Combat With K. & E.

Secure Interest in Several Selwyn Theaters

Complete Booking Agreement With A. H. Woods

New York, Feb. 16.—The Shuberts this week took a pronounced stride in their effort to declare their supremacy and further strengthened their position in the theatrical warfare now existing between them and the Klaw & Erlanger interests. They have secured an interest in several of the Selwyn theaters, and, while rumors of a similar attainment of A. H. Woods' theater interests are denied, it is admitted by Mr. Woods that the Shuberts have perfected a booking agreement with him.

The Shuberts will extend their influence to the three new theaters now under construction in this city by Selwyn & Co. It is said that these houses will be christened the Selwyn, the Times Square and the Margaret Mayo, the latter being named in honor of Mrs. Edgar Selwyn. The Selwyn will include a six-story office building, which

INVESTIGATION OF BIRTH OF A RACE CORPORATION STARTED

Attorney General of Illinois in Personal Charge

Says He Will Get Facts and Prosecute Unlicensed Dealers

Stock Broker Arrested in Connection With Case

Chicago, Feb. 18.—The Billboard exposure of the stock-selling manipulations of The Birth of a Race Photoplay Corporation, published January 26, has stirred the entire moving picture world and has resulted in official action by the Illinois Attorney-General in the arrest of one broker and official assurance of a thoro investigation of the company, its selling agents and others.

This story brought many angles of this sad situation to the front, and showed that there were very extravagant claims, to say the least, in the publicity matter used for stock-selling purposes. When the light was let in on this piece of stock jobbing the poor, innocent stockholders began to realize that they had but a slim chance for their money.

The attorney for The Birth of a Race photoplay came to The Billboard office and made a plea for time in which a delegation could go to Florida and see if this could not all be put on a business basis and save the picture from financial failure. We agreed to do this and leave Mr. Barker's letter, which is published herein, remain unpublished and unanswered for a week on the condition that in the meantime the stockholders get together and take all necessary precautions to protect their own interests.

The storm broke on the Chicago curb, where a lot of the promotion stock had been dumped in violation of the inside agreement, and of the best interest of the promoters themselves. The Illinois Blue Sky Law was injected into the fight and soon the newspapers were vieing with each other for the latest news and greatest sensation from this seat of financial war.

Edwin L. Barker made a reply to our previous article, which he gave out to square himself with the stockholding public. That reply we publish in full just as received, with one slight use of the blue pencil. He referred in his statement to the wife of one of the men mentioned and dragged in, needlessly, we think, the domestic affairs of his former partner. We are sure that nothing is to be gained by dragging in the domestic affairs of any who are connected with the case.

S. L. of A. Organization Agreement Ratified

Stirring Speeches by the Chicago Visitors

Hippodrome Benefit Now Looks Like Sure Thing

New York, Feb. 16.—The Showmen's League of America, New York branch, accorded a royal welcome last night to the delegation sent them by the mother lodge in Chicago. There were some impressive addresses, a general atmosphere of enthusiasm and an inspiring tone of goodfellowship. It was 9 o'clock when Harry Raver, Governor, called the meeting to order. The formal business of the session was speedily disposed of. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Edward C. White, and were approved and accepted.

When the committee reports were called for, George L. Macfarlane responded for the Press Committee. He said he felt there was need of the committee keeping in touch with the chairmen of the various committees so that the former could be kept constantly

AL. G. FIELD WINS SUIT AGAINST TRENTON THEATER

Verdict Decides Important Question Regarding Validity of Theatrical Contracts—Court Decides Two Weeks' Notice Has No Bearing on Contracts Without This Clause

New York, Feb. 16.—Al G. Field, the veteran minstrel man, this week won his suit against the Trenton (N. J.) Theater Building Company, and the court's verdict in his favor determines an important question regarding the validity of theatrical contracts. The point of controversy is almost as old as the theatrical business, it is continually cropping up in every branch of the business, but in the case in question the matter was thoroly threshed out in Trenton this week before Judge Lloyd and a jury in the Mercer Circuit Court.

This controversy between Montgomery Moses of the Trenton Theater and Mr. Field has been to the courts since 1916. The cause of the action was the canceling of the Al G. Field Minstrels at Trenton in that year. The defendant claimed that the usual two weeks' notice of cancelation on the part of the theater management was sufficient to relieve the theater of any further responsibilities in the matter. The court, however, overruled this contention, deciding the case in favor of Field and determining that the so-called two weeks' notice has no bearing on contracts which are without a specific two weeks' clause.

Mr. Field brought suit for damages against the theater company because of the latter's refusal to permit the show to be staged January 14-15, 1916, claiming violation of a contract entered into by him and the theater management. The defendant corporation admitted the existence of the contract, but held that theatrical custom recognizes a notice of cancelation of two weeks and declared that such notice was given Mr. Field.

The trial developed the fact that Mr. Field and his company arrived in Trenton and was prepared to show according to the terms of the contract. He was not permitted to do so, however, the theater management contending that such an engagement at that time would not have been profitable. At that particular time it was explained the theater attendance had fallen off because of the campaign being conducted by Billy Sunday.

Mr. Field was on the witness stand for several hours and testified in detail as to the organization of

Tacoma's New Theater

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 16.—John Baker and H. F. Moore, manager of the Colonial Theater on Broadway, have started the work of construction of a new $500,000 theater building at Market street and Ninth avenue, former site of the old Star Theater, which burned several years ago. The building will be 90x120 feet, and will have entrances on both Ninth avenue and Opera Court. May 1 has been set as the date of completion. The new theater will be built primarily for moving picture purposes, but will have stage facilities adequate for the usual traveling attractions.

Rivalry Helps Business

Los Angeles, Feb. 16.—If the operating of a K. & E. show at the Mason Opera House in this city and the simultaneous showing of the Shubert attraction, Johnny, Get Your Gun, at the Majestic at the cut price of $1 for the best seats is any indication of a theatrical war the Western entrenchments are booming along at a great rate, judging by the business done by both shows during their first week. Turn to the Right, the K. & E. attraction at the Mason, did a booming business the first week. Likewise did Johnny at the newly reopened Majestic. If the war is on, as some declare, the opening of both houses at once indicates its local effect has not been disastrous to either party concerned, for the rivalry has apparently helped both attractions. Turn to the Right challenged with the statement that it would stay two weeks Johnny, Get Your Gun came right back and said it might stay three.

LILLIAN GOLDSMITH

Miss Goldsmith, one of the foremost dancers in this country, will be one of the features of The Lady Beautiful Minstrels, which Charles D. Wilson, manager of Gus Hill's minstrel attractions, will present to the public Easter week. In private life she is the wife of Mr. Wilson.

On Tuscania, But Saved

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 16.—Wm. E. Evans, well-known American actor and son of Dr. W. E. Evans, rector of the Church of the Advent here, was on the ill-fated Tuscania, but is reported among the survivors.

Epidemic of Diphtheria

Closes Theaters in North Yakima

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 16.—Due to an epidemic of diphtheria the City Commission for North Yakima ordered all theaters and public amusements closed last Saturday. Frederick Mercy, proprietor of all the theaters there, was prevented from opening his houses by the police. Mr. Mercy's attorney appealed to the judge of the Superior Court for a temporary restraining order, but it was refused. A meeting was held Monday, but brought no results. The order will probably be rescinded next week. Two deaths have resulted from the epidemic, and there are twenty-five cases now in the city. A detention station has been provided. The Hip. road shows were forced to cancel their Yakima dates, as were Cleopatra (film) and The Bird of Paradise show.

Eliminate Objectionable Stuff

Cleveland, O., Feb. 17.—At the behest of the Cleveland Federated Churches plans are being laid by Law Director FitzGerald for the elimination of alleged suggestive lines in plays appearing in this city. The move takes the form of preparation of ordinance seeking the licensing or censoring of theaters, thereby preventing them from presenting scenes or the speaking of lines claimed to be objectionable from a moral point of view. The proposal does not affect motion picture houses officials of the Federated Churches explain.

Baltimore's War Tax

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 16.—At Ford's Opera House the war tax has averaged about $4,200 per month. Three hundred and thirty dollars in taxes was paid to hear the recital by Alma Gluck Monday afternoon. Harry Henkel declined to give an estimate of the war tax paid at the Academy of Music, but stated that the business there has never been better, considering the war times. At the Maryland Theater, playing Keith attractions, Manager Schanberger stated their average was between $4,000 and $4,500 per month. Manager McLaughlin, of the Auditorium, where dramatic stock has recently been installed, says $1,500 is the average tax. At the Palace Manager Sadtler says $9,000 would be a conservative estimate of the monthly average. Three thousand dollars is a fair average for the Hippodrome, according to Manager McDermitt, and $3,500 is about the amount for the Garden, according to Manager Harry Woods. Manager De Hoff estimates the tax at the New Theater yields about $2,000. Thus at the big theaters the total war tax averages about $25,700 per month.

Would Be Classed Hazardous

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16.—Assemblyman Blakely has introduced a bill in the New York Legislature placing employees of theaters and similar places engaged in placing, adjusting or shifting scenery or operation of stage properties within the hazardous employment provisions and making them subject to the Workmen's Compensation Law.

May Dissolve Partnership

New York, Feb. 16.—It is reported along Broadway that Raymond Hitchcock and F. Ray Goetz are about to dissolve partnership. The dissolution will be in an amicable manner, it is said.

James K. Hackett

General Director K. C. Theatricals at U. S. Camps

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—James K. Hackett, the actor-manager, has been appointed general director of amusements of the Knights of Columbus Committee on War Activities and will immediately begin the organization of high-class theatrical companies in the army encampments and cantonments and the naval stations. These companies will be composed of professional actors and talented amateurs now in military service.

The plays which Mr. Hackett plans to produce will be presented in the buildings which the Knights of Columbus are operating in the camps. He will begin operations at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass. As soon as the organization of the talent in the American camps has been completed Mr. Hackett will go to France to continue his work in the Knights of Columbus buildings located in the camps of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Shuberts Buy Boston O. H.

Boston, Feb. 16.—Lee and J. J. Shubert, who purchased the Boston Opera House this week, have secured one of the finest theatrical buildings in this part of the country. Adjoining the main theater on Saint Stevens street is an eight-story building, which went with the opera house in the sale. This building contains a studio for scene painting and machinery for the production of theatrical properties, also dressing rooms for large choruses.

All outstanding contracts with the Boston Opera House are assumed by the new owners, including the engagement of the Chicago Opera Company, which opens there February 18. For the balance of the season the playhouse will be under the local management of E. D. Smith, who is general manager of the Shuberts' Boston houses.

Fuelless Days Over

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—The closing of theaters, motion picture houses and other places of amusement on Tuesdays east of the Mississippi River ended the past Tuesday. This was assured Wednesday afternoon when Federal Fuel Administrator Garfield revoked the heatless Monday order.

New War Charity Bill

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16.—Assemblyman Kasson has introduced a bill in the assembly to add a new section to the general business law requiring any person or corporation promoting or giving theatrical performances, dances, bazaars or other entertainments for war charity or patriotic purposes to be licensed by the Bureau of Licenses in a city having such bureau, by the Mayor in other cities, by the president of a village and elsewhere by the town supervisor. Written application stating the objects and nature of the benefit must be filed before the license may be granted.

Shirley Thompson Opens New Rialto Theater in Mexico, Mo.

Mexico, Mo., Feb. 16.—Shirley C Thompson opened his $20,000 New Rialto Theater last night to a S. R. O. house with George H. Bubb's Ikey and Abey Company. The entire seating capacity of 800 was sold several days in advance. The performance gave great satisfaction, and judging from the attendance on the opening night the New Rialto is on the road to success.

The Greater Hero Tryout

New York, Feb. 17.—The Greater Hero, a new American war sketch, will be given a tryout this week at the Pitt Theater, Pittsburg. Produced by Wm. Moore Patch, it will be presented in conjunction with Captain Kidd, Jr., the Pitt's regular bill.

Orchestra in Wreck

San Francisco, Feb. 16.—A special eastbound train carrying the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, which has been touring the Pacific Coast, was struck head on by a special westbound train at Elko, Nev., it was announced at the Southern Pacific Company offices here. None of the members of the orchestra was injured.

Beall Gets Auditorium

Chicago, Feb. 17.—News is flashed from Sioux City, Ia., that A. B. Beall, pioneer Middle West showman, who operated the old Grand Opera House of that city for years, has taken over the Auditorium, which will serve as a roadhouse for some of Broadway's biggest hits. The house will be entirely refurnished, and especial stress will be laid upon the bookings so that first-class patronage will be the rule.

Gives Fourth Matinee

New York, Feb. 16.—The American Academy of Dramatic Arts gave its fourth matinee of the season yesterday in the Lyceum Theater. The Triumph of the Philistines, a three-act comedy, was given, preceded by The Rushlight, a one-act drama, which was given here for the first time. The audience was large and appreciative.

Miss 1917 at Auction

New York, Feb. 18.—All of the scenery, properties, costumes, etc., of Miss 1917 will be sold at auction next Wednesday and Thursday. The electric sign which blazoned forth Miss 1917 will also go. The auction is by order of the United States District Court in the course of proceedings in the receivership of the Century Amusement Co., which produced the play.

May Have Own Theater

New York, Feb. 16.—A rumor is afloat here that the Chicago Opera Company is figuring on a new theater of its own in Broadway for its next season of opera. It is said the success of the organization here this season has encouraged the backers to arrange an engagement of twelve weeks in New York next year.

Dougherty Recovering

Philadelphia, Feb. 16.—Hughey Dougherty, the veteran minstrel, who was reported dying a short time ago, is doing well Howard H Evans, manager of Dumont's Theater, paid him a visit at the Pennsylvania Hospital a few days ago and found his condition much improved. He is suffering from bronchial pneumonia. Dougherty is 70 years of age.

BROADWAY AND BYWAYS

By William Judkins Hewitt

New York, Feb. 16.—Theater managers and others interested are all set for the return to normal methods of operation incident to the good news that canceled "Heatless Mondays." There has been very little to rumble the theatrical world's grand center this week that is in evidence. Some talk about the dissolution of certain theatrical partnerships and the building of another opera house especially for the Chicago Opera Company in the vicinity of Columbus Circle. Business seems to be running a litte bit higher on the right side of the ledger for the theatrical successes and topnotch vaudeville houses of their respective classes.

• • • • • •

The talk today among outdoor showman is the proposed benefit to be given at the Hippodrome April 21. Everyone in that line of endeavor has taken to the "spirit" of the Showman's League of America and is positive that a big doings at the "Hip." will be just the right thing for properly putting the league on the map of New York.

The National Outdoor Showmen's Association, thru the able direction of its executive secretary, Frank L. Albert, broke into the press hereabouts Wednesday. The story carried most reassuring matter from Washington in reference to the hauling of shows and theatrical attractions. If not a single thing else is done by the secretary of the association the men of the amusement world in general owe him a vote of thanks and applause that should echo across the continent.

We get the news that the Barnum & Bailey Circus will open in Madison Square Garden April 4 for five weeks, and then show under canvas in Brooklyn for the first time in several years. The local "kids" are happy. The walls of the city will soon be blazing with announcements of the "greatest show on earth."

Plunges to His Death

Captain Vernon Castle Killed Trying To Avoid a Collision

Ft. Worth, Tex., Feb. 16.—Vernon Castle, the famous dancer and captain of the 84th Squadron, British Royal Flying Corps, met death yesterday morning at Benbrook Field, fifteen miles west of this city, in an effort to avoid a collision with another aviator. A cadet aviator, with whom he was flying, was only slightly injured. Captain Castle was taken from the wreck of his machine unconscious, and died twenty minutes later in the field hospital. His skull was fractured.

Captain Castle came here last October from Europe. During his service in Europe he was credited with 100 flights over the German lines. His real name was Vernon Blythe, and he was born in Norwich, England, May 2, 1887. He appeared in several of Lew Fields' shows, including The Girl Behind the Counter, in which, as a waiter, he made his first success as a comedian. While playing in The Summer Widowers he met Irene Foote, and they were married shortly after. They then went to Paris, and at the famous Cafe de Paris accepted an engagement to dance, which was an immense success. They returned to New York late in the year of 1911 as the wave of dancing popularity neared its crest, and were carried along with it. They soon opened an academy of dancing for class teaching and for individual lessons, and became owners of the Castle House, the Castles-by-the-Sea at Long Beach and the Castles-in-the-Air. Captain Castle and his wife appeared together in Charles Dillingham's Watch Your Step, and then went into pictures, featured in The Whirl of Life. Mrs. Castle subsequently became one of the stars of the International Film Co., while her husband was flying as a member of the Royal Flying Squadron. Her most recent "legitimate" engagement was in Miss 1917 at the Century Theater.

Charles Barron Dies

Boston, Feb. 16.—Charles Barron, one of America's most distinguished actors, died at his home at 98 Winthrop street, Roxbury, Wednesday. He was 79 years old, and made his first appearance on the stage in Portland, Me., August 20, 1860, as a member of McFarland's Dramatic Co., playing the part of Jerry Clip in The Widow's Victim. In February, 1869, he became the leading man of the Boston Museum Stock Company, remaining with it for about twenty years. He is credited with more than five hundred parts. Mr. Barron in private life was Charles H. Brown, and was born in Boston January 2, 1840. He retired from the stage many years ago and had since lived a quiet life at his home in Roxbury.

Dinner to Margaret Anglin

New York, Feb. 16.—A dinner will be tendered Margaret Anglin by the Twilight Club at Delmonico's next Sunday night. Augustus Thomas will be toastmaster. Daniel Frohman is chairman of the dinner committee.

Leaving Flo-Flo

New York, Feb. 18.—Vera Michelena will leave the cast of Flo-Flo at the end of this week. Rena Parker, vaudeville and musical comedy actress, is a late addition to the play.

Not Going to Chicago

New York, Feb. 18.—Under Pressure, which has been touring successfully for two months, will not go into Chicago for a run, Manager Sydney Rosenfeld having changed his original plans. Instead, he has booked the production into the Norworth Theater here, opening next Thursday.

NOT FOR THE BIG TIME, NOR YET THE SMALL TIME, BUT FOR THE ARTIST ALL THE TIME.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS AMONG PERFORMERS AND MANAGERS

Police Get Busy With Alleged Violators of Sunday Show Regulations—Many Taken to Court and Arrests Cause Sensations in All Quarters

New York, Feb. 16.—Seventy-one theater managers and performers were arrested in this city yesterday for violation of the Sunday blue law in giving entertainments that included skits which the police termed sketches. Plain clothes men from the Police Department and theater managers are unable to agree as to when a skit is not a sketch.

In the past in construing the strict letter of the Sunday theatrical law the courts have held the presentation of a skit to be permissible on the Sabbath day, while a sketch is banned as illegal. Change of costume, for instance, is not allowed in a skit, and change of costume was one of the principal reasons for the wholesale arrests.

Warrants were demanded by the police without the usual process of summonses for preliminary examination and explanation of the alleged offense. The plain clothes men brought the warrants already made out, and they were granted without any hearing of the defendants and the arrests followed.

The sudden, peremptory method of the police took managers of the Keith and other circuits by surprise, and as a result Chief City Magistrate McAdoo and Maurice Goodman, counsel for the vaudeville interests, conferred yesterday afternoon, and Chief Magistrate McAdoo later announced that in granting the warrants he assumed that the police authorities had carefully considered all cases. In the case of well-known managers in future, he said, he would not issue a warrant instead of a summons if he believed a summons would suffice and the manager would not try to evade arrest.

Lee Kohlmar, playing at the Colonial Theater last Sunday, was arrested because he took off a long coat and induced another member of the company to wear it just before the final curtain. A change of costume is not permitted by the ancient blue statutes in the opinion of the plain clothes

Income Tax

Of Performers To Be Based on Net Salary

New York, Feb. 16.—It will be good news to the actors thruout the country to learn that the Internal Revenue Bureau at Washington has ruled that they pay income tax on net income only. Vaudeville performers in particular are mentioned, for it is specified that the vaudeville actor can deduct traveling expenses, agent's commission, excess baggage and the other expenses of his act from his salary and is only required to pay income tax on the net remaining, instead of the gross salary.

Cuneo in Hospital

New York, Feb. 16.—Louis Cuneo, vaudeville actor, 60 years old, who resides in Richmond Hill, is in Jamaica Hospital, suffering from acute anemia. His condition is very serious.

AMERICAN SAXOPHONE SEXTET

Group of talented musicians appearing in Al Sweet's breezy comedy sketch, Caught in the Draft. Left to right: Harry Goodman, Guy Taylor, A. E. Rowey, C. L. Brown, George W. Lewis and A. E. Brown. They made quite an impression in Cincinnati last week when they appeared at the Empress Theater. They will open on the Pantages Time about the middle of March.

Palmer in Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Lew Palmer, junior proprietor of Bale & Palmer's Girls From Loveland Co., playing W. V. M. A. and C. L. Carrell's Time, dropped in at The Billboard's Chicago office and announced that a new and elaborate musical tab. is now in preparation. Girls From Loveland will play four or five weeks in and around Chicago.

Arden in Trapped

New York, Feb. 16.—Having secured a new act, Edwin Arden is to make a quick return visit to the Orpheum Circuit and will reopen this month. The vehicle is called Trapped. According to reports it is an up-to-date vehicle dealing with German intrigue in the United States. A company of three people will support him.

Tacoma Business Good

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 10.—The Orpheum Circuit is now sending its regular road shows to this city each week, playing the Tacoma Theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday following the Spokane dates. The local people appreciate the big time acts and are patronizing the shows to a greater extent than was anticipated by the heads of the circuit prior to routing the shows this way.

The Orpheum Circuit's business interests are looked after here by Carl Reiter, manager of the Orpheum house in Seattle. Glen Hoover, formerly with the Pantages here when Timmons was manager, came over from the Seattle house, and will be stationed here while the Beck shows are playing.

James Gets Another House

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 16.—The Ada Meade Theater here has been taken over by William James, manager of the Broadway Theater in Columbus, O. Both houses will play Gus Sun vaudeville. Mr. James will spend his time between Columbus and this city, and has appointed Howard Feigley manager of the Ada Meade. Real Neith has been placed in charge of the Broadway.

Rats' Hearing Postponed

New York, Feb. 10.—The investigation into the affairs of the White Rats was postponed yesterday afternoon, but will be resumed next Friday afternoon.

Sheehan and Regay New Team

New York, Feb. 10.—Lester Sheehan and Pearl Regay have been booked for an Orpheum tour. This is a newly arranged team, altho both members are well-known dancers. Sheehan will be recalled as the former principal assistant of Bessie Clayton.

Lonergan's One-Act Play

New York, Feb. 12.—Lester Lonergan has just written for vaudeville consumption a one-act play, called To Arms, in which he himself will appear with the assistance of Amy Ricard and four others. The tour will be under the direction of Joseph Hart.

New Musical Tab. Company

Being Organized by Quint Thomson and Albert Taylor at Ft. Worth

Ft. Worth, Tex., Feb. 17.—Quint Thomson, manager of the Lyric Theater, and Albert Taylor, the well-known stock manager, have formed a partnership and are organizing a stock company, to be incorporated under the laws of Texas, for the production of tabloid musical comedies and the leasing of theaters in the Southwest. Negotiations are now under way for the leasing of several theaters in different cities of Texas. A number of tabloid companies will be organized and a complete circuit formed.

The home office of the enterprise will be in the Lyric Theater, with Mr. Thomson as general manager, while Mr. Taylor will be general stage director and will look after the road productions. It is proposed to capitalize the company at $80,000.

The first company to be put out under the management of Messrs. Thomson & Taylor will be called the Lyric Musical Revue, featuring the Four Copelands. It will open at the Majestic Theater, Wichita Falls, Tex.

To Break in Blackface Act

New York, Feb. 16.—Clarence Hibbard, the blackface comedian and baritone soloist, recently with DeRue Brothers' Ideal Minstrels, will break in a new blackface act for the United Booking Office shortly. Mr. Hibbard announces that he is author of the material.

A Critic's Comedy Opens

New York, Feb. 16.—A Critic's Comedy, one of the Washington Square Players playlets, recently seen at the Comedy Theater, made its bow to vaudeville the latter part of this week. Helen Lowell has the leading role, and others in the cast include Jay Strong, Mabel Carruthers and Daniel Hall. Arthur Klein has the direction.

Alberta Gallatin in Vaude.

New York, Feb. 13.—Alberta Gallatin will shortly make her entrance in vaudeville, using a one-act comedy by G. Vere Tyler. Gabrielle Ravenelle and Rebecca Conble will appear with her. Miss Gallatin for several years toured the country in Shakespeare and Ibsen dramas.

Dudley Undergoes Operation

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Edgar Dudley, the booking agent, is at the Post Graduate Hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis a few days ago.

The Independents' Situation

Chicago, Feb. 18.—The independent vaudeville agent's scope of activities is being narrowed down to a point that pretty nearly marks the snuffing out of this at-one-time-important cog in the wheel of vaudeville operations. This is because, with the big circuits getting bigger at the expense of the smaller ones, the agent's activities in the smaller circuits are rapidly approaching the starvation point. The independent agents are not tided over

Vaudeville Reviews By Special Wire

Chicago Palace

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, February 18)

Chicago, Feb. 19.—The Palace presented a bill which, tho smooth running, contained nothing epoch-making. It was badly arranged in that some of the dancing acts were bunched together.

No. 1—Bissett and Scott, two young men, gave the bill a dancing start, showing particular cleverness in rapid turning movements. They made a ones appearance in fulldress suits. Ten minutes, in one; two bows.

No. 2—Farrell Taylor Company, in The African Duke. This is a concealed musical act in which Beatrice and Carl Diamond do splendid work with the saxophone and harp, respectively, while Farrell Taylor and Tom Carter offer blackface comedy, which is most interesting when they appear as blackface Chinamen. Twenty-two minutes opening in one, then to interior, closing in one. Four bows.

No. 3—Kathryn Dahl and Charles Gillen offer a straight singing and piano playing act, Miss Dahl confining herself to high-class selections with one exception, and Gillen filling in intervals she employs for changing costumes with good piano selections. Kathryn Dahl has a good voice for the kind of singing she essays, and knows how to use it. Twelve minutes, opening in one, closing in three. One curtain; two bows.

No. 4—Milt Collins, the "Speaker of the House," in view of present international relations, has changed his act from a monolog of criticism reflecting upon American political methods to good-natured assurance of American international supremacy, with anti-Kaiser tirades, which were appreciated by his audience. Fifteen minutes, in one; five bows.

No. 5—Nan Halperin, held over for a second week, satisfied just as fully as she did last week, as last year for that matter. Twenty-three minutes; most enthusiastic reception.

No. 6—Lester Sheehan and Pearl Regay offer a most meritorious dancing act in five parts, in the fourth of which Miss Regay performs a specialty involving ability to bend her beautifully formed body in a way that nearly approaches contortion work. Eleven minutes, in three; three bows.

No. 7—Billie Burke's Tango Shoes, most of the characters of which are introduced via audience plants, comprises comedy built around the idea that wearing certain shoes endows people unacquainted with dancing with ability to perform the tango. The freakish finish, in which a superannuated elevator man, a burly cigar seeker and a ponderous woman supply reasons for laughs, carries the title over. Twenty minutes; opening in one, closing in full stage.

No. 8—Adele Rowland, sweet of voice and pretty of figure, entertained with eight songs, all of which were rather old save those of patriotic theme. Her knitting chatter was well received. Sixteen minutes, in one, with Harry De Costa at piano; three bows.

No. 9—Five Gelsons, all men, give a spectacular exhibition of hoop throwing. Five minutes, in full stage.—CASPER.

Orpheum, San Francisco

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, February 17)

San Francisco, Feb. 17.—The Orpheum is giving another long bill to a capacity house.

No. 1—Elida Morris offered some of the late popular songs. Miss Morris has not only a pleasing voice, but bewitching costumes, good looks and an engaging manner, which won for her a big hand. Eleven minutes, in one; three bows.

No. 2—Scarpioff, a sweet tenor, made the audience sit up and take notice. He was accompanied by Varvara, a boy pianist. Varvara's solo work brought forth enthusiastic and sincere applause. Fourteen minutes in one; five bows and one encore.

No. 3—Maybloom, a playlet presented by Hyams and McIntyre, went over big. Leila McIntyre, in quaint costume, made a captivating

B. F. KEITH'S PALACE THEATER

"When you have played the Palace, you have made Broadway"

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, February 18)

New York, Feb. 18.—Normal theatrical conditions today, with the resumption of usual matinee prices, were evidently appreciated.

One of the unprogrammed features of the Palace Theater is the unfailing courtesy and attention displayed by the girl ushers. In probably no other metropolitan theater has the science of seating patrons reached a higher standard than shown by these girls, and they are continually looking to the comfort of the audience.

It was an excellent bill, altho the added intermission made it a little too long; in fact, people were walking out on Blanche Ring.

The house was full and heartily enjoyed the program. The peculiar laugh that some balconyite is possessed of, and which has been absent for a couple of weeks, was in evidence again today, and added to the merriment created by Swan and Mack.

No. 1—Palace Orchestra, conducted by Frederick F. Daab, is certainly an asset to the Palace artists and patrons alike.

No. 2—Hearst-Pathe Weekly was especially interesting.

No. 3—Page, Hack and Mack have something new in acrobatics. The act includes two men and a girl, and they have the distinction of being the best opening number seen at the Palace this season. They are very classy, work fast, and gave the show a wonderful impetus. In full stage for nine minutes, and received three curtains.

No. 4—Dooley and Nelson are clever boys who do a little of everything. They open in one with a song, then go into full stage and ride wheels, do drum solos, etc. Dooley's impersonation of Granville in a drunk dance is very good. They should put their roping number ahead and finish with their Egyptian jazz dance, and they would go over even bigger. Twenty-one minutes, two bows.

No. 5—Margot Kelly, in a dramatic pantomime, The Fangs of the Butterfly, slowed the show up at this point somewhat. The American audience is not yet adapted to these very heavy pantomimic offerings, and does not relish the spectacle of a woman hugging a man while she adroitly sticks a knife into his back. A little too gruesome, Miss Kelly; you are worthy of better and more pleasing material. In full stage, special settings, for twelve minutes; two bows.

No. 6—Kate Elinore and Sam Williams started off at a rapid pace, and Miss Elinore's comedy kept the act up to a very high pitch, in fact, we wonder how many laughs she really got. They opened in one and then in full stage, with Williams at the piano. Old favorites like these entertainers are always welcome. Twenty minutes; three bows.

No. 7—Wetson Sisters, Fannie and Kitty. These two girls were the undoubted hit of the bill, and following the splendid act ahead of them are to be congratulated for putting over such a success. They sing, look and act like the artists they are, and Sister Fannie is some comedienne, while Kitty's personality upholds the other end of the team. They received a reception on their appearance, entertained for twenty-three minutes, in one, and received six bows.

No. 8—Camouflage, presented by Henry De Vries, proved to be a dramatic sketch, well acted, especially by Ernest Lace, as Charles Walters, and Margaret Vinton, as Minnie. There are seven people in the act. The playlet gets its title from the fact that a coiner's den is almost instantly transformed into a peaceful sitting room when revenue officers appear. The ingenious method by which this change is accomplished is very clever. In full stage, with special and complicated settings, for twenty-five minutes; three curtains.

INTERMISSION

No. 9—Bessie Clayton, in her second week, with her intimate dance revue, captivated everyone once more with wonderful artistry. With the addition of the Gliding O'Mearas the act has undoubtedly become the dancing sensation of the century. Louis Mosconi and Charles F. Strickland, at the piano, came on for a great share of the applause. Miss Clayton has the most wonderful toes in the world. Twenty minutes, special settings; many bows.

No 10—Swan and Mack caught a good laughing crowd and took full advantage of the opportunity to get over their gags with telling effect. They are a couple of remarkably clever droll burnt cork comedians, and scored heavily. Seventeen minutes, in one; two bows.

No. 11—Blanche Ring, resplendent in a silver gown, with an ermine cape, received an ovation. She opened with a medley of her past successes, apparently gazing into a crystal ball. If any of Miss Ring's new material had equaled Yip I Addy she probably would have been singing yet, but while, of course, her popularity and ability were responsible for much enthusiasm, she will not be remembered for any of the songs she has at present. Twenty minutes, in full stage and one; several bows.

No. 12—Nat Nazarro and Company brought all of their class into play to hold the fast disappearing audience—it was getting late—but eventually little Jimmie managed to hold them. The offering closed in good style.—HILLIAR.

EBERTS' BENEFIT

Chicago, Feb. 18.—The Fred Eberts Benefit, at the Olympic Theater, Sunday afternoon, realized close to four thousand dollars for the family of the deceased Majestic Theater manager. Every seat in the house was sold, and programs and flowers were liberally purchased. Legitimate and vaudeville performers playing Chicago theaters combined to make the bill an excellent one. The idea of repeating the vaudeville artists' minstrel first part was reconsidered, because of the expense involved, but one bill as revealed needed no extra garnishment.

Majestic, Chicago

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, February 18)

Chicago, Feb. 18.—After giving the Majestic the once over on the opening matinee it was very noticeable that the Monday holidays were off. The attendance took quite a drop compared with previous Mondays. The billing for the week, taken in its entirety, ranks above the usual vaudeville offerings and should bring packed houses before the close of the week.

No. 1—Orpheum Circuit Travel Weekly.

No. 2—Prevost and Brown, in a few minutes of foolishness, scored a hit with a tumbling and trampoline comedy novelty. The comedian is an artist on the trampo. Nine minutes, in three; one bow.

No. 3—Alexander, O'Neil and Sexton appear in blackface, neatly garbed in natty silk garments, with one of the members in the guise of an ultra-fashionable colored lady. They dance and sing well and spring a complete surprise on the closing when the female impersonation is revealed. Fifteen minutes, in one and two; four bows.

No. 4—Louis Simon and a company of five excellent characters present a comedy-farce, entitled Too Many Chauffeurs. An interrupted honeymoon. The wrong hotel suite, a strange man on the scene at the wrong time all tend to arouse a young hubby's jealousy. A mixup of affairs results and causes a lot of good comedy, which went over big. Twenty minutes, in three; two curtains.

No. 5—Joseph L. Browning is one of the few serene comedy entertainers of vaudeville who does not have to resort to coaxing and prompting to make his audience laugh. He appears in ministerial garb, sedate and solemn, and delivers his timely sermon, which had the house in an uproar. Browning might be classed as a monologist, but he can also boast of a fine voice, and his closing song was very much appreciated. Eighteen minutes, in one; three bows and encore.

No. 6—Edwin Arden was greeted with a reception when he appeared in the role of an American army officer in his new sketch, called Trapped. It is a tale of the spy system and the methods pursued by the enemy in seeking information. In this instance the spies were put to a hard task and outwitted in a clever plot with intense moments and splendidly acted. Twenty-five minutes, in three; four curtains.

No. 7—Bessie Browning and Jack Denny have in their offering an extraordinarily sure winner. Miss Browning herself is a character songstress of no mean ability, who has the knack for putting over songs. Denny is the accompanist, and puts over a little comedy of his own at the piano, which brought a big laugh. Two clever young people. Eighteen minutes, in one; three bows.

No. 8—Lucille Cavanagh, the wonderful queen of graceful dancers, carried away the applause hit. The coquettish little Miss displayed her talents in a half dozen dances, a few of them in company with her partners, Nash and Doner, two nimble footed young men, who also contribute a song or two. Twenty-three minutes, in three; four bows; one curtain.

No. 9—Arthur Deagon, the dashing silver-haired debonair, told quaint stories with a Scotch dialect that was highly amusing. Deagon makes a very pleasing appearance and smiles and sings his way straight to the hearts of his audience. Twenty minutes, in one; four bows.

No. 10—Burdella Patterson closed the program with a posing specialty, in which she appears in a series of graceful and artistic poses. Miss Patterson has a beautiful figure. Nine minutes, in full stage; two bows.—SIX.

LAUDER IN SEATTLE, WASH.

Seattle, Wash., Feb 17.—Harry Lauder is here Monday and Tuesday at the Metropolitan for four performances. Seats were sold out a week in advance.

INCORPORATE "PAN" COMPANIES

Four Have Total Capitalization of $2,100,000

Seattle, Feb. 16.—Alexander Pantages, head of the circuit bearing his name, and his wife, Lois A. Pantages, have filed articles of incorporation with Olympia officials for the following theater corporations, each a link in the Pan circuit:

Pantages Spokane Theater Company (of Seattle), operating the Pantages Theater in Spokane, capital, $500,000. While the old Pan house is undergoing a practical rebuilding the Pantages shows are being housed in the American Theater in that city.

Pantages Portland Theater Company (of Seattle), operating the Pan house in Portland, Oregon; capital, $500,000. The Pan house in this city was built about five years ago. It occupies the former site of the old Lyric Theater.

Pantages Los Angeles Theater Company (of Seattle), operating the Pan Theater in Los Angeles; capital, $500,000. This house was built only a few years ago.

Pantages San Francisco Theater Company (of Seattle), operating the Pan Theater in San Francisco; capital, $600,000.

FINK'S MULES A HIT

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Fink's Mules, playing the Palace Theater this week, opened up as one of the most pleasing animal acts seen here for many days. The act is booked solid on the Keith Time up to July, when it opens its fair dates, booked thru the United Fairs Booking Association. E. F. Carruthers has the act booked solid for fair dates up into November.

This is one of the acts that shows up equally well either on a stage or in a ring, and has always been very popular. Old Dog Rags is still with the outfit and doing better than ever.

PICTURE BRINGS $100

Cleveland, O., Feb. 16.—Probably no one single effort was productive of so much in the sale of the now famous smileage books for soldiers in this city than was the sale of an autographed picture of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, at the Hippodrome Theater, for $100. Another sold for $75. They were auctioned from the stage. The total receipts in one day at the Hippodrome were more than $700. Sales at the Opera House netted the smileage campaign $800.

FRIEDMAN ON MITTEL EUROPA

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Ed Friedman, the ex-vaudevillian, who is listed as an honor man among Chicago four-minute speakers at theaters, is now studying the subject of Mittel Europa for brief discussion. "It's a long way from the American stage to Mittel Europa," Friedman explained, "but the stage is the proper place for pointing out the danger of this movement as regards the future of democracy."

SANGREE WRITES SONG

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 17.—Allan Sangree, a local newspaper man and magazine writer, has written a new song to the melody of The Old Grey Mare, which is enjoying almost unprecedented popularity in this city. His song has a martial ring to it and it is destined to go big on the stage. It will be published in the near future. The title is, Good-by, Kaiser Bill.

THE HELPING HAND

New York, Feb. 11.—Another sketch by Clare Kummer, who wrote The Choir Rehearsal, which Sallie Fisher is now playing, will probably have a vaudeville showing. May Vokes is spoken of as the possible star of the new offering, which is entitled The Helping Hand. It is a comedy playlet calling for the services of five people.

NEW VAUDE. THEATER PLANNED

Philadelphia, Feb. 17.—Abe Sablosky, of Sablosky & McGuirk, announces that his firm will build in Logan, near this city, a vaudeville theater seating 2,300. Work will begin as soon as material can be had.

THE LAMBS GIVE BIG WAR GAMBOL FOR "OUR BOYS"

The Market Price, a miniature drama of Wall Street, by Robert Hearn Mackay, staged by Edwin Mordant.

A new idea, entitled Business Before Lombardi, Ltd., was evolved by Barney Bernard as Abe Potash, an airplane salesman, and Sig[illegible] Lombardi, an ace.

Another military playlet of Christmas Eve was Bethlehem, 1917, the scenes laid at the British expeditionary headquarters in Bethlehem, Judea. A British colonel is about to crucify with his own hands a [illegible] who had ordered the crucifixion of the colonel's son [illegible]. Another son is brought in and his faith changes his father's purpose, but wasn't it just like a horrible Hun to have died of fright at the prospect of Hun frightfulness applied to himself? Richie Ling, Edmund Breese, Bert Lytell, Sam Colt, Charles Wells, Macey Harlam, Cranford Kent, W. Robins, Major W. McCutcheon and Walter Percival comprised the cast.

Lieut. Gitz-Rice, of the First Canadians, sang stirring songs of the trenches, playing his own accompaniments, and the program ended with Uncle Tom's Saloon, supposed and staged by R. H. Burnside, with Frank Doane as Uncle Tom, Herbert Corthell as Topsy, Hal Forde as Simon Legree, Frederick Santley as Little Eva and Fred Walton as Marks, a lawyer. Charles Prince directed the act, and in the end both Little Eva and Uncle Tom went to Heaven in a Ford.

Programs were sold for a dollar a piece generally, but Geraldine Farrar, not having a dollar, gave a tiny vanity case of gold set with diamonds and sapphires to Ann Murdock in exchange for a program. This was the case auctioned off by Raymond Hitchcock to Grace LaRue for $200.

INVESTIGATION OF BIRTH OF A RACE CORPORATION STARTED

Hence the slight elimination. The article follows:

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 28.—Edwin L. Barker, president Birth of a Race Photoplay Corporation, makes the following reply to an article headed "Stock-Selling Proposition Is Uncovered in Film Mystery" in The Billboard the January 26, 1918.

"The article evidently was prepared by one Fred High, aided by R. R. Hamilton, of Andrews & Co., stock brokers, and Harry M. Holbrook, and its aim was to damage.

"It is the old story of enemies trying to get even, and Fred High has a personal grudge because while with the International Harvester Co. I discharged two of his friends, Ralph Bradford and Frank Stockdale. I also discharged for very good and sufficient reason R. R. Hamilton. Later he wrote me a threatening letter, which I still have.

"Recently Mr. Hamilton has been dealing in stock of The Birth of a Race, but I, together with our local agent, Miles F. Cory & Co., succeeded in cutting off his source of supply. Mr. Holbrook is trying to cover up his own failure at the Bush Temple Theater.

"The Birth of a Race is now being produced at Tampa, Fla., and over 30,300 feet of film have been taken. A first-class plant has been built, and approximately half of the work of this big photoplay is completed. This is proof that it is not a so-called 'stock-selling proposition.' Furthermore The Birth of a Race is endorsed and supported by hundreds of the foremost men and women of the country, including business men, bankers, editors, educators, governors of States, etc. Among our stockholders are many millionaires and heads of great business institutions.

"On file in the Chicago office are letters from magazines and newspapers offering to give The Birth of a Race large publicity. We have purposely held this back because it is not good business to get publicity too far ahead of the exhibition of the photoplays.

"The Birth of a Race News is not used as a stock-selling medium, but to keep the thousands who are interested informed of the progress of the work from every angle.

"I do not know that the public is interested in my personal history, but since I am forced to defend my actions I will reply to the points mentioned in the article.

"First—The Bush Temple Theater. Adelaide Keim was paid $400 per week. Any percentage

WHAT FITZPATRICK CLAIMS HAS BEEN A "TRAVESTY ON JUSTICE" AND THE INVESTIGATION THAT HE CLAIMS IS "PERSECUTION OF THE LOWEST ORDER"

The Actors of this country should know the net results of the Court Investigation to date so that THEY SHALL BE THE BEST JUDGE AS TO RESULTS ACCOMPLISHED SO FAR AND THE INVESTIGATION NOT HALF FINISHED.

THE EVIDENCE PROVES

1st—That over $177,000 was illegally invested and LOST in the White Rats' Clubhouse.

2d—That every dollar invested in the Elmira, Lancaster and Associated Actors' companies by the White Rats' Actors' Union was LOST.

3d—That the funds of the Associated Actresses, which totaled over $60,000, were LOST.

4th—That money in thousands WAS LOST IN THE PLAYER, WITH NO RETURN.

5th—That thousands of dollars of the funds of the White Rats' Actors' Union were DIVERTED INTO THE TREASURY OF THE WHITE RATS' REALTY COMPANY, and EVERY DOLLAR LOST.

6th—That the memory of every director and officer so far examined, WHEN ASKED DETAILS AS TO HOW THE MONEYS WERE INVESTED AND WHAT BECAME OF IT ALL, is LOST.

7th—That detailed accounts AS TO WHAT $4,000 was spent for in the OKLAHOMA STRIKE are refused.

8th—That no explanation can be obtained as to what was gathered in by levies on ACTORS' SALARIES during the strike AND THE ACCOUNTS WERE SENT OR TAKEN OUTSIDE THE STATE APPARENTLY TO PREVENT THE SUPREME COURT FROM INVESTIGATING THIS COLLECTION AND ITS DISPOSITION.

9th—That the membership books, showing how much money was paid into the organization as dues and initiation fees, are outside the State, apparently to prevent an accounting of these funds.

10th—That the books so far produced prove that NO SECURITIES were given to safeguard the FUNDS of the White Rats when invested.

11th—That the membership KNEW NOTHING of these financial investments. Even the TRUSTEES have been shown and proved to have been dummies, who knew nothing of the financial manipulations of the BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

12th—That every attempt so far has been made by FitzPatrick and Mountford to place all the blame of FINANCIAL WRECKING upon former officials and DIRECTORS.

This piece of evidence, given by Mountford, is a matter of record:

QUESTION. "Did you ever make an attempt to prosecute those responsible for these illegal acts?"

ANSWER by MOUNTFORD: "I did, but the BOARD OF DIRECTORS REFUSED TO allow me to do so."

AND MOUNTFORD AT THE SAME TIME WAS CLAIMING THAT THESE SAME MEN (The BOARD OF DIRECTORS) WERE THE GUILTY ONES.

13th, and Final—If Mountford and FitzPatrick are willing to produce all of the books and accounts that make the officers and directors guilty, but tell us REFUSE TO PRODUCE THE BOOKS AND ACCOUNTS which show WHAT THEY, AS INDIVIDUALS, had to do with the funds, the building and furniture and fixtures, in fact, EVERYTHING bought and paid for by the White Rats' Actors' Union, I LEAVE IT TO THE JUDGMENT AND OPINION OF ANY ACTOR, WHETHER HE WAS A MEMBER OR NOT OF THE WHITE RATS: IS THIS INVESTIGATION "A TRAVESTY" OR "TRAGEDY"? IS THE MOTIVE BEHIND IT "PERSECUTION OF THE LOWEST ORDER," AS CLAIMED BY FITZPATRICK IN HIS REFUSAL TO PRODUCE THE BOOKS AND RECORDS HELD BY HIM IN HIS HOME AT WATERBURY, CONN.?

LAST WEEK'S BEST VAUDEVILLE ACTS

Orpheum, San Francisco

little model. has also possesses a pleasing voice. John Hyams' humorous mannerism added a touch which helped make this act most refreshing and gratifying. Twenty-three minutes, full stage; four curtain calls.

No. 4—Al Shayne, billed as the singing beauty proved to be anything but a beauty. He was the favorite comedian of today's program. Twenty minutes, in one; two encores and four bows.

No. 5—Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne presented Mr Cressy's playlet of Western newspaper life, The Wyoming Whoop, in which the author appears as a country editor who brings out his paper under difficulties.' Blanche Dayne did excellent work as a stranded actress. This act is full of humorous characterizations and speech, which seemed to please better than anything else on the program. Twenty-eight minutes, full stage; four curtain calls.

No. 6—Stuart Barnes, another singing comedian, succeeded in keeping the audience in a mirthful mood. Ten minutes, in one; three bows and two encores.

No. 7—Paul Morton and Naomi Glass presented a musical satire, 1918-1950 which included a couple of good melodies and a few steps, displaying grace and agility. Six minutes, in one; nine minutes, in two; three curtain calls.

No. 8—Ziegler Sisters, Myrtle and Adelaide, dancers, with their Kentucky Five, a jazz orchestra of clever musicians, entertained for thirteen minutes. The sisters were exquisitely costumed and danced lightly, rhythmically and pleasurably.

Pathe Weekly opened and closed the bill. Fifteen minutes in all.—BOZ.

Keith's, Cincinnati

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, February 17)

One of the best bills of the season—that's the verdict. But for the railroads mussing up the big acts and the nonarrival of the Four Casting Campbells this afternoon's show would have gone great.

In this bill it is hard to pick a winner—they are all winners—and the headliner, John Hymer and Company, had to work a la Shakespeare, sans scenery—so judgment will have to be reserved.

No. 1—Fourteen minutes of pictures.

No. 2—It was a peculiar opening act, this beautiful musical comedy of the Pollard Company, but transportation difficulties must be blamed for it, as the opening act, the Casting Campbells, didn't get in. And let it be said that the Pollard Musical Comedy Company is a big show in vaudeville. Its musical numbers are rare—its scenery a revelation. Some of the effects, the torpedoed ship, the entrance to the New York City Harbor, etc., defy description. And the vivacity of Queenie Williams is contagious. The company is excellent and includes Charles Chester, May Pollard, Wm. E. Daley, William K. Pollard, Daisy Wilson, William Howard, Frank Chester and Queenie Williams. The act runs for 24 minutes, in full stage, with scenery galore, and took honors too numerous to count.

No. 3—Ed Morton in his original songs jollied the audience for eleven minutes into a genuine state of hilarity. So strong did his comedy songs, up to date, take that he was handed an encore and three bows. In one.

No. 4—The Misses Campbell followed right after Mr. Morton without the slightest kind of a handicap, altho they have an act of some similarity, working their original songs, in their original way, harmonizing, etc., until they had won every hand in the house. Two mighty clever girls are the Misses Campbell. Fifteen minutes, in one, two bows.

No. 5—The rearrangement of the bill did affect O'Neal and Walmsley, the two Lightning Bugs, whose merriment sailed along for fourteen minutes before their special drop, in one. They are funny boys, and are particularly clever in getting some rare antiques across in bas style. Two bows.

No. 6—When you say animal act you can pretty nearly always expect a sigh, but there is a vast difference between the ordinary animal act and this one offered by George March, billed as his Jungle Players. He opens the act with about ten minutes of moving pictures, working in a light plot of his activities in Paris, France, and his hunting trip to Africa, a revengeful organ grinder, his return, with the live jungle royalties, and the revenge of the organ grinder in releasing the lions. Never have we seen such mastery shown over the cats. When Mr. March throws away his whips and sticks a wave of admiration sweeps the audience, and when he falls on the floor and lies there before his snarling pets the audience is spellbound. Others who contribute to this wonderful act are Blanche Marel, Mr. Remy, Mlle. Emma Susenko, Mme. Green, Mr. Manuel and Yvonne March. Keppel Sandler, musical director. Twenty-one minutes, in one and full stage. Many curtains.

No. 7—John B. Hymer and Company, the old favorite of Jimtown Junction, and others, could not give the audience the full benefit of his excellent characterization of the real Southern darky this afternoon, as his scenery and effects did not get in. But he did give them part of his act, Tom Walker in Dixie, with improvised scenery, which the audience was asked to imagine as the real stuff. He is a real actor, and his work is too well known to be described or judged under these conditions, but it will suffice to say that he held his audience with a firm grip all thru his twenty-five minutes and sent them away thinking of him. Others in the cast are Peter Swift, Olive Wright, David Walters, George L. Kennedy, Tom Cullen, George Davis, Ralph Jones, Frank Stansell and John Winton, of whom only the first four could be used this afternoon.—JED.

Orpheum, St. Louis.

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, February 18)

St. Louis, Feb. 18.—The Orpheum bill this week is a good one, but has nothing in the way of a novelty. It pleased a big house and went over. It is top-heavy in musical numbers.

No. 1—Orpheum Travel Weekly, fifteen minutes.

No. 2—Van and Bell, missile throwers, open with Noah's Ark, and do some really clever boomerang throwing. Twenty minutes, in one and full stage, one call.

No. 3—Frank Allen and Grace Francis, in a comedy singing and dancing act. Their eccentric dancing was a scream and carried the act over big. Ten minutes, in one; two calls.

No. 4—Fred Berrens, in a violin and music number, pleased throughout. The Apollo work is a novelty and exceedingly entertaining. His violin and chatter were pleasing. Fifteen minutes, in one; one call.

No. 5—William Lemaire and Ed Gallagher, in a military travesty, Battle of What's the Use, was a scream from start to finish, and was the first laugh hit of the bill. They received a big hand at the finish and deserved it. Twenty minutes, full stage; three calls.

No. 6—Cecil Cunningham, in original songs and refined comedy, was very good. The History of U. S. A. and mixed symphony were clever numbers. Twenty minutes, in one; three calls.

No. 7—Sallie Fisher in the comedy, The Choir Rehearsal. It was splendidly put over and the clever work of Miss Fisher was applauded liberally. A dainty sketch that was the hit of the bill. Twenty minutes, in four; many calls.

No. 8—Walter C. Kelly gave his Virginia Judge monolog with the usual gratifying results. Ten minutes, in one; two calls.

No. 9—Louis Hardt, in a physical culture and strong number that was artistic and skillfully put over. It held the audience in their seats to the finish. Ten minutes, full stage; two calls. —WILL.

SUES MME. VIX FOR $1,200

New York, Feb. 16.—Mme. Genevieve Vix, of the Chicago Opera Company, has been made defendant in a suit for $1,200, brought by Nathan Arlock, her former manager, who alleges this amount is due him, representing ten per cent of her year's earnings.

IN NEW YORK

(HILLIAR'S SELECTIONS)

George White and Emma Haig, dandy, dashing, dancing divertisement duo, were the undoubted hit of about the best bill ever seen at the Palace. White's imitations of well-known dancers suggested by the audience were remarkably clever, and when they called for Mosconi (from Bessie Clayton's act), the latter himself did the dance. White is ably assisted by Miss Haig, and the happy combination makes one of the most entertaining acts vaudeville has yet seen. First show Monday at the Palace Theater.

James J. Morton, admirable, absurd, acicular artists' announcer. While the erstwhile "boy" comic is not doing a regular act, his introductions of the various performers on the bill are more than an act, in fact, they equal two acts. Put all of his material together and it would make a wonderful monolog. As a tonic to keep the show continually up to high pitch Jim is all in a class by himself. Third week at the Colonial.

Elizabeth Brice, captivating, chaste, chanting charmer. This delightful lady, at one leap, has jumped to the topmost pinnacle of single entertainers. She never looked or sung better and her material is wonderful. Her finishing song, Hurry Back, brought her rounds and rounds of applause. Assisted at the piano by Will Donaldson. First show Monday at the Palace Theater.

Bessie Clayton and Company, rich, rapturous, ravishing, resplendent revue, assisted by Paisley Noon, The Gliding O'Mearas, Louis Mosconi and Charles F. Strickland at the piano. Miss Clayton more than repeated her success of a few weeks ago at the Palace, and still remains America's Dancing Queen. The unprogrammed sensation of the afternoon was caused by the O'Mearas falling accidently headlong into the orchestra pit, but luckily they escaped injury. Miss Clayton received many curtains and bows. First show Monday at the Palace Theater.

Carter De Haven and Flora Parker, triumphant, telling, trimly tailored team. These artists have celebrated their return to vaudeville with what can be termed a Singing Fashion Show, classy, elegant and refined. Miss Parker makes six changes of wardrobe and De Haven three. While their material is not sensational, they get the very utmost out of the lyrics, and their personality and popularity carries them over to a big hit. First show Monday at the Palace Theater.

Joe Cook, perennially, perfect, pleasing protean performer, has a laughing vehicle in his One-Man Vaudeville Show that will in all probability last him for many more years. He is a comedian and showman and his burlesque imitations caused a continuous laugh. Monday evening at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theater.

Clark and Hamilton, effective, earnest, English, eccentric entertainers, have one of the best acts of its kind. Clark is a real comedian and Miss Hamilton a very chic French soubrette, and, while the omission of a few Chaplinisms would add tone to the offering, it, nevertheless, is genuine entertainment. First show Monday at the Palace Theater.

Ford Sisters, gay, glittering, graceful girls' gambol. In the Ford Revue of 1918. New scenery, beautiful clothes and abundant ability. Interspersed between the dancing Harry Akst played piano selections. The Ford Sisters are wonderful dancers, and the mise en scene of the entire production reflects great credit on these charming girls. Wednesday evening at the Riverside Theater.

Ryan and Lee, happy, hilarious, harmonious humorists, have a new offering, called Hats and Shoes, which for wonderful dialog and clever presentation will be hard to duplicate. Their material fits them like a glove and the laughs come too fast and thick to count. First show Monday at the Palace Theater.

IN CHICAGO

(Casper's Selections)

Nan Halperin, because she is everything that an ideal lady single should be and anything that such an act should not be, also because her interpretative ability in actually "living her songs" has never been surpassed, added laurels to her already firmly established reputation as a star in a class all her own. Palace, Monday matinee.

Sam Mann's work in The Question—a case of an unusually capable character delineator in an above-the-average playlet (involving the work of six additional people, four of them handling parts requiring talent)—is an important and appreciated contribution to contemporary vaudeville. Majestic, Monday matinee.

Sallie Fisher, as a girl of the '60s in hoop-skirts, possessed of a voice that rings as true in vaudeville as it used to in musical comedy, was the big reason for the hit made by The Choir Rehearsal, an act embracing six talented people. Majestic, Monday matinee.

Lloyd and Wells, dancers, who prove equally pleasing in tramp make-ups and full dress, backed up by an exceptionally effective scenic setting revealing their "box-car entrance," exhibited surprise steps that ingratiated the act with the audience. Palace, Monday matinee.

HOW TO END CORNS

Which Way for You?

Above are pictured three ways to treat corns.

Blue-jay is the most certain. It is safe and gentle.

Yet the unknowing ones experiment with harsh, mussy liquids or the dangerous razor.

These two ways are temporary.

But Blue-jay is scientific. The spot of medicated wax, discovered by a great chemist, soothes while it works.

Place a Blue-jay Plaster on your throbbing corn tonight.

Relief is instant. The soft felt pad stops the pain by relieving the pressure.

In 48 hours the medicated wax has saturated the corn—undermined it to its roots—and it comes off painlessly, completely. Nature responds quickly to such a gentle, corrective treatment.

Hardly a corn can resist. Of course once in a while there is an old, stubborn corn which requires a second or third application. But such are rare.

Blue-jay Plasters are made by Bauer & Black, the great surgical dressing house.

Try a Blue-jay Plaster now. Join the pain-free thousands who rely on Blue-jay.

Once you know Blue-jay, you'll never consent to have a corn again, nor to coddle it with temporary ways.

The cost is slight, the application simple.

Remember, we promise immediate relief and a defenseless corn.

Blue-jay Plasters are sold by all druggists—25c per package. Also Blue-jay Bunion Plasters.

KAHN ADDS BROOKLYN HOUSE TO STOCK CHAIN

Takes Four-Year Lease on Theater—Will Also Secure Liberty Theater in Brooklyn—Lowell Dropped From American Wheel

New York, Feb. 16.—B. F. Kahn took over another house this week to add to his chain of theaters playing stock burlesque. The new acquisition is located at the corner of Fifth avenue and Fourth street, Brooklyn, and Mr. Kahn has taken a four years' lease of it. There is a balcony and gallery and it is located in a promising section of Brooklyn. Joe Edmunson will be manager of the theater and the opening will be held on Monday night.

Mr. Kahn has also made arrangements by which the Liberty Theater, also of Brooklyn, will come under his management the first of September, and it is his plan to add this theater also to his stock burlesque venture.

New York, Feb. 16.—Lowell has been dropped from the American Wheel because apparently the Massachusetts city did not hanker after burlesque. Five weeks ago Lowell was added to the wheel in place of New Bedford, but Lowell proved a poor pinch hitter. The shows will play instead, after February 18, the Park Theater, Lynn, where they will be seen the first three days of the week.

HAVE YOU SEEN SAM'S CAT?

Baltimore, Feb. 15.—"Pinkey" is lost, and Sam Howe, whose Big Show is playing at the Palace Theater this week, has sent the the S. O. S. call to try to locate his pet cat, which he says he would not take $5,000 for.

"Pinkey" has been with Mr. Howe for nearly ten years, and has traveled more than 50,000 miles during that time.

During the performance Monday night Pinkey must have found some congenial companion among the Baltimore cats and wandered out into the alley in rear of the theater. Mr. Howe was on the stage at the time, but as soon as he discovered his loss he sent stage hands in every direction looking for Pinkey.

Up to last night Pinkey had not returned to the theater, and Mr. Howe is heartbroken.

OFF TO THE GOLF LINKS

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 15.—Sam Scribner and Rudolf Hynicka, of the Columbia Offices, together with Sam Harris, of Cohan & Harris, and Dan Hennessy of the U. B. O. passed thru here last Saturday en route for Pinehurst, where they are booked for two weeks of golf. Mr. Scribner intends to stop off in Baltimore on his return and inspect the Palace Theater, which has been doing a land-office business this season under the aggressive management of Buck Settler.

TRENTON HOUSE TO STOCK

New York, Feb. 16.—The Grand Theater of Trenton, N. J., will install stock beginning Easter Monday, and the house will be played only two weeks longer by touring burlesque companies. The house will be closed for several weeks to permit the making of certain repairs and to give the opportunity for general renovating.

DUMONT'S MINSTRELS TO MOVE

Philadelphia, Feb. 16.—This will be the last season of Dumont's Minstrels at their present location. The new home of these popular minstrels will be given out in a short time. The staff will be retained, as follows: Manager, Frank Dumont; business manager, Howard H. Evans; musical director, Richard Lily. The house has been doing big business all season.

BURLESQUE NOTES

The Armstrong Folly Company broke all attendance records at the Gaiety Theater, Seattle, Sunday, Feb. 10, with five performances of a burlesque on local politics, The Higher Ups. Mayor Hiram Gill, "Doc" Matthews, "saloon-drug stores" and the "dry squad" provided topics of humor. Will Armstrong had the role of Mayor Gill, and was there, corncob pipe and all. Incidentally Dick Frazier, with the Armstrong Folly Company, lost a valuable ring and $5 in cash when his room was entered by thieves Tuesday afternoon, February 12.

Princess Pauline, last week in St. Louis, closed a seven weeks' engagement with the Innocent Maids Burlesque Co. She will possibly remain there two more weeks before returning to her home in Chicago.

Gladys Mack has rejoined Harry Hart's Hello Girls Company on the American Wheel.

THAYER'S THUNKLETS

New York, Feb. 16.—Patricia Baker, prima donna, has deserted the Liberty Girls for a career in the picture field.

Theresa Arnold and Vera Kelly, two Military Maids, will be acquisitions of the Philadelphia stock burlesque this summer, presenting a sister specialty.

Blutch Cooper, taking time by the forelock, has signed up Joe Edmonson to manage one of his shows next season.

Nick Carter has transferred her attractiveness from B. F. Kahn's stock burlesque to the Hippodrome chorus.

Dolly Cramer Ryan has been forced to leave the Pat White company, and is now in the Samaritan Hospital, Philadelphia, where she will undergo an operation.

Hurtig & Seamon have enlisted the services of George Niblo and Helen Spencer for two years more. They are now with The Girls From Happyland.

Two changes have been made in the French Frolics. Tom Kane has replaced Charles Glick and Billie Stanley has succeeded Fern Bright.

The members of the B. F. Kahn stock companies will have a beefsteak party February 22 at the Castle Cave on Seventh avenue.

George Brennan, formerly straight man of the Biff, Bing, Bang show, has taken a similar role in the 14th Street Stock Company.

Lew Lederer and Mona Raymond will make a plunge into vaudeville this summer with a brand new act.

ENGLISH ACTRESS DIES

New York, Feb. 18.—Mrs. Kate Sarjeantson Power, an English actress, died yesterday at her home, 5 W. 94th street. She was born in Wales, and made her stage debut 35 years ago. In London she appeared in several of Sir James M. Barrie's plays, and also appeared often in Marie Tempest's companies. Her husband was George Power, an English actor. Nancy Sarjeantson, now appearing in The Tailor-Made Man, is her daughter.

REFEREE APPOINTED

To Sell Lexington Ave. Opera House, New York

New York, Feb. 18.—Justice Hotchkiss of the Supreme Court named Franklin H. Mills referee to sell the Lexington Avenue Opera House in the proceedings brought by the Manhattan Life Insurance Co. against the Hammerstein Opera Co. and others to foreclose a mortgage of $450,000. The house was built by Oscar Hammerstein to house grand opera, but his contract with the Metropolitan prevented him from carrying out his intentions. He sold his interest in February, 1915.

SAYLES FORMS CIRCUIT

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Chas. H. Sayles writes that he is forming a circuit for shows traveling thru Oklahoma, with headquarters at Oklahoma City. He says meritorious shows of all kinds are in great demand in that territory.

JAMES DALY ENLISTS

Chicago, Feb. 16.—James Daly (Pearo), the nut comedian, has enlisted with the Canadian forces and is now on his way to Montreal. Daly, tho a Canadian by birth, has been working in the U. S. A. for several seasons.

MARTIN A LIVE ONE

Manager of Camp Jackson Theater Knows Show Game

Camp Jackson, S. C., Feb. 16.—Lieut. Fred Martin, who is in charge of the Liberty Theater, Camp Jackson, is no novice at the theater game, having enlisted in the Officers' Training Camp, Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., at the time he had charge of the Sottile theatrical interests at Charleston, S. C., where he operated four large houses. Lieut. Martin's theatrical career covers twelve years, during which time he was stationed at Richmond, Va.; Norfolk, Va.; Atlanta, Ga.; Savannah, Ga.; Chattanooga, Tenn., and Charleston, S. C., handling nothing but the best productions, including those from Klaw & Erlanger and the Keith circuits. He was for a long time identified with Jake Wells, and it is fortunate that there was in the service a person of Lieut. Martin's capacity, ability and experience.

ENTERTAINING SOLDIERS

Versatile Sextet Cheerfully Giving Service

New York, Feb. 16.—That the theatrical men and women are not forgetting their patriotic duty is being shown by them in the entertainments they are presenting at the various army camps. Of the number of performers who are doing things for the boys are the Versatile Sextet. These boys have been out of New York for almost a year, and there has not been a week that they have not volunteered their services at some benefit or camp entertainment. They will return to New York on the 25th from the West, and en route they will stop over Washington's Birthday at Camp Dix, where they will make merry with the boys at the camp. The entertainment and patriotic demonstration is being given under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, and will be presented in their new building at Wrightstown, N. J. With the Versatile Sextet will be Dick Wheelan and Nan Kirk in their latest Jazz dance creations. Lyons, Farley and Nugent, that incomparable trio, will also be among the many features of the day's show.

SEEKS FRANCES NELLIS

Serg. Eddie Moore, Headquarters Co. 112 U. S. Engineers, Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala., would appreciate information as to the whereabouts of his little daughter, Frances Nellis, last heard of with the Galas. The matter is very important.

BETTS' NEW THEATER

Seattle, Feb. 16.—Manager Betts, of the Grand Theater, Sunnyside, Wash., is building a new theater in that town. It will be completed about April 1. The Hip. road shows play there two days a week, breaking the jump between Walla Walla and North Yakima.

TABLOIDS

The 20th Century Novelty and Comedy Show, owned and managed by Mr. and Mrs. Captain John Schremmer, are playing very successfully thru Central Pennsylvania, all independent time, carrying a company of six people, and making from three-day to week stands. The company includes Captain John Schremmer, blackface and comedy acts and feature contortion, Mrs. Capt. John Schremmer, professionally known as Baby Lucille, doing principal parts, singer and comedienne, also managing the show; Frank Vere, contortionist, specialty man and singer and dancer; Louis B. Florence, piano player and advance man.

Dr. Garfield should reward some theaters for their conservation of fuel, especially back stage, and many of these houses can be found in the vicinity of the Smoky City. One at Butler, Pa., has been nicknamed the Ice Palace, which is most appropriate, and one at Homestead, Pa., will soon be rechristened likewise.

The Ruby Darby Show, headed by Ruby Darby, is now in its third year on the Barbour Circuit and "doing capacity business" seems to be one of Miss Darby's best specialties. She is at present at her home in Dallas, Tex., having recently undergone an operation on her throat at Saint Mary's Hospital, Kansas City, Mo. She will return to the company in Drumright, Ok., which will mark her fifteenth return engagement there. The company numbers fifteen people.

R. M. Prey, of Pittsburg, and Ray Adair have gone into partnership, and will combine their interests in the musical tabloid field under the title of R. M. Prey's Attractions and under direction and management of Ray Adair. The American Fusiliers, now playing the Sun Time, includes a male quartet, female trio, with a mixed sextet of real harmony and jazz singers, with special music and scenery for each bill. The No. 2 show, The Victory Girls, will open and follow the No. 1 on February 25 and the No. 3 show and The American Revue will follow No. 1 and No. 2 shows over the time. All three shows will be on tour in each other's wake by March 11. Complete arrangements have been made for wardrobe and scenery. Rehearsals are progressing nicely.

Owing to the serious illness of Betty Ward, of the musical comedy team of Williams and Ward, at present with Ray Greenwalt's Moonlight Maids, the team with the keenest of regret closed with Mr. Greenwalt last Saturday. Their engagement with this company has been one of their most pleasant. Mr. Williams, however, does not entirely sever his affiliations with The Moonlight Maids, as he is at present at work on a tabloid farce comedy which is expected to prove a "tab." sensation; Mr. Williams' previous production, The Musical Shop, has all of the earmarks of a success. The song lyrics of both books are also the work of Mr. Williams, while the melodies are the work of Ed Moore.

Wedding bells rang for Harry Welch and Dorothy Stand at Manhattan, Kan., February 7. Both are well-known tabloid people, Mr. Welch being with the Ruby Darling Company and his bride with the Margaret Lilly Company.

Ross P. Hiatt, who is well known in the tabloid field, was married to Maurine McCarn, piano player, of Carthage, Mo., February 9.

Peck's Bad Boy made a remarkable showing in New York State and Pennsylvania, and is better than holding its own at present in West Virginia. W. T. "Billie" Boyer is the hustling agent ahead of this attraction. Those on the show say hand it to Billy.

While playing Cumberland, Md., last week T. Warne Wilson, manager of The Piccadilly Girls, received notice to report to his local draft board for examination. Mr. Wilson left the company in charge of Harry LaReane and started immediately for Syracuse. Claire Churchill, formerly a member of The Piccadilly Girls, rejoined the show at Latrobe, Pa., and will stay with the company indefinitely.

The Al & Gertrude Bernard Girls and Boys From Dixie are in their third week at the Superba Theater, Chattanooga, Tenn., playing to good business. Gerald Gaddis has been back on the show for the past four weeks. Mr. Gaddis is the musical director and also does the lead in Mr. Bernard's new bill (Johnny Slick). The songs were written by Mr. Bernard, with music by Mr. Gaddis. Mr. Bend, the stage carpenter, was called back to his home to fight for Uncle Sam.

"Billy" Wehle, "The Kentucky Chocolate Drop," opened his new show, The Blue Grass Belles Company, last week at the Palace Theater, Hobart, Ok., and proceeded to break the house record right off the reel. Mr. Wehle is carrying fifteen people, including himself as manager and principal comedian. Tommy Speck, specialties and second comedy; Walter Deering, straights; J. D. Seymour, bits; Tommy Hanley, characters; Bob Chambers, musical director and specialties, Lucille Du Pree, prima donna and leading lady. The chorus consists of Mattie Wehle, Evelyn Burke, Ethel Staddard, Emma Jenks, Babe La Tour, Evelyn Corbett and the Sutton Sisters. The specialties on the show are the Blue Grass Quartet, Bob Chambers, musical specialties, singing and talking acts, and Tommy Speck, in single specialties.

Sam Loeb and his Hip, Hip, Hooray Girls played a return date recently at Oklahoma City and packed the house every night. Mr. Loeb is a fine comedian and gets his jokes over well, and the show, as a whole, is reported to be exceptionally good.

The tab. and stock shows in Oklahoma report that business is good thru that State. The companies are not carrying as large a cast as usual, but most of them are well trained and have good, clean acts, which get the crowds.

Gertrude Mason, musical director of the Orpheum Theater, Fairfield, Ia., writes Billyboy that the show business has been unusually good in Fairfield, considering the extremely cold weather which has prevailed. My American Girl played the Orpheum for two nights recently to packed houses. R. M. Harvey presented Lowery's Greater Minstrels (a company of forty people) a short time ago for a matinee and night to good business.

Keep Moving, a new musical comedy tabloid, had a tryout at Poli's Theater, Hartford, Conn., and proved a success. The leads are Swan Wood, who featured two big dancing numbers; Ethel Rosevear and Donald Currie. Ralph Sipperly is the comedian. The chorus includes Dot Mynne, Peggy Nell, Chubby Opp, Sally Berry, Betty Wales and Marie Aster. The show will play the Poli houses.

Al Williams is in his tenth week producing stock with the Magnetic Comedy Company at the Princess Theater, London, Ont. Business has been very good since opening. The cast includes Al Williams, producer and principal comedy; Billy Lewis, second comedy; George Hall, straights; Dollie Dean, soubret; Paul Johnson, characters; Pearl Fallner, ingenues and prima donna; Ethel Burns, bits and chorus, and a chorus of six girls. Tom Nevarro is scenic artist and Mrs. Yell wardrobe mistress. There is a military barracks at London, and the company has a strong hold on the soldier boys. The Magnetics will remain in London indefinitely.

Billy Fenton is with Zarrow's Little Bluebirds Company, Jack Fuquay, manager.

Good vaudeville acts are said to be in demand in Oklahoma, the picture theater managers especially desiring clean acts and tab. stock companies.

MAGIC & MAGICIANS

BY WILLIAM J. HILLIAR

Address all communications for this column to WILLIAM J. HILLIAR, care of The Billboard, Subway Central Building, New York.

Nashville, Tenn.,
January 30, 1918.

Editor Magic and Magicians,
The Billboard, New York.

My Dear Sir:

All of the journals of magic that have come to me have recently contained the announcement that you were conducting in The Billboard a department under the head of Magic and Magicians. This information caused me to buy a copy of The Billboard, and I have kept on buying it each week. I never knew before that I could find anything of interest in a theatrical journal, but your page of magic had developed a fascination for the entire publication. And there are others. I have heard from a number of friends who have a cell of magic in their brains that are now buying The Billboard who rarely ever saw a copy before your department put it on the map.

Sincerely yours,
T. J. CRAWFORD,
810 Broadway, Nashville.

To settle an argument among magicians H. L. Hayes wants to know who it was that first introduced the vanishing alarm clock. Mr. Hayes, who lives in Albany, N. Y., is a magical enthusiast. Can any of my readers answer this?

Carl Sekaree, the Bohemian Magician, has left Shawnee, Ok., for Fort Leavenworth to join the U. S. Signal Corps.

Magical Ovette has kindly sent me copies of two of his books on magic, Trickery Tricks and Magician's New Field. Both are very interesting and should be in the library of all conjurers.

O. T. Gylleck of Dixon, Ill., has some of the most elaborate stationery and circulars that were ever gotten up for a magician. Gylleck is really a clever performer and is kept continually busy playing club and private engagements in his vicinity.

The publicity given to the Home of Mystery on Broadway, New York, by the New York daily press is creating much enthusiasm over the idea. It was first mentioned in this column and it is with great pleasure that we can announce that the elements of possibility and probability have been eliminated and that it is a certainty. Hurrah for magic!

Billie Burke, the vaudeville producer, has a burlesque levitation act playing the Proctor Time, and while it abounds with comedy the secret of the trick is not exposed.

Selvin & Co. (Miss Gene Gryder, musician and assistant) has one of the most novel magic shows on the road. Selvin has several entirely new effects, and the gorgeous colonial wardrobe adds dignity and charm to the entertainment.

EAGLE MAGICIAN, So. 7th St., Minneapolis, Minn.

Harry Stilwell is working up a singing, dancing and talking act with a mysterious production of his lady partner at the opening and her disappearance at the close of the act. He will try it out at the Strand Theater, Jackman Station, Me. People with new ideas in magic are sure to be heard from.

The Chicago Show Sales Co. has already had many inquiries for illusions for parks, fairs, etc., for the coming season, and have at least ten good prospects. Be sure and see their advertisement, which will shortly appear on this page.

In reply to Otto Hornmann's recent query as to the origin of Kellar's Birth and Growth of Flowers, the veteran Kit Clarke informs me that the inventor of this fine feat was Comte, a most talented magician, and the immediate predecessor in Paris of Robert Houdin. He had a pretty, but small, theater in the Gallery Choiseul, seating about 300 people, and first presented this flower trick here during the month of December, 1834. Comte was the first gift show magician. Mr. Clarke believes, in his opinion, that the Growth of Flowers, and the Bell and Rising Cards are two of the most interesting and finest tricks the conjuring stage has ever known.

The Great Leon, Leipzig, Leroy, Talma and Bosco, Rosini and others are worthily upholding the best traditions of magic in the vaudeville stage. Many lesser lights are also doing their bit.

NO CHARGE

THE BILLBOARD will be sent free to members of the Theatrical and Amusement Profession who are now serving the colors. Keep in touch with your profession. You'll be coming home some day to again take your place, so keep in touch.

M. U. M., the privately circulated monthly of the Society of American Magicians, in the January number, has an excellent article on the Story of the Gift Shows, by Kit Clarke, with acknowledgment to Houdini for access to his valuable collection of data.

John W. Sargent says: "At a recent performance a magician produced a piece of coal from a hat, and then had to vanish himself to escape the mob."

The celebrated Chinese magician, Ching Ling Foo, is dangerously ill in China.

Professor Harry Cooke, who was 74 years old last week, celebrated the event by inviting a number of old magician friends to his home in Los Angeles. Among the guests were Harry Kellar, Claude Alexander, Prof. Marc Beulah Wood, Connor, the billiard ball manipulator, and about forty others. Professor Cooke is still an expert, and entertained the company with some surprising tricks with the Chinese rings. Professor Cooke at one time gave an amateur performance before President Lincoln, who presented Cooke with a new $2 bill, which he still keeps as a cherished relic.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

W. E., SEATTLE, WASH.—I do not sell apparatus. Do not enclose stamps when writing to this column.

MAGICAL OVETTE—Very many thanks. Your ideas are very good. I will take the matter up later. Don't forget your promise as soon as you get your new lists printed.

KIT CLARKE—Your letter is splendid; appreciate it very much. Do hope you will soon be well.

JACK SELLERS, New Bedford, Mass.—If you will write a letter to The Zancigs, in care of this column, they will be able to give you all the information you wish regarding Crystal Gazing, etc.

ALLEN ABBOTT, Barberton, O.—Yes. Let me hear from you.

FELIX RAMSEY, Atlanta, Ga.—You are wrong. There are no mirrors whatever connected with Houdini's vanishing elephant trick.

T. J. CRAWFORD, Nashville, Tenn.—I appreciate very much all that you say. Please send me notes or news at any time. Do you remember the She Illusion at Bowling Green, Ky.?

NICK FETTER, Pittsburg, Pa.—Your letter received, but it is a Chinese puzzle to me. Kindly write me on an Underwood and explain what you want. I mean well.

IDEAL NOVELTY CO.—I have sent your letter to Windecker. Thanks.

MOTHER LODGE DELEGATES ARE GIVEN WELCOME BY N. Y. BRANCH

posted on matters which would furnish food for publicity. He suggested that the committee meet once a week in conjunction with the chairman of the other committees. There was some little discussion as to ways and means of furthering the publicity activities and of aiding the press committee. William J. Hilliar and L. E. Thayer were made additional members of the press committee.

Harry Witt reported for the membership committee and told of a meeting held during the past week when various matters were discussed. Among these was the subject of a visitor's card with two weeks' extension, a visitor's registration book for the club room and a suitable stamp or sticker, with an appropriate slogan, to be placed on the back of envelopes mailed out.

It was announced that Samuel W. Gumpertz had notified the branch that because of business responsibilities he was obliged to resign as chairman of the entertainment committee. Mr. Gumpertz's communication, however, stated his willingness to continue as a member of the committee and gave assurance that he would give all the help in his power.

William J. Hilliar reported that Harry Houdini was unable to be present, but that he had been working on the plans for a benefit performance at the Hippodrome. Mr. Houdini had requested him, he said, to say that the Hippodrome could be secured for Sunday night, April 21, but that it would be necessary to speak for it at once.

Mr. Hilliar said there was no question but that such a benefit as was planned would clear up three or four thousand dollars for the branch. It was voted that the press committee go to the Hippodrome and try to bring Mr. Houdini back to the meeting with them.

Mr. Gumpertz's resignation was laid on the table.

Mr. Haver next spoke of the agreement entered into by the branch with the Mother Lodge to Chicago, and said that nothing remained now except the formal ratification of the agreement.

It was moved and seconded that the agreement be approved and the motion was unanimously carried. Mr. Haver then introduced the members of the Chicago delegation. In doing so he said:

"We have with us tonight Brothers Edward F. Carruthers, Fred L. Clark and Thomas Johnson—sent to us from the Mother Lodge to formally carry the message of the parent organization to us and to further direct our steps in the way we should go. They will tell us just how the Mother Lodge feels about taking under its wing this promising branch."

Mr. Carruthers was the first member of the delegation called upon. He said that the occasion afforded him great pleasure, and he complimented the branch on its fine club rooms. The delegation, he said, had brought with it the by-laws and agreement under which the branch would operate, and Thomas Johnson, the counsel, would explain the equitable end of it. He told how he and Mr. Johnson met night after night and worked until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning on the by-laws. "It seemed an endless task," he said, "to get it just so that the New York branch would enjoy all the liberties of the Mother Lodge. When I go home I am going to tell the boys there of your enthusiasm and warn them to take their coats off and go to work unless they want you to beat them. I know that with your enthusiasm you will be in your own home before you are as old as the Mother Lodge is."

He spoke of the ball to be held in Chicago Wednesday night, and said he hoped as many as possible would be present. In closing he thanked the branch for its sincerity in taking up the agreement and carrying it out in the masterly way it had done.

In introducing Mr. Johnson Governor Haver said: "I met him for the first time today. I consider myself a good judge of human nature, and I think, when you come to know him, you will all agree that he is a regular fellow."

Mr. Johnson said he was gratified to find that there was mental telepathy in the human mind and that the same agreement which could bind together the showmen in Chicago could also bind them together in New York, San Francisco or wherever they sprung up. He spoke of the American flag, which draped the center table, and called attention to the fact that patriotism was a part of the League's religion. He mentioned the articles of the constitution which placed a ban on liquor and gambling. He had been interested in the reports of committees and particularly so in the one by the press committee. Nothing helped like advertising. "You business men," he said, "spend thousands of dollars for advertising. You have in this club a great asset, there are associated with us some great publications and every member should do his utmost to help the press committee secure publicity. If this is done you will grow, for you are favored as few organizations are favored. Why should we not be successful when this organization is not only eligible to the man who works, but to the employer—here you have both capital and labor—and with these two factions coming together in this way you are bound to succeed."

He proceeded to speak of the great influence and scope the branch will have. The branch would become the attainment of thousands, every member of which would have access to every clubhouse of the League in the United States. Under the constitution there could be but one club in the great State of New York, and it was a great field. He spoke of the advantages of membership in the League, how it brought a man into close touch with his brother man. He charged that in going after members quality be looked for rather than quantity. "Ask no man to join your branch," he said, "unless you feel he is worthy to be your brother."

It was a wonderful club room, he continued, and he was impressed with it. No cliques should be permitted to creep in to disrupt it. All should be made to feel that all were equals there. He had seen some of the best clubs ruined on account of the severe or partition which had been allowed to go up. That was the beginning of ruin and damnation for all clubs. When a member came in he should be grasped by the hand, and when he went away he should be able to go feeling that he had been where good fellowship prevailed. With such men as the branch had selected for their officers he was sure that such a branch could not go wrong.

In closing he invited the members present to sign the agreement so that the committee could take it back to Chicago with them when they went.

Mr. Clark made an address, but he arose in response to a call from the Chair, and was given a cordial welcome.

After all those present, who were members, had signed the document the meeting was resumed. Victor D. Levitt suggested that all money received by various members for membership be turned over within 24 hours. He also made the suggestion that the members of various committees confer with the executive committee before bringing subjects up for discussion on the floor.

Harry Houdini at this point reached the club rooms, accompanied by the press committee. He received a rousing welcome and was elected an honorary member—the first honorary member of the branch. He was then appointed chairman of the entertainment committee. He named Harry Haver, Edward C. White, Victor D. Levitt, William J. Hilliar and George L. Macfarlane to meet with him for an interview with Mark Luescher for obtaining the Hippodrome for April 21.

Lynn Welcher spoke on the welfare of the order, and Mr. Levitt suggested a rising vote of thanks to the visiting delegation from Chicago. This was given with enthusiasm and sincerity.

Applications were received. One from Charles Edwin Metz was accompanied by a check for $25, dues and donation. Leigh Fruden, Lynn Welcher and others made application for membership.

During the meeting Mr. Haver introduced John R. Rogers, who is to be the custodian of the club.

When the session was over the members lingered until a late hour, and the utmost sociability prevailed. Following are the names of those who were present: H. Martin, Captain Perry, Samuel Medelsky, John Kelly, Benj. H. Roeseler, J. M. Marks, Jno. R. Rogers, Julius Tolces, Joseph Tilley, George MacFarlane, Wm. Jenkins Hewitt, John Wallace, Speedy, Donald Farnsworth, Edward F. Hayes, Jos. G. Hermpter, M. Kinsel, John R. Rogers, Hart Guggenheim, Sydney Wire, Thos. D. Willard, Jas. A. McFields, Matthew J. Ellay, Jno. J. Stock, Col. Maurice Lagg, G. F. Harris, Jerry Lewis, J. Kelly, Peter Brody, A. A. Swart, Thomas Fallon, Samuel Beatty, Charles Van Norman, William Bose, A. A. Powers, Harry Witt, Fred L. Clark, Frank Goerlog, Harry Heolum, L. E. Thayer, C. A. Lomas, Fred J. Withey, Bert Perkins, Adolph Seaman, Harry Wendorlich, Leigh Fruden, Chas. Edward Metz, Lynn Welcher, Robert McPherson, F. L. Ferguson, V. D. Levitt, Tobias A. Keppler, Edward C. White, Harry Haver, James A. Timony, Will H. Hill, Edward Carruthers, Thos. J. Johnson, William Bremerman and W. E. Hunstelle.

Who They Are—What They Are—Where They Are

Conducted by ALFRED NELSON

The Billboard will accept authentic information in the form of interesting news for publication in this department.

Out-of-town readers contemplating visiting New York City should consult The Billboard Hotel Directory, select their hotel and drop a letter to the hotel manager advising him of their individual requirements, i. e., date of arrival, location of rooms, etc. If an advance announcement in The Billboard is desired mail it to The Billboard.

Hotel Managers say. "The Billboard Hotel Directory is something that will supply the demand for a ready reference that will aid the traveling public in selecting desirable hotels."

Hotel Clerks say: "The Billboard Hotel Directory will save on time and labor, for it will furnish all the necessary information that prospective guests may require."

All voluntary communications must be signed by the writer.

New York, Feb. 16.—The Billboard never hesitates at expense if by spending money it can promote the welfare of its readers and advertisers.

It has always been the aim of The Billboard publishers to have the paper on New York City newsstands on Wednesday, and in order to do so have forwarded several hundred to the Subway Central Building office by special delivery mail as an accommodation to those who anxiously await its arrival.

War conditions have congested railroad traffic and mail delivery, consequently many have been made to suffer the inconvenience of delayed trains, which Government ownership will doubtless rectify.

In order to get The Billboard on newsstands early Wednesdays the manager of circulation for New York has engaged from Charlie Klenke, the pony supply man, an attraction tueout for The Billboard Special Delivery Service.

On Wednesday last the pony was piloted from one newsstand to another thruout the theatrical district by one of Klenke's juvenile actors.

The juvenile had to fill an engagement on Thursday and "The Billboard circulator" was in a quandary until his friend, Dave Christy, ye oldtime legit., kindly offered his service in the interest of awaiting readers. To see the dignified Dave holding the reins over Klenke's Shetland reminded the writer of a picture of Pop Daly behind one of his oldtime speed boys.

About 1902 Will J. Olle, of Troy, N. Y., produced and starred in Man or Devil, one of those oldtime melodramatic shows that were so dear to the seekers of thrills, laughter and tears.

As leading juvenile of the Dorothy Lewis Stock Company Olle more than paid his own salary by the attendance of numerous lady admirers who came to the different plays six nights a week to gaze in adoration on their theatrical idol.

Olle is now one of the team of Kidd and Kidder, playing the Myrtle Theater, Brooklyn.

Mother and the Babies proved too strong an attraction for Jack C. Matthews, so he gave up touring for moving picture interests and hied himself back to Plattsburg to preside over the destinies of the Plattsburg Theater.

As part owner and manager of a repertoire show back in 1905 the writer had ample opportunity to observe Jack's work as a man ahead, for we always played to capacity business on Monday, the rep. show agent's night.

Two cow punchers, bulldoggers and broncho busters of the wild and woolly West, likewise Australia, decided to get some of the easy money to be found in vaudeville, therefore rolled their blanket, donned their chaps and sombreros and hit the trail for the white way only to be stuck up by a strong talk gent in a hardware emporium, who demanded their money.

If you doubt this assertion inquire of Jack Morrissy and Dick Allen what happened when they endeavored to purchase a box of Winchester 22 shorts in the Eighth avenue store

---

Jack Linder, who has an office in the Putnam Building, is a sure enough live wire, for he is on the jump morning, noon and night, and making good as an agent who can be relied upon to deliver the goods. All wool and a yard wide. Guaranteed not to shrink at long jumps if the story in sight.

Marvelous Deonzos, who does a unique bottle jump act in vaudeville, is a guest of the Emmett Hotel.

Hotel Managers—Take an interest in your guests. Wake up to the possibilities that this department opens up to you and your guests. Ask them who they are (name)? What they are (act)? You know where they are, so tell it to us that we can tell it to others.

N. V. A. NEWS

The annual benefit of the N. V. A. will take place at the Hippodrome early in May. The proceeds of this entertainment go to meet the charitable demands made on the organization and towards the erection of a home for aged players. The committees in charge of the affair are anxious to break the record of last year's event, which netted the organization over $50,000.

The difference of opinion existing between Bert La Mont and William C. Haynes regarding the use of the act known as Eddie Borerd and The Gotham Girls was settled amicably at a meeting in Henry Chesterfield's office last Wednesday, La Mont agreeing to allow the act to continue and Haynes agreeing to eliminate the material that La Mont objected to.

Gracie Emmett is listed among the club's noted visitors.

The Professional Woman's League will knit garments for members of the N. V. A. now in service.

Laddie Alpine sends a postalgram from the Roosevelt Hospital that he will be out in ten days.

Bessie Lester will sail on the Makura from Vancouver next week to do the Richards tour under the direction of Hugh McIntosh, the route being arranged by Norman Jefferies. Miss Lester has two brothers in the British Army, and says that before she returns she may decide to go to France to engage in Red Cross work.

Lillian Russell purchased a $2,700 tapestry at the sale of Clyde Fitch's belongings.

Sid Taylor is back at the club telling all the boys all about the beauties of the Pacific Coast.

The disagreement arising between the teams of Feeney and Knoll and Fisher Lucie and Gordon was settled by a special committee last week. The dispute arose over the use of a song of which both acts claimed priority. The committee consisting of Ernie Campbell Felts, & K. Fried and Will Haynes decided that Fisher, Lucie and Gordon were entitled to use the disputed number.

Scotty Provan goes to France this week to entertain the American Expeditionary Forces under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. National War Work Council.

Keep the Club Postmaster posted on your whereabouts. He may have a letter for you.

THE SONG WORLD

SONG-RECITATIONS NOW USED IN VAUDEVILLE

An Angle of the Business Which Publishers of Popular Music Will Have To Take Up

The tendency to substitute declamation for the regular run of songs is becoming so marked in vaudeville that popular music publishers will soon be forced to cope with this new angle, particularly in the promulgation of the so-called stage songs.

The recitation in song is by no means new, all performers being familiar with the recitative extra choruses provided by writers for use with songs that have a background of pathos. The patter (double-metered) accompaniment to comedy song vehicles is also well known.

And the present requirement, perhaps, would be better described as a song-recitation, for it is still too new to adhere to definite classification.

The war had much to do with making it possible. About twenty years ago declamation was in vogue. In those days nearly every school boy and girl studied elocution, parlor seances supplying the demand now apparently met by vaudeville and the movies. It was only natural that the amateurs who graduated to the stage took much of the parlor atmosphere with them. Performers were schooled by recitations like The Tale of the Tramp, with the well-remembered opening lines,

"Let me sit down a minute,
A stone's got into my shoe (business of extracting stone)," and the melodramatic closing stanza:

"Give me a drink now, Colonel,
And I'll be on my way,
And I'll tramp till I catch that scoundrel,
If it takes till judgment day."

War themes then handled were on the order of The Drummer Boy, which began with:

"Captain Graham, the men were saying
You would want a drummer lad,
So I've brought my boy Sandy,
Tho my heart be woful sad."

Comedy was dished out in crude dialect verses, the main object of which lay in the contrast of the speech of Irish, French and German characters, all embraced in the same poem. Lighter comedy, more in fitting with present-day songs, was embraced in selections like The Twins, which had this very well constructed conclusion:

"And so, year by year,
The more absurd mistakes went on
And when I died the neighbors came
And buried Brother John."

As may be surmised from the above quotations every phase of life as then lived and every known form of emotion was expressed via those recitations. Perhaps the most popular prose selection of intense emotion was Wilfred Denver's Dream from The Silver King, starting with:

"Stay I had a dream. Jaikes, you don't know what a murderer's dream is. Sleep? It is the waking time of Horror. It is the whipping post that ties him to while the lashes and stings and hardens his now, helpless, guilty soul—it is ten thousand mirrors dangling before him, picturing and repicturing nothing but himself. Sleep? Oh, God, there is no hell but sleep!" (Who will say that a recitation of such sustained power would not be welcome to vaudeville of today?)

There seems to be an unwritten rule of entertainment (definitely applicable to song) to the effect that anything which is overdone must become passe. Declamation was soon overdone, the public became tired of it, and it was soon a thing of the past—occupied a resting place in the theatrical graveyard.

But there is another axiom, just as true as the one above mentioned, i. e., that which is worthy is likely to return to popularity. You also see this in songs which live far beyond their day. Truly "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," and it is only fitting that American song writing, bankrupt in ideas, turns to the historic past for inspiration.

Modern vaudeville will not accept recitation in place of song. But it will take kindly—has taken kindly—to the modern form of recitation, that is, the recitation-song. If you have heard Ralph Herts recite The Mills of the Gods almost as a straight declamation, while the orchestra played the musical accompaniment, you will understand why.

Many headliners have established the practice of concluding their acts with out-and-out declamations. Some get the bigger hands on their serious recitations than they get with their comedy songs.

Vaudeville has room for modern declamations put to song. The big publisher who first realizes this and who covers the field with the proper material is going to make more money than the average song hit earns.

A popularization campaign, instituted for the right kind of a declamation in song form, is going to attract favorable attention for many obvious reasons. Every oldtimer will be in sympathy with it. Each modern performer, wearied of the surprising similarity in average songs offered, will welcome it.

The very thing that originally caused the death of interest in declamations (the fact that they became too numerous for digestion) is now slowly causing the death of the average song offering. Because both performers and the public are heartily tired of the regulation brands of songs offered declamation in song will be greeted as as much of a novelty as were any of the newer song cycles.

Let one big publishing house start in on (patriotic themes form a splendid basis for declamations) and its success will engender so much enthusiasm that the recitation-song, instead of being the exception, used as exclusive material by farsighted acts, will become the rule. When declamation songs (or recitation-songs) come into vogue remember where you saw this prophecy.—CASPER NATHAN.

BIBO BACK HOME

Chicago, Feb. 16.—It looks like old times to see Irving Bibo "back home" in the Chicago office of the Broadway Music Corporation, the reins of which he guided for so many seasons. But his visit is only temporary, for, after a two weeks' stay, he will return to the New York office, in which he is now a permanent fixture.

CARD FROM KAHN

Chicago, Feb. 16.—On a postcard received from Gus Kahn, who is wintering at Rockledge, Fla., with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Van Alstyne, the Remick lyricist says: "Hello, Casper—The Billboard is not so much here—but oh, the boardbill." (This makes the 4,987,848th time this wheeze has been sprung within the last twenty years.)

SONG LOGIC

THE INCOME TAX

(As It Affects Some Song Writers)

I starved around fifteen years and never got a break; in fact, the kind of life I lived was far more give than take. 'Most ev'rything I tackled went plum wrong right from the start, it looked as if my whole reward would be a broken heart. But, somehow, just last season, things began to come my way, and now out of the proceeds I AN INCOME TAX MUST PAY.

A hundred songs (I'd written almost twenty years ago) were grabbed by big producers—just last season—in each show they were put in those songs prospered and I nearly got the fits, for I found that I had written just an even hundred hits. All the phonographic makers gave me very soft contracts. Now I find that on those profits I MUST PAY AN INCOME TAX.

If all the countries fighting knew just what they're fighting for, I'd not forgive them for the time they picked to stage the war. If it came somewhat sooner, or, if it had been delayed, I might have paid no taxes on the income that I made. But last year was the biggest year that I had ever known, and that's the year they picked to put the TAX ON THINGS I OWN.

I suppose when all the diplomats get on good terms again, when it will be unlawful to go shooting other men, when peace in all its grandeur to this dread war puts a stop, the songs that I prepare will take a mighty sudden flop. I'll have a bunch of hard luck and my income will relax just when the Government decides to KILL THE INCOME TAX.—CASPER NATHAN.

CLOTHING AND SONGS

Some performers spend hours selecting clothes for the new season and minutes choosing songs. Yet wardrobe leaves only a superficial impression, whereas the powers possessed by material are indelibly impressed. When you think of your favorite performer you recall something she sang, not something she wore. True, song styles end but little longer than reigning fashions, but they mean much more. Who can forget the way Vesta Victoria sang Waiting at the Church, or the inimitable manner in which Eddie Foy put over The Bird on Nellie's Hat? Costumes are important, in their way, but "the song's the thing."

COLD TYPE REVIEW

EXPLANATORY KEY: LV—Lyrical value. MV—Musical value. EA—Especially adapted for. GE—General estimate. C—Comment. PV—Phonograph value.

I'M GOING TO FOLLOW THE BOYS, words by Howard Rogers, music by James V. Monaco (published by Witmark). LV—A light novelty idea, built around the predicament of a girl who finds that all her old admirers have joined the army, and determines to become a Red Cross nurse in order to be near them. MV—Forms suitable basis for the lyric in march time. EA—Girl single in vaudeville or as a production number. GE—Idea fairly well handled. C—Has three complete choruses, which may make it of value to singers who like to pretend to be delivering extemporaneous rhymes. PV—Optional.

WHY DID YOU LIE TO ME, by (and published by) H. L. Winfield. LV—A serious treatment of this rather undignified title, in ballad form. MV—Corresponds to lyric. EA—Not indicated. GE—The word "lie" does not suggest ballad treatment. C—The lines, "I met you way last June, I love the way you spoon," hint at the general treatment. PV—Doubtful.

ABSENCE BRINGS YOU NEARER TO MY HEART, lyric by Paul Benedek, music by Alfred Solman (published by Witmark). LV—A sort of paraphrase of Absence Makes the Heart Grow Fonder, simply written. MV—Good ballad setting. EA—Straight ballad usage. GE—Would be higher if the other song alluded to had not been written. C—Covered above. PV—Optional.

I WANT A DIXIE TUNE, by (and published by) C. Arthur Pfeiffer. LV—Built around the idea that tunes of all other places can't compare to those heard in Dixie. MV—Has considerable dash, ending up with an interpolation from Alabama. EA—General. GE—Like most Dixie songs save that it covers more ground. C—Covered above. PV—Optional.

THE U. S. A. WILL LAY THE KAISER AWAY, by Jacob Detting and Chas. Roy Cox (published by Buckeye). LV—Conforms to the idea expressed in the title, recounting the Kaiser's sins and explaining how Yankee Doodle will make the world safe for democracy. MV—Average march. EA—Confidence-engendering, patriotic affairs. GE—Stands out from other Kaiser-killer songs, because it has somewhat catchier title. C—If you want a good song-indictment of the Kaiser, this is it. PV—Optional.

THERE'LL BE A HOT TIME FOR THE OLD MEN (WHILE THE YOUNG MEN ARE AWAY), words by Grant Clarke, music by Geo. W. Meyer (published by Feist). LV—A suggestive novelty lyric, dealing with the situation brought about by calling the young ones to the colors. MV—Has the right swing for this kind of song. EA—Vaudeville, cabarets, etc. GE—Tho the subject-matter may be questionable, the idea is worked out in a most novel manner. C—The key note is found in the lines, "Now that the young men have all disappeared, Ev'ry young girl grabs a man with a beard." PV—Optional.

I'M OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW ENOUGH (TO KEEP AWAY FROM YOU), words by Brandon Walsh, music by Carmo Romano (published by Taylor). LV—The story of a girl brought up in a manner calculated to make her sufficiently wise to safeguard herself against "lures." MV—Built around very pretty main melodic beat. EA—Stage. GE—Good, light song. C—Those young lassies in vaudeville who like to appear "cute" can get much out of this. PV—Available.

SORROW NO MORE, words by Fred G. Bowles, music by Harold Craxton (published by Boosey). LV—An eight line poem, pointing to the same philosophy of optimism expressed in Oh, Dry Those Tears. MV—Good "concert" ballad. EA—Lyceum, etc. GE—Up to standard. C—A good song for war-time usage. PV—Optional.

INSPIRED PATRIOTS

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The songs on the market are only a small portion of those written, just as is the case with plays produced. Outsiders conclude that patriotic songs are the kind wanted and prepare them forthwith. Some of these are worthy of publication; more aren't. We intend to devote space each week to one in this classification which has been submitted to us. For obvious reasons lyrics only will be discussed.)

NO. 2—A CONVICT'S CHORUS

Music Editor The Billboard:

I am writing to you, asking a favor. Would you please tell me an honest publisher I can entrust a song to—or interest someone in it for me? It's a war song, of course—with good march time. I have the words and music, composed by myself. The title is We'll Give Three Cheers for Uncle Sam (and His Fighting Sammies, Too). I am a convict in the Marquette Prison, and haven't the means to get it copyrighted, but would like to sell same. Trusting I will hear from you, I remain

Yours respectfully
(Signed) C. H. WILKINSON,
Lock Box 1025, Marquette, Mich.

The Sammies are going across the sea
Fighting for right and democracy;
They're the bravest in the land,
'Cause they're fighters of Uncle Sam.
They're the bravest in the land,
And fight for it thru and thru,
So let's give three cheers for Uncle Sam
And the fighting Sammies, too.

(REPLY—Rather remarkable sentiment for a convict to utter, isn't it? An interesting article could be written on patriotism, as gauged by the spirit shown by ones who have lost rights of citizenship while running counter to State laws. In addition to his patriotism Wilkinson reveals an astounding distrust for those without the prison walls—fearing that the idea will be stolen. Wilkinson has at least expressed a complete thought coherently under a reflected title (which is more than we can say of many ideas submitted to us), and perhaps some publisher would find it both interesting and profitable to get in touch with him. This idea may not be wanted, but Wilkinson probably has others, and who knows but what his pen may serve to reunite him to the society which has (at least temporarily) disclaimed him?—MUSIC EDITOR.)

OLIVER WRITES

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Gene Oliver, locally known as the "Chicago Heights Political Boss," who holds an important position in the assessor's office, has collaborated with Joe Lyons and Milton Weil on several songs which are being issued under Weil's imprint. Weil now serves as local manager for the Triangle Music Company of New Orleans.

A LONG-DISTANCE ORDER

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Will Rossiter was surprised a few days ago by a long-distance telephone order from New York, calling for 50,000 copies of Story Book Ball, which the blond boss claims is the biggest selling number on the 20-cent market, next to Forster's Missouri Waltz.

ON THE G. & F. STAFF

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Associated with Western Manager Willie Horowitz on the Gilbert & Friedland local staff are Billy Phillips, the rapid-fire pianist, formerly with Jos. W. Stern, and Jean Stuck, the booster.

THREE TANGUAY SONGS

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Jack Frost has landed three new songs with Eva Tanguay. If he puts two more songs in the act he will be credited with all the numbers used by the immortal Eva.

LYONS GETS CHANCE

Chicago, Feb. 16.—After several years' effort Joe Lyons seems to have struck a big seller in An Oldfashioned Rose, My Mother, which Milton Weil is popularizing.

MAY WRITES MUCH

Chicago, Feb. 17.—May Hill, Chicago's lady composer, is preparing several songs which will be issued under a 1918 copyright.

LEADERS FANCY INDIANOLA

It is no ordinary achievement in these times to create an instrumental success. One need only scan the market of popular music to appreciate the force of this statement. There are scores of vocal hits, but Indianola, a novelty fox trot, by the composer of By Heck, stands as one of the few instrumental pieces accorded more than a passing interest by the music-loving public. The very best leaders have taken so unusual a fancy to Indianola and play it so often that if one makes the round of the principal cafes and hotels he will hear the orchestras play this piece from memory. Dancing acts galore, who have been holding onto the same composer's previous hit, By Heck, because they could not find anything to take its place, recognize in this new number its legitimate successor, and are losing no time in devising new steps to fit its quaint twists of melody and rhythm. The freshness and the originality of the piece appeal to all and compel attention even from the most blase. Indianola is published by Jos. W. Stern & Co., and has already been recorded by the foremost phonograph record and music roll companies.

FAVORS UNKNOWN WRITER

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The other day an unknown song writer stepped into the Witmark Western office and informed Manager Thomas J. Quigley that he had "placed" a new song, called Daddy Mine, with the firm's New York office. He played it over—and Quigley has been singing it ever since. The enterprising professional manager is confident that this number will prove a great success.

A PROLIFIC WRITER

Chicago, Feb. 18.—William B. Davis, of Santa Cruz, Cal., is developing into a very prolific writer. In collaboration with Henry Rossert he has issued many numbers under The Song Mart imprint, more of which are proving big sellers.

CHRIS SMITH IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Chris Smith, the colored song writer, responsible for many big hits, is in Chicago.

CLAY SMITH "SPREADS"

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Clay Smith, who has written half a hundred good sellers for the "standard" market, is now trying his hand at songs on the popular order.

BERT WILLIAMS WRITING

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Bert Williams, famous comedian of the Ziegfeld Follies, is writing several new numbers, which will be interpolated in the big musical show during the last fortnight of its Chicago run.

NEW SONG GETTING OVER

Somewhere in France Is Daddy, written and composed by Howard, and published by Howard & La Var, 1431 Broadway, New York, has caught on all over the country. It is worth noting that the title of this song must have made a great impression, as since its publication there have been numerous "Daddy" songs written.

Thru The Billboard the song has also become known in Australia and South Africa, from where the firm of Howard & La Var has had requests for the exclusive handling of the song.

BOSLEY SENT TO BOSTON

New York, Feb. 17.—Sig. Bosley of the Gilbert & Friedland forces has been sent to Boston to exploit the firm's three big successes, Are You From Heaven, Chimes of Normandy and I'm the Brother of the Lily of the Valley. Willie Horowitz is handling the Chicago end of the business, with offices in the Grand Opera House Building, 119 North Clark street. Gilbert & Friedland's I'm the Brother of the Lily of the Valley is being used by Henry Lewis, Mullen and Coogan, Bert Walton, Jeanne, Dudley Douglas, Adrian, Jack "Jo Jo" Lee, Duffy and Inglis, Thomas Potter Dunne and a host of others.

MUSIC NOTES

Harold C. Lowden, composer of the late song hit, What Do You Say, Boys, states he has never had so many replies and orders for his compositions as he has been getting from his ads in The Billboard. From Coast to Coast he has been receiving letters, and is more than happy. The What Do You Say, Boys, song is one of the best late patriotic march songs on the market today.

Moon and Morris, the novelty dancing team, are using a new instrumental number—Indianola—by S. R. Henry, and which is published by Jos. W. Stern & Company, of New York. Another Stern number—Keep Cool, the Country's Saving Fuel, by Chas. McCarron—is being used by at least twenty-five headliners and one hundred or more of vaudeville's lesser lights, among the former being Sailor Reilly. Dr. Garfield, of the Federal Fuel Administration, in a letter to the New York Fuel Administrator, extended his thanks for the kind thoughts expressed in this song.

Ther Nordberg, music dealer of Moline, Ill., has joined Uncle Sam as a naval ensign and is stationed at the Great Lakes Training Station. Before leaving he purchased the good will and stock of the Cable Music Store, and combined both stores under one management. During his absence Theber Godehn will be in charge.

A new song has just been announced by the Green Music Company, Philadelphia. The music is catchy and the words full of ginger and pep. It is called The Boys in Brown (They'll Get the Kaiser's Goat), and looks like a big winner.

Six thousand copies of the Davis-Rossert Song Mart's hit, What Do You Care, are now in circulation in thirty-four army and navy camps thruout the United States. Both the jackies and the army boys acclaim it an excellent number.

Improvements at the Buffalo branch of the Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. have been completed. The decorations are in gray and white. Manager W. P. Tanney has received a large unit orchestra, which carries fifty selections at one time.

Harry Squires, formerly of the Plantadosi Philadelphia office, is now in charge of the Jerome H. Remick professional department, 31 S. Ninth street, Philadelphia. He extends an invitation to the profession to call and look over the latest Remick song hits. Harry is one of the most popular managers in the Quaker City.

Pauline is now playing over the Poli Circuit with her leopard act. She worked this same act with the Leon W. Washburn Shows last season, but later purchased the leopards from Mr. Washburn, subsequently presenting the act in vaudeville with much success.

VAUDEVILLE NOTES

William Smith, manager of the New Empress Theater, Tulsa, Ok., was arrested on complaint of the State Labor Commissioner for playing Eddie Foy's children, two of whom, it was alleged, were under the age limit of the Oklahoma labor laws, which make no allowance for theatrical children. The Foys are now playing the Texas vaudeville circuits. Mrs. Foy recently underwent an operation in El Paso and is doing nicely.

The act of Hampton and Shriner dissolved partnership at Seattle, Wash., and Lew Herman will complete the tour of the Pantages Theater with Mr. Shriner—the act to be known as Shriner and Herman—and look after all future bookings. Lew Herman is also booking The Song and Dance Revue, which is playing the Pantages Circuit at present with LeRoy and Cahill.

Ruth Osborne Morgan, well-known harpiste of Seattle, Wash., opened on the Orpheum Time at the Moore Theater in her home city recently, using Ruth Osborne as the stage name. Her bookings were secured thru the instrumentality of Carl Reiter, Seattle, manager of the Orpheum Circuit.

A recent change in train schedules out of Portland, Ore., enables the Orpheum shows to give an extra performance in that city. Heretofore acts playing there were forced to close with the matinee to make the train for Frisco, giving Portland patrons only seven shows a week.

The Taylor Triplets, who have for several years been one of the features of the Barnum & Bailey Circus, are now presenting their act, The Manly Art of Self-Defense, in vaudeville, and are meeting with great success.

Ed Dowlan, of the Weir Theater, Aberdeen, Wash., and C. C. Spencer of the Grand Theater, Wallace, Id., were visitors on the Seattle rialto last week. They report fine business in their respective towns.

Linwood Curtis, the ex-assistant manager of B. F. Keith's Boston house, has recently been made an ensign. This is the third promotion he has received since going into the service last August.

The Pantages Theater, Seattle Wash., is giving three complete performances instead of two every Saturday night, the first show starting at six o'clock instead of at seven as heretofore.

The Seattle Orpheum (Pantages-Fisher bookings) has cut the regular four performances to three, except on Saturday and Sunday, when four or five will be programmed.

THE CONCERT AND OPERA FIELD

FRED · N · WITHEY · NEW · YORK

The "Commonwealth" and Other Opera Ideas

By ELEANORA DE CISNEROS, Grand Opera Prima Donna

I was recently invited by G. W. Stewart, well known to operatic and theatrical enterprises in America, to attend a meeting at Aeolian Hall, New York, of the Commonwealth Opera, the., at which meeting many of the gentlemen interested in this project spoke. I have also been invited by The Billboard to give my impressions to its readers of the possibilities of such an operatic organization and the benefits to be derived therefrom. I am presuming that both Mr. Stewart and The Billboard deemed my opinion worthy of consideration, doubtless on account of the great experience which I, an American singer, have had in the most important opera houses of Europe; also I have been a member of the biggest operatic companies that have sung in the United States. I made my debut with the Metropolitan Opera Company and sang later with the Manhattan Opera Company during its sessions in New York City under Oscar Hammerstein, and during recent years sang with the Chicago Opera Company, which company played Philadelphia, New York and Boston, and also toured the principal cities of the Pacific Coast.

With this experience it is needless to say that I have formed a very positive opinion regarding opera in my native country, and I shall try, to the best of my ability and with all respect to Mr. Stewart and the distinguished gentlemen of the Commonwealth Opera Company, to express my opinion thereon. As I understand it the Commonwealth Opera Company does not intend to compete with nor antagonize any existing operatic organization native to New York, and I believe its intentions are to employ a repertory which is not in our them companies. That will make things much easier for its success, because I emphatically declare that operagoers in America, or at least to New York or to any of the big cities where they are accustomed to hear performances by the Metropolitan Opera or Chicago Company, will not support any organization which does not do as well or better in the same operas than these two companies, which have created and maintained a degree of excellence difficult to surpass. If the Commonwealth Company will give performances of the lighter operas an' create for themselves a reputation for all around excellence therein they no doubt will find a public among the enormous number of musical people in New York who will thoroly enjoy listening to works they do not hear at the Metropolitan. At the same time they will have to avoid clashing the dates of their performances with those of the bigger house.

ELEANORA DE CISNEROS

RICCARDO STRACCIARI

Riccardo Stracciari, the great baritone of the Chicago Grand Opera Co., who has left his impress upon New York musical circles during the recent visit of that company to the metropolis, and who is now appearing under the concert management of M. H. Hanson.

In a very interesting article which Mr Stewart has written for The Billboard he says "that the essential purpose of the founding of this organization was that it should be a community institution, and not created in order to become a financial benefit to any of its members." This would seem to me to be the beginning of a great project with sound and unlimited possibilities for the musical life of America. It is so vast in its content, so possible in its undertaking, and has been the so long a cherished hope of mine and of every other American singer that I am tempted to lay its beauties and possibilities before the readers of The Billboard and the distinguished gentlemen of the Commonwealth Opera Company, in the hopes that they, too, will appreciate the great future that a "Community Institution" has not only for New York, but for every large city of America.

This hope of mine for America is not a fantasy, and the possibility of its realization here is based on actual facts which exist today in most of the cultivated cities of Europe—cities which are in no way superior to our own in educational or artistic impulses. Take the cities of Manheim or Frankfort or Cologne or Dusseldorf or Kiel, are they superior in culture to Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Washington, Cincinnati or twenty more cities in the United States I could mention? No, and yet we welcome to our bosom, musically speaking, most any singer who comes labeled as the principal singer of the Stadt Theater of any of the foreign cities named.

Right here in America we have the absolute possibility of opera houses of the same importance and of the same artistic excellence as any of the various opera houses of Europe. Let us take the city of Boston. It has a superb orchestra; it has splendid choral societies; it has a fine auditorium; it has a distinguished social element, and it has a vast public that has applauded every musical stranger of merit that has come to its doors. There is no reason in the world why such a city should not have a community opera of as great excellence as the Imperial Opera House in Vienna or the Royal Opera in Berlin. The same applies to Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, and there are many of the less important cities that could support the same thing. There is absolutely no reason why the Boston Symphony Orchestra and its distinguished conductor, whoever he may be, should not play and direct operatic performances without any loss to their artistic dignity any more than Gustav Mahler and the wonderful orchestra of the Vienna Hof-Opera or Richard Strauss in Berlin conduct and play for the opera in these cities, and thereby bring them to world-fame prominence.

Today it should be a question of civic pride. We should do everything to make America the peer in music of any European country, and one of the finest ways to show what we can do in this direction is to let the gentlemen of the Commonwealth Opera sow the seeds in our principal cities as follows: Let them find a number of well-known people, socially and intellectually, who would support, by their presence and encouragement, a local season of opera. Make the local orchestra the musical pivot of this season, get a local chorus, have the musical director form a repertoire of a stipulated number of desired operas. Have the same thoroly rehearsed by orchestra and chorus. Let the minor roles be sung by local singers, possibly students in the conservatories of the city. The costumes and scenery can surely be made by the firms doing business in this same city. The theater shall employ machinists and electricians living in this city. In that way you have an immense amount of money being expended for the benefit of the local inhabitants. Here you have the foundation of a community institution, the benefits of which return directly to the city and its people, and there is to my mind no community that would not encourage and support such an institution. The only luxury necessary is the artists, and, with the enormous number of foreigners who flock yearly to our shores and the very important item of the American singers who would be only too glad to have an opportunity of singing in their own country, there would be no dearth of talent, and I have no doubt at all that artists of the very first rank, such as Caruso, Galli-Curci, Muratore, Farrar, Garden and the best of other great singers could be engaged for a certain number of performances, according to the repertoire used. This is the system employed in the leading opera houses in Europe, and it is the regular thing for the most celebrated singers to be engaged for five or six performances in one opera house, seven or eight at another, and so on during the entire operatic season. They do it all the time, and there is no reason why there should be any difficulty in doing it here.

When there are local singers of special talent they could have the opportunity of a debut under the best auspices and the sympathetic encouragement of their own people, but understand from the beginning that opera in America and every other country has two vital necessities—the support of the social element and the support of the people. It is an absolute obligation of the society leader and the cultured amateur that they support their opera; that they make it the social high mark in their social season; that they take a pride in its excellence and in the respect that is paid to it. They must have their boxes or their orchestra stalls and actively support and add to its success. The other element is the gallery. It must be at a price to permit the great number of foreigners whose means would not allow them to spend half of their weekly earnings the one performance, yet who long to hear the operas that were as familiar to them in their native towns as our sweet ditties are to us. Moreover, they should be able to hear any of our great singers for a moderate price, instead of being compelled to pay from $1.50 to $6, plus the speculator. There is no opera house in Europe where it is not possible to have a seat in the upper gallery the a very low price, and at least we could make it 50 cents. If such an undertaking could be encouraged there is absolutely no reason why a Commonwealth Opera should not be a complete success in this, the greatest of all commonwealths—the United States of America. But again I declare, opera in all the world is only possible when it has the support of the social element and the gallery, and the gallery in America will never support inferior opera, because they are composed of our own musical students who have little money, and the enormous number of Italians, Poles, Russians and the great Jewish element, who all have music, and, particularly operatic music, served to them with their A B Cs, and a good many of them have had it without the latter.

PAULIST CHOIR

The Paulist Choir from Chicago, under the direction of Father Finn, who gave their first New York concert in Carnegie Hall, proved to be an organization of one hundred male voices and of unusual merit and material. Not since the notable visit of the Mendelssohn Choir, of Toronto, about five years ago, has New York listened to such remarkable choral singing.

The Paulist Choir is here on a mission. It is devoting its talents to raising money for the restoration of France. As the house was filled from pit to dome it can be conservatively estimated that several thousand dollars will be given to that worthy cause.

SCHUMANN-HEINK AND ELMAN

New Orleans, thru that enterprising manager, Harry B. Loeb, will have a series of five concerts in February and March. Mme. Schumann-Heink and Mischa Elman are the particular attractions of this course, which also brings Yvette Guilbert to the old French town on March 11th.

CHICAGO OPERA'S

New York Sunday Night Concert Disappointment

On the strength of advertising announcing that Madame Galli-Curci and Rosa Raisa would be the chief attractions at the concert at the Hippodrome, New York, Sunday night, February 10, a great audience assembled to hear the program.

When Julius Daiber, a secretary to Mr. Campanini, announced that neither Mme. Galli-Curci nor Rosa Raisa would appear he was greeted with a great furore of hisses, lasting for four or five minutes.

More than 1,000 people rushed to the box office and demanded a return of their money, and a total of $1,600 or $1,700 was returned.

It would be difficult to imagine such an occurrence under the Metropolitan Opera House management. The Chicago Company's concerts will not grow in popularity by such happenings. Many who attended the concert, which was for French and Italian orphans, thought some announcement should have been made earlier that neither singer was to appear. It was not until a quarter to eight o'clock that the announcement was made. As it was Riccardo Stracciari proved to be the one big attraction of the evening.

CANADA HOLDS GODOWSKY

Leopold Godowsky, the famous Austrian pianist, is being held in Canada, where he has been giving a series of concerts, because the Ottawa Government refused to give him a passport to return to the United States, on the ground that he is not only an Austrian, but an officer in the Austrian army. It is true that Godowsky, as a professor in the Vienna Conservatory of Music, was de facto an officer. The musician is an American citizen, having taken his final papers renouncing his allegiance to Austria before the war.

Godowsky's wife and daughter are in the Hotel Ansonia, New York. He has already been kept from keeping engagements in New England by this passport trouble.

AT THE METROPOLITAN

The Chicago Opera Company has come and gone and the grand old "Met." moves on serenely. No one would ever had known during the stay of the Chicago company, judging from the continued sold-out attendance at the Metropolitan, that a visiting company was in town. Truly, this greatest of all of American musical institutions should be a source of pride not only to New Yorkers, but to every American.

On Monday, February 11, the Metropolitan played two grand opera performances to something like $35,000 aggregate receipts, not far from the record of the most famous days in the Golden Horseshoe. The line of standees reached entirely around the four sides of the Opera House.

During the present week the following operas will be given: Monday night, Bellini's I Puritani, with Mme. Barrientos and Mr. Lazaro; Carmen will be given as a special matinee on Washington's Birthday, with Mme. Farrar and Mr. Martinelli, and Miss Galli will dance; Wednesday evening, Tosca, with Mme. Farrar and John McCormack; Thursday evening, Lodoletta, with Mmes. Easton and Mr. Caruso; Friday evening, Il Barbiere di Siviglia, with Mmes. Barrientos and Mr. Carpi; Saturday matinee, Saint Elizabeth, with Mme. Easton and Mr. Whitehill.

MARGARET ANGLIN IN ELECTRA

During the Panama Exposition of 1915 Margaret Anglin produced the Electra of Sophocles, with incidental music by Walter Damrosch, at the Greek Theater of the University of California, and achieved a success, both popular and artistic, far beyond the most sanguine expectations. Last week at Carnegie Hall, New York, the performance was repeated with similar success before a large and appreciative audience.

A CHILDREN'S THEATER

In all the winter's social activities and war benefits children's entertainments have been noticeably infrequent. Therefore the more welcome was the entertainment given by that enthusiastic lover of children, Milton Aborn, on Lincoln's birthday, in his new building at 137 West Thirty-ninth street, New York.

In The Aborn Miniature there is a suggestion of fairy moonlight in its blue and silver coloring and a wonderful playground lies behind the drop curtain, where the immortal story of the lost babes in the wood was enacted for the little guests. After the short performance the youthful audience was invited to try the new dancing floor, and there was joy for every child present.

Concert artists who desire concert management, concert engagements or information of any kind with reference to concert promotion are invited to consult, either by mail or in person, The Billboard's concert man, Mr. Withey, in the Subway Central Building, 42d street and Broadway, New York; telephone, Bryant 8470. This service is entirely free, there being no charge of any kind whatsoever, and concert artists are cordially invited to avail themselves of this service.

TENOR ASKS WRIT

Edoardo Ferrari-Fontana, former Metropolitan Opera tenor, whose wife, Mme. Margarete Matzenauer, Metropolitan prima donna contralto, obtained a decree of divorce from him some time ago, giving her the custody of their four-year-old daughter, Adriana, and stipulating that he be allowed to see the child each Wednesday and Saturday at the home of a friend, has applied for a writ of habeas corpus to make it possible for him to see the child.

"The whole trouble," explained Nicholas Selvaggi, counsel for Fontana, "is that Mme. Matzenauer is a German and wants her child to be ruled by an 'iron hand.' Mr. Fontana, an Italian and loyal officer in the army of his country, feels that his daughter should be taught at least something of the Italian language and customs. He would like to teach the child himself, but since that seems impossible he would gladly provide a proper tutor for her."

CHICAGO COMPANY'S RECORD

With an American opera, Hadley's Azora, already sung in English, and the two novelties during the past week, which fall into the main divisions of the company's repertory, French and Italian, the invaders of New York's peaceful grand opera field gave a total of twenty different operas during their New York stay, all given in some twenty-six matinees and evenings in the course of twenty-six days. While this is a record in sheer quantity and while the Chicago people have introduced to New York some new stars of the highest merit, such as Galli-Curci, Muratore, Raisa and Stracciari, there has been nothing in the whole engagement which has surpassed if they have always equaled the regular performances at the Metropolitan.

The Chicago Company is agreeable as a change and a novelty, and New Yorkers will still regard the Metropolitan as setting the standard for all opera in America.

BOOK ARTISTS FOR ANN ARBOR

Contracts have been signed thru the office of Haensel & Jones for the engagements of four of their artists at the great Ann Arbor, Mich., Musical Festival to take place next May. Claudia Muzio, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will appear at the Artists' Night Concert on May 17; Margaret Matzenauer will be heard in the title role of Carmen on May 18; Paul Althouse has the tenor part in the Cesar Franck Beatitudes on May 16, and Arthur Middleton will sing twice in Beatitudes on May 16 and in Carmen on May 18.

FLORENCE EASTON AGAIN

The most recent proof of the wisdom shown by Mr. Gatti-Casazza in engaging the lovely English woman, Florence Easton, was found in the performance she gave for title role in Lodoletta, the new Mascagni opera, which had been sung previously with Caruso and Farrar as leads. Miss Easton sang the role without rehearsal, substituting for Miss Farrar in an emergency, yet as The Sun said: "With large success. Her voice fitted well into the music, and so did her acting, which was always true and lovely. The taste and sympathy she brought to the sudden encounter with this new part won her some thousand new admirers who had not already heard her in St. Elizabeth, and proved again how valuable an acquisition she must be to the Metropolitan."

CAROLINE WHITE

Miss Caroline White, one-time prima donna with the Chicago Opera Company, has been engaged as the prima donna of the company which is to be assembled by Messrs. Selwyn & Co. for their production of Rock-a-By Baby, a musical version of Margaret Mayo's Baby Mine by Mr. Jerome Kern, and the adaptation of the book by Edgar Allan Woolf.

PERCY GRAINGER RECOVERING

Percy Grainger, one of the greatest pianists of his day, who voluntarily renounced engagements that would have netted him a season worth from $80,000 to $90,000 for the purpose of entering the United States Army, is now recovering from a severe attack of tonsilitis, bronchial cough and measles. During the period of his illness he was given every possible attention from the musical and social world, who rejoice to know of his recovery. Early in the season Mr. Grainger was granted a furlough for the purpose of filling some concert dates, the proceeds of which were given to the Red Cross Fund and the income astonishingly large.

BISPHAM WIDENING ACTIVITIES

David Bispham, who for years has been associated with the highest there is in vocal and dramatic art, announces that he is now occupying his new studio at 44 West 44th street, New York, where he is extending the scope of his work in the preparation by competent assistants of junior aspirants for the more advanced stages of vocal art, including oratorio, opera and drama.

SHUBERT'S GRAND OPERA

The Boston Opera House, that artistic and beautiful structure in the Back Bay section of the Massachusetts capital, now is the property of Lee and J. J. Shubert.

They announced last week that they had purchased the house, and allowed it to be inferred they henceforth would be interested in the production of grand opera, as well as lighter music pieces and drama.

While nothing was said by them here as to the sum they paid for the Boston building a report from there had it that the figure was $1,000,000.

SYMPHONY SOLOIST

The soloist for the fifth concert in the series of Symphony Concerts for Young People, given by the orchestra of the Symphony Society of New York, Walter Damrosch, conductor, on Saturday afternoon, February 23, is Guiomar Novaes, the brilliant young Belgian pianist. Miss Novaes will play Chopin's concerto for piano with orchestra in F minor.

SOUSA ENJOYS A REST

John Philip Sousa, for a few weeks, put aside the strenuous work at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and hied him to the East, there to wrestle with la grippe and overwrought nerves. When he recovered the greatest bandmaster took a little recreation trip and hunted ducks on his preserves in South Carolina and further amused himself at the Mid-Winter Shooting Tournament in Pinehurst, N. C. He has already returned to his post at the Great Lakes.

Schirmer will publish four new songs this month by John Philip Sousa, all of them being praised highly by Mr. Sonneck. The names of the songs are: Lovely Mary Donnelly, The Love That Lives Forever, Life's Prize Song, We Are Coming, and what Mr. Sousa declares is his best, In Flanders' Fields the Poppies Grow.

ALMA GLUCK

Alma Gluck, a soprano, who stands high as one of America's concert singers, gave her only recital of the season in Carnegie Hall, New York, last week, returning from a long tour of the Pacific Coast. Her admirers in her own city, where, like Patti, this young Roumanian artist grew up and made her debut in New York, were sufficient in numbers and enthusiasm to crowd the hall on a day when two of the greatest favorites of the operatic world were appearing in other theaters. They heard with pleasure a voice as fresh, apparently, as when she sang as a girl the modest Sophie in Werther at the New Theater, or at the Metropolitan later the Happy Shade in Orpheus.

MISCHA ELMAN

That Mischa Elman continues to hold and enhance the high esteem in which New York music lovers regard him was again proved at Carnegie Hall last week when his playing evoked sustained enthusiasm from the large audience.

MISS HEMPEL

Having sung The Star-Spangled Banner to patriots in Providence, and given $100 to the Mayor's coal fund in New York, Frieda Hempel, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang her closing performances of the season last week. On February 12 Miss Hempel began a three months' tour in Worcester, Mass. She will give her annual New York concert in Carnegie Hall on Tuesday afternoon, February 25. On March 3 she will be heard in Orchestra Hall, Chicago, en route for her first tour to the Coast. Her California appearances will take up the rest of the month, and on April 1 she will begin her Northwestern tour in Seattle.

HENRI VERBRUGGHEN TO CONDUCT

Henri Verbrugghen, who conducted in London both the Beethoven Festival of 1914 and the Bach-Beethoven-Brahms Festival of 1915, is in New York on a special mission from the Lord Mayor of Sydney, Aus., and the New South Wales Government, in regard to musical education. During his brief stay here he is to give an orchestral concert "to place before the New York public the result of the twenty years he devoted to the study of the works of Beethoven." Mr. Verbrugghen will conduct the three works which created the deepest impression at the Beethoven Festival in London, the Leonore Overture, No. 3, and the Eroica and Fifth Symphonies. To enable him to do this Modest Altschuler has placed the Russian Symphony Orchestra at Mr. Verbrugghen's disposal.

NOT TO RETURN

There are rumors that the Chicago Opera Company will return to New York for another two weeks' engagement after its coming season in Boston. Mr. Campanini says there is no truth in them. "Better," he said, "that we should leave New York hungry for more and come back for a longer season next year." The production of Cleopatra, with Marguerite Sylva, he added, had been prevented by congestion of railroad traffic tying up the scenery.

CHAS. W. CLARK

It is a pity that that fine American baritone, Charles W. Clark, is not heard more often in New York. He is an artist who could well be taken as a model by some of our younger concert singers.

Particularly in the interpretation of modern French songs is Mr. Clark successful. In his joint recital with Arthur Shattuck at Aeolian Hall, New York, last week, he made much of Debussy's three Villon ballades. The splendid English diction brought home to the final group.

If you loan your money to the Government you do two things: You give your country credit and give the Government room in the workshop to get the job done.

The DRAMATIC STAGE

GRUNDY PLANS BROADWAY SHOWS AT LEXINGTON O. H.

Will Institute New Departure by Combining Admission to Theater With Admission to Dancing Carnival at Grand Central Palace—All at Popular Prices

New York, Feb. 16.—A unique departure in things theatrical will be instituted February 25 at the Lexington Opera House when George D. Grundy, of the Dancing Carnival at the Grand Central Palace, will bring into this playhouse Broadway shows with Broadway casts at a price within the reach of everyone.

Under the title of The Masks, Inc., Mr. Grundy has organized a producing company, headed by Norman Hackett and Grace Carlyle, and will present for two weeks, as his initial offering, When Rogues Fall Out, by C. W. Bell. Interviewed yesterday Mr. Grundy said: "I have made a careful study of the theatrical situation as it now exists in New York. I intend now to give to the people of Manhattan Broadway entertainment, followed by an after-evening of real pleasure, for a reasonable expenditure. I believe then will be commercializing the amusement business, and I think it is necessary today in New York to commercialize this business.

"With every ticket for admission into my theater, which will be known as The Masks, Inc., there will be presented to the holder a coupon entitling him to free admission into my Dancing Carnival at the Grand Central Palace and to my high-class cabaret on the second floor of this building. Therefore, a man and his family, his sweetheart or his out of town friends can enjoy a Broadway show for a very reasonable price and afterwards, in the very best environment, round out the evening's pleasure with no additional cost for entrance fee to him. I believe this will go a great way towards meeting the popular demand in New York."

The box office of The Masks, Inc., will control all of Mr. Grundy's seats. They will not be sold to speculators. No cost will be spared and no faithfulness to detail will be eliminated in present the very highest class of legitimate entertainment. There will be 600 seats at 75 cents, 700 seats at 50 cents, 500 seats at 35 cents and 500 seats at 25 cents.

Mr. Grundy secured Bertley Cushing as director and general manager of the corporation.

The cast for When Rogues Fall Out includes Norman Hackett, Grace Carlyle, Jhon Congrove, Lyla Leigh, Irving Lancaster, Alphous Lincoln, George M. Clark and J. H. Mason.

OPENING, CLOSING, MOVING

New York, Feb. 16.—Lee and J. J. Shubert will present at the Thirty-ninth Street Theater Monday, February 25, William Hodge in A Cure for Curables, a four-act comedy from the pens of Earl Derr Biggers and Lawrence Whitman. Mr. Hodge has a typical Hodge part, and will be supported by a company of twenty-three.

Owing to the success of Maytime at the Shubert Theater the Shuberts have decided to keep it running in New York, and have transferred it to the Forty-fourth Street Theater, where it opens this afternoon.

Arnold Daly closed his engagement in Josephine at the Knickerbocker Theater Saturday night, and will resume the tour of The Master at the Hudson, beginning tomorrow.

Her Country will be given for the first time at the Punch and Judy Theater Thursday evening, with Alexander Onslow in the principal male role.

Oh, Look will be the opening attraction at the new Vanderbilt Theater February 27.

General Post will tour the big cities in the East following its closing at the Gaiety Theater February 23.

Morris Gest will revive The Garden of Allah at the Manhattan Opera House February 25. Old Lady 31 is now appearing there for a two weeks' engagement.

Odds and Ends closed at the Norworth Theater last night, and will head for Philadelphia.

CAMP THEATER OPENING

The Liberty (Government) Theater at Camp Merritt, N. J., of which Harry Clay Blaney has been appointed manager, is nearing completion, and is scheduled to open Monday, March 11, with Fair and Warmer.

The prudent man looks ahead and gets ready. The frugal man lives carefully and saves persistently. The economical man spends judiciously, buys wisely and wastes nothing. The industrious man works hard. The miser hoards. But the man of thrift spends wisely. The government's War-Savings Stamp plan provides the medium for practical practice of thrift.

NEW DANSEUSE FOR AMERICA

Protege of Anna Pavlowa To Make American Debut

New York, Feb. 17.—Mlle. Rhea, a young American danseuse, has just arrived in New York, and is soon to make her American debut here. She is fresh from Petrograd, where, as a protege of Mme. Pavlowa, she was accepted for tuition by the first rank teachers of the Imperial Marinsky Theater, and was the only American girl who has ever completed the Russian ballet course there. The war conditions forced Mlle. Rhea to leave Russia and go to England, where she appeared at the Empire Theater in London.

PLAYWRIGHTS,

Adapters and Translators

Mrs. Alice Chapin, mother of the late Harold Chapin, a brilliant young American writer and dramatist, who was killed in the war, will arrange to bring out for the benefit of American admirers the plays of her son in book form.

Anne Crawford Flexner has written a new comedy, entitled The Blue Pearl. Lee Shubert and Oliver Morosco will soon produce it.

Arthur Pearson, who has numerous vaudeville skits and monologs to his credit, has written his first play for the high-class theaters. It is called Yours Truly, and will have T. Roy Barnes as an important player. Pearson is responsible for the book and lyrics, and Herbert Stothart the score.

Democracy's King is the title of a new play which will be presented at the Hudson Theater, New York, during Arnold Daly's tenancy. The production is from the pen of Mr. Daly himself.

Arthur Reichman is a newcomer in the ranks of playwrights. The title of his work is The Little Belgian. Oliver Morosco will make the production.

Alan Dale, the dramatic critic, whose The Madonna of the Future was produced this season, is now at work on another play, called The Woman of Tomorrow. It will first be seen in Los Angeles, according to present plans.

J. Hartley Manners has written a one-act play in which Laurette Taylor will appear at the Actors' Fund Benefit at the Century Theater, New York, March 1.

Cyril Harcourt has started to write a play of the war for production in the fall. He recently returned from France.

Ralph Thomas Kettering, of Chicago, has served notice on A. H. Woods, The Shuberts and Max Marcin, alleging The Eyes of Youth is an infringement upon his well-known allegory, Which Gun Shall I Marry, which has traversed the popular-priced theater circuit for the past two years, and which, prior to its being made into a full-sized play, played big-time vaudeville as a sketch under the direction of Edgar Allen Woolf. He claimed the stories are identical in theme, scenes and dialog.

SHIRLEY KELLOGG INJURED

New York, Feb. 16.—According to a cable dispatch Shirley Kellogg, the American actress, who is appearing at the Strand Theater in London in Cheating Cheaters, was badly injured during the performance Monday night. During the second act she fell and was taken in an unconscious condition to the Savoy Hotel, where physicians found her spine hurt.

GARDEN OF ALLAH

At Manhattan Opera House, New York, Following Old Lady 31

New York, Feb. 16.—Morris Gest announces that the next attraction at the Manhattan Opera House, following Old Lady 31, on February 25, will be the celebrated Century Theater production of The Garden of Allah, the successful stage version of Robert Hichens' perennially popular novel of the same name, as dramatized by the author and the famous American actress, Mary Anderson Navarro. As far as possible the original cast is being restored. The principals re-engaged include Sarah Truax, William Jeffray, Howard Gould, Thaddeus Grey, Albert Andrews, Antonio Salerno, Pearl Gray, Salim Abbott and Lala Faddima.

DRAMATIC NOTES

J. H. Dickson, manager of Robert B. Mantell Company, writes that business through the South has been enormous during the past two months, playing to capacity in almost every city.

Ruth Mabee has replaced Gloria Goodwin as Clifton Webb's dancing partner in Love o' Mike, now on tour under the direction of Elisabeth Marbury and Lee Shubert.

Doc Crews, manager of the Liberty Theater, Walla Walla, Wash., is up and around again after being confined in a hospital in that city for a short time.

Eleanor Woodruff, leading woman with Otis Skinner in Mister Antonio, is recovering from an operation for appendicitis at St. John's Hospital, St. Louis. Physicians say it will be a few weeks before she will be able to leave the institution. Sue Ann Wilson has taken Miss Woodruff's place in the cast.

Charles Dillingham's Cheer Up reached its 200th presentation at the New York Hippodrome last Saturday.

The Rainbow Girl was launched for the second time this season last Monday night at the Academy of Music, Baltimore, Md. It is credited with being the most dh[illegible]ng thing of the kind that has been seen there for many a long day. The cast is an excellent one. After a week in Washington the play will go to Boston.

Dorothy Klewer has been engaged by the Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert for their production of Frederic and Fanny Hatton's new play, The Squab Farm.

The Sting, announced as a modern morality play by F. Mason Greene, had its initial tryout in Providence, R. I. The author played the leading part.

The train carrying the Have a Heart Company was stuck in the snow drifts north of Burlington, Ia., and failed to arrive in Quincy, Ill., in time to open at the Empire Hippodrome Theater Monday, February 11, as scheduled.

The engagement of Houdini at the Hippodrome, New York, has been extended by Charles Dillingham. The original agreement was for six weeks, ending last Saturday.

Elliott, Comstock & Gest have postponed the production of George V. Hobart's modern morality play, Loyalty, until August 15.

Rosa Lynd will play the leading role in Her Country.

Saxon Kling, whose last appearance was in Winthrop Ames' Saturday to Monday, will enact the leading man's part in Youth, the three-act play in which the Washington Square Players will appear Wednesday evening.

Janet McIlwaine, Mary Morrison, Babe Marlowe and Eleanor Masters have been engaged by Selwyn & Company for their musical play, Rock-a-Bye, Baby, which will be the opening attraction of the new Selwyn theater in New York.

STAGE WOMEN ACTIVE

War Relief Work Proceeds Along Many Lines

New York, Feb. 16.—A unique form of salesmanship is taking place in New York and Brooklyn. A committee of the Stage Women's War Relief, composed of Frances Starr, Mrs. Joseph Grismer, Mrs. Chauncey Olcott and Mrs. H. R. Garrison, is selling in the big department stores Smileage for the soldiers, which—as every one knows by now—is a little $1 book of ten coupon tickets for performances in the Liberty Theaters in the sixteen cantonments.

The Stage Women's War Relief built the first stage and provided the first performance ever given in one of our national cantonments. They took the Friars' Club headline vaudeville Frolic to Fort Myer last June. The success of this led Raymond B. Fosdick to recommend to the War Department the erection of the Liberty theaters in all the training camps, and to the appointment of Marc Klaw as the business head of this gigantic enterprise.

Rachel Crothers, president of the Stage Women's War Relief, has been in constant consultation with Mr. Klaw, and now, in addition to its active war relief work, is helping to distribute Smileage books.

Beatrice Prentice, one of the most active workers at the Stage Women's War Relief, opened in the leading part of Baby Mine at Trenton February 7. This is the first Liberty company to tour the camps under the direction of the Misses Davis and Linwell. The company will eventually reach Camp Lewis, Tacoma, Wash., where it will play indefinitely.

Madame de Cisneros will sing at the Actors' Fund Benefit March 1 at the Century Theater.

Rooms have been donated for the Stage Women's War Relief Canteen by Bonnie Fellows at the Rip Van Winkle Tea Room, 17 West 37th street. This canteen will be open every Sunday from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m., commencing February 24. The Rehearsal Club has turned over the two hundred soldiers, sailors and aviators they have entertained every Saturday to the care of the actresses. Ernest Glendinning has promised to give $5 to the Canteen every week he is playing.

Florence Nash's address on the work of the Stage Women's War Relief before the City Athletic Club resulted in substantial benefits for the relief work. Joseph Frankel, head of the Safety Economy Machine Corporation, with offices in Twenty-third street, offered the stage women a loft for the manufacturing of windproof jackets for men of the army and promised to furnish instructors and machines. He is putting in wardrobes for the use of the stage women.

Actresses at work in the Night Workrooms, 47 West Forty-fourth street, Tuesday night were photographed. Among those present were Julia Dean, who donated a sewing machine, and who gave the electric cooker used for the canteen at 366 Fifth avenue; Julia Arthur, who gave a sewing machine; Hilda Spong, Louise Closser Hale, Olive May, Lillian Roth, Mrs. Joseph Cawthorn, Mrs. Wilton Lackaye, Margaret Cecil and Mrs. Henry Parker.

AT ACTORS' FUND BENEFIT

New York, Feb. 16.—Among the women stars who have agreed to appear at the annual benefit for the Actors' Fund at the Century Theater Friday afternoon, March 1, are Laurette Taylor, Julia Arthur, Elsie Ferguson, May Irwin, Nora Bayes, Louise Dresser and Eleanora de Cisneros. New plays are being written for the occasion by J. Hartley Manners, Willard Mack, James E. Montgomery and Irving Berlin, and many novel features will be presented.

One of the dramatic novelties to be offered will be the presentation by three well-known stars of a playlet, the action of which is entirely backward. The final scene occurs at the opening and situations, episodes and dialogs are given in reverse action. The playlet is by Jas. E. Montgomery, and was first presented at a recent Friars' Frolic.

GERMAN PLAYERS TO GO

Yiddish Company Booked for Irving Place Theater, New York

New York, Feb. 16.—The Yiddish Players will succeed the German Players at the Irving Place Theater May 1, when the house will pass into the hands of a Jewish company, headed by Morris Schwartz, one of the chief actors at Kessler's Second Avenue Theater. All the plays will be in Yiddish, with a repertoire of wide variety.

THE LEGITIMATE

CONDUCTED BY THEODORE A. LIEBLER JR.

A very delightful method by which the profession can do some small part of its "bit" has been developed in the performances that have been given Sunday afternoons at the Harris Theater in New York, and which will be given at the Forty-Fourth Street Theater, with its larger capacity, hereafter. At these performances, it is announced, "your uniform is your pass," and artists of the highest rank, including such stars as Laurette Taylor, have been doing their darndest to make the day pleasant for the thousands of soldier and sailor boys from all over the country—or rather from all over the world—who happen to have nothing better to do on that particular Sunday afternoon. And maybe the lads don't "eat up the show." Laurette Taylor did an act from Happiness last Sunday, and every point told. Even the gags about Brooklyn went with a roar, for, of course, the boys from Great Falls or Sioux City or wherever they may hail from all know a Brooklyn of their own.

The idea ought to spread. There are probably enough boys in the service alone in the big city every Sunday to fill half a dozen theaters. Of course, they patronize the picture houses to a certain extent, but they have half a day to take in a picture show, too, if the need of it is felt. But the best we have to give them is none too good for the boys that are giving us everything they've got, and if we can give them the best we have without making them dig into their meager pay we ought to do it. George Cohan and a number of other theatrical luminaries took a trip down to Camp Upton on the theaterless Tuesday preceding, and gave as many as six shows for the boys down there, and would have given more if the commandant hadn't called a halt out of sheer pity for the overworked enthusiasts. The spirit that gripped these tourists to the camp, that caused them to volunteer to throw aside all hope of gain, all contracts, and to continue exploiting their gifts without remuneration for the entertainment of our soldiers if the Government would ask or even permit it, is the spirit that will send volunteer organizations "over there" to perform behind the trenches if the war lasts much longer. Houdini volunteered on the spot to donate six months of his time for the cause, his previously entered into contracts notwithstanding. And there were many others in the same frame of mind. Spring and summer are close at hand, and, tonnage permitting, a start should be made from the profession to do the right thing by the boys. English players have been doing it, but for them it's only a few hours' trip from home to the front line. The time and energy that will be required from the American actor will be greater, but don't let's wait to be drafted. Start something.

When we say—and with reason—that the movies found a technique almost ready at hand in that of the mother art we should not belittle the fact that the movies have also taught our playwrights something in the matter of treatment. Many a writer on stage topics has suspected the average audience of having something more than average intelligence, but for generations, aye centuries, the game has always been to play safe—to establish every necessary premise with precision.

Movie people accuse us of having coined fortunes by the appropriation of their cheaper tricks, of their flashbacks, their dreams and visions and what not. And no doubt many a money-making play could be cited that had a picture idea as its inspiration.

But our debt to the movies is greater than this, and it is due to the accidental revelation that audiences can follow a story perfectly even tho they may have come in upon a feature picture in its second, third or fourth reel. The manner of showing pictures continuously, all day long, without any set time at which audiences may habitually arrive at the playhouse and see the unfolding of a story from its beginning without loss of any preliminary or preparatory detail, has taught us that the preliminary and preparatory detail on which we labor so hard in the preparation of non-spoken plays is more or less inessential. Picture people found it out long ago, and discarded much of our carefully compiled dramatic technique in the development of picture themes. And so we see it now on the Broadway stages. We see new plays that plunge right into the heart of action and permit characters, motives and all the rest to explain themselves in terms of action and situation. And, granted an intelligence on the part of audiences, the new way is a good way. Audiences appear to appreciate the compliment paid their common sense.

Years ago a writer on the theater hailed as a stroke of genius the bit of business in "Diplomacy" in which, after a lady's fondness for a certain kind of perfume had been "planted," the hero established the fact that a letter he had picked up had been written by the character in question merely by raising it to his nostrils. So much has the stage developed since that day, so much greater is the dependence placed upon the intelligence of audiences today that this sort of thing is baby talk; in fact a bit commonplace and obvious. And pictures have helped not only to make us realize that we can trust our audiences to understand, but have also helped to educate our public to a point where they demand a certain respect for their intelligence.

Since the writing of our leading article in last week's issue of this publication we have been informed of several other war plays that are to be produced almost immediately. One is to be put out by A. H. Woods, whose finger is always on the public pulse, and who is also the producer of Our Friendly Enemies, of which we wrote last week. It goes into rehearsal Monday, and will probably be seen before a month has passed.

Meanwhile one little private war, the perennially smoldering feud of our own Capulets and Montagues, the Shuberts and Kayandees, has assumed a violence of sufficient intensity to command secondary headlines in the press. The extent of the drives into hostile territory, the importance of captures, smack of action on the Eastern rather than on the Western fronts, but the public refuses to become interested in our goings on. It takes times like these to bring a realization of the smallness of our importance in the affairs of the world. There was a time when a rumor to the effect that the Woods interests had sold a share of their business to the Shuberts or even had only made an arrangement to book with the Shuberts, receiving several hundred thousand dollars therefor, would have rocked the show world to its foundations, but today nobody seems to care an awful lot. You speak with people whose business may be affected and they merely wonder what is going to happen next. The times have certainly affected the business in many ways, thrown it into a greater state of uncertainty than ever before, but they have also instilled a belief that new conditions create new remedies, and with an unparalleled era of prosperity on the way there shall be corn in the land of Egypt for all for many moons to come.

McGOWN SERIOUSLY ILL

Urbana, O., Feb. 16.—Friends of the Famous McGown, the veteran photographer, who for many years had taken photographs of traveling road shows in this vicinity, will be saddened to learn that he is seriously ill at his home on East Reynolds street from heart trouble. Dramatic actors will remember him as the man who years ago owned and operated a peanut stand in the business district, and who used to line up the actors and get their photographs and biographs, for which he would give each a bag of peanuts. He is about 70 years old. A word of good cheer from his many friends would probably do him much good.

WAN O' THE WOOD PRESENTED

Los Angeles, Feb. 16.—That the presentation of Wan o' the Wood, the fairy fantasy, at the Little Theater this week was a stepping stone to a general children's theater movement in this city is announced by Frank Egan, who put on the spectacle. The fantasy, which was written for children and presented mainly by child performers, was staged by Marshall Stedman. Dances were supervised by Mlle. Pranget. Curtyne Engler was seen in the title role.

CHICAGO'S THIRD CROOK PLAY

Chicago, Feb. 18.—The Chicago invasion of "crook" plays has mounted to three, now that De Luxe Annie, carpentered into a stage vehicle by Edward Clarke from Scammon Lockwood's story, which came to the Princess overnight, has thrown its hat into the ring. The first of this class, Cheating Cheaters, came to the Colonial a few weeks ago, and is running along nicely. The second, Among Those Present, is doing well at the Blackstone. The last entrant has the principal roles handled by Violet Heming, Vincent Serrano, Thurlow Bergen, Mary Hall, Albert Brunning and Walter Wilson. Indications point to an unlooked-for influx of "crook" plays similar to that which maintained five seasons ago.

AFTER MME. NAZIMOVA

New York, Feb. 18.—Arthur Hopkins is negotiating with Mme. Alla Nazimova to appear in several Ibsen plays for a season of about fourteen weeks. Mme. Nazimova has been away from the speaking stage since she did 'Ception Shoals last season, appearing in motion pictures for Mutual.

NEW PLAYS

THE LOVE MILL

THE LOVE MILL—An intimate musical show in two acts. Presented by Andreas Dippel at the Forty-eighth Street Theater, New York, Friday evening, February 8. The book and lyrics are by Earl Carrol, music by Alfred Francis and the staging by Mack Whiting. Grace Fisher appeared in the principal singing role. Scenery painted by Joseph Physioc, New York. Miss Fisher's gowns, worn in the first and second acts, were designed by Hickson, New York.

THE CAST:

Mrs. Carter-Beaumont	Grace Fisher
Mrs. Thompson	Jeannette Lowrie
Her daughters:
Millie	Carrie McManus
Lucille	Emilie Lea
Peggy	Yolande Presbury
Count Aladar Calman Maria Prsnopredansky	Al Roberts
George Dodge	Harry Tighe
William King	Victor Morley
Tom Morris	Clarence Nordstrom
James	Edward Richards
Henry	Joseph Bennett
Fifi	Frances Fielder

The Love Mill has catchy music and plenty of humorous passages. The story concerns the efforts of an impoverished society woman, admirably played by Jeannette Lowrie, to marry off her three daughters. With the final curtain wedding bells were ringing. Millie, the fat daughter, played by Carrie McManus, who drank vinegar to reduce, occasioned many hearty laughs. Joe. Bennett and Edward Richards, two negro servants, furnished some good comedy. Yolande Presbury and Clarence Nordstrom, a youthful couple, danced amazingly.

Grace Fisher, starred as Mrs. Carter-Beaumont, sang with charming effect. Miss Fisher is the type of beauty that carries the distinction of class. She wore marvelous costumes. One particularly attractive was made to full long skirt, the soft clinging folds of which swept gracefully into a train. A broad encircling band of silver embroidery, at about the knee, being the only trimming. The sleeves were full and a net-crown hat completed an effect of demure elegance—and that in itself constitutes a range in dress which all musical comedy stars can not compass. The song hits were Down the Bridal Path of Love, Every Flower Has a Melody, The Love Mill and the whimsical Q. T. U. C. I. M. 4 U.—M. F. L.

Excerpts from the New York dailies follow:

Evening World: "The Love Mill a dull grind."

Evening Telegram: "Grace Fisher looked beautiful in many gowns."

Evening Mail: "The music is its best feature."

American: "A tedious musical play."

Herald: "With a little speeding up this should be one of the most entertaining musical comedies of the winter."

Sun: "Grace Fisher was the loveliest of all the single figures in the play."

THE OFF CHANCE

THE OFF CHANCE—A comedy by R. C. Carton. Presented at the Empire Theater, New York, Thursday, February 14.

THE CAST:

Duke of Burchester	Cyril Keightley
Lord Cardonnell	E. Lyall Swete
Sir George Swinford	Albert Gran
Cornelius Jeffcott Bayne	John Cope
Major Bagleigh	Edward Emery
Mr. Brunson	Thomas Louden
Deeds	Charles Webster
Meecher	J. M. Troughton
Lethbridge	Charles Gibson
Duchess of Burchester	Eva Le Gallienne
Lady Rainsford	Cecilia Radcliffe
Mme. [illegible] De Bianca	Marcelle Rousiche
Mrs. Meecher	Clara T. Bracy
Watson	Louise Worthington
Lady Cardonnell	Ethel Barrymore

Mother-in-laws are not popular—they never have been and probably never will be—but Ethel Barrymore, in The Off Chance, reconciles one to the idea that a mother-in-law may, perhaps, not be so bad as they are painted. It is a maturer role than Miss Barrymore usually essays. She has so long been associated with roles which cast only a gossamer veil over her own personality that Lady Cardonnell enables her to create a new Ethel Barrymore as surely as it enables her to create a new stage character.

Lady Cardonnell is bright, world-wise and sharp-tongued. Her daughter (Eva Le Gallienne) has married the Duke of Burchester (Cyril Keightley). The Duke, true to tradition, has turned lukewarm to domesticity, and women—one in particular, a dancer—gambling and other diversions prove the rallying point around which his inclinations center. Lady Cardonnell finds the young couple standing upon the matrimonial precipice, about to plunge into the abyss of divorce. She sets about to patch up the shattered romance, which she successfully does. She works on the Duke's jealousy and she completely disillusions him, and her strategy in bringing these results about provides the comedy and all the worthy essentials of the piece.

Miss Barrymore's acting was at all times deliberate. She was most amusing, most ironical

NUTT COMEDY PLAYERS STILL IN THE RUNNING

Despite Bad Weather Company Is Doing Fair Business—Will Play Two-Week Engagements Coming North

Still going in spite of the bad weather and Tuesday closing ruling. Business has been only fair the past four weeks on account of the most severe winter in years for Louisiana, but all have withstood it as well as could be expected. Houston Spangler, who had been with the company for three years as cornet and electrician, has joined the colors in the Secret Service Department. C. C. Schell and wife joined the company at Morgan City, Mr. Schell replacing Spangler and Mrs. Schell to play piano in orchestra. H. H. Vandenburg has replaced Edison Morris, who also joined the colors. He joined for tuba and string bass.

Ed C. Nutt went into New Orleans for the big Elk doings and says he saw more Elks than he ever saw before. He says they initiated 2,987 while he was there. Frank Delmaine has a stock company playing the suburban theaters around New Orleans and reports good business.

Last week the Nutt Show played the Elks Theater at Baton Rouge, while the outfit was getting overhauled for the spring drive. Wilfred Simpson closed at Baton Rouge.

Roland Sedgwick, stage director, has everything running like clock work with the new plays, and the show is now prepared to play a two weeks' engagement in all new plays on its return trip North this spring.—KERNAL.

NOW MANAGING PRETTY PAPA

A. H. McAdam, business manager of Halton Powell's Broadway After Dark for twenty-two weeks this season, is now managing Mr. Powell's new musical comedy, Pretty Papa. The show opened for a tour of the Small Circuit in Canada at St. Catherines, Ont., February 4, with eight weeks of Canadian time to follow. The roster: Woodhall Amusement Company, sole owners; A. H. McAdam, manager; Fred Bates, agent; Irene Jane, musical director; Harvey Porter, carpenter; Raleigh Orwgill, electrician; Gert Sanderson, property man; Halton Powell, Norman Hanley, Sam Dennis, Dreama Anderson, Aubrey Gray, Ernest Johnson, Glenn LaBar, Buddie Beattie, Grace Baird, Marguerite Naher, Rita Lawrence, Kathryn Givney, Lloyd Byron, Hazel Fourche, Georgia Fisher, Helen Gallagher, Ethel Johnson, Irene Porter, Jo Murray, Avis Vinson, Marjorie Belle, May Morris and Opal Porter. Business has been very good.

OTTO JOHNSON PLAYERS

The Otto Johnson Players opened in Bosworth, Mo., January 22, and then in order to get away from the snowstorms of the Middle West, Mr. Johnson jumped the company from Bosworth to Webb City, Mo., where it played Sunday, January 27.

A sad occurrence of the week was the death of the four-months' old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood. The interment was held in Webb City. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood are well known in the profession. A card of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Davis, proprietors of the Middle West Hotel, for their kindness extended Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood in their bereavement.

COBURN-PEARSON PLAYERS

Last week was the nineteenth of the season for the Coburn-Pearson Players, having opened in Iowa and going thru that State, South Dakota and at present headed for Nebraska and Wyoming. The season's business has been one of the best Mr. Coburn had known. His roster comprises: Lillian Pearson (Mrs. Frank Coburn), Mr. and Mrs. Earle Newton (one Daisy Stewart), Sam DuVogle and Helen DuVogle, Billy Kitterman, Pat Mills, Rollie F. Swank, Baby Made-Fox Newton.

MUSICAL COMEDY COMPANY

Doing Well in Portland, Me.

Portland, Me., Feb. 16.—The World Producing Musical Comedy Company is making its initial appearance in this section, playing at the Greely Theater to big business. On account of the house playing three shows daily the bills, which run from two and a half to three hours, had to be cut down to meet the requirements of the time limit, but went very big regardless of the cuts. The company is composed of Jack Fairbanks, comedian; Carl Covey, straight man; Tom Bullock, characters; Hal Burton, juvenile man; Florence Maier, prima donna; Lottie Gafferty, ingenue. Chorus: Mabel Langley, Marjorie Pelkey, Betty Jones, Mabel Schopp, Muriel and Florence Wainwright, Eileen Wilcox and Corinne Durand. wardrobe mistress, Mary Wilson; musical director, Fred Fleming.

WICHITA HAPPENINGS

Wichita, Kan., Feb. 1.—The Liberty Theater has a leading man that came by name Frank G. Bond, late of Oklahoma City Stock Company. His wife is a clever ingenue in the same company. Tom McElhany created the role of Dick Garrison in Tabor's new play, Indiana, under Mr. Bond's direction last week.

Clark B. Felgar, character actor, has left the Liberty Stock in behalf of the insurance business, and henceforth will call Wichita his home.

The city has quite a colony of actors, about sixteen in all, either native or adopted sons, and most of them awaiting the pleasure of army officials.

WHAT IS REPERTOIRE?

In answer to the many articles appearing in The Billboard since my story of repertoire shows was published in the Christmas issue, I wish to explain to the show world that I did not attempt to say who was the first proprietor or manager of a repertoire company playing under a tent theater. I do not know who was first. I certainly would like to know, since my article started so much comment on the subject. In the first place I would like for some one in the game older than myself to properly define the word "repertoire." I would like to know the exact meaning of the word. We all understand that it naturally means a company of dramatic actors and actresses playing full script plays. But I may have a fine repertoire of music for my band and orchestra. I remember well my old repertoire of negro acts, having had many years of experience in the minstrel game. Many comedians have a repertoire of monologs and jokes. Singers have a repertoire of songs. My route may consist of a repertoire of good towns. Even the minister will have a repertoire of good sermons. A sketch team may have a repertoire of sketches. The tabloid producer will have a repertoire of cut version bills for the tabloid show.

Now the question is: Do music, negro acts, monologs, jokes, songs, sermons, sketches, tab. versions, etc., justly come under the head of repertoire? If so, we can all go back, away back and write the stories our forefathers told us. I have heard many, many interesting stories about ancient incidents which occurred among the oldtimers many years before I was born. But that is all right: they are no doubt facts and should be published to enlighten a less informed. But I will not write any at this time. The important question now is: What is repertoire? Who knows?

In my recent article I did not attempt to mention every person who ever owned or managed a tent show. I am sure I could fill a page with names, not from my personal acquaintance with them, but from history of the show business which I have learned during my past twenty-five years' experience. I have heard of George Washington, but have never met him personally. Let us hear from all the oldtimers and tell all you know from personal acquaintance and also all the knowledge you have gained otherwise. Some person wanted to know if I was Roy E. Fox he met some years ago in Pennsylvania with the Harkness Family Show. Yes, I am the Fox you met. My first wife was the daughter of J. T. Harkness, founder of the old Harkness Family Wagon Show. It was his son, Will Harkness, my brother-in-law, who was my business partner in the old Harkness and Fox Minstrels. How many remember that show? It was the only successful white minstrel show under canvas in existence, and continued to be a money-making machine. I bought his interest and changed the name to Roy E. Fox's Lone Star Minstrel Show. Many remember that show. It was only seven years ago that I closed the minstrel show and entered the "dramatic repertoire" field under canvas. I write mostly as a patriot speaks—just what I see taught.

Webster gives a brief definition of repertoire as follows: Stock of dramas, songs, etc., ready for use.—ROY E. FOX.

BRYANT SHOW BOAT

Will Open Season April 1

April 1 will see the opening of the Bryant Show Boat with the most elaborate line of attractions Mr. Bryant has heretofore offered. Billy will have a twelve-piece band this season, including the Costello Lady Orchestra. The recent ice gorges in the Kanawha River, which did great damage, failed to injure the Bryant boat.

NEW AMUSEMENT COMPANY

Tacoma, Feb. 16.—Edwin P. James and J. G. Heitman, lessees of the Oak Theater, where the Monte Carter Musical Comedy Company is playing, have formed the James Amusement Company, with a capital stock of $50,000.

George Weiss, with the Monte Carter company, has changed his name to George White.

ROY E. FOX'S PLAYERS

Roy E. Fox's Players Company continues to meet with success in Texas despite the severe weather encountered in the recent storm. The gross receipts for Sulphur Springs (Mr. Fox's home town) last week aggregated for one day $412.10.

The Fox Company is using a fine repertoire of plays for which special scenery is carried. An excellent cast is headed by Adeline Irving, Hazel Fox and Lyman White.

During the company's engagement at Greenville, Tex., a sudden snowstorm was encountered and it required considerable effort to scrape the show off of the lot.

The company now includes: Roy E. Fox, owner and manager; Edward Tharde, assistant manager; Hazel Fox, Adeline Irwin, Helen Tharde, Donita Lane, Lyman White, Vera Douglas, H. O. Wilkerson, James Walker, Verl Foley, Frank Mace, R. A. Fletcher, Edward See, Grover Wilkerson, Alfred Collie, D. A. Richard, Ingwood Carney, George L. Clark, George W. Carter, Charles Haeg, and mascot, Baby Rerda Fox. In addition there is a working crew of eighteen, consisting of electricians, carpenters, cooks, porters and canvasmen. The show owns its cars and has been having no trouble in moving.

REPERTOIRE NOTES

The cold weather isn't keeping the people away from the theater—anyway, not in Northeastern Nebraska, where the Tedyo Rhea Show is playing. Jack La Bar, the blackface comedian, and the band leads. He purchased a motorcycle recently, but that didn't seem to satisfy him, so he acquired an automobile, too. Wonder if he is going to try to run them both at the same time? Their combined speed would be—well, it wouldn't be a bit faster than the pace Jack is setting in his chosen line. And, speaking of automobiles, it is an added advantage to have one with a show these days for, as Tedyo Rhea puts it, in case the railroads refuse to haul your show you can tack a bundle of wardrobe on to the rear of the machine and easily make the next stand.

Frank Lamar has severed the connection with The Billboard. The bluebird's whistle got him and the wanderlust once more rules.

Harry Cleveland has bought a house in Fruitvale, Cal., and he and his wife (Blanche Trelease) will spend the summer there. Harry has been director and producer of musical comedy offerings in Calgary for the past several seasons. Prior to that the team played the S. & C. and Fox Circuits.

Bayard, W. Va., was one of the Hymes-Beverly Players' most profitable stands. The show carries capable performers and has left a good reputation in its wake this season.

A number of the old faces will be seen on the Old Reliable Brandon Show the coming summer. Mr. and Mrs. Remela, members of the show for the past four seasons, have again signed, as have Prof. LaFon, who will lead the orchestra, and Mr. and Mrs. Fig Reco. The Brandon headquarters at Virden, Ill., are buzzing with the activities of opening preparations. After playing a few opera houses and theaters thru the winter quarters the show will start out about May 1.

The Princess Show Boat, owned by Darnold & Kinster, safely battled the ice gorges in the Kanawha River.

DRAMATIC STOCK

STOCK COMPANY MAKES RECORD IN TULSA, OK.

Now in Its Twenty-Fifth Consecutive Week at Grand Theater—Lorena Tolson New Leading Woman

Tulsa, Ok., Feb. 16.—The Grand Stock Company has broken all records for stock work in the Southwest this season and is now in its twenty-fifth consecutive week at the Grand Theater.

The run of the Grand Stock Company promises to be prolonged into late spring, as full houses are greeting nearly every performance. Playthings opened Monday for the week and will be succeeded next week by The Girl He Couldn't Buy, and Little Lost Sister will follow that.

Virginia Perry resigned as leading lady three weeks ago, and was succeeded by Lorena Tolson, of Kansas City, who was very popular with Tulsa stock patrons a season or two ago. Miss Tolson was given a warm welcome back when she appeared for the first time.

The roster of the Grand Stock Company is as follows: Cliff Hastings, leading man; Lorena Tolson, leading lady; Mary Snow, character; Adelaide Melnotte, second business; Whit Brandon, character; Harry Ferguson, juvenile; Clay Sinclair and Allen Wiebert, general business; Harry Hexworth, heavy, and Harry Vickery, director.

THE HIDDEN MENACE

Given Initial Production by Somerville Players

Somerville, Mass., Feb. 14.—Edward Howard Crosby's thrilling play of the war, labeled The Hidden Menace, and presented for the first time on any stage by the Somerville Theater Players February 11, possesses the same elements of appeal, timely patriotism, mystery, suspense and heart interest that have proven so potent in winning success for The Man Who Stayed at Home and Seven Days' Leave. Crosby's play has its scenes laid on this side of the water.

RALPH MOODY IN ST. PAUL

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 16.—Ralph Moody, formerly leading man for Miss Ruth Robinson for more than four years, joined the Shubert cast this week in The Jack of Diamonds.

ALHAMBRA PLAYERS

Showing to Good Business in York, Pa.

York, Pa., Feb. 14.—The Alhambra Players at the Alhambra Theater have been playing to good business for the past twenty weeks, and, from all appearances, the company will remain intact until the warm weather sets in. War times and prices, together with the war tax, have not seemed to cause any depression on the part of the audience, as far as the box-office is concerned. Dell Harris is succeeding in making them laugh. Genie Harris, a winsome ingenue, has made many friends. Edw. (Dick) Ladd, altho doing heavies, is well liked. Two bills a week of dramatic tab. keeps everyone in a perpetual state of study.

CHICAGO STOCK CO.

Sets New Record for Business in Williamsport, Pa.

Williamsport, Pa., Feb. 16.—The Chicago Stock Company, under the management of Chas. H. Rosskam, is filling a two weeks' engagement at Williamsport, and on the first week broke all records for attendance, giving three complete performances on Saturday to absolute capacity at every performance. The business has never been equaled in the history of the theater by any attraction at any prices, taking the actual number of paid tickets shown on the sworn statements rendered with the Government tax paid. The second week was opened with the big scenic production of Eugene Walter, Just a Woman, and the entire theater was sold out in advance.

WILKES PLAYERS

Offer First of Series of Newer Stock Releases

Seattle, Feb. 16.—The management of the Wilkes Stock organization, now in its 90th week in this city, is to be congratulated for its faith in the public to patronize and enjoy serious drama that looks life squarely in the face and shows the penalty to the individual of denying the nobility of nature's work. Opening Sunday to capacity business the Wilkes Players presented Pinero's Mid-Channel as the first of a series of the newer releases for stock production, to be followed next week by Cheating Cheaters. There are several big roles in the play. Grace Huff, as Zoe Blondell, the wife; Henry Hall, as Theodore Blondell, the husband; Ivan Miller, as Hon. Peter Mottram, the mutual friend, and George Barnes, as Leonard Ferris, the lover, are almost flawless creations. Mention should also be made of John Nickerson, George Cleveland and Dorothy Meeks, who do some lesser characters in a clear-cut and modest manner. Fanchon Everhart, as Mrs. Pierpont; Ruth Renick, her daughter, and Jane Darwell, as Mrs. Annerly, are all excellent in minor characters. Addison Pitt has given the play elegant settings, natural furniture and decorations.

DOROTHY REEVES' COMPANY

The Dorothy Reeves Company is now in its sixteenth week, playing thru Kansas and Nebraska (medium-sized towns) and carrying a small company of seven people. The company has managed to keep business on the right side of the ledger and will continue to play opera houses until the tent season opens. Mr. Reeves, after getting over a four weeks' siege of pneumonia, left Liberty, Neb., last week for the Grace Hospital in Kansas City to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

BURTON CHURCHILL ENGAGED

Providence, R. I., Feb. 16.—Burton Churchill, formerly a member of the Albee Stock Company here, has been engaged for the 1918 season. His contract is the first announced by Keith's here. The past two seasons he was away from the city, during which time he was prominently identified with The Lasso, Johnny, Get Your Gun; The Pipes of Pan and other New York productions.

NEW COMPANY IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Feb. 16.—The Providence Opera House Stock Company closed a month's season here last Saturday evening. The reason for discontinuing the company was "no business." Notwithstanding, the house was in the hands of painters and decorators this week to get it ready for opening today by another stock company, called the Opera House Players Company. The opening show will be Seven Chances. Among the players are Dodson L. Mitchell, Robert Lee Allen, Sidney Riggs, Joyce Fair, Clemence Randolph, Warren F. Richmond, James A. Boshell, Hazel Sexton and Mathilda Desbou. Augustin MacHugh will have charge of the productions.

STOCK NOTES

Joseph Byron Totten, a favorite in Minneapolis some years ago, when he was playing parts in stock productions, is in Minneapolis this week with a playlet of his own, which he is using in his tour of the Pantages Circuit. Supporting him are Miss Leslie Bingham and company.

John Gridley has signed up for light comedy leads with the Pearl Young Players. He will go to Binghamton, N. Y., shortly, where they open. Mr. Gridley has closed with John Bonshy's Colonial Stock Company on account of war conditions.

F. J. Williams is managing both the Majestic and Lyric Theaters in El Paso, Tex., and both houses are running musical stock to big business. Phil Berg is producing the bills in the Majestic and Lyric.

Orth and Moore have dissolved partnership. Bess Moore remains in Calgary, at the Empress, in musical stock. Lawrence Orth is in Seattle and will play vaudeville dates as a single.

Marie James, a Spokane girl, will play leads with the Little Theater stock organization in the Eastern Washington metropolis.

The Mummy and the Humming Bird, the play in which John Drew delighted metropolitan audiences for more than a year, was the offering of the Paul Gilmore Players at the Duval Theater, Jacksonville, Fla., for the last half of last week. Mr. Gilmore and Miss Lea were newcomers to the principal roles.

Since closing her season early in February Mae Leming has been ill. At last reports, tho, there was considerable improvement in her condition, and she will soon begin to work and several novel ideas anent her Popular Players Company.

We Are Seven, the three-act farce from the pen of Eleanor Gates, has just been released by the American Play Co., Inc.

It was incorrectly stated in this column in the issue of February 9 that E. C. Mills had again opened the Palace Theater, Oklahoma City, Ok., offering the Toby Players. Raleigh Dent is the manager of the Palace. The Toby Players are showing to the biggest business in the history of the theater, presenting such plays as The Call of the Woods, Diane's Atonement, Lena Rivers and other standard dramas.

FREDERICK (TOBY) WILSON

Comedian, who leads Toby's Players at the Palace Theater, Oklahoma City, Ok.

IMPERSONATING EMPEY

The Popular War Hero Has Reached the Place Where Jealousy Attacks Him—Branded as a Fraud—The Truth as Told by Major G. H. Putnam, U. S. Vols.

A story was started to the effect that Arthur Guy Empey was not what he is proclaimed to be and that much of the stuff in his book and lectures is not correct. A committeeman from Iowa wrote that there was a persistent story going the rounds that a Canadian soldier has proclaimed that Empey was an old showman. We immediately got busy and ran that story down. Major G. H. Putnam, U. S. Vols., reported to the Committee on Public Information showing that Mr. Empey had actually justified himself and answered all the criticisms which were made against the book on account of a few infinitesimal discrepancies in text and illustrations.

The following is taken from Major Putnam's report, which Harvey O. Higgins of the Committee on Public Information has sent to us:

"A question in regard to the accuracy of the sergeant's record of service and of the experiences in the trenches was raised a month or two back by a Canadian Captain, who had seen service in the same trenches.

"I am enclosing copy of a report which Sergeant Empey gave to me at the time, in which he explains what had impressed the Canadian officer as discrepancies in the narrative.

"The photograph to which the Captain had objected, because the rifle was not the English rifle, was taken after Empey returned to this country.

"The reference to the troops that would constitute the first wave of advance over the top was explained by the fact that Empey in his readiness to keep in the front, volunteered to go forward with a command that was not his own, etc.

"There can be no question as to the fact of Empey's service and every detail in the record had been confirmed in my own conversations with men who are familiar with the fighting lines.

"Since dictating the above," added Major Putnam, "the writer has report, by wire, from Albany that on January 30 a person was impersonating Empey as a lecturer. Empey was at the time at a point in Pennsylvania, some hundreds of miles distant. It is possible there had been some further impersonation of our author and lecturer at other points."

The Billboard will thank each one who will take the time and trouble to write to this department and report any of these things which have a vital bearing on the cause which we all have at heart. It is easier to run these stories down authentically and stop them than it is to sit around and gossip about them. This story came to us from a little town in Iowa. Watch for the fraud impersonators. The woods is full of returned soldiers who are being exploited as lecturers. Some of the profiteering managers are talking about charging $1,000 for a single lecture.

LYCEUM PEOPLE IN MOVIES

Benjamin Chapin's Son of Democracy, his Lincoln picture, has opened in Chicago for a run. It is being shown in a series of two reels. These pictures are being promoted by the Paramount Company. They are wonderful and Ben Chapin does some wonderful acting in this series.

Judge Willis Brown, formerly of Salt Lake City, the juvenile judge lecturer, has announced a series of pictures to be distributed by the General Film Company based on scenarios written around his activities. Tad's Swimming Hole, Marrying Off Dad, The Preacher's Son are all boy stories, made in two reels. Already six releases have been announced.

Thomas Dixon, Jr., noted author and lecturer, whose books, lectures, plays, sermons and magazine articles was the foundation upon which was built the great photoplay, The Birth of a Nation, has just announced that henceforth all of the writings will be worked into pictures by the Mastercraft Photoplays Company.

Charles Dixon, for a number of years manager of the famous Chicago Glee Club, is directing the activities of a studio at Peoria, Ill. Charlie is one of the best old men characters we ever had in the lyceum.

PICKED UP FROM COMMITTEEMEN

Five hundred were in attendance at the Smith-Spring-Holmes Orchestral Quintet Concert at Charlotte, Mich. "Best ever came to our town," is the verdict of the committee at Goodland, Ind. "Some are clamoring for a return date for them," at Fowlerville, Mich.

"Many of our people had heard Mr. Plattenburg before, but enjoyed the lecture nevertheless," Goodland, Ind.

"Rollo McBride brought us a great message. He certainly held the closest attention, as he told of his great work. I wish we had more men like him." That is the way Rollo made them feel about his visit at Fowlerville, Mich.

"We need more like him to do some of the kind of work he is doing." That was the verdict at Wauseon, O. Then Bloomfield, Ia., said: "McBride certainly has a message for the public and he knows how to handle the message so as to sustain the interest from start to finish. Not a dull moment during the entire hour and a half the large audience drank in every word that he uttered. His lecture was replete with original illustrations, wit and humor, yet each had its appropriate setting and application."

JOTTED WHILE WAITING AT THE JUNCTION

By THOS. ELMORE LUCEY

I was talking with a prominent oil promoter in Oklahoma City the other day, and incidentally referred to a couple of citizens of that town who have given her much publicity from the lyceum and chautauqua platform—Alton Packard and Nels Darling. "Never heard of either of them," grunted the magnate, "but I want their addresses, for we may need them here for some speeches soon." And he dug out his note book and took the number of these platform well-knowns.

"Which only goes to prove," I hazarded, "that some of the things that are nearest to us are farthest away. Nels Darling was for years a prominent talker at the Chamber of Commerce meetings and on the Booster excursions, helped build Oklahoma City, and is widely known over the United States as the 'town doctor.' Packard is even better known in the lyceum, having been for a score of years a chautauqua headliner. He pays a thousand dollars a year into the coffers of Oklahoma City in taxes alone. Yet you say you never heard of him."

Last Sunday The Oklahoman appeared with a full-page ad of Nels Darling's newest venture, and other papers have later contained the same ad. I was wondering what my friend of the oil derrick proposition had to say when he noted the smiling phiz of the irrepressible Nels at the top of the page.

Darling's new venture is in the Pathescope field. He has quit the platform for all time, he says, to promote the interests in the Southwest of the big motion picture invention that is going to revolutionize the photoplay field and transform the churches, schools and homes of the country into miniature practical movie parlors. The Pathescope is said to be intensely practical, simple and inexpensive. The plans of the company are to so enlarge their film service as to create a world extension system of machines and films, recording the happenings of the day, so as to bring them into every home—in a word, to popularize the motion picture field as Henry Ford has the automobile industry.

Well, Nels, old top, you have several thousand boosters in the lyceum profession who are wishing you Godspeed in your new work, anyway.

Stanley L. Krebs, of New York City, recently started from that point and appeared at Minneapolis, then to Saginaw, Mich.; then to Denver, from there to Columbus, then to Bedford, Pa., and back to Minneapolis, giving a course at the University of Minnesota, from which point he goes to Lancaster, Pa. He gave two to four lectures at each point, mainly to State and national trade organizations and Y. M. C. A. courses.

Krebs interweaves in the business talks the psychology of patriotism that certainly "takes," if we are to judge from reports of the lecture at Carney's Point, where he addressed several thousand munition workers.

Wallace Tuttle, entertainer and song evangelist, is doing his patriotic bit, both on the platform and off, in singing such stirring patriotic ballads as It's Up to Me To Go. "I have been keeping up with the good publicity you are giving the Lyceum in The Billboard," said Wallace the other day. "It is a commendable stroke of enterprise, and is fine for the general good of the cause."

The Oklahoma News announces the beginning of a series of the daily poems of our beloved Edmund Vance Cooke, and there will be many Oklahoma City children collecting the scraps for the famous Cooke Book souvenirs, redundant with such gems as The Moo Cow Moo and How Did You Die?

T. Marion Crawford, the Kansas reader, is filling many independent dates in the Southwest this season for the Junior Red Cross.

HUGH R. NEWSON CONCERT COMPANY

MAKE WONDERFUL RECORD

From the very first dates booked to the present time, IN EVERY CITY these artists have had a CAPACITY HOUSE, with but three exceptions. NEWSPAPER CRITICISMS regarding their appearances have averaged OVER A COLUMN of enthusiastic and laudatory comments.

Some of the Hradlines from Last Month's Concerts Follow:

A RARE TREAT

NEWSON COMPANY PLEASES THRONG

The brilliant concert was one of the supremely enjoyable musical events of the winter. . . . Seldom has such a galaxy of stars been assembled on one program. . . . One of the strongest organizations that has ever appeared here.—MUSCATINE NEWS-TRIBUNE.

CONCERT PROVES MOSICAL TREAT

If Muscatine has been drenched with a succession of vocal and instrumental harmonies surpassing those of last evening it may be difficult to recall the time or place . . . the company can suffer no unfavorable comment by reason of its claims as "the greatest organization of its kind in America."—MUSCATINE JOURNAL.

From University Cooters:

ONE OF THE GREATEST MUSICAL EVENTS HERE IN YEARS

. . . They hold the audience spellbound with their wizardry. . . . A rare musical treat.—CEDAR FALLS RECORD.

NEWSON COMPANY OELIGHTS AUOIENCE

. . . Lovers of rare music, rarely interpreted, were delighted.—IOWA CITY PRESS.

UNOSUAL TREAT

Never before have the discriminating music lovers of Fairfield had the opportunity to enjoy such a concert.—FAIRFIELD JOURNAL.

COMPANY PLEASES LARGE AODIENCE AT COLLEGE CHAPEL

The artists showed remarkable ability.—IOWA WESLEYAN NEWS.

The audience enjoyed the program from the first to the very last number.—MT. PLEASANT NEWS.

GIFTED ARTISTS

Seldom, if ever, has it been the good fortune of Burlington music lovers to be confronted with such an array of talent . . . was one of the most interesting and varied musical programs ever given here. Was thoroughly enjoyed by audience that completely filled the auditorium . . . every member pleased.—BURLINGTON GAZETTE.

A RARE TREAT

NEWSON CONCERT COMPANY PLEASED

An evening that will be long cherished in memory by all . . . music lovers got a wealth of the things that they love.—BURLINGTON HAWKEYE.

ARTISTS THRILL CROWD

RECEIVE GREAT OVATION

. . . During each number a tense breathlessness fell upon the enraptured assemblage until at each conclusion it broke into frenzied and roaring applause. . . . The ensemble numbers were magnificent beyond description, the cello, harp, organ and great cathedral chimes, together with the quartet of voices (was or were) simply soul-stirring.—WAPELLO REPUBLICAN.

The Company carry with them a specially built Mason & Hamlin organ, with an extra electric keyboard of great cathedral chimes, and one of the finest gold harps in the world.

Editorial Comment

In years past lack of co-operation among outdoor showmen led to the business being compelled to shoulder many unjust burdens. The seriousness of this situation was recognized by many showmen, and several efforts were made to organize, success finally being achieved.

This week there is being held in Chicago a series of meetings of various organizations, business and fraternal, largely recruited from the ranks of outdoor showmen.

The National Outdoor Showmen's Association, the Showmen's League of America and the Car-Owning Managers' Association, in the few short years they have been in existence, have demonstrated the results that can be obtained from co-operation, for that is what organization, properly handled, means.

Each of these is a separate and distinct organization, each with separate and distinct functions to perform, but all are working toward a common end—betterment of conditions in the outdoor show business.

They deserve the support and commendation of the entire outdoor show world, and every showman who does not belong to some one, or as many of them to which he is eligible, is doing himself an injustice and imposing upon brother showmen.

Believe in prosperity and it will be achieved. Thousands of men who have made something of this sort their slogan have made good with extra measure to spare.

Everything points to a wonderful spring season. The weather, ninety-nine chances out of a hundred, will be ideal. With this feature duly taken care of showmen will witness one of these oldfashioned seasons, with babbling brooks and twittering birds, and (we feel that we must thrust a more materialistic subject in the foreground of our picture) people with plenty of money in their pockets—people who will be eager to spend it.

Get your mind off the winter well-nigh past and on the spring and summer drawing nearer each day.

The fact that the winter was an exceptionally bad one need not discourage you; in fact, it should be a source of encouragement. Nearly all good seasons have been preceded by bad ones—speaking from a weather standpoint. Every time-worn trick of disgruntled nature was incorporated in the winter now (God be praised!) coming to a close. Like a war-drunken general, who exhausts all troops with incredible rapidity, winter has exhausted the most terrible things in weather's reservoir. The accumulated weather passions of years have burst forth and spent themselves.

Nothing is left—could possibly remain—but better things.

Don't worry about the war—it can't interfere with a good break in the weather.

Have faith in the spring weather—gauge your investments accordingly—and you will meet with a full measure of success.

While the winning of the war must always be kept paramount in our minds and regarded not only as our first duty, but the one that transcends all others, we must also keep the Public Defender movement alive, because after we have won the war it will again become a very important issue.

The Brooklyn edition of The New York World keeps agitating the subject.

The particular champion of the cause in that borough is Lawyer Joseph Goldstein, 15 Court street.

He has lined up quite a formidable list of brainy and influential supporters, among them Borough President Edward Riegelman. When interviewed recently he was most emphatic.

"Surely," he said. "Give these poor persons charged with a crime the chance they deserve. It will cost nothing to try the matter out, and, if successful, legislation can come later."

Registrar Richardson Webster had like sentiments, as had Rev. J. Howard Melish, pastor of the Holy Trinity Church, among the foremost of the clergy in that borough.

"Let a committee be formed," Dr. Melish said. "If its work justifies its permanent establishment let the office be created by law."

THE PUBLIC DEFENDER AND ITS OPPONENTS

In an address as the Public Defender before the School of Law of New York University Mayer C. Goldman outlines the following as the principal objections of opponents to the establishment of this office: 1—That the accused is already too carefully safeguarded. 2—The additional expense of creating the office. 3—That it would be anomalous for the State to defend as well as to prosecute.

When these objections are analyzed and the facts presented none of them can be found to be sound or logical. "Notwithstanding," says Mr. Goldman, "all the so-called 'safeguards,' there can be no denial of the fact that the contest between the State and the indigent defendant is an unequal battle. The facts are that usually the accused has no counsel in the lower court, that magistrates lack the courage to dismiss the complaint, preferring to place the responsibility upon the grand jury; that prosecutors make a one-sided investigation, based upon the complainant's information; that the prosecutor is the official adviser to the grand jury and that his recommendations are usually followed by it." The second objection urged is easily disposed of. In Los Angeles and other places the institution of a Public Defender has resulted in a saving of expense to the county. "But, conceding that additional expense would be incurred, would it not," asks Mr. Goldman, "be amply justified if thereby the liberty of the individual could be better secured and our standard of justice more highly developed?" Taking up the third objection, the so-called "anomaly" or "inconsistency" which the Public Defender office would create, can there be anything anomalous, anything irregular or not in keeping with custom or logic in a plan which tends to develop the truth. And that is the mission of the Public Defender—to seek and present the truth—never to attempt to acquit guilty men any more than is it the purpose of the prosecutor to convict innocent men. The duty of the Public Defender is to present the facts applicable to the case, facts which would many times secure an acquittal where an unjust conviction is now dealt out, facts which under the present system have little chance, in the majority of cases, of being placed before the judge and jury, and not to seek to discredit the administration of justice by merely matching wits with his opponent—the prosecutor. With these theories foremost in the character of the office, where, then, is there "an anomaly of the law" in the setting up of the Public Defender?

Contrast with these objections the following benefits, which, among others, would be brought about by the Public Defender, as they have been listed by Mayer C. Goldman: 1—The rights of defendants would be better preserved. 2—Their cases would be more intelligently and ably presented. 3—There would be fewer unscrupulous and perjured defenses. 4—Rich and poor prisoners for the first time would be placed upon an equal footing before the law. 5—In many trials the truth would be more satisfactorily established, to the great public benefit. 6—There would be less opportunity than there is now for disreputable attorneys to obtain delays in the trial of cases in order to extort fees from desperate defendants and their distracted friends. 7—Many criminal trials would be greatly expedited, to the great advantage of the courts and the public purse. 8—There would be fewer pleas of "guilty" made by innocent prisoners who are induced to make such pleas by attorneys who suggest them as the best way out of bad situations because they do not care to be burdened with the conduct of nonremunerative cases. 9—The tone of the criminal courts, and especially that of the bar practicing before the criminal courts, would be uplifted.

There is no comparison—the Public Defender is imperatively needed.
Why then the objectors?
Is it selfishness?
Or pigheadedness?

Readers' Column

It is very important that Miss Corene Parker immediately get in touch with Mrs. R. C. Beatty, 178 Cherry street, Battle Creek, Mich. She was last heard of in Washington, D. C., in January.

Deafy Hara and Whitie Johnson—If you are in the vicinity of New York City please come around and see me, else drop me a line.—Charles Keninger, Quartermasters' Corps, Ninth Coast Defense Armory, Fourteenth street, New York City.

Mrs. Langdon—You are right. H. B. Warner has acted D'Artagnan in The Three Musketeers. Early in his career he played many parts in support of his father, Charles Warner, the noted English actor, and, during a run of the play at a London theater, assumed the role of D'Artagnan when his father became ill.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Wha Yona Nobletto, formerly a cabaret singer at Gloversville, N. Y., kindly communicate with Fred Schrecker, 279 Aero Squadron, Kelly Field, South Antonio, Tex.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Joe Flora, last seen around Pittsburg, Pa., with a carnival company, kindly get in touch with the mother, Mrs. Flora, 112 Brunswick street, Jersey City, N. J. It is very important that she hear from him immediately.

Would like to know the whereabouts of Lloyd Hammand or his wife, Rose Rovaire.—Ralph Moody, Shubert Theater, St. Paul, Minn. They will learn something to their interest.

DANCING DAVEY JAMESON—Your brother is dying of tuberculosis. WIRE W. H. Cole, 20 North Ninth street, Ft. Smith, Ark., immediately. Anyone knowing Jameson kindly bring this notice to his attention.

Will anyone knowing the present whereabouts of Walter Scott Greszle, musical director, who was living at 411 East Fifth street, Cincinnati, in April last, kindly advise Herbert A. Todd, 288 Chestnut street, Springfield, Mass.?

Will the party who wrote to me care of The Billboard kindly write me again? The letter was lost.—Ira Colvin, 166th Infantry Band, Camp Bowie, Tex.

Mr. A. B. Taylor—Your mother wants to hear from you.—Mrs. Minnie Taylor.

Mrs. Swannie McDaniel—Your uncle is dead, and you are wanted at once.—Mrs. Ray Deloe, Burlington, N. C.

Dr. F. A. Rhoads, Room 414, 331 Fourth avenue, Pittsburg, Pa., will appreciate any information concerning the present address of L. H. Thomas (Dr. Thomas).

R. M. C., Chillicothe—J. Herman Thuman is dramatic critic of The Cincinnati Enquirer.

The address of Miss Kathleen Leslie, a fancy diver, late of the Neptune Girls or Society Divers, is wanted by Jack Mason, 1600 South Keeler avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Ada McCoy, or anyone knowing her whereabouts, please communicate with Lee Smith, 39 Vernon street, Newark, New York. She was with Lanstaff's Lincoln's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company.

Mrs. A. Norman Baines or Mande Campbell, cowgirl, known as the Montana Girl, left Troy, Ala., January 30, riding her pony, and has not been heard of since. Anyone who can give information as to her whereabouts will confer a favor by advising her husband, A. Norman Baines, General Delivery, Valdosta, Ga. Last season both Mr. and Mrs. Baines were with E. C. Carlyle's Wild West Show.

B. F. Lloyd, Cleveland—The old Garrick Theater, New York, has been remodeled, and is now known as the Theatre Du Vieux Colombier. A repertoire of French plays are being presented at the present time, with a cast of French players.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Fox—Please write Dolly Davine and Virginia Weddell, care Christie's Flora Dora Girls Company, Muncie, Ind.

ARTIE MILLS—PLEASE WRITE YOUR SISTER AT ONCE. URGENT.

Albert Clement—The date of the opening of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus has not yet been announced.

J. W. LaMorie—Will you please write to Bille? She is anxious to hear from you again.—Pearl.

Whitie Anderson—Wire your address to Jerry Marsh Free Attractions, Paducah, Ky. Important. (Anderson was in Paducah in November, and that was the last heard of him. Anyone knowing his address please ask him to get in touch with Marsh.)

Robert W. Hawkins, 2134 Center street, Little Rock, Ark., is very desirous of learning the whereabouts of W. H. (Billy) Hamilton, formerly with R. L. Russell's Shows. Will anyone who has the information please advise him.

TEA WITH THE LADIES

New York, Feb. 16.—Shirley Mason was completing the final scenes for her new picture, The Heart of O-Ki-Ku-San, early this week, when an inquisitive newspaper person, who had made the long trip from Times Square to the Edison studios in the Bronx by subway and transfer and L and mud, claimed her attention.

In the flowered Japanese house kimono of warm shades of brown, her hair framing her face in a smooth, shining oval, her eyebrows penciled in a fine line, her lips vividly red, her white stockinged feet thrust into red felt slippers, she led the way to her dressing room, one of the few warm spots in the studio building.

"Ordinarily we use five tons of coal a day to heat the building, but this winter we've used less than a ton and a half a day," she explained the frosty air that came from the Japanese garden. "We had to stop work altogether for a while because the river froze, and it would never do to show cherries in blossom along a frozen river bank. We couldn't do interiors, either, because our breaths showed on the air."

On the little star's dresser was a souvenir of The Seven Deadly Sins, two tiny plaster lovers, bought at Cleveland by George Le Guere and presented to Miss Mason because it reminded him of their loving ardor in the McClure series. It was in the Sins series that Shirley Mason came into being. Before that she was merely Leonie Flugrath, admittedly clever, but handicapped by her name.

The directors of the McClure series saw her work in The Poor Little Rich Girl and selected her as the feminine star of the all-star cast. It was a tremendous honor, for the list included Nance O'Neil, Ann Murdock and other brilliant stage luminaries. It was too great an honor for merely Leonie Flugrath and she was told she must choose a new name by which she would be known for the rest of her life.

"Now it's a great responsibility to pick out a name you'll like for a lifetime," she said, "so I told Mr. Collins to find a name for me. And he did. That was the first of Shirley Mason and the last of Leonie.

"I'd been on the stage since I was three and a half or four years old. I created the part of Little Hal, with Faversham. They wouldn't let me play in New York, because you had to be seven years old to play on the stage here then, but I played the part in Buffalo, where The Squaw Man opened.

"When I was 11 years old, tho, I fooled the Gerry people in Chicago. I went to Chicago alone with the company. Mother, who always went with me on the road, couldn't come until the next day. I thought it would be fun to go alone, but I was terribly afraid of fire. In the hotel where I stayed I telephoned down every 10 minutes to ask the time. I knew if the operator answered it was probably all right, and if she hadn't answered I would have been sure there was a fire.

"The best thing I did the day we arrived was to go to a candy store and buy a lot of candy. Then I went to the theater to watch the matinee. When they told me someone wanted to see me in the box-office I knew it was the Gerry people, so I marched in with my oldest sister Edna's birth certificate.

"They asked me how old I was, and I said '20.' I should think they would have known I wasn't 20, because my skirts were up to my knees and my hair was braided down my back. But I showed them Edna's certificate, and they asked me what I would do if I should have to take up the carpet on the floor.

" 'Well,' I said, 'I don't think that would be expected of me. Taking up a carpet is man's work.' They asked me one other question, just as foolish, then went away. But I was terribly cut up because I had left my candy in the theater."

Leonie Flugrath's first picture was The Little [illegible], altho she had previously "stood back of the crowd and yelled" in pictures. Both she and her sister, Viola Dana, wanted to do The Poor Little Rich Girl, which they had played on the stage, and they were keenly disappointed when Mary Pickford obtained the film rights to the play.

In The Heart of O-Ki-Ku-San the star was coached by Tom Amato, who has an important part in the picture. It was he who told her of Japanese customs and of the correct pronunciation of Japanese names, so that when she says o-to-san, meaning father, the spectator can almost get the sound of the syllables by watching her lips.

"Be sure to use O before the name," Mr. Amato admonished. "It is a matter of caste. To say Ki-Ku-San, for instance, would be a familiarity, as tho you were speaking of an American girl without according her the prefix Miss. O is always used as a name prefix for people of higher caste."

Brave little O-Ki-Ku-San. Her story is finished. The first and last scenes showing Japanese gardens were filmed in the beginning of the picture last December and by working Sunday the interiors were finished early this week. For a few days Shirley Mason is having a vacation.

While her diamonds are locked away in a safety deposit vault Minnie Dupree is wearing a coral cross, which she terms her croix de guerre. It is one of two crosses obtained from abroad by Julia Arthur for Miss Hodson, director of the New York chapter of the American Red Cross, and for Miss Dupree, director of the Stage Women's War Relief. Miss Dupree says her cross is her most treasured possession.

To Baby Ivy Ward, one of the Metro kiddies, anything German is anathema. Ivy wears a military uniform and has a profound sense of military dignity. The other day somebody gave her an illustrated book about dogs. After looking it over carefully, she calmly returned it to its original owner.

"It has the picture of a dachshund in it," she announced with polite severity, "and that is a German dog, so I can not take the book. When the dachshund page had been torn out she accepted the book.

The work of the Stage Women's War Relief is increasing so magically that the publicity department, which has long been in charge of Mildred Morris, assisted by Miss Payson, has added a new member to its staff. Mrs. Daisy Humphreys, who in 1912-'14 was Paris correspondent for The Dramatic News and the private representative in Paris of Lee Shubert and Morris Gest, has been made chairman of the Publicity Committee and is working in the Gold Screen Corner every day now.

Miss Morris calls her the Little Corporal, because of her generalship, and she long ago named Miss Payson the sporting editor, because of the pep with which she writes.

Every day from 10 to 4 o'clock Miss Payson is at the workrooms, and even gives up a Galli-Curci matinee, because she will allow nothing to interfere with her war work. As for Miss Morris, who has been nominal head of the publicity department all along, her work as press agent is brilliant, tho she resolutely refuses to be credited.

One of the things Mrs. Humphreys has done is to get autographed photographs of fifty well-known stars for the [illegible]. Two that came in this week were of Elsie Ferguson and Julia Marlowe Sothern. Under the signature Mrs. Sothern had written, "Nay, nay, you must call me Rosalind."

May Allison is selecting frocks for her first Metro picture, and has just had a number of new photographs taken. In one she wears a dark blue frock, with boyish Eton collar—simplicity itself, but a thing to gaze at without tiring.

In honor of Amelia Bingham, who has been devoting her time all winter to soldiers' benefit performances, the 71st Regiment will march to the Century Theater for the Actors' Fund performance Friday, March 1. The soldiers, in charge of an officer, will march onto the stage and present arms.

Selling programs for the Lambs' Gambol tomorrow night will be Vivian Rushmore, Julia Dean, Grace Filkins, Vera Bloom, Ethel Grey Terry, Minnette Barrett, Margaret Smith, Geraldine Bergh, Louise Dresser, Stella Hammerstein, May Buckley, Helene Hall, Catherine Vesey, Cordelia McDonald, Ann Meredith and Marjorie Wood, with Bijou Fernandez in charge of the Program Committee.

Mrs. Louis De Foe is writing letters to soldiers as assistant to Miss Cannon. Days she writes letters to soldiers and nights she writes plays and sketches. One soldier demanded from the S. W. W. R. a letter every week, and his demand was turned over to Mrs. De Foe. But she couldn't see it at all. She wouldn't write a letter every week to her own husband, she declared, except in case of imperative necessity.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Brinsey, a cartoonist to the profession, who has been located in Tacoma, Wash., for some time past, has moved his studios to Seattle.

Business at the Gayety Theater, Omaha, has been so big this season that Manager Johnson had to place several new rows of seats in the house to take care of his patrons. This but goes to show that a real showman can make things go in the face of conditions such as now confront the managers. The other Omaha theaters, too, are riding on the crest of prosperity. The Orpheum (vaudeville) and the Boyd keep the S. R. O. sign shined up—for they use it frequently.

PRESS AND ADVANCE AGENTS

Harry Sweatman, ahead of Fair and Warmer, recently received from Uncle Sam an income tax blank. Harry says he figured on it all day and part of the night and found that he owed the Government more than he had earned, then went over it again and discovered that the Government owed him money. He says now he is on the lookout for an expert accountant to go over his vast estates and attempt to solve the riddle.

The [illegible] from Captain William M. Roddy enclosed a program of a minstrel concert he and George Hinton, well-known theatrical manager, put on recently in France for the benefit of French War Charities. Captain Bill says he's hungry for news of the showfolks. Write him, boys. His address is Captain William M. Roddy, 301st Stevedore Regt., U. S. M. P. 701, A. E. F.

Jack Riley, another one of the pathfinders, has been seen around the Saratoga Hotel, Chicago, daily. Jack has much to say regarding a former partner.

Rumors say that Eddie Jackson, the diminutive press agent, goes with one of the big ones this summer. Sounds like World's Greatest, and his many friends wish him luck.

A little bird reports that Charley Chubb, ahead of one of the Garden of Allah pictures, has transferred his affections to Peoria. How about it, Charley?

Jack Jackson, ahead of Doug. Morgan Stock for several seasons, is with the bunch at the Saratoga, Chicago. Did you get the $300, Jack?

Harry E. Crandell has sufficiently recovered from his recent fight with Colonel Pneumonia to be able to navigate around and say: "Here's how"—no, he's absolutely on the wagon.

Ben Krause and Lee Parvin shook hands out in San Francisco recently.

Valentine greetings greeted us the other day from Colonel Ed R. Salter—now known in Orlando, Fla., as Edward Russell Salter, editor-in-chief of Johnny J. Jones Exposition News, volume 1, number 1, of which reached our desk last week. Some sheet, Colonel E. R., and ought to get the desired results.

Aileen St. John Brenon, late on the staff of The Morning Telegraph, and niece of Herbert Brenon, will have charge of the publicity department of the Producers and Exhibitors' Affiliated, 314 Longacre Building.

James Heron, business manager for The Tempters, has a goat mascot. They say if you just want to "get his goat" all you've got to do is to watch where he ties it, but, nevertheless, James says that Bone (the aforesaid goat) is trained to do several things but the best trick he does is to eat up the opposition paper. In years gone by agents have been accused of throwing opposition paper away or checking it to some far off burg, but Heron imagines he is the first agent to carry a goat that EATS any opposition printing. Bone would not touch any Tempters paper for anybody, but after Heron turns him loose for a couple of days in a town there is not much left of opposition sniping on low boards, so the goat has a very good appetite. Of course, the best thing he does (Bone, not Heron) is to stay on the main stem, with a blanket of The Tempters on his back. He is also a great help to Charley Taylor, the manager of The Darlings of Paris, the show that is ahead of The Tempters, as he watches (again we mean the goat and not James) the door for him, and if a wrong ticket comes in it gets no farther than Bone, as he has an eagle eye—and smells first class.

Charles F. Donoghue, The Tempters' manager, never misses an opportunity to put a publicity stunt over, it is said.

Oh, yes, here's a good one on Jimmie Heron: While Jimmie Heron, the advance agent for The Tempters, was in a store (in a certain town) recently putting up some half sheets he left his goat outside. When he came out he found the dog catchers and his goat a prisoner, but after a lot of talk Jimmie managed to get the goat released after giving the driver of the cage wagon a couple of ducats to the show.

Joe Hewitt, advance man for Best Show in Town, combined business with pleasure at Hartford, Conn., recently and was entertained by friends during his stay. Joe put over some publicity stunts. He was ahead of Dexter & Allen's Minstrels years ago, when William Muldoon and John L. Sullivan did a Grecian statue posing act with the show, and he recalls many reminiscences of the tour.

Sydney Wire is still in and out of New York on mysterious, tho seemingly important, business. When in the big town he can be found either at the Elks' Club or the Showmen's League headquarters, 517 Sixth avenue.

P. S. Mattox is pushing ahead of the big special film drama, Cleopatra, Northwest territory.

F. R. Carvers, well known among the white tops during the outdoor season and recently ahead of the Sterling Dramatic Company, signed in advance of the Gus Hill Minstrels last week, leaving Cincinnati immediately to take up his new duties.

When Agent Luce, ahead of the Kibble's Uncle Tom Show, was suddenly stricken ill Harry W. Rice was rushed to the front, where he is now handling the advance in the East. Harry has plenty of "feature" stories to put over—C. F. Ackerman has played Legree for twenty-five years, Gus Collins has played Uncle Tom for twenty years, Edna Clare has made up as Topsy ten thousand times, Eva Williams started on the show as Little Eva and grew out of that part and is now playing Eliza. Luce was agent for the show for over twenty-five years.

E. A. Warren, who breezed into Chicago from the East recently, became a member of the Showmen's League of America week before last.

Harry Stevenson, who has been doing such excellent work ahead of The Unborn Child, is among those present in the Windy City. Harry will be with some carnival this summer.

Fred Snell and Charley Sloane are reported to be lost in the wilds of Texas. Fred wants to know how it is possible to put on any parties when it is so dry down where he is that a man would choke with the dust if a friend slapped him on the back.

AL BARNES' QUARTERS A HIVE OF INDUSTRY

Striving To Make Circus One of Most Flashy Shows on Coast—Murray Pennock Again General Agent

Venice, Cal., Feb. 15.—The winter quarters of the Al G. Barnes Circus present a busy appearance, and indications point to one of the best decorated and flashiest shows ever seen on the Coast the coming season. James Babcock has been installed as superintendent, and has a force in the wagon shop working from sun-up till night. Dens and parade wagons are being elaborately decorated after being rebuilt and thoroly renovated. There are no indications of a paint famine. Bill Ellis is chief decorator, and is certainly doing a commendable job. Skinny Dawson is making a record for himself in the wagon department.

Babcock is hard at work on a kitchen wagon, which will be at the same time a revelation and a decided novelty. Commissary Superintendent George Davis is in constant attendance, overseeing every detail.

In the menagerie department Louis Roth, principal trainer, and Mabel Stark, principal woman trainer, work the various trained animal acts each day. The size of the tiger act is to be doubled, and the big lion group will be nearly so. Austin King, in charge of the ring stock and high school horses, is framing some new stunts for the menage acts. Margaret Ricardo is doing considerable work with the puma and llama acts.

Cleo Fraser and Doc Webber, veterinarian, were married recently. Dolly Fairman Sawyer, Angie Herrin, character woman at the Paralta Studios, and Mr. Herrin were guests at a dinner recently given by Louis and Mabel Roth at the Ocean Inn.

John Ince recently used the show equipment and most of the people in winter quarters in an elaborate circus scenario, which Director Storm claims will be one of the best he has ever done.

William Peck, traffic manager, has returned from a tour of the North. It is announced that Murray Pennock will again occupy the position of general agent, and that Al Butler, formerly of the Sells-Floto Circus, will be with the advance, probably in charge of the "brigade." Al G. Barnes has returned from an extended trip in the East.—BOZ.

WILL H. HILL'S PLANS

New York, Feb. 17.—Will H. Hill's Motor Train Hippodrome Shows will take to the road on or about April 20. Mr. Hill has surrounded himself with a corps of well-known circus men, and says he will move, as he does not have to depend on the railroads to transport him. The offices are in the Fitzgerald Building, Suite 1110.

CLARK & SON'S SHOWS

M. L. Clark & Son's Shows, since leaving Alexandria, La., the winter quarters, after a short layoff during the holidays, have had a very nice business, considering a few days of bad weather. Only four performances were lost. The Altho Family left the show two weeks ago and went into New Orleans to play houses. Lewis Morris and wife have taken their place, doing two acts each, besides working their troupe of trained monkeys. Sid Kridello has broken in a new act with his dog Prince in conjunction with the wire. Jimmy Ryan is a late arrival on the show and is assisting in the clown numbers, also working in the concert. The roster follows:

M. L. Clark, general manager; Leo Clark, secretary-treasurer; Red Lampkin, tickets and front door; J. H. Blair, big show ticket wagon; Charles Long, privileges, with two assistants, P. Rogers and S. Robertson (Mr. Long has added two two-ton trucks to transport the stores from town to town); T. H. Hicks, superintendent of lights; Shorty Halliday, cookhouse, with two assistants; Murt Smith, superintendent of big top, with five assistants; Denny Higgins, superintendent of seats, with two assistants; Bill Gardner, bulls and menagerie, with two assistants; H. Lewis Morris, equestrian director; Leslie, Ryan and Kridello, clowns; Shorty Glenn, ponies; Humpty, boss props.; F. H. Tillman, band director, with a ten-piece band.

CLAYTON AT CAMP HANCOCK

Jack C. Clayton, the aerial performer, who has traveled with both circuses and carnivals, is at Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga., with No. 1336 Cas. Co., Motor Mech. Reg. S. C., having joined the colors following a successful season with the Parker Shows last year. "Army life is just like trouping," he writes, "only the tops are not as large as with the three rings and carnivals, and we keep better hours." Clayton was with the Ringling Bros.' Circus from 1910 to 1912, Barnum & Bailey 1913, and Tom W. Allen Shows, 1914 to 1916.

COLE BROS.' SHOW

Shreveport, La., Feb. 18.—These are busy times around the winter quarters of the Cole Bros.' Show here. John Henry Rice is busy painting the repaired wagons and several new ones are being built. Cheerful Gardner is working his animals, which have been increased in number by the addition of a big elephant, named Tex, eight feet six inches high, which arrived recently. Cheerful takes advantage of the nice weather and parades his elephants around the race track at the fair grounds. Frank Jones, Josh Billings, Doc Hawley, Jim Walters, Owen Lewis and Bill Scott report each day at the clubhouse at the quarters.

UNDER THE MARQUEE

By CIRCUS SOLLY

Many a show will go out about half painted this year. But it is no fault of The Billboard's. We told you months ago and our dope was right—as it always is.

Danny Robinson makes the rounds of the old hangouts in Cincinnati without let or hindrance whenever the spirit moves him.

Denny Lynch has put on eight pounds.

Olathe, Kan., would like to be put on the route of some good circus this year, according to City Treasurer H. E. Julien. The town has had only two shows in the last eight years, Hagenbeck-Wallace appearing there in 1916 and Jones Bros. in 1916. Mr. Julien says there are several good lots close to town and near railway switches, and that business in the county is better this year than for a long time. The license is $25 per day, including parade.

C. L. Brown, A. R. Hovey, Harry Roodman, Ray Taylor, George W. Lewis and A. E. Brown were welcome visitors at The Billboard office, Cincinnati, last week while playing the Empress Theater with the American Saxophone Sextet in Al Sweet's sketch, Caught in the Draft. C. L. was bandmaster with the Sells-Floto Circus last year, and goes back with that show this season. He will leave the act in a few weeks for Denver to begin rehearsals with the Floto show.

Auction circus sales this winter are quite common. The announcement is now made that the Cole Bros.' Circus will be sold under the hammer at the State Fair Grounds, Shreveport, La., February 20. The show, which is of twenty-five-car size, has been operated by J. Augustus Jones for twenty-five years. It will be disposed of in parts. Mr. Jones says he wants to devote his attention to other interests.

Sam J. Banks, the well known circus press agent, local contractor, 24 hour agent and what not, has changed his plans, which would have taken him to the war zone, and is going to hit the trail with the white tops again. Sam has been a "white topper" for seventeen years, and while he hasn't signed up as yet he should have no trouble in landing a nice job. He is now in Glens Falls, N. Y.

The boys of the John Robinson Circus, including Shasty Webber, Al D. Fielding and Slim Rogers, had quite a time with the boys of Kibble & Martin's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company when the Tom show played Peru, Ind., recently. There are a number of circus troupers with the Tom troupe, including Charles Gerlock, A. E. Caruthers and Pop Fay.

The Enos & Parker Show played a two days' engagement at Goose Creek, Tex., and the oil town proved the best stand the show has made thus far. Goose Creek is ripe for shows writes Rue Enos. He and his partner, Parker, were in Houston, Tex., February 12, and there bought a motorcycle for the advance. They also visited Tom Moss, the juggler, who is spending the winter there, as well as Van Cello and wife and the Holloways, who were at Pantages Theater.

Percy L. (Bill) Bachell, of Herkimer, N. Y., formerly boss billposter with the 101 Ranch Show was among the drafted men who left for Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., on February 7.

Jess Shellcroft, who has charge of the paper on the No. 2 car of the Ringling Show during the summer season, is advertising agent of the Court Theater at Wheeling, W. Va., this winter.

F. Robert Saul, the circus agent, mourns the loss of his father, George H. Saul, who died at the family home in Adrian, Mich., of paralysis.

The McGinn Sisters of Rock Island, Ill., are adding to their act many new and novel costumes. They will be with one of the big shows.

L. H. Lockery, ex-trouper, happened around the Standard Oil Service Station in Newton, Ia., one recent night, and there found the following: H. L. (Cookhouse) Kelly, Will Lister of the Chase-Lister Company and Joe Ballinger, the old band man. Lockery retired from the road several years ago, but when these men told of their experiences the "fever" came back.

"This man is as pliable as a willow and can twist himself into as many shapes as a snake. He need have no dread of 'No Man's Land;' all he will have to do is to coil himself up and probably the enemy will think it is their first cousin, His Satanic Majesty." Thus speaks The Trench and Camp, a weekly published at Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., of the work of Jerry D. Martin, the contortionist, at a recent entertainment there. Jerry is in the 327th Infantry Band.

Leahy Bros., comedy ring gymnasts, have just concluded a three weeks' vaudeville tour thru New England, and are taking a rest at their home in Pawtucket, R. I.

I. A. B. P. & B. OF A., NO. 27

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 15.—The membership of the International Alliance of Billposters and Billers of America, Local No. 27, is increasing steadily, and the members are gradually being promoted to better positions. J. C. Whittimyher, president of the local, is general foreman with the Zehrung Poster Advertising Company. Ben C. Strickland, treasurer, is assistant to Whittimyher, and Bert Chipman, acting secretary on February 21 takes the position of treasurer of the Oliver Theater, with prospects of becoming manager. Surely Bert will have no "open time" then. The Oliver is the largest and most up-to-date house in Lincoln, playing first-class road shows. William Barrett has been made manager of the Lyric Theater. He is an all-round man and is bound to make good. For a number of years he has been manager of the poster advertising plant in Council Bluffs, Ia. The boys of the local who have joined the colors are well taken care of by the organization.

ENOS & PARKER SHOW

The Enos & Parker Show continues on its tour thru Texas, playing town halls and school houses, and, while not making a "killing" in every town played, is managing to get a little jack here and there. The show played day and date with Miller Bros.' Wild West Amusement Company, at Orange, Tex., and did very good, while at Sourlake it played day and date with John G. Miller's Show. Business at Sourlake was also very good, the weather being ideal. On February 3 the show was out just one month and spent that day laying over in Houston, where it purchased a motorcycle for the advance. The show travels on an auto truck and Rue Enos expresses himself as being well pleased with that mode of travel. When spring makes it's appearance the show will be placed under canvas.

THE CORRAL

By ROWDY WADDY

Tex McLeod has written Cuba Crutchfield accepting Crutchfield's challenge to meet him for fancy roping supremacy, but he will not work for charity. Tex says he will meet Cuba any time in one of New York's armories or riding academies in regular cowboy competition for a bet of $1,000, or he (Tex) will go in the ice skating palace at Healy's, where Cuba is working, and compete with Crutchfield ten minutes for a guarantee of $250 and let the audience be the judge.

Mr. Foster, of trick rope fame, of Boston: Will you advise us what happened to the proposed cross country ride for $10,000, or such a sum, you were promoting a few years ago? Is it going to be held, or was it called off "on account of the war?"

Speaking about cross country riding, what has become of "Montana Ann," sometimes known as Nan J. Aspinwall or Mrs. Frank Gable? Have not heard anything of her lately. Drop a line, Nan.

Alberta Claire, the Girl From Wyoming: A few lines from you also.

We learn that Bob Mason, one of the oldtime cowboys, is in London and has married a girl well known to the Wild West folks who have been abroad. The rumor has not been confirmed by Mr. Mason as yet.

Doc Vernon—What about your vaudeville act with the white horse and the bucking mule? Just heard of it.

Johnny Judd and Tommy Grimes—Why don't you two birds drop a line as to what the woollies in your outfit are doing?

Stanley Whitney—Send your present address.

How about all the hands who troupe with Wild West concerts with circuses?

Charles Aldridge—Was asked to inquire from you the name of the white bucking horse that fell and broke your leg in the show called the Roundup; also his age, where he came from, and where he is now.

Tom Eckert—Inquiries as to your address.

Anyone knowing the present address of Si Eddy, sometimes known as Si Perkins, who does a rube act at the various frontier contests, advise us at once, or tell him to get in touch with this office, as we have important news for him.

"I've just finished reading the Wild West Department of The Billboard and will say I'm here to boost it along, as it keeps us woollies well posted on the authentic dope. I am stationed at the LaFox Stock Yards here at LaFox, Ill., as foreman for the British Remount Depot. Had a letter from M. R. Smith (Colorado Cotton), who has returned to these parts and who is holding the same kind of a position at the Hammond, Ind., depot. I would like to hear from Bob Anderson, Rusty Tulk, Sid Jordan, Pat Long, Tom Mix and all of the old hands I know. Now all hands far loose thru The Corral. It's for us—let's use it."—H. F. Nowlin.

Melvin J. Townsend sends the following from Elko, Nev.: "I am a weekly reader of The Billboard, and as I am in the stock business and am somewhat a frontier contest enthusiast you may know I read your Wild West Department with interest. Have noted all the arguments that have taken place for and against the proposition of ladies riding broncs with hobbled stirrups. Now, altho I am what may be called an 'outsider' by some, owing to the fact that I do not make a practice of giving exhibitions of buckaroo work for a living, I think I am entitled to say a few words thru your columns, as I know they will be read wherever there are folks interested in the cowboy and his sport. Altho I am not in show business I like to see the Wild West exhibitions go on, and as I am only one of many thousands who will always give up a good price to see the right kind of a Wild West exhibition I think my opinion is the same as that of many others. In the first place maybe there are not many people aware of the fact that they do not allow ladies to give exhibitions of riding bucking horses in the State of Nevada. There may be some few who have done it, but there is a State ruling that prohibits it, as anyone will find out if those in authority assert themselves. Secondly, I believe that the riding of bucking horses by ladies is uncalled for at anybody's contest. It's rough work, and it's a man's work. Some of these lady riders may go back East and tell them how the girls run cow outfits out West, etc., but out here we know just how much the ladies do in that respect. When they do we give them credit for. But riding broncs and working on the range as men has never been the practice and never will. I'm for letting the ladies ride relay races, do trick riding, etc., at contests, but I think the sooner all frontier contests eliminate the feature of body bronc riding, whether

DELMARVIA FAIR CIRCUIT MEETS AT SALISBURY, MD.

E. Lee LeCompte, of Chestertown, and D. J. Ward, of Salisbury, Re-Elected to Presidency and Secretaryship—Dates Assigned for Circuit

Salisbury, Md., Feb. 16.—At a meeting of the Delmarvia Fairs and Racing Circuit, called by President E. Lee LeCompte on February 11 in this city, the following officers were re-elected and dates assigned: E. Lee LeCompte, president, and D. J. Ward, secretary and treasurer. Dates assigned to respective members of the circuit for their fairs and race meets during the coming season being: Chestertown, Md., July 30-August 2; Tasley, Va., August 6-9; Pocomoke City, Md., August 13-16; Salisbury, Md., August 20-23; Cambridge, Md., August 27-30; Wilmington, Del., September 2-6.

Associations represented at the meeting were: Peninsula Fair Association, Tasley, Va., by R. L. Parker and W. T. Wright; Pocomoke Fair and Agricultural Association, Pocomoke, Md., by D. C. Armstrong and Ray Gladding; Wicomico Fair Association, Salisbury, Md., by D. J. Ward; Dorchester County Fair Association, Cambridge, Md., by E. Lee LeCompte and E. B. Lake; Kent & Queen Anne's Driving Association, Chestertown, Md., by D. J. Ward.

The members of this circuit have been assured by the horsemen who race the circuit that there will be as many or more horses than usual for 1918. The different associations will make every effort possible to give good programs and entertain patrons. The race program will be announced at an early date.

J. M. ASHLEY

Elected President Georgia State Fair Assn.

Valdosta, Ga., Feb. 16.—J. M. Ashley, former vice-president of the Georgia State Fair Association, was elected to the presidency for 1918, at the meeting held here last week, and James Bishop, Jr., of Eastman, Ga., chosen vice-president, with C. D. Meadows of Rome succeeding Harry C. Robert of Macon as secretary-treasurer.

Retiring President J. Luke Burdette was prevented from attending the meeting on account of illness, and many speakers and members were absent due to poor railroad schedules.

The following fair representatives were present: H. G. Hastings, president, Southeastern Fair, Atlanta; Harry C. Robert, secretary-general manager, Georgia State Fair, Macon; J. M. Ashley, secretary, Georgia-Florida Fair, Valdosta; Eugene Baker, secretary, Northeast Georgia Fair, Gainesville; W. W. Webb, president, Hahira Fair, Hahira; Dr. W. C. Jessup, president Dodge County Fair, Eastman; James Bishop, Jr., secretary, Dodge County Fair, Eastman; C. D. Shelnutt, president, Washington County Fair, Sandersville; H. Rose Jordan, general manager, 12th District Agricultural Fair, Dublin; C. D. Meadows, secretary, North Georgia Fair, Rome; Mort Bixler, secretary-manager, Chattahoochee Valley Fair, Columbus; L. D. Fryer, secretary, Early County Fair, Blakely; H. B. Ainsworth, Early County Fair, Blakely; C. E. Martin, Early County Fair, Blakely; J. A. McLaughlin, secretary-manager, Wayne County Fair, Jesup.

Cooley, concessioner; W. A. Smith, Fulton Bag and Cotton Co., Atlanta; W. T. Harrington, Great Southern Shows, and J. T. Pinfold, Central States Shows.

The 1919 meeting will be held in Rome, Ga.

TORONTO WINTER FAIR

Discussed at Shorthorn Breeders' Meeting

Toronto, Canada, Feb. 14.—At the meeting of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association in this city the holding of a winter fair in Toronto was discussed at some length. The directors of the Canadian National submitted the following proposal at the annual meeting of the exhibition: That after the conclusion of the war arrangements be made for holding a winter fair at the exhibition grounds, that the City Council be impressed with the need of constructing an arena at the grounds for judging purposes, that the Dominion and Provincial governments be asked to assist in the holding of the proposed exhibition, and that the packing establishments and the various breed associations be asked to lend their support to the scheme. The question of supporting this proposal was discussed at some length, expressions of those taking part being all in favor, and on motion it was resolved to promise the support of the Shorthorn Association to the measure proposed.

MONTANA ASSOCIATION MEETS

Helena, Mont., Feb. 13.—At a meeting of the Montana State Fair Board, held in the office of the secretary here, officers were selected for the ensuing year and dates for the 1918 exposition were named. Pat Carney, of Waterloo, succeeded Sid J. Coffee as president, and O. S. Warden of Great Falls, succeeded Carney as vice-president. Owing to adverse weather conditions which prevailed during the last three years, at which period the fair was held, it was decided to hold the fair a few weeks earlier, moving up to the week of September 9-14.

"In changing the dates the railroad situation was also taken into consideration," said Secretary B. S. Skinner. "In the event the railroads are called upon next fall to handle a large number of troops it may not be possible to secure sufficient equipment to handle special train movements to the fair. We must then depend upon automobiles, and with the second week of September selected a heavy patronage of automobile tourists is assured. This also gives us an opportunity to work in the circuit with Spokane, as they have selected the week previous to our dates."

BUILDING NEW GRAND STAND

Huron, S. D., Feb. 16.—The South Dakota State Board of Agriculture has let the contract for the erection at the South Dakota State Fair grounds of the new reinforced concrete grand stand and bleachers, which, when completed, will be one of the best of its kind in the West, accommodating 7,300 people.

The addition to the Educational Building will give space for more than double the amount of exhibits, and, in addition, afford a splendid place for lectures and demonstrations.

The fair will be six days this year, commencing September 9 and closing September 14. There will be a most elaborate program of educational features—food production and conservation, exhibits already assured for many departments of the Federal Government and many other features that should aid in winning the war. Greatly increased premiums will also be offered especially in the live stock departments. The entertainment feature will be on a larger scale and in keeping with the pace already set.

C. N. McIlvaine is secretary of the South Dakota State Fair Association.

STOCKMEN'S CONVENTION

Alliance, Neb., Feb 16.—W. D. Fisher, secretary of the Alliance Community Club, has announced that the State Stockmen's Convention will again be held in Alliance June 12-13. Secretary Fisher is confident that the war has not hurt this territory; in fact, believes it has helped it considerably, there being now seven plants manufacturing potash within a radius of twenty-four miles of Alliance, totaling a payroll of over $100,000 per month. Over 1,300 carloads of potatoes were raised last year, and the stock industry is in a flourishing condition.

MISSISSIPPI-ALABAMA FAIR

Re-Elects Officers and Fixes 1918 Dates

Meridian, Miss., Feb. 18.—At the annual meeting of the Mississippi-Alabama Fair President Make Rothenberg and Secretary A. H. George, together with the old Board of Directors and Executive Committee, with the addition of two new members, were re-elected for the ensuing year. Secretary George's annual statement was presented and a vote of thanks and commendation was extended him for the outcome of the 1917 fair.

The fair dates have been established as September 30-October 6, inclusive, which means that the fair will not conflict with the Atlanta Fair, as heretofore, but instead follow Memphis. Birmingham will follow Meridian and Atlanta will follow Birmingham, thus insuring the Mississippi-Alabama Association everything from Memphis headed for Atlanta and Birmingham. There is every reason to believe that the Federal Government will co-operate this year in a most liberal way, in fact, Secretary George already has the assurance of the co-operation of the Food Administration.

FAMILY TICKET QUESTION

Riverside, Cal., Feb. 13.—A matter that has raised considerable discussion in past years by directors of the Riverside County Fair Association is that of advance family tickets to the fair. The sale of tickets in advance of the opening of the fair at a reduced price over the [illegible] a which has created considerable interest in the exhibition and created a guarantee fund against financial loss. Last summer four admissions were sold for $1 at the advance sale. A commission of five per cent was paid to men, women and children desiring to earn some spending money for the fair. The regular admission to the Riverside Fair is 50 cents. The question has been raised that there is too much difference between the regular price and the advance sale charge. Secretary R. L. Taber, of the Riverside Fair, would be pleased to have information from other fair officials concerning this matter.

DUTTONS IN CANADA

The Duttons, Society Equestrians, popularly known at many of the large fairs thruout the United States, after a most successful tour on the U. B. O. Circuit of vaudeville theaters with their high-class act, are now concluding their vaudeville engagements in Canada. It will be good news to fair secretaries in many States to know that The Duttons will again play fair dates this summer and fall.

ALLENTOWN FAIR GROUNDS

Still in Possession of Uncle Sam

Allentown, Pa., Feb. 13.—On account of the Government still having possession of the Allentown Fair grounds for the mobilization of troops and training purposes it is not expected that there will be a fair held here this year, unless something now unforeseen develops.

ANOTHER FLORIDA FAIR

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 16.—The annual Manatee County Fair opened Tuesday, February 12, and closed the night of February 15. The exhibits of this fair were the largest and best of any of the preceding ones. Almost double the space utilized last year was used this year in the main exhibit building. One of the new features was the community exhibits, Palmetto, Bradentown, Terra Ceia, Manatee, Parrish and other places competing for the most attractive exhibit.

One of the educational features were lectures by Professors C. F. Herrington and C. K. McQuarrie, of the State Agricultural Department.

IOWA ASSOCIATION MEETS

Burlington, Ia., Feb. 16.—The annual Tri-State Fair Association, which comprises Burlington, Mt. Pleasant, Bloomfield, West Point and Milton, Ia., with Kahoka and Memphis, Mo., met at Ft. Madison on February 7, and arranged

PARKS, PIERS And BEACHES

PARK AT CAMP LEWIS NEARING COMPLETION

Will Be One of the Largest Amusement Resorts in the World—To Open About March 15

Seattle, Feb. 16.—Greene Park, now in the course of construction at Camp Lewis, where the Government has given the Camp Lewis Amusement Company right to use one hundred acres adjoining the cantonment for amusement purposes, will be one of the biggest amusement parks in the world.

By March 15 of this year the $1,250,000 park will be in full operation. It has a central heating plant which supplies all the buildings and minimizes the danger of fire. Complete lighting, street grading, sewer and water systems have been installed, and ample provision has been made for both the physical and mental welfare of the boys in training. The Christian Science reading room occupies a building 100x100 feet. The Y. M. C. A. is constructing a large building and a 300-room hotel costing $150,000 is well under way. There are also restaurants, tea rooms, steak houses, oyster grottos, quick-lunch houses and cafeterias.

The building housing the bowling alleys has fifty-eight courses. A. E. Terrell, former manager of the Princess Rink, Spokane, will manage the roller skating rink at the park. What are said to be the largest barber shops in the world are being constructed. Each will have fifty chairs. The mechanical devices that have made Coney Island famous, will be there in profusion.

In addition to the two Camp Lewis Vaudeville Company's vaudeville theaters two motion picture houses are in course of construction, with a seating capacity of 1,735 each. All theaters and houses of entertainment are being built under the supervision of army engineers. As the Government is standing back of every concession that enters the park a place of clean and wholesome amusement for the boys in khaki is assured.

Camp Lewis is the largest of the thirty-two cantonments in the United States, 50,000 men being stationed here at present.

NEW YORK COURT

Rules Negroes May Not Be Barred From Dance Halls

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16.—Negroes may not be barred from dance halls in amusement parks, according to a decision of the Court of Appeals in interpreting the civil rights law of the State of New York in the case of Carroll H. Johnson, a negro, against the Auburn and Syracuse Electric Railroad Company. The company is the owner of Lakeside Park, near Auburn, N. Y., at which a dance hall was maintained with separate admission for dancing. Johnson was refused a ticket and recovered a judgment of $100 in the Supreme Court as a penalty under the civil rights law. The Appellate Division, fourth department, reversed the judgment, holding a dance hall to which people sought admission to dance rather than witness an exhibition of dancing was not a place of public accommodation in the meaning of the law, and that the proprietor had the right to select his patrons. The higher court reversed this decision and reinstated the judgment of the trial term.

EAU CLAIRE'S ELECTRIC PARK

Eau Claire, Wis., Feb. 16.—Electric Park is situated midway between Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire—the distance being six miles from the park to either city. This park is one of the most beautiful spots in Wisconsin, and is almost as nature left it. The park is operated by the Street Railway Company, but under the management of A. B. Manley, and is used quite often as a picnic ground. No concessions are sold, altho the company operates a pavilion supplying soft drinks and picnic supplies. An excellent restaurant is also maintained in connection.

The attractions consist of band concerts, orchestra music, boating, fishing and trap shooting. During the entire season from May 30 to September 1 a children's playground is in charge of competent playground instructors, which has grown in the past quite a feature, being equipped with high-grade apparatus.

The management is considering trying out some special vaudeville attractions this season, and expects to negotiate with those who have reasonably priced shows that can be handled under the conditions.

CONEY ISLAND CO.

To Charter Boat in Place of Princess

The Coney Island Company of Cincinnati, O., thru its manager, R. Price Conner, has announced that for the 1918 summer season a boat would be chartered to take the place of the Steamer Princess, which went down as a result of the recent Ohio River ice gorges. The Steamer Island Queen, at present harbored in the canal near Louisville, Ky., will be brought to the Cincinnati Marine Ways and can be put in shape with very little expense.

ATTRACTIVE SEASON PLANNED

Durham, N. C., Feb. 16.—T. L. Rogers, manager of Lakewood Park, is making several new improvements for the coming season, which will include a new and up-to-date refreshment stand, ice cream parlor and lunch counter. Lavatories and showers are being added to the swimming pool. The roller coaster, merry-go-round, dance hall and skating rink will be under the skillful management of C. C. Shetterly, of New Brighton, Pa., who has had years of practical experience in this line. The Pickert Sisters' Stock Company will open a five weeks' engagement in the Park Theater beginning May 15. The park proper will open on May 1 with a big display of fireworks, patriotic display, balloon ascension, etc., and the midway will be lined with clean concessions. Manager Rogers boasts of having the best and cleanest park in the State, and the finest climate in the world.

WASHINGTON PARK NOTES

Bayonne, N. J., Feb. 16.—Season of 1918 will see some marked improvements at Washington Park, under the management of E. Giese, in the line of new rides and shows, a roller rink and numerous up to date concessions, and of which will be the Kentucky Derby. Arrangements are also being made for a children's free playground.

Some efforts are to be made to beautify the park in walks and flower beds, trees, a fresh coat of white and green paint, additional lights, etc. Most all concessioners are again signed for the 1918 season, among them being Emil Hoppe and Pratt and Wagner, altho the latter mentioned is now with Uncle Sam, as is also John H. Giese, brother of Manager Emil Giese. Two other former park employees are also in the uniform of their country, George Keller and Harry Blaker. Emil Hoppe is well known with many carnival companies. He will operate about eight concessions at Washington Park, the feature one being the lunch pavilion with a seating capacity of 300.

GLENDALE GARDENS AND ZOO

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 16.—Band concerts under the leadership of Mme. Frederick Stechow will again be the feature at Nashville's Glendale Gardens and Zoo this year. The park is under the management of John A. Murkin, well-known Nashville amusement man, who will book special attractions at various times during the summer. Glendale has a dancing pavilion, casino, family picnic grounds, zoo and children's playgrounds. Last year the attendance was in the neighborhood of 250,000 during the season.

ENJOYING LIFE

C. C. Shetterly, lessee and manager of Junction Park, New Brighton, Pa., is enjoying life down in Sunny Florida this winter where he has plenty of sunshine, flowers and balmy air. With Manager Shetterly are intimate friends and members of his family. They will remain in Florida until the opening of the park season.

GRIMSBY BEACH

Has Many Attractive Features

Grimsby (East), Ont., Can., Feb. 16.—Grimsby Beach, owned by the Canada Steamship Lines and managed by Gillen Hyman, has many leading features which go to make up an ideal pleasure resort. Its principal clientele are women and children and it has a residential population inside its gates of from 3,000 to 4,000, with an additional drawing population outside the park gate of about 12,000, and a floating population estimated to be at least from 5,000 to 10,000. There are 300 bungalows and two large hotels. The resort has its own general store, electric system, sanitation system, water works and a special corps of white wings and police.

The amusement area includes a large midway, two miles of beach and 250 feet of pier amusements, with the usual coaster, carousels and other rides and concessions. The season is scheduled to open May 24 and close September 15.

WILL PLAY VAUDEVILLE

Wilber, Neb., Feb. 15.—The Wilber Country Club Park, under the management of H. F. Magnuson, will play vaudeville attractions and feature pictures during June, July and August of the 1918 season. The park's season opens May 1 and closes October 1.

IOWA ASSOCIATION MEETS

the following dates: Burlington, August 5-10; Mt. Pleasant, August 12-24; Kahoka, Mo., August 20-24; Memphis, Mo., August 27-30; Milton, Ia., September 3-6; West Point, September 3-5; Bloomfield, September 10-20.

The following officers were elected at this meeting: President, H. C. Leach, Bloomfield, Ia.; vice-president, C. H. Triby, Mt. Pleasant, Ia.; secretary, John Walbaner, West Point, Ia.

In all probability Burlington will enter the Burlington Short-Ship Fair Circuit. President George Tracy and Secretary Paul Augsburger, of Burlington Tri-State Fair, were in attendance at the meeting.

RALPH A. HANKINSON

To Start Season Decoration Day

Ralph A. Hankinson has mailed out announcements that his motor contests, auto racing and polo season will commence on next Decoration Day. The announcement also states that inquiries regarding the arrangement of meets, bookings, etc., may be transacted thru the office of F. M. Barnes, Inc., the North American Building, Chicago, or direct to the management at 115 W. Fifth street, Kansas City, Mo.

TULSA FREE FAIR

Tulsa, Ok., Feb. 15.—At the recent annual election Paul Myers, of Marine, was elected president and N. R. Graham, of this city, secretary of the Tulsa County Free Fair. This fair is being conducted by tax levies under the free fair bill of Oklahoma.

At present plans are being made for the construction of a race track and grand stand, but may be delayed on account of war conditions. The association is going ahead with the usual plans, however, and expects to hold the 1918 fair in the belief that it is an important encouragement for continued farm production. The plant has something like $10,000 a year in premiums and the tax levy brings from $15,000 to $20,000.

FAIR ACTS NOTES

Sam Baldwin, well-known Quincy (Ill.) balloonist, is now one of the principal instructors at the Government balloon field near San Antonio, Tex. Sam has Geo. Fair, well known as a wire performer, with him as an assistant, and from reports from the camp Baldwin and Fair are making good. Sam is a brother of Captain Tom Baldwin, of dirigible fame.

FAIR NOTES

F. W. McRoberts, secretary of the North Dakota State Fair Association for Fargo, has written The Billboard, under date of January 30, as follows: "Under date of January 30 you published a news item which was incorrect. You stated the Interstate Fair was held at Grand Forks in 1917. That is an error. The Interstate Fair was held at Fargo and the North Dakota State Fair was held at Grand Forks. In 1918 the North Dakota State Fair will be held at Fargo and the Grand Forks County Fair will be held at Grand Forks. There is a fair at each town each year. Grand Forks receives State aid on the odd-numbered years, on even-numbered years it is Grand Forks County Fair. On the even-numbered years Fargo has the State Fair and on the odd-numbered years the Interstate Fair."

The Kinston Fair Association, Kinston, N. C., had a great increase in the attendance and receipts last year as compared to 1916, which no doubt was occasioned largely by the good weather and first-class exhibits as well as the midway, which Secretary R. B. Lewis reports as the "best yet"—the Krause Greater Shows furnishing the attractions. The fair also had Oscar Babcock and his loop-the-gap, good free attractions, stake races with big purses and 300 horses. More exhibit buildings are to be built for this year's fair, which is announced for October 22-25. F. C. Dunn is president of the Kinston Association and W. D. Hood is treasurer.

The 1918 fair of the North Kentucky Fair Association will begin August 28 at Florence, Ky., and continue for four days. The premium list will be added to this year, and with the free attractions which have been planned the management expects the biggest fair ever held at Florence. Officers and directors elected at the recent annual meeting are: J. R. Williams,

Skating News

CIONI AND BERSHIMER RACES

Roland Cioni and Rollie Birkhimer have been matched to race a series of three races at different skating rinks. The first race scheduled is to take place at the Cincinnati Music Hall Rink, February 18; second at East Market Street Gardens Rink, Akron, February 20, and third race at Luna Park, Cleveland, February 21.

McCLELLANDS RESTING

The McClellands (James and Mildred) are resting up in Richfield Springs, N. Y., but expect to be in New York City in a few weeks where they will likely sign up with a big ice and roller skating combination novelty act. While resting up, The McClellands fill a few engagements at nearby rinks and manage to keep in shape.

ECKMAN TAKES MAIN EVENT

Elmer Eckman, of Detroit, Mich., won the two-mile race at the Market Street Gardens Roller Rink, Akron, O., February 9, and proved to the skating fans that he is still in the game. Orint and Swank finished a tie for second place. Time, 6:25.

The two-mile race between H. Force, Leo Maxwell, A. Force and Cy Chapman was won by A. Force. Time, 6:32.

ROLLER RINK REOPENS

The Roller Roller Rink, Seattle, reopened in its new quarters opposite the Pantages Theater February 8 to good business. The rink occupies the entire second floor of the building and the location is much better than the former one at First and Seneca streets.

SIX-DAY RACE

S. B. Roush, manager of the Rolla Dance Rink, East Orange, N. J., has announced for March 2, 4, 5, 7, 8 and 9 some special races at his rink between amateurs from different sections. Prizes to be awarded will include several silver loving cups, gold, silver and bronze medals, as well as prizes offered by skating manufacturing concerns and sporting goods houses.

BABY MARGARET IN EAST

Baby Margaret Chapman has invaded the Eastern territory with her clever skating exhibition, recently being featured at the rink of W. B. Bamford in Syracuse, N. Y., and later for Manager Shellie Charles at Oswego, N. Y., and later going back to Syracuse for a return date. Despite extreme cold weather this little lady skater packed them in at both rinks and thoroly pleased the fans in her exhibitions.

FLETCHER AND ROONEY

Charles (Kid) Fletcher, of Cincinnati, who is connected with the staff of the Stratford Roller Rink, Rochester, N. Y., this winter, and Gary Rooney, well-known professional speed skater, are anxious to arrange some races with both amateurs and pros. in the near future—Charles taking the amateur class and Rooney the professionals. Rooney holds the professional championship of Western New York and Fletcher the amateur championship of Rochester.

GARRISON & STONE OPEN

Garrison & Stone opened their roller skating rink in Bowling Green, Ky., on February 15 and expect to offer some of the best skating attractions obtainable during the remainder of the season.

CHARLOTTE AT WHITE CITY

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Charlotte, whose name is synonymous with marvelous feats in ice skating, was the featured attraction at White City's Iceland, last Thursday night, on a bill including several other professional skaters.

LETTER FROM EISENEGGER

"Now doing a bit of McAdooiting," writes Art J. Eisenegger, from Waukon, Ia., last week. "Will open the rink at Decorah, Ia., February 16, making the move via the Lonesome Trail—a 22-mile jump—with two sleighs. Decorah is a good stand town and no skating for two years. I closed here at Waukon, to a turnaway house. Had to skate two sessions to accommodate patrons. Business has shown a good average, however it has been spasmodical and I never experienced a play like this one—all skates out today and 'where do I eat' tomorrow! My good old partner, whose interest I purchased in the Eisenegger Amusement Co., and which firm name I still maintain, Live Wire Chick Stedman, has been seriously ill. His new partner, Mrs. C. J., has stepped into the harness, and from all reports she's due for an increase in salary."

SHELLIE CHARLES

Enterprising young rink manager, who is at present managing the Criterion Rink at Oswego, N. Y.

NEBES TAKES ANOTHER

Al Nebes of Lowell, Mass., and Eastern Champion Roller Skater recently defeated the all-star team of five picked skaters—Fred Conners, Weymouth, Mass.; Leo Doherty, Bangor, Me.; Kid Loewick, New Jersey; Al Bredeson, New York City, and Dick Laurie, Hartford, Conn. The distance was five miles. Each man went one mile and was relayed with flying start, the Lowell boy going the five miles alone. He also gave the team one lap handicap.

In defeating Leo Doherty he has the honor of defeating every skater of note in the East since he started in the game, 11 years ago.

Nebes is said to have declined an offer to go to Cleveland and race Cioni at Luna Park, but refused on account of the percentage contract.

"BABY" CONTEST

The "Live Baby Free" contest at Iceland Skating Rink, White City, Chicago, came to an end last Thursday night, and the lucky one received a live baby. Altho the weather was bad a large crowd turned out and all seemed very pleased with the program Manager Sheldon presented to them. St. Pierre and Rich entertained with comedy skating, which was well appreciated by the rink fans, many of whom had never witnessed comedy ice skating before. Charlotte, artistic ice skater, performed and was applauded almost continuously. At the conclusion of her act she was presented with an enormous bouquet of roses.

The baby contest was brand new in Chicago and it was widely advertised all over the Windy City: "Live Baby Given Away Free at Iceland Skating Rink." The advertisements were concluded with the words: "This live baby will positively be presented to the holder of the lucky number on Thursday February 14." This certainly was a novel way to catch the eyes of the public and it proved to be very successful for Manager Sheldon. Each person attending was presented with a ticket bearing a number. Duplicate numbers were placed in a box and when Jack Goferman, manager of the ball room and casino, called for a volunteer to pick the lucky number a young lady stepped forward and picked the lucky number, which was held by a man, who carried away the live baby pig.

Mr. Sheldon's novel ideas and ways of getting the crowds could be worked very profitably by other rink and dance hall managers.

RINK NOTES

Joe Laurey, who claims the European championship, defeated Fred Martin in two out of three half-mile races at Riverview Rink, Milwaukee, Wis., February 11. Another match between these two racers was scheduled for February 18.

William Thompson, former speed skater, is now doing his bit and wears the uniform of the U. S. A. in Co. A, 1st Inf., stationed in Honolulu. Thompson asks to be remembered to his friends.

Director Freezy, of the Stratford Roller Rink, Rochester, N. Y., reports that his wartime costume carnival was a huge success and that the Hooverized prizes went over big.

A new rink was recently opened at Butte, Mont., located in one of the large halls in the city. From reports it is doing a good business from the start.

The Auditorium Rink, Billings, Mont., is in a modern building and is under the excellent management of V. Johnson.

Walton, Ky., president; C. F. Blankenbaker, Florence, vice-president; Hubert Conner, Burlington, secretary; Edgar C. Riley, Burlington, treasurer. Directors, W. P. Beemon, Florence; C. W. Myers, Florence; H. C. Swetnam, Covington; C. S. Chambers, Walton, and Sam Hicks, Union.

The Martin County Agricultural Society's fair at Fairmont, Minn., last year was very successful, being able from the receipts to pay off an indebtedness of $2,000 incurred in building a new race horse barn and enlarging the floral hall. The society is contemplating more buildings this year. Last year was the first time a night fair was held and was so successful that the same plan will probably be carried out this year. Secretary J. F. Haeckel has advised The Billboard that the dates will probably be the last three days in September. J. C. Musser is president of the society.

At the recent annual meeting of the Jasper County Fair Association, Newton, Ia., the following were elected to office: J. H. Hand, president; R. H. Bailey, secretary, and Joe Horn, treasurer. For the first time in a great many years this fair association is out of debt and the grounds free of mortgage. Nineteen hundred and seventeen was the best fair ever held, and larger profits were made than ever before. Secretary F. E. Meredith announces the 1918 dates for September 16-19, inclusive.

Elliott Irvin, secretary of the Montgomery County Fair Association, Coffeyville, Kan., advises that the 1918 fair of his association will be held the last week in September, according to present prospects. The 1917 fair was the most successful in the history of the association. This year the management is increasing the premiums and attractions with the intention of having the best fair in Kansas. Other officers are R. H. Nouny, president; Ira Brighton, vice-president, and Jess Sigabee, treasurer.

C. B. Leftwich, secretary of the Howard County Agricultural Society, St. Paul, Neb., reports that his 1917 fair was the best ever with an attendance of 7,500, exhibits all good and everyone apparently taking more than usual interest. With favorable weather the 1918 fair at St. Paul is expected to be an improvement over last year. B. B. Calvin is president, C. W. Hunter vice-president and J. F. Webster superintendent. The dates for 1918 have been set for September 24-26.

Mike Elson, secretary of the Smith County Fair Association, Smith Center, Kan., in addition to extended improvements for 1918 expects to close a contract with a carnival company and is also on the lookout for some free attractions. The fair will be held September 3-6, one day of which will be devoted to auto races. C. A. Garrison is president of the association. If possible Secretary Elson expects to form a four-town circuit of fairs.

The live stock premiums at the Antelope County Agriculture and Fair Association, Neligh, Neb., increased twice what they were the year before at the 1917 fair and the association this year plans on having a bigger midway and to remain open day and night. Its officials are J. G. Crinklaw, president; Ralph M. Kryger, secretary, and B. E. Skinner, treasurer. Dates for 1918 are announced as September 10-13.

Carl Eastwood, secretary of the LeSueur County Agricultural Association, LeSueur, Minn., writes The Billboard: "We are spending thousands of dollars for attractions this year, and intend to make this one of the best fairs in the Northwest. Our racing features will be as good as those at the State Fair. We will have a night show two nights, with plenty of fireworks. Our dates are September 13-14."

The Manistee County Agricultural Society's fair of 1917 at Onekama, Mich., was quite successful, especially considering the miserable farming season in that section. On account of stormy weather of this year and poor conditions of roads no definite plans have been made. The dates for this year, however, have been announced as September 17-20 by Secretary H. B. Brodie.

The Polk County Fair Association's sixth annual fair, held September 18-20, 1917, was the most successful one in the history of the association.

M. H. Warner, secretary of the Summit County Agricultural Society, Akron, O., announces that the sixty-second annual fair of his organization will be held October 1-4. The society has nineteen directors, with R. C. Robinson, president; V. T. Bender, vice-president, and L. R. Oviatt, treasurer.

The Saguache County Fair Association, Saguache, Col., held no fair in 1917 on account of war conditions, and as the annual meetings of the Association are held in June of each year nothing definite about this year's fair will be known until then. Wm. Fellers is secretary of the association.

J. V. Huntamer, secretary of the Northwestern Fair and Racing Association, has received authority to stage race meets on the new track which is being built at Camp Lewis, American Lake, Wash., cantonment. It is reported that by arrangement with the Government Sunday matinee races will be held soon.

At the annual business meeting of the Clinton County Agricultural Society, Dewitt, Ia., it was decided to hold the 1918 fair September 10-13. The amounts for premiums were left to the committee, the $2,500 was set aside for speed events.

The following have been elected officers of the Western New York Fair Managers' Association: President, Warren B. Conklin, Brockport; vice-president, Fred B. Parker, Batavia; secretary, S. W. Hart, Perry, N. Y.

The sixty-fourth exhibition of the Columbia County Fair at Bloomsburg, Pa., will be held October 1, 2, 3 and 4, 1918. Four thousand dollars will be offered in race purses. H. B. Correll, secretary.

Farmers' Week was held in Ithaca, N. Y., last week. In 1917 about seven thousand farmers attended this meeting, which is held annually.

Dates for the Brown County Agricultural Fair Association, DePere, Wis., have been set for August 26-29. Berk J. Smith, secretary.

C. A. WORTHAM ATTRACTIONS BEGIN PRELIMINARY SEASON

Open Seven Weeks' Tour With Eleven-Day Engagement at Washington Birthday Celebration, Laredo, Texas—First Night's Gross Receipts of Last Year Eclipsed

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 15.—The C. A. Wortham attractions opened an eleven-day engagement here last night to a business that exceeded the gross obtained here one year ago. The streets leading to the lot were filled with people, and the grounds were packed. Every manager expressed himself as more than pleased at the opening.

The lineup of attractions and concessions sent by C. A. Wortham is far superior to any that has ever played the Washington Birthday Celebration here. There are ten shows and four rides on the lot. Homer V. Jones is manager and Ben H. Klein treasurer.

Laredo was awaiting the coming of the C. A. Wortham attractions. The streets are decorated and the people happy. Not a flag nor yet a piece of bunting floats in the breeze to bid welcome to the entertainers on their first stop of the winter tour, but everywhere there was mud, muddy mud, and gobs of it. This entire section of the State has been visited by a rainfall of various proportions in different parts of the State. However, the people are happy and the mud that decorates the streets means business for the Wortham attractions. In this instance mud means money.

The show train arrived Wednesday. There was ample time to get every attraction and ride in shape for the opening last night. Because of the wonderful showing that the C. A. Wortham attractions have always made when exhibiting at the Washington Birthday Celebration here the folks in this section have come to recognize the name, "Wortham," as a guarantee of something new and worth while.

The lineup of shows, concessions and staff will be given in The Billboard next week. The company will tour for seven weeks and then return to San Antonio, where a week will be devoted to assembling the entire aggregation for the regular tour, which opens in the city of the alamo, exhibiting for the Fiesta, starting April 15.—C. M. CASEY.

TRIGG IN FRANCE

According to a letter received by H. A. DeVaux, general manager of the DeVaux Greater Shows, Edward B. Trigg has arrived safely in France, is in good health and is learning the French language rapidly. Mr. Trigg was with the DeVaux Shows last year, and enlisted in the army at Sandusky, O., in July. He is with Company B, 166th Infantry, A. E. F., and would be glad to hear from friends.

CLIFTON-KELLEY SHOWS

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 15.—Since closing December 29, after running winter and summer from May 8, 1916, every one connected with the Great Clifton Kelley Shows, has been taking a much-needed rest. This is the third time the outfit has closed in the winter since its start on the road four years ago.

Among the many familiar faces that will again be seen on the C.-K. midway this season will be Earl D. Jackson, with his Big Eli wheel; William Gregory, with his pit show; H. J. Talley and wife, who jumped from Colorado Springs, Col., to Memphis to sign up for their hoop-la and devil's bowling alley. They are now in New Orleans. Leon Treadway, trombonist, will again be with the all-American band, as will Don P. Clabaugh, the ragtime trap drummer. Earle Charles of motordrome fame has contracted for his silodrome. Catherine Gaines has again placed her Cabaret Show, as well as her dining car and Pullman sleeper, and John White will again be trainmaster.

During the next three weeks Manager J. C. Kelley will visit St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City and St. Paul on business connected with the show.

An entirely new line of printing will be used this season, and Manager Kelley states that the word exposition will not appear in the title of the show. While the route has not been given out it is known that the show will play the Mississippi Valley States and the Northwest.

H. C. EVANS & CO.

Showing New Lines—Open Display Rooms in Saratoga Hotel

Chicago, Feb. 18.—H. C. Evans & Co., Chicago, are putting many new devices and games on the market for the coming season, and predict that they will be the best money makers they have ever manufactured. Among the new games is The Flashing Star, an entirely new and novel device that will instantly appeal to the public. The Evans Co. predicts that this will be even a better seller than its race track, which has proven one of the most reliable money-makers it ever got out.

It has also secured many new and novel items for the concessionaire, every one of which should appeal to the public.

For the convenience of visiting concessionaires H. C. Evans & Co. have secured display rooms in the Saratoga Hotel for the week of February 18-23, where all will be welcome to come and inspect their new lines.

RHODA ROYAL AT TORONTO

Chicago, Feb. 18.—James T. Clyde has contracted with Rhoda Royal to furnish the Buffalo Bill Wild West Show and the Rough Riders of the World and the Rhoda Royal Circus for the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto. This will make one of the strongest and best attractions ever on exhibition.

NEW PARTNERSHIP FORMED

Tipps and Tryon Organizing Royal Exposition Shows

H. H. Tipps, the well-known carnival man, and H. H. Tryon, of circus fame, have formed a partnership and will organize for the coming season the Royal Exposition Shows, opening week of April 29 near St. Louis. Mr. Tipps has had a vast amount of experience in carnivaldom. In conjunction with Milt Mitchell he organized the Royal Carnival Company in 1899, and after dissolving partnership with Mr. Mitchell the same year he changed the name to the Royal Amusement Co., keeping on the road continuously for fourteen years. For four years, previous to the past season, when he was special agent of the C. A. Wortham Shows, he had been connected with different shows in the capacity of general agent. Mr. Tryon has had most of his experience in the circus line, having been connected with the Barnum Show, Cole Bros.' Show and a number of others. With the wide experience of these two oldtimers the Famous Royal should have easy sailing.

DUNLAVEY OPENS MUSEUM

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 16.—James H. Dunlavey has opened a museum here in the Connally Building at 28 Whitehall street, one of the best locations in town, and has been doing a very nice business. He has a very strong show, consisting of the Samar (Siamese) Twins, Prof. J. Ruhl and his Flea Circus, the Royal Midgets, Prince William, midget entertainer, R. L. Davis, with the Lord's Prayer Pin, and The Littles, mind readers. Mrs. Dunlavey, wife of James H., is in a local hospital, recovering from a serious operation. She would like to hear from her friends.

POLACKS VERY BUSY

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Two of the busiest men in Chicago this week are Harry E. and Irv. J. Polack. Since making the alliance with the World at Home Shows and assuming the management of that organization Harry E. Polack has been visiting the winter quarters at Streator, looking over the equipment and conferring with various firms regarding painting and decorating, and putting everything in first-class condition to take the road early in the spring. Rolling stock, wagons and fronts are all in excellent shape, and when painted and decorated will go out like a brand new show. Harry E. Polack is giving his personal attention to every detail, and is full of enthusiasm about the wonderful show he will pilot this year.

MRS. FOSTER UNDER KNIFE

Mrs. Foster, wife of Harley Foster, was operated on at St. Luke's Hospital, Jacksonville, Fla., and is in a serious condition.

ONLY ONE STANDARD SHOW

Williams Will Not Put Out No. 2 Show This Year

Manager Ben Williams announces the widely circulated report that there will be two Standard Shows this season is without foundation. Rumor that Joseph H. Hughes would manage the New England show and Ben Williams the Canadian show spread so rapidly that concessioners and showmen who have concessions and attractions not already booked were as busy as bees trying to connect with either organization.

The Williams Standard Show this year will play in the East, opening April 20, and the staff will be the same as last year, as follows: Ben Williams, general manager; Joseph Hughes, general agent; Ralph Finney, secretary; Sam Kitz, director of concessions; Albert Holstien, director of shows; Bob Cook, lot superintendent; Wm. (Billy) Hamilton, legal adjuster.

EDDIE WILLIAMS ON THE JOB

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 15.—The destinies of the Parker Shows are now in the hands of the new manager, Eddie Williams, and from the manner in which he has taken hold of things and has made order out of chaos in the short time that he has been here it looks as tho he is the right man in the right place. He now has a large force of men working at the winter quarters, and everything will be in first-class shape for the opening, which will take place here February 22. The attractions will be located on the streets right in the heart of the city and the engagement will include two Saturdays and two Sundays. Seven more cars and several new shows are on their way from Leavenworth. Ed Brewer is now the agent, and is out closing some real dates.

The word Joyland will be discarded, and henceforth this show will be known as Parker Shows No. 1. It will open with thirty cars and will be enlarged in July. California Frank is training new stock and enlarging his show. Several days ago Mamie Francis was trying out a new rifle when the members of the 8th Cavalry heard the shots and mistook them for another Mexican raid (there have been several of them here this winter), and in a few minutes she was surrounded by cavalry men, all anxious for the fray. In order to repay them for their trouble California Frank presented each one with a pass to his Wild West Show, good on the opening night, and they considered themselves well paid.

VICTORIA ATTRACTIONS, INC.

Organize To Meet Present Conditions

New York, Feb. 16.—Under the direction of Harry Witt the Victoria Attractions are organizing for the season of 1918, and are eliminating all unnecessary paraphernalia, yet equipping to move and exhibit without loss of time, independent of congested railroad conditions, but so organized that should the railroad situation improve to immediately take advantage of it. Offices have been opened in the Knickerbocker Building, 1402 Broadway.

New and novel attractions will be the feature of the Victoria Shows this season. Mr. Witt has already purchased from the Modern Show Building Company three new idea shows, viz., The Trenches, a reproduction of the allied and captured German trenches of Europe; Over the Top, a mechanical show, with a mammoth panel front, and Underground Chinatown. In line with these new shows will be five of the standard attractions of past season, and three riding devices will give Mr. Witt a line-up of meritorious attractions second to none, and combined with a concert band a sensational free act and a personnel of well-known independent concessioners (the management operating no concessions) stamp the Victoria Attractions, Inc., indelibly with the New Idea.—CHARLES B. DUNLAP.

CORRECTION

From One of the "Sleepy Switchtenders" in Florida

J. C. O'Brien, in a late issue, refers to me among others as having been one of the somnolent ones injured by the revocation of party tariffs and privately owned car movements. With apologies to the "Colonel" I have been called most everything but petrified in business interests. Inasmuch as I have moved daily in my private car from August 28 to the present writing, and expect to continue, it would appear somebody was misinformed. It is true that tariffs were revoked in Florida and other States out of a clear sky without notice, giving neither myself nor others an opportunity for protection. It is also a fact that some were compelled to close, and the amiable "Colonel" himself lost some sleep over the possibilities ahead. But this attraction continued to move without loss of a day in the private car, except for the Tuesdays, closed by the government. "And its management was fast asleep?" As the reinstatement of party tariffs and movements of privately owned cars will undoubtedly have been consummated before the publication of this article let us hope to continue in the present prosperity, bearing in mind The Billboard's injunction, "Avaunt Pessimism," the rainbow of prosperity is "coming."—J. A. COBURN, Coburn's Greater Minstrels.

S. W. BRUNDAGE SHOWS

Change Date of Opening at Austin, Tex., to March 11

Austin, Tex., Feb. 15.—It had been Manager Brundage's intention to open the season Monday, March 4, but due to the immense amount of work being done in winter quarters, and despite the fact that a night force of work men had been added, it was found impossible to be ready for the original date and he was compelled to postpone same one week. Carpenters, painters and blacksmiths are now working night and day in making ready for the opening, which will occur in Austin, under the auspices of the Austin Automobile Club, the same auspices that the shows closed under here last fall. The entire train is being repainted and several additional wagon fronts added to ones for the various new offerings. Twenty six cars will be required to transport the shows.

This year will see several new offerings on the Brundage Midway, one of which will be Russell's Dancing Models, in their refined and up-to-the-minute novelty, Visions of Splendor. This is a high-class vaudeville show, which has been playing the larger time, and features Jessie, Sandia and Nellie Russell. Special scenery, drops and electrical effects are carried.

Jack Preston, a former member of this show, but now a Sammy, has been spending a short furlough with his many friends in winter quarters. Mrs. Freda Wilson, who is confined to the Austin Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis, is regaining her health. Filly Bonnell returned to winter quarters from San Antonio. J. J. Todd and the writer, two of the company's agents, recently donned painters' clothes and agreed to help out in the emergency, but, after a day or two of work, decided that they were not cut out for painters.

Among other features with the shows this year will be a Hawaiian street singer, who will render numbers at each downtown concert of the Brundage Band. Whitey Watkins, one of Bob Taylor's concession agents, came in from Shreveport, La., last week. J. W. Johnson had a large force of workmen engaged in rebuilding his mechanical show. Steve O'Bannon, the billposter, writes that he will report at winter quarters in time to shoot up Austin for the opening. This will be Steve's third year with the shows.—ED F. FEIST.

RUBIN & CHERRY SHOWS

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 16.—Realizing that as usual it will be difficult to always get prompt service and just what you want in making hauling contracts, Rubin Gruberg has placed an order with a local dealer for three auto trucks for his show this season. This is not done with the idea of transporting the show in that method, but in this way he is insured a prompt movement to the lot as soon as the train arrives at its destination. These trucks will be used exclusively for the concessions and gilly shows.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Roberti, with their Dog, Pony and Monkey Circus, have arrived from Havana, Cuba, via New Orleans, where they have been playing vaudeville dates. This will make their third season with this caravan. Jas. Cary, the well-known builder of shows for carnivals and parks, arrived here last week from Brooklyn, N. Y., and has started to work building two of his latest attractions on wagons. C. B. Miller, known as Busy City Red, came in February 8 from his home at Urbana, O. He will be superintendent of train. H. T. Tyle has remodeled his two wagons, and is in nice shape now to handle his cookhouse and monkey speedway. A. G. Logsdon, last season with Smith Greater Shows, will be one of the promoters. A. B. Santley also comes back. The writer has just placed an order for 4,000 stogies, to be delivered 100 per week for forty weeks. That gives him almost enough coupons to buy a flivver.—F. S. REED.

ZARRA'S MONARCH SHOWS

Joseph Zarra, owner and manager of the Zarra Greater Monarch Shows, has started the ball rolling for the coming summer season. Both of his rides, Herschell-Spillman three-abreast carousel and Big Eli wheel are being completely overhauled, and will receive new coats of paint, varnish and enamel. A new Berni organ will be added to the carousel. Four new tops have been ordered, and the same number of canvas fronts will be built. Negotiations are under way for a whip. The caravan this summer will consist of three riding devices, seven shows and twenty-five concessions, in addition to a ten-piece all American band and a well-known lady high diver as a free attraction.

A GOOD IDEA

Tip the Waiter With Thrift Stamps and Help Win the War

The latest fad is tipping waiters with Government Thrift Stamps. It's a very good idea, and should be encouraged by everybody in the show world. Just who is the originator we are unable to say, but W. H. (Bill) Rice, general agent of the C. A. Wortham enterprises, and Mercedes, the well-known vaudeville artist, started it a week or so ago.

Showfolk are rated as the nation's most consistent tippers, and this method will bring thousands of dollars into Uncle Sam's coffers, for every tip means at least 25 cents invested in a Thrift Stamp, and just that much more added to the "win the war" funds raised in the national thrift campaign. Mercedes is to bring his plan to the attention of all vaudevillians with whom he comes in contact, and Mr. Rice will do likewise with the outdoor show world. In fact, Mr. Rice says all the agents of the Wortham Shows will carry out the proposition, adding: "I have found that the majority of Pullman porters and other people that we tip 25 cents or more will take to the idea very kindly, and many of them that I have started go thru with it as the Government intends. It costs nothing, and here's the proposition: Every agent carries several Government Thrift Cards and pastes one 25-cent Thrift Stamp in the card, and explains that $4 worth of these two-bit stamps will get a $5 War Certificate."

Mercedes has two brothers in the U. S. army, and before long he may be shouldering a gun in defense of liberty and democracy himself. He opened on the Orpheum Circuit at Salt Lake City recently after a long vacation, and his act was a bigger hit than ever.

IT'S "DADDY" ACH

Sam Ach, special agent of the Krause Greater Shows, and wife, are receiving congratulations from their many friends on the arrival of a ten-pound boy. The youngster has beautiful black hair and eyes, and weighed nine pounds and a half at the time of birth. He has been named James Gerald Ach. Both the mother and child are doing nicely at their home in Boston, Ga.

WONDERLAND SHOWS, LTD.

New York, Feb. 16.—Bisbany Bros., owners of the Wonderland Shows, Ltd., on account of the difficulty in arranging transportation over the New Haven & Hartford, have changed their opening stand to Lawrence, Mass., the week of May 4. Their route will carry them into Eastern Canada.

The Streets of all Nations is the title under which they are going to operate their feature show, which should be a sure-fire winner. The organization is on a particularly firm business basis this year, and the proprietors are making it a policy to provide the public with a snappy and novel entertainment, to which end they are conducting their efforts along extravagant lines.

CURTIS IRELAND

Establishes Candy Factory in St. Louis

St. Louis, Feb. 16.—Curtis Ireland, who in the last several years has been connected with concessions, chiefly candy race tracks upon the various carnivals thruout the country, has left the show field and established a candy factory in St. Louis. A visit to his establishment found everybody working top speed. His factory contains seven floors, and has every equipment necessary to specialize on the particular candy he sells. All showmen visiting St. Louis at any time are welcome to visit his plant.

WORTHAM & RICE OPENING

The Wortham & Rice Caravan will start out about March 11, opening somewhere south of New Orleans. Walter Stanley, the manager, is now in New Orleans, the winter quarters of the show, getting things in shape. Harry S. [illegible] will act as general agent.

GUY GLICK'S RIDER

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Polack Bros. have purchased from William Glick the handsome new rides that he had with the World at Home Shows last season. It is the intention of Harry R. Polack to use all of these rides on the World at Home Shows this season.

WILLIAM JUDKINS HEWITT

ADDRESS ALL MAIL AND TELEGRAMS CARE THE BILLBOARD, SUBWAY CENTRAL BUILDING, NEW YORK.

THIS IS SHOW history making week in Chicago.

SHOWMEN FROM all over the United States and Canada by the hundreds are there.

SHOWMEN NEED to get together on a lot of things.

SHOWMEN'S LEAGUE of America is doing a lot for the good of the outdoor showman.

NATIONAL OUTDOOR Showmen's Association is doing a lot of good for the outdoor showman.

CAR-OWNING MANAGERS' Association is doing a lot of good for the outdoor showman.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION of Fairs and Expositions are doing a lot of good for the fair business and the outdoor showman. That association is going to do bigger and better things every time it meets.

EVERY SHOWMAN should give his co-operation and support the organizations that are doing so much for the uplift of the business.

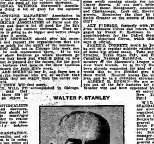
IF YOU ARE not in Chicago this week you should be well represented there. If in the outdoor show business go where showmen go that you may know just what is going on now and what is planned for the future, for the good of the business that men in the show business have chosen for their life's work.

WE ARE SORRY to say it, and there are a few in the business who are so narrow that they think they are bigger than the entire outdoor field.

FOR THEM WE feel sorry.

MUCH WILL BE accomplished in Chicago. Every man that went there did so with an object in view.

WALTER F. STANLEY



Mr. Stanley has assumed management of the Wortham & Rice Caravan. He is now in New Orleans organizing the outfit, which will begin its tour during the early part of March.

INDIVIDUALISTS are all showmen, but they should let it go sometimes in order to realize that they are absolutely helpless alone.

ORGANIZATION, co-operation and expansion is in order. If you are going all along the line season 1918 in the same old rut what's the use of doing anything at all?

SEASON 1918 is on its way.

OPENING DATES are now being announced in rapid succession.

WEEK FEBRUARY 18 will be one long to be remembered by the Showmen's League of America because of the election of officers on its fifth birthday. The S. L. of A. is expanding, and it should not be in too much of a hurry to spread all over the country in one year. The New York branch is enough to try to put over for this year. Take your time, friends of mine.

HAVE YOU something that is new this season?

IF YOU HAVEN'T what have you been doing since the close of last season?

OPERATING EXPENSES are greater all 'round this year.

OUTDOOR SHOWMEN will not get very far this year traveling around with a long train and nothing on it that is capable of getting the money. Fill up every inch of your train space with real money-getting attractions that are new. They must be new and big.

SHOWMEN, YOU must help not the inexperienced fair managers. Do not load their fair grounds up with a lot of amusements that they can not use and that will not bring them a dime. Do not overload them on free acts for their grand stands either. Just enough that will be fair to all concerned.

OUTDOOR SHOWMEN—if you haven't something new this season that will get the money you are due for a fall down in returns, and you are going to fall hard.

SHOWMEN, IF you want to give the Showmen's League of America, New York branch, something worth while you might donate your own private chair, as Harry B. Potter suggests.

S. Y. MARTIN, of the Greater Sheesley Shows, was a visitor in New York very recently from Norfolk. He says that this is going to be a great season.

W. C. FLEMING stopped a day in New York last week en route West. He is all bubbling over with the excellent prospects for the coming tour of the Greater Sheesley Shows, of which he is the man that tells them where to go.

GEORGE M. BISTANY wants it emphatically known that Hamilton and Powers are looking after the booking of the Wonderland Shows in the States and that he and Miss Helen Murdoch are handling the Canadian tour. He wants all to watch his weekly announcements. Streets of All Nations show should be a big winner. If it is framed up as Bistany says that it will be—it will be.

W. H. D. MIDDLETON is all filled up with ideas for the coming season. What, again? No, yet. Keep your eyes open.

IT'S TIME FOR some men in the show business to suffer a little with laughteritis. There is no use in being a grouch just because you happen to be on earth.

HAVE YOUR GOOD time, and when the season opens get right down to business and stick at it.

WILBUR S. CHERRY has certainly booked some swell opening stands for the Rubin & Cherry Shows. If you don't believe it just look at them: Montgomery, Anniston, Gadsden and Chattanooga. Look out, Knoxville on the streets. Remember the time he booked the Smith Greater on the streets of that Tennessee city?

ART EYDRIGE, formerly with W. P. Hall, John Robinson Circus and others, has been engaged by Frank P. Spellman to be general superintendent for the United Shows Million Dollar Motorized Circus, which title Spellman says is official.

JAMES J. CORBETT would be just the man to put on a regular athletic exhibition in front of some big grand stand. Take notice, W. R. Stratton, Texas State Fair, and D. C. Ross, Canadian National Exhibition. Corbett is a member of the Showmen's League of America, New York branch, so is Harry Houdini. We have already suggested the kind of a show we would like to see Houdini give the outdoor show world. Houdini knows the ways of the lots, and he is a champion showman.

ALBERT E. BROWN—We are sorry to see you out of the fair business for this season. Wonder who has been appointed his successor as secretary of the New York State Fair?

WILLIAMS' STANDARD Shows are evidently well organized. The same staff as last season: Benjamin Williams, general manager; Ralph Finney, secretary and treasurer; Samuel Kitz, manager concessions, and Joseph Hughes, general agent. They know how to co-operate, as has been demonstrated.

OMAR SAMI—You should see Hoffman's new brown [illegible]. Some ballyhoo.

GEORGE W. TOOMBS AND Mrs. Toombs visited New York early last week. They talked park business for the season outdoors.

POLACK BROS. have more than arrived. We predicted their rapid rise last winter a year ago from Chicago. Some along Broadway are saying watch Polack Bros.' Twenty Big Shows, and the World at Home Shows together on the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition this fall.

TICKET BOX locations have much to do with the amount of money that is taken in. Locate them right.

MONKEYS ARE awfully high this year. This is terrible.

RAILROADS IN the West are going to move show trains early in the season all right. This is good news to all.

WHY ARE SO many of the carnivals putting on small circuses as the big feature shows? This is all wrong. Either be in the circus or carnival business—not both.

RAILROADS IN the East will be moving all outdoor shows on regular schedule time before many months have passed. Be patient and stop bombarding the railroad officials at this time when they are powerless to help you.

W. J. McDONOUGH, the well-known general agent, was in New York February 6. He recently was connected with a big bazaar in Philadelphia. Now booking bands and attractions for museums and the like.

HAMILTON & POWERS are well on the road to success with their new enterprise.

TOM W. ALLEN has a whole lot of good, hard common business sense. If some of the showmen would pay some attention to some of the things Allen has to say a lot of complications could be avoided.

"TOPS" OR CANOPIES FOR WHIPS—It took us a long time to get the Auto-Motor-Silo-Drome owners and operators to put "tops" or canopies over their dromes. We are now suggesting that very thing for whips. Just think of the money you could take in on rainy and damp nights if your whip had a top.

TENT MAKERS AND WHIP owners and operators. The writer has suggested to Walter F. Driver of the United States Tent & Awning Co. that his company build "tops" or canopies for Whips and that they let you know about it just as soon as they get the patterns for the frames and "tops" laid out. Get busy with this before your season opens.

NICHOLAS CREPAEO, of loop-the-loop fame, has been wintering in Boston. It took him 20 hours to make the trip from that city to New York, where he arrived on February 5 for a short stay.

CHAUTAUQUA MANAGERS: Kindly permit us to suggest that high-class Wild West roping.

BIG ELI WHEELS
have done to the Ride business what Auto-Taxicabs have done to the Taxicab Service. Not a great many years ago horse-drawn Taxis were entirely in vogue. In fact, Auto-Taxis were only in their experimental stage and very few were seen. What has become of the old horse-drawn vehicle that was sure or and slow at end! Faster, better, more up-to-the-minute methods are being used—the Auto-Taxi. By now you are probably wondering what BIG ELI WHEELS have to do with this advertisement. Well, here's the comparison: Several years ago practically all Carnival Companies were carrying small pipe Ferris Wheels. The BIG ELI was then being improved and tried until finally brought up to a real, practical, portable wheel. Where are those little Pipe Wheels of years ago? They have been replaced by the Sturdy, Safe, Solid BIG ELI WHEELS. Oh, we are moving fast in this world and the above comparisons are just examples of "The survival of the fittest." Mr. Park and Carnival Manager, in writing your adv. don't say "Want to book Ferris Wheel," say "Want to book BIG ELI WHEEL." BIG ELI holds the title of Standard among amusement men of today. Write for prices and full particulars. ELI BRIDGE COMPANY, Builders, Box 22B, Roodhouse, Ill., U. S. A.

SOONER OR LATER—WHY NOT NOW?
Every man engaged in the line of business which we supply with merchandise, SOONER OR LATER comes to the conclusion that this is the RIGHT place for him to buy his merchandise.
The "SOONER" man has the best of it.
The man who only gets to it later on, simply REDUCES the profits he makes on his goods by PAYING MORE for his merchandise, and what is equally important, does not always get the RIGHT GOODS such as he can get here.
WHICH MAN DO YOU WANT TO BE? Do you want to belong to the class of farsighted dealers who buy their supplies where they can get THE RIGHT GOODS AT THE RIGHT PRICES at all times, or do you just want to drift along and "DO THE BEST YOU CAN," as some call it?
IT IS UP TO YOU. If you want to be right, write for the acts would be good attractions. The advent of ropers and rope jugglers would prove an innovation in that field of amusements—we think.

WONDERLAND SHOWS are contracting and booking right along now.

WILLIAM J. BLOCK, the concessionaire, is connected with the Parisian Fashion Company, New York.

E. F. CARRUTHERS: What is the name of that two-car circus that you bought while on your last trip East? If the idea is like it has been outlined to us it is a great one.

CARL LA DARE. What are you going to name that illusion pit show that you are going to have with the C. A. Wortham Exposition? How would "Magic and Magicians" do? Or Caves of Caprice?

TRY AND GET started on the right foot this season.

ELMER J. WALTERS is reported by A. A. Powers to be quite ill at his home in Lexington, Mass. The tour of The Soldier That Came Back has been called off.

CHARLES G. WILLARD'S Trip to Melodia, according to reports, will again be one of the big features of Luna Park, Coney Island.

FRANCIS WILLIAMS, of Dog, Pony and Monkey Show fame, arrived in New York recently from the West and Chicago. He is looking over the amusement field in the East.

BIG INDEPENDENT EVENTS: A number of big independent events will be held in the East this summer in order to meet certain conditions and emergencies, which is a very good idea on the part of the men who will promote them.

AMUSEMENT EXPOSITION: How is this line-up of attractions for an amusement exposition: Rudyard Ussell's Frolic, Babe Delgarian's Jerusalem, Harry Jansen's Mystery Maids, W. E. Davison's Big Eli wheel, W. A. Sange's Tankerdrome, Pawnee Bill's Pioneer Days, Capt. Louis Sorcho's Submarine Exhibition, M. M. Klass' Platform Pit Show, Samuel W. Gumpertz's Circus Side-Show, H. F. Mayne's Over the Falls, Adolph Seeman's Crystal Maze, William Glick's carousel, Arthur Wright's Aeroplane Carousel, John Coulihan's Whip, Eddie Vaughan's Stella, Carl La Dare's Panama Canal, C. W. Parker's Underground Chinatown, H. G. Wilson's Wild Animal Arena and George W. Fairley's Filipino Midgets. Wouldn't this be some line-up of attractions for the Canadian National exhibition and any other big date for that matter? Who is big enough to assemble this outfit? Speak up, all you big showmen.

HERBERT A. KLINE—Show your mettle. Why not another big enclosure like the one you had in Flint some years ago? You can do it.

GEORGE T. McCARTHY—Why? When? And with which one?

CONEY ISLAND in 1918 will have the greatest season in its history. A prediction.

PAINT AND VARNISH now so it will be hard and dry when you are ready to move on your lot.

LOUIS W. BUCKLEY is in New York busy with the Better Women Exposition, and booking a number of fireworks spectacles. He made a recent trip to Washington.

THOMAS R. FOLEY has been spending the winter in Bridgeport, Conn. He left there and came to New York January 31 en route to Cleveland. They will soon be calling him papa. He states that the coming season will again find him on the lots and back in his first love in the outdoor show game. He was once a riding device operator.

A SHOW WAGON on the streets of New York attracts just as much attention as it does in Pennyville, Ind. Some of the Levitt animal wagons made their appearance on Eighth avenue the other night en route to the Museum up on 125th street that Albert Gorman and Captain H. Perry are operating.

IF YOU CRAVE appreciation and recognition of services rendered keep it to yourself. If you depend on narrow souls to give you attention you are liable not to get it. Men are quick to forget, so don't depend on their memories. Just go right along and do your work well and in about twenty years after you are dead some one will speak well of you to your widow and children—probably. Give service. Let it go at that. The man that does not show appreciation for his fellowman's help is indeed a narrow soul.

A STOCK RUMOR. "Sells Brothers and Forepaugh Circus going out." If you want to print some news, get some news. Do not still on stock rumors that crop out annually. About all that is left of the Sells Circus is the title.

THERE WILL NO doubt be magic theaters in a number of the big parks this season. We venture one is to be in Luna Park, Coney Island, New York.

FRED McCLELLAND has the New Jersey rights for the Birth of a Nation. McClelland will no doubt have a big brand new show in one of the big parks the coming summer.

W. C. THOMPSON, Adolph Seeman and the writer met in Mack's place, New York, one Sunday night recently. Thompson insisted that Seeman put a big Crystal Maze in one of the New York cabarets. He suggested that big one from Europe that was advertised in The Billboard recently was the one to install. Seeman had one on Broadway once and made a lot of money. He promised Thompson to see about it. Cabarets looking for new things will find Crystal Maze all right at that.

EXPOSITION AND the electric plant arguments promise to be very heated ones.

H. W. CAMPBELL

Buys World at Home Fronts and Some Eschman Circus Property

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 15.—A deal was closed last week whereby H. W. Campbell became owner of the World at Home Show fronts. It is the intention of Mr. Campbell to use the fronts to make a Colonial entrance to the Midway. In addition to this the pillars will run thru the center of the Midway with specially designed electrical effects. The Midway will have the appearance of a Venetian Court. In the center will be a fountain with a group of statuary. At the far end of the Midway will be a grouping of pillars, forming a beautiful front for the big animal show. At the Eschman Circus sale Mr. Campbell purchased a group of trained lions. These will be used in conjunction with a big animal show that has been booked. In addition to the performance there will be a menagerie which will have as a feature a rhinoceros.

Work at the quarters in McAlester is progressing nicely. Supt. Al Paulsen has all the wagons finished in a bright red. The cars have also been repainted. Mr. Campbell has also added a number of draft horses. Already ten shows have been booked. There will be four rides, including a Whip. Prof. Harry Fink returns as bandmaster with an all-American band of 25 musicians. The promoters will be Mr. Bonnell and Mr. Bentley. General Agent Arthur Davis has ordered a special line of paper for the show. The opening will take place April 1, in McAlester.

WARD & DELBRIDGE SHOWS

The Ward & Delbridge Combined Shows are now rounding out the winter season in Southern Louisiana. Business has been good despite unfavorable weather conditions encountered on several occasions. Jeanerette was a banner spot for every one until late Saturday night, when rain, followed by freezing weather, was experienced. After a few stops in Oklahoma the shows will go to Nebraska, where they are generally and favorably known. Paul Stevenson, political writer and dramatic critic, formerly with The Birmingham (Ala.) News and The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, is handling the advance and is making good with a rush. The roster of shows consists of Burns and Kohl's Dog and Pony Circus, American Cabaret, Billie Streeter, manager; Congress of Athletics, Sam Sharkey, manager; African Jungleland (Ten-in-One), "Dad" Douglass, owner and manager; Ralph, the Elephant Boy; Captain Clarence Tiller, in his 100-ft. dive, free attraction, and twelve concessions. Executive staff: Johnnie B. Ward, general manager; John A. Delbridge, secretary and treasurer; Paul Stevenson, general agent; J. W. McCarthy, lot superintendent; Sailor Moss, trainmaster and electrician.

MIGHTY DORIS SHOWS

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 15.—There is no doubting the fact that before long the Mighty Doris Exposition Shows will take the road. While the temperature was hanging around the zero mark the mechanics and artists have been laboring and working just the same as if the sun was shining.

The midway for the year of 1918 will consist of sixteen paid attractions of the moral and meritorious variety, three riding devices, two brass bands, a steam calliope for parade purposes and about forty concessions. All of the fronts are hand carved, mirrored and paneled, no banners being used. Each of these are brand new and are owned outright by Mr. Brunen himself.

The company has been contracted to move by auto trucks, as was done practically all last season, but in the event of the railroads accepting shows movements will be made by railroads.

Harold Barlow, who made such a creditable showing last season as general agent, has again been engaged by Mr. Brunen to pilot the show, and is now out picking the good ones. The show will open in Pittsburg the second week in April.

HOSS-NARDER SHOWS

To Move by Auto Trucks

Cleveland, O., Feb. 16.—Owing to war conditions and the congested territory that the Hoss-Narder Shows will play this season, the management has made arrangements for practically the entire season to move by auto trucks. The route is so laid out that the longest move will not be over 25 miles.

All the shows and rides carried will be owned by the management. Contracts have been made with Jesse I. Malone to operate the Side-Show and Museum, which will have a 140-foot front. Mr. Malone will also have charge of the Pioneer Days Show. Fred Dennett will operate Hoss & Narder's Everlasting Rob Roy Girls. Arthur Montour, the Indian wrestler, will operate the Athletic Show. Among the concessioners booked are Joe Payne, with five; Charles Eightlinger, with four; E. S. Fisher with three, James Gratsinana, with dolls, bears and glassware, and many others with one and two concessions. The executive staff is complete, and Phillip Caruso's Royal Italian Band, with the show last season, has been re-engaged.

FAMOUS BROADWAY SHOWS

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 15.—The Famous Broadway Shows are being rounded into shape for their opening date at Jackson March 16. Too much praise can not be given Scenic Artist Joe Nicholson for the work he has done on all the oil painted panels, for they are sure a dream of beauty. The Broadway Minstrels (Old Plantation) will be second to none this year, with fifteen performers and Prof. Thomas with his eight-piece band. The 10-in-1 will have a 100-foot panel front with a real show behind it. The Freddie Show will be another attraction in line for first prize for its beauty. The Garden of Allah, Cabaret, Animal Show, Wonderland Show and Mysterious Show will all have new panel fronts. The riding devices will all be repainted, and Prof. Enrico Matarese will have new uniforms for his Royal Italian Band. Upside-Down Fondaw will again be the free attraction. Thomas Hanson will again be ahead of the show. Billie Clark can be seen daily in his motor car overseeing the work being done. He has just returned from New York with three trunks of wardrobe for his plantation show.—GEORGE HOWARD.

NOTES FROM LEAVENWORTH

Since the new ruling of the Fuel Commissioner of Kansas has been established, exempting factories from the general closing orders during certain days, the Parker factories are again operating full swing.

Reports from the various cantonment amusements operated by Colonel Parker show a slight increase in business of late, and the Colonel personally took a trip to Fort Worth, Tex., and there completed some new arrangements, which will certainly make his holdings at that cantonment among the foremost of all he controls.

Wade Willvers, manager of the Parker Shows, wintering at El Paso, Tex., reports rapid progress in the completion of the overhauling of the shows, which are scheduled to open February 22. A string of box cars is now being made ready, which will leave Leavenworth within the next few days and greatly augment the Parker Shows at El Paso for their opening date.

Among recent visitors at the Parker factories were Con T. Kennedy, H. S. Tyler, George Hoyk, Louis Heth, Elmer and Kirk Velaire, George Roy, R. I. Morrill and Chas. Andrews. Mr. Morrill, owner of a well-known amusement resort in the north part of Iowa, placed his carbon copy of Frank L. Albert's letter to Mr. McAdoo which was answered at once by the Director of Traffic.

February 6, 1918.

Dear Mr. Director:

As you well know there is at the present time a very considerable unrest among all theatrical, general show and circus people, as to what your attitude is regarding the transportation and the movements of such enterprises.

I represent a large majority of travelling outdoor shows, owning their own railroad equipment. These companies have [illegible] just been moving in special trains.

Thousands of people depend absolutely upon these organizations for their daily living and maintenance. They have no other vocation. We have very large overhead expenses, due to the fact that the majority of the shows lay idle during the winter months. Our operating season is shorter than in other lines of business.

Large capital is invested in real estate and buildings, railroad equipment, miscellaneous paraphernalia, live stock, other animals of various kinds, great quantities of advertising matter, and other necessary equipment. Winter quarters expenses are terrific this season, owing to the high cost of living and everything else in general. Principal items of expense are fuel, food for menagerie animals, live stock and employees, repair materials, new construction, executive staff expenses, etc.

These investments generally represent the owner's entire worldly fortune. Our shows, if given a chance, can do their bit very nicely, earning for the government their share of income taxes, excess profits taxes, admission taxes, etc., also help put in all of the various cities along their route, Red Cross benefits, and other War Charities.

I want to take this opportunity to offer gratis the expert outdoor advertising departments' service, in furthering LIBERTY LOANS, WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES campaigns, and other propaganda for the TREASURY DEPARTMENT; enlistments for the Navy, Army and New Merchant Marine; Red Cross campaigns; food and fuel propaganda; spreading broadcast copies of posters of the President's messages and proclamations, or anything else that you may suggest, that we may do our bit to "HELP WIN THE WAR."

Director General of Railroads, 2. 2/6/18.

You, of course, know, it is an undisputed fact that the circus methods of advertising are now copied extensively by all commercial firms and others who do outdoor advertising. We show folks are the originators of this class of advertising and I am very glad to offer to you, free of cost, the services of these wonderful advertising organizations, the bill posters, programmers, advertising agents and press representatives, who are now using the perfected methods gained by over 40 years of experience. All you have to do will be to furnish the advertising and printed matter. This means that every country road route throughout America will be ablaze with your posters, etc. We also offer to you the free use of the tented, park and arena enclosures, for the display of banners, signboards and demonstrative exhibitions.

We want to abide by your wishes in the movement of the trains, also as to what territory you suggest we may safely route the shows in during the coming season. Many of the shows are already booked at the State Fairs.

Will you please advise me, so that I can notify all the members of our Association, just as soon as possible, as to what we may expect from you.

Your kind, liberal and immediate consideration of this matter will be greatly appreciated by the thousands of people interested and dependent upon the shows for a living.

I will thank you in advance for a reply at your earliest convenience.

Very respectfully yours,
Frank L. Albert
Executive Secretary,

DIRECTOR GENERAL OF RAILROADS
INTERSTATE COMMERCE BUILDING
WASHINGTON

Mr. Frank L. Albert, Executive Secretary,
National Outdoor Showmen's Association,
Room 807, Raleigh Hotel,
Washington, D. C.

February 7, 1918

Dear Sir :—

Replying to your letter of February 6, addressed to the Director General of Railroads, and returning papers which you left with Mr. Fort yesterday.

It is not the intention of the Director General to interfere unnecessarily with legitimate amusements within which category certainly fall clean out-door shows.

As you realize, however, the most important function of the railways at this time is to promptly move freight needed directly or indirectly in the war activities of the Government. You know, too, that the railway lines leading to the Atlantic Seaboard are very badly congested. For this reason it is felt that circuses and other out-door amusement enterprises requiring special trains and special equipment should not book their routes for the coming season in the congested district, unless by special authorization of the Regional Directors. There is, however, no objection to the continued movement of shows outside of this restricted area.

The Director General does not wish to impose any hardship on the interests you represent and it is, of course, possible that before the Summer the situation may have cleared to a sufficient extent to warrant the lifting of this embargo, in whole or in part. I would suggest, therefore, that you keep in close touch with the Regional Directors—Messrs. A. H. Smith at New York, C. H. Markham at Atlanta, Ga., and R. H. Aishton at Chicago, Ill.

Your patriotic offer in behalf of the showmen to use their Advertising Departments in furthering war activities is most commendable and highly appreciated. That portion of your letter will be referred to the proper Department for attention.

Yours very truly,
Edward Chambers
Director of Traffic Division.

Mr. F. L. Albert,
Executive Secretary,

Raleigh Hotel, Washington, D. C.

February 9, 1918.

Dear Sir :-

Returning herewith letter addressed to you by A. H. Barkley, of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows, in which Mr. Barkley says he would like to route his show from Jacksonville to Brunswick, thence Savannah, thence Charleston or Columbia, thence Raleigh and Richmond, all in March next.

As you know, I telegraphed Mr. Markham, Regional Director at Atlanta, asking him whether there would be any objection to the Jones Shows making these jumps and he replied yesterday that there will be no difficulty in handling the show in question by special service to the points named on the dates indicated.

Yours very truly,
Edward Chambers
Director of Traffic Division.

PIPES

BY GASOLINE BILL BAKER

DREAM FROM THE PIPE OF A PITCHMAN

I have to smile, once in a while,
When I read the pipes of pitchmen.
This big noise stuff is mostly bluff
It's a dream from the pipe of pitchmen.
But it listens good, and by mistake,
This dream of gold we did not make;
It's a stimulus when we awake,
This dream from the pipe of pitchmen.
I've made a million in this game,
And will make a million more;
I can't find one for all my wealth,
So will contribute to the poor.

Come, Noble Knights, your pockets fill,
With glee they all did shout.
Cut out that stuff, it's all a bluff,
Wake up, your pipe is out.
When I awoke 'twas but a joke,
This million in my mind;
I'll go crazy, bugs and nutty,
If this million I can't find.
If you hear I'm acting strangely,
Like mere silly, gilly mutt,
You will know that I am crazy,
And have gone bugs in my nut.
—DOC C. H. CONRAD.

Who are the two brothers who are holding down the market in Brandon, Canada, with nostrums?

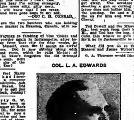
Doc Wayman is thinking of blue violets and talcum powder again in Indianapolis, after being away from that city for fifty weeks, he says so himself, even tho it meant an awful long time. Doc is now shining along with herbs and roots, which he calls Mo-Ine; of course, he hasn't forgotten the old Oriental shampoo soap. Still fighting shy of the barbers, Doc?

Hear that Harry Alsing has incorporated a company in Philadelphia. Ask Johnny Shand. Did they try to sell you some stock, Johnny?

Gerty G. W. Grace has been on the bummer at Rock Island, Ill., for some time, but is now a little better and has moved out of there.

In that noble assemblage in Muskogee, Ok., there is also a royal Roman who has been overlooked, and this same chap is Dr. Parker, who, with his wife, are better known as Daddy and Angel, of eradicator fame. Parker says New Orleans will soon be his headquarters, as he'd rather pick flowers than throw snowballs any day. Since Doc Miles has hibernated in the city of Muskogee he has taken unto himself a wife. Tell us about that elopement, Doc Miles.

COL. L. A. EDWARDS



One of the noblest veterans of the old days, who contributed a character to the profession that blends well with the best. Doc Murdock tells something of this oldtimer in this issue.

Joe Wilson, the Southern Gentleman, is now holding forth in New Orleans with the famed steel. What did you say the new name was, Joe? And George Regan is there, too, playing the role of Gentleman of Leisure in the great play of Life.

Doc any more inspiration, Doc Haslet? Would like to have something for the Spring Special from you.

We are sorry to learn that Jack Goodman's wife, Effie, is seriously ill with scarlet fever. She would like to hear from her friends. She can be addressed General Delivery, Oklahoma City, Ok.

Dwight Wilcox, the merry old devil, while nosing around in McAlester the other day, took a little walk down to the depot and saw his old friends, Billy Emer and wife, whom he had not seen in ten years. Billy is working notions. In the old days Wilcox and Emer worked together, that was when Wilcox had the top and Billy worked the door. One Moran says he's on the wagon, Dwight, so tight that even Kimmel won't fease him. Wilcox, ask Moran about the time he, Sayler and Whitman had a little session. It reads like a novel.

We are going to get a story. Aye, aye, sir, a dark, mysterious story by Len. Williams. List: "I am going to tell you about my opera house show. The night next to closing, on December 31, it all happened. It was 7:45, all ready to start the opera, when out went all the electric lights in the town. Small town, no lamps to be bought. The Great Arnolds, who was working for me, always carries two lamps. We borrowed one, set it in front of the curtain and with a packed and jammed house waited forty-five minutes, then went out and bought three dozen large candles to be used for footlights and distributed them along the 'bog trough' and commenced the show. As I had a contest coming off the following night I was anxious to get to those natives. Up went the curtain, and out went all the candles. The suction of the curtain left us again in darkness. So again the candles were lighted, but this time with a raised curtain, and so near the Dancing League. They worked by candle light. I made my lecture just the same, and as I was finishing all the lights came on again." Len, who by the way is the nimrod of the profession, is at present out with the "dog and gun" in Britton, Ok., daring anything with fur or feathers to show up.

Guy Neff, the amiable little fellow, who is quartermaster sergeant of the Quartermaster Corps, at Camp Merritt, N. J., has been given a commission as second lieutenant of the National Army. However, he hasn't been ordered to duty yet, and his old address is still good. This proves that the boys in the game have the material, no matter in what line they happen on. Guy says that when we have the Kaiser licked he is coming back and will appear with a great outfit, a million-dollar front and three thousand clutch pencils, a tin lizzie and everything.

Heard that Doc Haslet and the family are still camping in the wilds of Oklahoma, and that Doc fell and broke a rib, and the rabbit got away. The accident prevents Doc from shooting a gun or cutting wood. Doc says the latter does not bother him, but he hates to miss the hunting. He and a big preacher wielding the ax for him and was paying him in Wild Cherry.

Ted Powell and the Missus blew into Atlanta, Ga., last week from their home in Rock Island, Ill., and Ted has the bug, too. Says he'll get to Cuba this winter to give it a tryout or bust. He'll be in Jacksonville in a week or so.

What did you do to the telescope, Walter Hanson and Jasme Wyber? Wise boys, those.

C. A. Thurmer would like to hear from Harry Hoyle, Ed Friedenburg, Clarence Perry, Jack Searles and the rest of the bunch. Doc is now settled comfortably at 335 Hubbard avenue, Elgin, Ill.

Did you ever know that Al Shields was a Y. M. C. A. worker? Them was the good old days. That is, Al says, when he was selling Pari-Mutuel machines.

Birdie Simms and Mrs. Cochran aren't in it as pinochle players with Will Reese and Mrs. C. A. Thurmer. Where's your laurels, Mrs. Bush?

C. Edw. Williams, the lightning calculator man, has been chased all over the South by the snow and ice. He left St. Louis for Jackson, Tenn., to try to get away, but it followed him, then on to Memphis was his battle cry, and again the enemy surrounded him, and Williams says he'll be hornswoggled if he will surrender if he has to go to South Africa.

Doc Garner—How was the pitch you made to Hamilton a few months ago? Talk about century days being in the past, here is a worker who runs over the century mark every once in a while.

Ask Doc Thurmer what he was doing the time the old man came and asked if the house was on fire.

Lewis, of Cement Fame—How did the Missus make out in the Montreal store?

George Tarbox, of circus fame, was seen wading thru the snow to catch a train west out of Oklahoma City, Ok., the other day.

Ask Bill Reese what he brought home from Rock Island.

When Al Shields gets a thirst he gets it—and, boy, he gets what he goes after, too. Get him to tell you how he burned up the roads hunting an oasis.

The picture gracing the Pipes column this week is from the collection of the Murdock Brothers. Speaking of it Doc Murdock says: "Do any of the oldtimers in the early days of the Oregon Indian Medicine Company ever remember going into main office at Corry, Pa.? If you did you will remember this instance. First came Col. Edwards, with his cork leg, who greeted you with his genial smile, who next introduced you to Donald McKay, who was shot thru both legs during the battle in the Lava Bed Modoc war, who next introduced you to the bookkeeper, who's name I've forgotten, who had a very bad case of palsy. The Colonel would remark with a smile, 'This is the office force of the Edwards Hospital.' Many an old timer can remember the time when he woke up with a head bigger than a balloon to find himself canned, show left town, and he would say, 'Me for Edwards' Hospital.' He always knew he was good for an order from the Colonel on the hotel for a week's board. One time in the early days I was making a town after contracting the hall, also making the hotel. I was informed that there was a town license for medicine shows of $25 a day. After spending half a day talking to a very hostile Mayor that the license was exorbitant and that the company was in town there was nothing doing.

MENTION US, PLEASE—THE BILLBOARD.

So I sent the following telegram to Col. Edwards: "Town license twenty-five dollars a day. What shall I do?" In a few hours a reply came back COLLECT: "Ste the town.'"

Joe Marks—Are you still in Vancouver, B. C., or are you in business with your father?

READERS—We're going to put out a humdinger book this time, boys. If you have any dope for it rush it along, for we are going to press in a week or so. This is going to be the grand Spring Drive for the biggest season yet, and you'll need a reader hand in your kick, to kick in with the readers.

The gladdest news we have hit yet is to know that Doc and Fay Watson are doing pretty well in Jacksonville, Fla. Doc has been giving the medicos cause to pay the income tax for some time, but he is feeling better. They will come North pretty soon.

Doc Fady—What is it, razor hones again this year? Remember the Toronto Fair in the Live Stock Building?

The bunch around Oklahoma City are pretty cushy—a gentle zephyr whispers it would take a mighty gentle one to whisper anything like that.

Here's one that may happen to you any time: Billy Arbor was routing a one-horse wagon show thru the New England States, and got a reply from one well meaning old Reuben on a piece of faded and antique wall paper, saying that in April and May their open time was almost the same time as usual, open at 7 o'clock, 'except prayer meetin' nites we don't ugin atall."

Dr. Bob Ward and wife have returned to Texas from their trip North, where they spent the holidays and are back on their old job getting the coin.

There is only one kind of advice that is any good, and that is the kind you follow yourself.

Billy Sheldon is getting his while the getting is good. Still in Long Branch, N. J., managing the Arcade Hotel. But the call of the tripes will get him shortly, he says. Bill says they are falling too easy to the big bury for him to lay around and see someone else nab it.

That merry old chap, Harry Daley, is now exploiting the merits of a steam motor concern's stock, and has been jumping around the country wild and furious. From last reports he is back in Chicago after a big deal in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shaufler, who have been down in St. Louis demonstrating pokes, returned to Detroit and will open up as soon as the weather permits. While in Detroit Frank bought a dandy touring car and expects to drive it to Dayton so he can show the natives what he has been doing with the B. R. that he made the past winter. Frank has five stands in the park there.

Oi yoi, listen to this boy, it's H. B. Gilman, the boy who tackles anything from sugars to med. He's ensconced (nice word) in all the regal luxury that wealth can afford, and he also is in Detroit. List to these words, and go thou and do likewise: "No, Alphonse, I would not commit myself by putting in black and white the exact amount of yellow boys we have hid away under the carpet in the attic because I might have to make good to some of the gang around Detroit who are all peddling diamonds this winter (that's a fact, they have each got a bank roll that a dog can't jump over), so if I lose that sawbuck it's the county farm for mine." That guy speaks a bounteous language, ooh.

The Billboard Publishing Co.,
25-27 Opera Place,
Cincinnati, O.

Gentlemen—We have been a regular reader and advertiser in The Billboard FOR YEARS.

We have been boosting your Billboard and sending you subscribers and advertisers ever since your paper was printed. We can not afford to miss a single issue. That is what we think of The Billboard.

Our work now is mostly in Philadelphia and nearby towns.

In our opinion The Billboard is the World's Greatest Paper; just what all branches of the show world needs.

Fraternally yours,

HOW TO GET RICH

J. Pierpont Morgan said the secret of how to get rich was to reinvest all dividends of stocks, bonds and partnership profits. This was merely advice to seek compound interest investments. If you have Liberty Bond coupons coming due, or your regular dividends are maturing, resolve to reinvest the income in War-Savings Stamps. These draw four per cent interest compounded quarterly. Thus will your money be made to do double duty and the war chest kept filled.

Remember the secret—invest the interest your money earns!

VARIETY AND THE SHOW WORLD

The prototype of The Billboard in the antipodes is now the recognized organ of the exhibitors of Australia and New Zealand, and the best advertising medium for

MOVING PICTURE PRODUCERS AND DISTRIBUTORS

It also deals briefly with Drama, Circuses, Fairs, Parks and Racing. Acts playing Australia may have their letters addressed to "Variety" office, which insures a prompt dispatch over the various circuits, as we have a representative in every city and town that carries a theatre. Advertising rates on application to The Billboard. All communications to all letters addressed to Australia should bear 5c in stamps for each half ounce or fraction thereof

BRENNAN & KERR, - 250 Pitt Street, Sydney, Australia

THIS LIST IS THE MEDIUM

that brings performers and independent managers together. It is your booking agent, and works absolutely without cost, excepting the time spent in sending the proper data to insure the theater being listed in these columns. The Billboard keeps the list as nearly correct as it is possible to do, and performers and managers are requested to send in corrections as occasions arise. Forty-one of the United States are represented in this list at present, and four of the Canadian provinces. Your aid in adding new houses to the list, and in keeping it corrected up to date, will be appreciated. It is of inestimable value to all concerned.

Put the American Theatrical Hospital on Your Salary List

Every company should feel responsible for the treatment and care of members of his company who fall ill while in his employ. WE will take care of them free of charge, but YOU will feel better if you have the right to send them to us.

You obtain that right by placing us on your payroll for as low as $2 per week. Address

DR. MAX THOREK,
Care of American Theatrical Hospital
CHICAGO, ILL.

GET ON THE VAUDEVILLE STAGE
I tell you how! Fascinating profession. Big salaries. Experience unnecessary. Splendid engagements always waiting. Opportunity for travel. Theatrical agents endorse my methods. Thirty years experience as both manager and performer. Illustrated book, "All About Vaudeville," FREE. Send 6 cents postage and state age and occupation.

EXCELLENT RESULTS

Read the following letter from one of our pleased patrons:

1930 Washington Street, Boston, Jan. 18, 1918.

The Billboard Pub. Co.,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed please find my check for $5.00 to cover renewal of Trades Directory advertisement for the first six months. I also wish to express my indebtedness, to give my view in regard to the EXCELLENT RESULTS I have received from Trades Directory advertising in The Billboard during the past several years. I have been using classified advertising for nearly twenty years in many publications, but to my surprise I have found that your Trades Directory Department has brought me better results than any other publication I have ever used.

Respectfully yours,
L. S. KALLAJIAN.

BE A CAPITALIST ON $4.13

When you buy one of the U. S. Government's War-Savings Stamps you make the kind of investment capitalists are anxious to get.

There's not a doubt but that moneyed men would soon take all the issue of War-Savings Stamps if they could. With the payment of the interest and principal guaranteed by the honor and resources of this nation and an interest rate of 4 per cent compounded four times a year, no other investment offer is quite so attractive as this.

But the Government wants its War-Savings Certificates to be owned by the millions of Americans. That's why it says that no person can hold more than $1,000 worth (maturity value) of these "little baby bonds." That's why the stamps are in small denominations.

You can buy a War-Savings Stamp in February for $4.13, in March for $4.14, and so on until December of this year, when the price will be $4.23. You can buy Government Thrift Stamps for 25 cents each. They will help people save many a quarter and may be used in the purchase of the interest-bearing War Savings Stamps. Both denominations are tax free.

Start today to be an investor, a capitalist. We Americans need the saving habit. Uncle Sam is giving us right now the best chance in the world to get it. The money we lend will help win the war.

The stamps are on sale at banks, post offices and stores. Buy some today.

LA BARR QUITS ROAD

Frank La Barr has decided to give up the road, and has opened the Thomesse Hotel Annex at 120 N. Fifth street, Steubenville, O. He has fifty rooms, all up-to-date, and hopes to see all his friends when passing thru Steubenville. So far the venture has proven a success. Mr. La Barr was with Brown's Greater Shows last season.

BERNARDI EXPOSITION CO.

Palo Alto, Cal., Feb. 14.—The Bernardi Greater Exposition Company closed a successful season in Palo Alto, and while it was the intention of Mr. Bernardi to have the rides and some of the shows run to entertain the soldiers at Camp Fremont the weather conditions were unfavorable, and it was deemed inadvisable. Instead he put a force of men to work, with the result that he has three brand new hand-carved wagon fronts for this year.

George Embree has signed a contract for the dining car, and has a crew of men building a new show for him, which will be booked with the Bernardi trick; also several concessions. W. A. Miller has his three rides looking like new, and has once again cast his lot with Bernardi. Sam Brown has also signed up, and Harry Howard, as usual, will manage some concessions.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. (Red) Merton have also signed up, and Bernardi is giving Red one of those new wagon fronts. He will have between fifteen and twenty people. Dan Meggs has also closed with the Bernardi—no, and a '49 Camp. At the present time Dan is sojourning in Honolulu. Pat. Stathe is another who has booked with the show, and has made many improvements on his attraction. Mrs. Bernardi will have a pit show and has just purchased an organ.

In addition to two bands Bernardi has just purchased a fine motor car with a calliope to make tours of the small towns. He sold two cars last week, but they have been replaced with three new ones never before used in the show business. W. C. (Spike) Huggins is gumshoeing around, and has already booked some very good spots. The staff remains the same as last year. The show will open in March, and there will be three riding devices, fourteen shows and thirty concessions.—M. B.

DEAFY WILSON ENLISTS

Deafy Wilson, the water clown, who has been with W. H. Rice for the past four years, is now serving the colors, having enlisted. He is at Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville, Fla., R. C., No. 5, Q. M. C.

WESTERN AMUSEMENT CO.

The Western Amusement Co., according to present plans, will open at Neosho, Mo., about April 20, with two rides, four paid attractions, a free act, an eight-piece band and about twelve concessions. L. R. McBride is general manager of the show. Mr. and Mrs. Brock McBride have been motoring thru Texas and Louisiana for Sadie's health, which is much improved.

DAVIS' "ROCKY GULCH"

Arthur Davis has demonstrated to agents and promoters in the Middle West it is not necessary but idleness to prevail during the lay-off period. While others have attempted indoor affairs, press agenting individuals and jumping out ahead of pictures and theatrical attractions that hardly remain out long enough to get their second wind, Arthur nicks the buds with his novel "Rocky Gulch" spectacle. Many clubs in Chicago are still talking of the joy qualities of the show and the money-making values.

Last week in Battle Creek, Mich., three floors of the Elks' Temple were converted into a scenic mining camp of the Golden West in the early days. The temple was beautifully decorated inside and out. J. C. Wodetsky spent two weeks in advance of the show, pounding and newspaper stories and advertising generally in the minds of the natives of the city and the thousands of soldiers of Camp Custer.

SALISBURY WITH ZARRA

Nef Salisbury, the oldtime treasurer of the Clark & Conklin caravan, and who for many winters has been connected with William Brady in promotion work, will be and the coming season in the interests of Joe Zarra's Greater Monarch Shows.

SILKOLINE HAT CORDS

New York, Feb. 16.—H. J. Levine & Bro., 167 Madison avenue, have introduced something new in soldiers' hat cords that is of interest to amusement workers. To meet the demand of the men in the ranks for a hat cord finer in appearance than the cotton regulation this firm is manufacturing hat cords of silkoline. Camp workers find them very profitable, and the soldiers seem very well pleased.

NOTES FROM LEAVENWORTH

order for a splendid 1918 style three-horse-abreast carry-us-all while here. Edw. D. McMahon, of Pittsburg, Pa., and also placed an order for a carry-us-all for immediate delivery.

The Colonel has just added another splendid team of bays to his stock and has also purchased another brood of leghorns.

The new 1918 issues of The Bedouin are now in course of preparation, and it is the opinion of all that they will be even more attractive than those which appeared in 1917.

stick or hobbled, the better for the contest game, the better for the men bronk riders, and, in fact, the better for the ladies themselves. I am writing this because I'm a booster for frontier contests, but if the lady bronk riders are allowed to go on as they have in the past I'm sure it is going to hurt the whole works. Trusting you will publish this, as I'm sure many will agree with me that the coming season is the time to remedy defects. Do it now, folks, before it's too late. Don't 'kill the goose that laid the golden egg.'"

PATHE ADOPTS NEW METHOD FOR HANDLING OF SERIAL

Novelty Introduced in Manner of Placing The House of Hate Before Exhibitors—Production Is Confidently Expected To Make New Record for Serials

New York, Feb. 16.—A new method of handling a serial will be instituted by Pathe in the releasing on March 3 of The House of Hate, starring Pearl White and Antonio Moreno.

The practical business brains of the big distributing organization, under the direction of J. A. Berst, vice-president and general manager, are concentrated on putting this picture, made by the cleverest serial producing brains in the industry, before the exhibitors of the country in a way which retains the good points of the old systems and introduces others, which, from long experience, Pathe has learned.

Prints of the first episodes are being shipped to the thirty branch offices, where showings preceded by a special reel will be arranged by the line managers of Pathe's sales force, and Mr. Berst issued this statement:

"I sincerely believe The House of Hate will outdraw The Iron Claw two to one, and it has been conceded that The Iron Claw played in more theaters in the United States than any other one picture. I believe The House of Hate will make more money for exhibitors than fifteen releases of a feature program. During my trip to the Coast and back many exhibitors have told me that Pathe serials make more money for them than the average feature, and The House of Hate is bigger and better than anything we have had."

The Pathe organization has released seventeen serial and series hits, including the biggest successes ever had in this form of picture, such as The Exploits of Elaine, The Perils of Pauline, The Iron Claw, Pearl of the Army, The Fatal Ring, The Red Circle and many others. Thru her appearance in the first five named of this series Pearl White has become the greatest serial star in the world, and has probably made more money for exhibitors than any other.

When The Iron Claw was released few realized to the full the possibilities of the serial, and the result was that while it played to over $5,000,000 many exhibitors have stated that if they themselves had foreseen the success Pearl White would make in this serial they would have played it up bigger and made even greater profits for their houses.

Mr. Berst has set the release date of The House of Hate for March 3, because this means big business for exhibitors following Lent, which ends March 31.

VIRGINIA CENSORSHIP

State Branch of A. E. A. Putting Up Good Fight Against It

Richmond, Va., Feb. 16.—The drastic motion picture censorship bill, introduced to the Virginia General Assembly two weeks ago, is now on its second reading in the House of Delegates, where its passage seems inevitable within a week. Able counsel employed by the Virginia Exhibitors' League, of which Jake Wells is president, succeeded in getting slight modifications to the oppressive measure when the bill was given a hearing by the Senate Committee, the one essential advantage gained being an amendment fixing the fee to be exacted on each film at $1 instead of $2, and on duplicates at 50 cents instead of $1.

Passage of this bill forebodes the imposing of similar laws on the motion picture art and industry in all Southern States, it being a time-honored custom with uplifters in the Southern States to follow a lead of this character set by Virginia.

L. & T. FEEL PINCH

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Because Lubliner & Trinz are operating under exceptionally heavy expenses (some of their many Chicago houses averaging individual expenditures of nearly $300 per day) the present slump in outside-the-loop exhibitors' returns is hitting this energetic concern exceptionally hard. The firm maintains double shifts of operators and symphony orchestras, which greatly augments expenses. The only theater in the chain that is showing normal returns, despite all handicaps, is Covent Garden, which was originally intended as a home for lighter musical comedy, but which came into the hands of the exhibiting syndicate when the enterprise failed.

PETTIJOHN PLEASED

With Co-Operation Shown in Direct Sales Plan

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The success of the "Producers to Exhibitors Direct" plan was assured when the local Allied Exhibitors, forgetting petty squabbles, got together at Wednesday's special meeting and unanimously pledged the Illinois quota.

C. C. Pettijohn showed the immense savings that would result from the plan and detailed all its workings. He laid particular stress upon the satisfactory manner in which exhibitors have adopted it in other districts. He suggested that the bonus accruing from the elimination of exchange profits be devoted to strengthening the local corporation handling the films. "There has been far too much featuring of stars," he declared, "and I guess you know your patrons are sick of seeing big stars backed by poor plays." He paid a high tribute to the caliber of the eight producers (Herbert Brenon, Shubert-Hammerstein-Ince, Rapf's Triumph, The Lillian Walker Company, Rialto Company and Lawrence Weber), and told how exhibitors were praising the refreshing variance from hackneyed presentations shown in The Passing of the Third Floor Back.

Tom Hamlin, of Minneapolis, interrogated the speaker regarding paper conservation, when Pettijohn explained that the producers would contract for paper according to the wishes of the exhibitors.

The first-run problem came up for considerable discussion, but no great difficulty is anticipated, as it is believed that the exhibitors supporting the plan will readily find a basis for settling all minor questions.

Pettijohn impressed those present with the fact that the strength of the proposition was what brought all factions of exhibitors together, even reconciling Joseph Hopp (president of the local chapter of the M. P. E. L. of A.) and Louis Frank (treasurer of the M. P. T. O. A.), two orders which have been opposed to each other ever since the historic "bolting" of the convention last summer.

Hopp made a stirring address, beginning by referring to the fact that he was present only as an individual, and pointing out that the action of exhibitors in securing control of the exchange end was the only economy within their power to effect that they had not yet practiced. He compared the proposition to the action of the Government in securing control of the railroads. "The only salvation is co-operation," he declared, after pointing out that the business was facing very bad conditions.

Louis Frank, when called upon, said he thought the only thing remaining was for exhibitors to sign up as rapidly as possible.

In conformance with a motion passed, Pettijohn appointed Hopp, Frank, Corbett, Cooper, Burford, Hainey and Robins (of Peoria, Ill.) as a committee on organization, provided with power to determine means for determining a plan for distributing the films to the Illinois quota (which was predetermined at 188 days of rental).

Harry Rapf addressed the exhibitors from the producers' angle and satisfied the curious by pointing to some of the famous releases which came from the men now collaborating with the exhibitors.

PUBLICITY MAN JOINS COLORS

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 16.—J. L. Hilman, publicity director of the Pittsburg branch of the Harris P. Wolfberg attractions, resigned his position to enter the service of Uncle Sam. Edgar Wolfberg, brother of Harris P. Wolfberg, enlisted several months ago and has already received several promotions. He is now a member of the aviation corps.

George Oldfield, who has been connected with the Kleine Film Exchange in Pittsburg for some time, has been made manager of the local branch, succeeding Oscar Krugh, who has joined the company's road forces.

FINLEY STARTS

New York, Feb. 16.—Ned Finley has formed a company here to produce short length outdoor stories under the name of Finley Films. Wm. L. Case Russell has agreed to furnish the Finley concern with scenarios at the rate of one every two weeks, and has already turned out the first one, which is entitled The Return of O'Gary, and which will be made in Los Angeles. Finley was formerly actor and director for Vitagraph.

DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

Incorporated by Frank A. Keeney's Organization

New York, Feb. 16.—In preparation for the marketing of the products of the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation, articles of incorporation have been filed for the Frank A. Keeney Distributing Corporation. Keeney is president, Roy C. Owens secretary, treasurer and general manager, and Meyer C. Goldman general counsel. The distributing company will handle directly the territory comprising New York State, New Jersey and New England and will probably State-right the rest of the country. It will have its headquarters in New York, with offices in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and other cities.

A Romance of the Underworld, which is to be the first release of the Frank A. Keeney Pictures Corporation, is now nearing completion at the Biograph Studios. It will be a six reeler. The films have already been insured for $50,000.

Scenes from the new production which have been shown in the projection room of the studio building indicate that the finished product will do great credit to the director, James Kirkwood, and also to the cast, which includes, besides Catherine Calvert, David Powell, formerly leading man for Mary Pickford, Edna Goodrich, Ann Murdock and Olive Tell; Eugene O'Brien, who has played opposite Norma Talmadge in some of her most important pictures, and Edwin Forsberg, who played leads in a number of important screen works.

BACK IN EXCHANGE GAME

New York, Feb. 16.—Ben Title, the well-known exhibitor and proprietor of the T. N. F. Theater, in Flatbush, Brooklyn, and formerly of the Imperial Film Exchange, has gone back into the exchange business. He has opened offices at 220 W. Forty-second street and will handle for the State of New York the Jester Comedies, featuring Twede-Dan.

RALPH INCE ENGAGED

New York, Feb. 16.—Following the completion last week of The Life Mask, the third production in which Madame Olga Petrova will appear as the star of her own organization, announcement was made that a director for the fourth Petrova picture had been selected. The man who will hold the directorial reins over the fourth production on Madame Petrova's special release calendar is Ralph Ince.

EUROPEAN RIGHTS SOLD

Big Deal Perfected for Grain of Dust

New York, Feb. 16.—One of the biggest deals, from a monetary standpoint, transacted in the State-right field for some time past, was consummated last week when the firm of European distributors, the Robertson-Cole Company, bought outright the Crest Pictures Corporation's film version of David Graham Phillips' widely read novel The Grain of Dust, for distribution in all foreign countries.

At the same time the European interests entered into a contract with Carle E. Carlton, president of Crest Pictures, for the foreign rights of all the pictures produced by the Crest organization.

It is said that a record cash price was paid by the Robertson-Cole Company for The Grain of Dust, who feel that, notwithstanding the present conditions abroad, the picture possesses such drawing power as to insure a very substantial return upon it.

BIG BOY SCOUT FEATURE

Universal Preparing for Big Campaign

New York, Feb. 16.—Universal is preparing for a big campaign in co-operation with the Boy Scouts of America for a five-part, two-reels to an episode, Boy Scout serial, Boy Scouts to the Rescue, or Aids of the Nation, produced in England under the supervision of Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, Chief Scout and founder of the British Boy Scouts, and in fact the father of the world's scout movement.

The aid and co-operation of the Boy Scouts of America, with its 300,000 boys and 75,000 adults, divided into 13,000 troops thruout the country, will be provided exhibitors, showing the serial and the enthusiastic boosting of the Boy Scouts is assured in getting other boys and adults not members of the organization to see each episode.

AS THE EXHIBITOR SEES IT

Under this caption we propose to publish the views and expressions of opinion of exhibitors from all parts of the country. We confidently believe that the personal and candid opinions of representative exhibitors as to the present status of the motion picture industry, and especially suggestions for the betterment of present conditions affecting them, will be read and appreciated by exhibitors everywhere.

Will YOU do your part by sending us a brief right-to-the-point expression of your views, together with a short summary of conditions as they obtain in your locality? Your co-operation in this connection will result to the mutual advantage of all exhibitors reading this column.

Your letter will be published in the order in which it is received as space in this department permits.

Leesburg, O., Feb. 12, 1918.

Photoplay Editor The Billboard,
Cincinnati, O.

Dear Sir—This is merely a letter of appreciation from one of the "Eighty Per Cent," who has been a faithful reader of The Billboard, and who heartily concurs in your views of the business as it is at present.

Incidentally I have a grievance—not much to be sure. It is this: "All winter long the big exhibitors in the cities have been yelping about bad conditions, closing orders, etc., with never a thought of the little fellow who has been all along carrying a far heavier load in proportion to his business than has the big exhibitor.

My case is not unusual, with the exception of the last blow. Look at it and then tell me whether the big chaps have all the causes for yelping.

During the past four months I have been dark for three nights, due to shows not arriving; four nights I lost on account of storms making it absolutely impossible for people to get to the theater. Had to close up and stay in the theater all night each time.

Then the closing law hit me and I had to give up one of my best nights and open up on Monday night. You know what Monday night is in the small town. Everybody goes to bed to recover from their terrible dissipation of Saturday and Sunday evenings. The stores all being closed there is nothing to draw them down street and the few workmen who are released are not enough to affect this.

Now, about the time that weather conditions grow favorable I am closed up altogether for one week (maybe more) on account of smallpox quarantine, a very mild form that has been around all winter and which amounted to nothing, not one person being seriously ill. However, the State Board deemed it best to close the schools and churches, and, of course, my house. They promise to lift this next Saturday, the 16th, if no more cases develop. But you can realize what this will do to my house for the next month.

I honestly believe that I have about as good a cause to complain about the season as anyone, but I want to say that this is emphatically not a kick, I simply want the other fellows to cut it out. I am holding on and praying for nice weather. Why can't they? It don't help matters any to make the whole world look blue. Let 'em be cheerful, conditions are bound to react soon.

How about it?

Sincerely,

C. B. KING.

The Board of Police Commissioners in West Warwick, R. I., has voted to compel the moving picture theaters in that town to have a uniformed officer in each house there. The order takes effect immediately. Theater men are objecting because of the increased expense, but the police believe it necessary to maintain the morale of the neighborhood.

Since the private showing of Wharton's master serial, The Eagle's Eye, by Chief Wm. J. Flynn, at the Strand Theater, New York, the producers have been flooded with applications for the film. The fact that the various incidents, including the sinking of the Lusitania, and the amazing revelations of German intrigue in this country are based upon the private knowledge of Chief Flynn, gives an undoubted authenticity to the picture. It is unquestionably the patriotic picture of today.

Senator Cotillo has introduced in the New York State Senate a bill to add a new section to the Penal Law by providing that the provisions against the attendance of children at moving pictures shall not apply in New York City to children under sixteen unaccompanied by parent or guardian between the hours of three and six in the afternoon, provided a suitable separate part of the theater is set apart for their exclusive use in charge of a female attendant to be supplied by the bureau of licenses.

Comfort to the patrons seems to be the rule at the Castle Square Theater, Boston. The newly opened tea room is one evidence of this. Some months ago reconstruction of the restaurant in the corner of the theater building began, the wall was broken thru into the lobby of the theater, rugs were placed on the floors, tables and easy chairs scattered about, and now ladies who enter the theater at any time find awaiting them a pleasant, comfortable room in which to meet their friends and take a cup of tea as guests of the management. The waiting room has become very popular and is an added feature to the Castle Square.

The Woodmen of the World has erected a theater at Touchet, Wash., and is operating it only one night a week at present, due principally to the recent [illegible] in train service, which made it almost impossible to secure films from the Seattle exchanges.

The new $125,000 Majestic Theater being built in Tulsa, Ok., is going rapidly toward completion after over a month's delay caused by the worst weather in the history of that section. D. F. McCarthy, owner, and B. F. Rothstein, manager, expect to open it by the middle of April. A $25,000 pipe organ is being built in California for the house, which will be devoted to feature photoplays. While the Majestic has the Triangle and Goldwyn contracts and recently signed for Pathe's new features it is a free lance house and doesn't tie up to any one company. Within the Law, Vitagraph's big special, has just closed a three-day engagement at the Majestic, playing to immense business.

The Elmwood moving picture theater, Buffalo, is using books of tickets containing ten admissions as follows: Ten seventeen-cent tickets, $1.70; ten eleven-cent tickets, $1.10.

With general offices at 506 Sprague avenue, Spokane, The Titian Feature Photoplay Company has been incorporated under the laws of the State of Washington. J. Don Alexander is president of the concern. The other officials are Eugene De Smeth, vice-president; R. E. Massey, treasurer; H. G. Twomey, secretary.

The successful showman of today is the one who is a real live wire, always looking for something better for his patrons and always getting up new advertising stunts that will get the crowds coming his way. You can't expect the crowd to come to your show unless you get out and advertise what you have, and do it in style. Get up some new stunt that will get them, and when they come to your theater they know they are going to get something new and better than was ever shown there before. Are you that kind of an exhibitor, or a deadhead, who sits and expects business to come to him without going out to get it? No, friend exhibitor, you will never make a success of a theater doing this. You want to get the idea that "nothing is too good for your patrons." Get the best of service. You may say that you can't afford to run a better line of films than you are running now, but you can, and that way is to be a real live wire showman and get out and do some mighty fall advertising. Have your operator try to get better results on the screen, keep his machines in A 1 shape, have a real live doorman, who don't stand outside and try to hold up the building. Have him look alive—that's what gets the business. Try it once and see the results. I have been in the show business for the past seven years and always had the best of success, because I always try to have a little better picture, a better lobby display and better advertising stunts. My advice is to try it, friend exhibitor, and watch the results.—W. Trout.

A series of one-reel comedies, on the order of Peck's Bad Boy, under the caption, It, will be be put out by the Dobelt Film Corporation, White City, Seattle, beginning February 15. It is planned to release a picture a month in this series.

In the Begin the Day With a Smile column in The Knickerbocker Press of Albany, N. Y., the engaging grin of Fred Elliott, the movie man of that city, was published as a shining example of radiance.

The First National Exhibitors' Circuit is quietly, tho effectively, taking a firm hold on some of the best producing firms in the country.

In Los Angeles T. L. Tally, one of the most active members of the organization, and the man who swung the Chaplin deal, is visiting the Los Angeles studios every week, with a view of purchasing some of the features which are to be sold outright by various producing firms.

Frank Hookailo of Gordon's Olympia, Boston, is giving the public what it wants in the way of a good show, and capacity business is being done at this house. Last week this exhibitor showed Empty Pockets as the feature along with a news weekly and comedy films. This is one house that is not afraid to advertise and let them know what the theater has to offer by means of posters and signs. Only a blind man could pass the Olympia without being attracted by the sign over the entrance, which was 20x30 in size, advertising Empty Pockets.

With offices in the Empire State Building, Spokane, Wash., the Allied Film Corporation has been incorporated under the State laws with a capital of $50,000. The incorporators are Charles B. Dreyer, Robert D. Mulligan and S. J. Bernard. Dreyer was with the Chief Seattle Film Company, White City, Seattle, last season.

Letter from W. B. Martin, owner of the Badger Theater, Neillsville, Wis., reads: "We have already advanced our prices to ten and twenty cents, but we supplemented this with advertising in the newspapers and on the house program, explaining that the two-cent ticket tax was not all the increase the we had to pay, telling of the reel tax, the war tax on express, both incoming and outgoing, the theater license, etc. We have had few complaints on account of the raise. The cold weather in this part of the country, of course, mitigates against attendance at this time of the year. We do not regard the outlook as particularly bad, considering the somewhat uncertain state of all kinds of business, and the picture theaters. It is not likely in our opinion that these extra taxes will be continued long after the war is ended, which we all hope will be soon after the good old American boys get into action with their aeroplanes and machine guns. We thoroly appreciate The Billboard and consider it an indispensable in our business."—W. B. Martin.

Sig. Samuels and Millard Patterson, managers of the Criterion Theater, Atlanta, Ga., made a ten strike when they secured The Birth of a Nation and presented it for the first time at popular prices. Several managers shook their heads and said, "Played out." The first week 31,000 people paid admissions, and so great was the demand that the theater was opened at 8:30. They have contracted for Griffith's Intolerance.

Rose Tapley of the Vitagraph forces made a tour of the Philadelphia picture houses last week and made an address to the audiences on value of the patrons expressing to the management of the houses their opinion of the photoplay they had seen. She said the various managers would by this method know the taste of the audience and the value of the picture. She told a little story during the address, causing much merriment, and was received with much applause at each house visited.

Feature pictures shown at the leading Toronto (Can.) houses last week were: The Allen, Pauline Frederick, in Mrs. Dane's Defense; Shea's Hippodrome, The Painted Doll; Loew's, Norma Talmadge, in The Ghosts of Yesterday; Strand, The Fall of The Romanoffs, and the Regent, Bessie Barriscale, in Madam Who.

John Carter, of the oldtime musical act, has doubled with Ross and they are now running the picture house at Winter, Wis., and teaching the band there.

W. Trout, the projection expert, has just installed two machines in the picture house at Morrison, Ok. Trout has met with big success in both Oklahoma and Kansas improving projection.

A letter from Forrest C. Templin, of the Royal Theater and Theatorium at Portland, Ind., says: "I shall very soon give you an article for the Exhibitors' Column, and as we have had some strenuous obstacles to overcome in this city this winter I think it will be of interest to brother exhibitors to know how they were brought about." Good for you, Templin; touch off the cannon. We're on the anxious seat.

The Dreamland Theater, Oklahoma City, Ok., has raised its admission price from five to fifteen cents. Most all of the picture theaters there have raised their prices and are doing better business.

C. C. Stewart has taken over the management of the Empress Theater, Tecumseh, Ok., and will show Mutual Pictures. Stewart is from Oklahoma City and is well known to the business.

The Majestic Theater Symphony Orchestra of Columbus, O., is one of the finest musical organizations of its kind in America. A concert was given at Camp Sherman last Tuesday, when the house was closed, and the soldier boys gave it an ovation. The orchestra is under the direction of Buel B. Risinger.

The Greater Features Company, Seattle, have secured E. H. Emmick as manager of the Northwest offices in the Puget Sound Metropolis. The first pictures featured will be the two-reel pictures. Emmick is well known to filmdom in the Pacific Northwest.

A municipal theater has been built at Elgin, Ore., and the City Council is giving only one show a week at the present for the purpose of paying the interest on the building investment. Later on this winter pictures and vaudeville will be shown every night in the week.

Joseph Klee has been made house manager for the Miller Theater, Los Angeles. He will be assisted by Roy Seager of Kansas City.

The Empire Theater in Pawtucket, near Providence, R. I., was burned to the ground last week, entailing a loss of $40,000. This was a moving picture house.

Fox's Cleopatra is playing to big business thru Illinois, having just closed a three-day engagement at the Hippodrome, Quincy, Ill., to good business.

Karl Pickerill, the feature man, who is now traveling thru Oklahoma with Sapho, has a very unique advertising attraction. He is dressed in a blue uniform, with plenty of gold trimmings, and astride a horse makes a majestic appearance, which is getting a lot of attention.

Julius K. Johnston succeeds Lowell V. Calvert as manager of the New Garrick, Minneapolis.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS

Five-reel World picture, Brady-Made. Photographed by A. Moses and L. Tainguy.

THE CAST:

Jack Christie	Carlyle Blackwell
Princess Diana of Tovresta	Evelyn Greeley
Her Aunt	Kate Lester
Victor Bordon	Bert Honey
Gen. Malcoff	Lionel Belmore
Lisette	Kitty Johnson
Capalette	A. Black
Ferdinand	Herbert Barrington

If the kings of the gridiron could be chosen to be the kings of nations the world might be a happier and saner place in which to live. Anyway, the poor little kingdom of Wallarya becomes an entertaining place when an American football hero becomes, by chance, its king in His Royal Highness.

Jack Christie is a Harvard youth, amiable, daring, redblooded and the idol of the football fans of America. When his roommate, a prince and heir to a little Balkan kingdom, is called home to ascend the throne of his fathers he persuades Jack to accompany him by the promise of adventure.

The Prince is stabbed in a Paris cabaret, where he goes to see a girl, and while he is recuperating in a hospital Jack takes his place as King. He finds adventure in abundance, and becomes so suspicious of everyone that he escapes from the royal limousine in which he is traveling from the frontier, and quietly secures an airship, in which he travels to the capital. Of course, the limousine is blown up. When he is crowned King he bucks the line against revolutionists and opposing kings and scores a touchdown for the little kingdom.

His Royal Highness is as rapturously exciting as a Harvard-Yale football game. It is filled with wholesome comedy and thrills and sumptuous settings. Carlyle Blackwell is the football hero who has no respect for kingly traditions, and his work is a delight—a marked contrast to his recent dignified portrayal of Alexander Hamilton. Evelyn Greeley is an adorable Princess Diana. She hasn't very much to do, His Royal Highness being decidedly a man's picture. The supporting cast is good, Lionel Belmore playing the role of the loyal old general effectively.

His Royal Highness will have a wide appeal. It is snappy, funny and artistic.—M. D.

THE LIGHT WITHIN

Five-reel, featuring Madame Olga Petrova. Released thru the Petrova Picture Co. Scenario by Mrs. L. Case Russell. Directed by Larry Trimble.

THE CAST:

Laurel Carlisle, M. D.	Madame Petrova
Clinton Durand	Lumsden Hare
Doctor Leslie	Thomas Holding
George Raines	Clarence Heritage
Donald Durand	Freddie Verdi
Rose	Evelyn Dumo
Joe	Fred C. Jones
Doctor Green	Frank McDonald
Trained Nurse	Matilda Brundage

The Light Within is an unusual story, presented in an atmosphere that carries the action swiftly to a convincing climax. It is a splendid piece of dramatic construction, human, appealing, with plenty of exciting moments. The theme leads away somewhat from the beaten path of the former Petrova releases, and, tho dealing with the timeworn triangle of brutal husband, abused wife, faithful lover, the central idea is of more vital importance and furnishes food for reflection. Laurel Carlisle, M. D., the brilliant wife of a millionaire, finding her married life unhappy devotes her time to the welfare of her young son. Her only recreation is found in her laboratory, where after years of diligent research work she has discovered a serum for the cure of anthrax thru the medium of a Mascarene turtle. Durand's opposition to her work only spurs her on to greater effort. Imbued with a lofty ambition to succor suffering humanity, she is rewarded by saving the lives of many poor children. But Durand, believing that he has cause for jealousy, plots the destruction of young Dr. Leslie, co-worker with Laurel. Little Donald is taken ill with pneumonia, brought about by his father's heartlessness, and all Laurel's devotion can not save his life. Crushed with grief the woman finds surcease from sorrow in her great ambition. To prove his faith in her experiments Dr. Leslie submits to inoculation of the deadly germs. Durand, with devilish intent to jeopardize the life of Leslie enters the laboratory to steal the precious serum, but accidentally spills some of the poison on his hands, thereby inoculating himself. Laurel is summoned to his bedside, and seeing him writhing in agony, and, knowing that there is not serum enough for two, bravely decides to sacrifice the man she really loves and save her unworthy husband. But the heroic effort is unnecessary, for Durand, stricken by a retributive justice, meets a violent end. In after years, when time has softened the memory of her tragedies, Laurel is free to wed her true mate, Dr. Leslie, and together they work out their life work. Madame Petrova projects her vivid personality into the role of Laurel, luring the spectator with her exquisite grace and beauty. Her best scenes were those in the empty nursery of her dead child, when the poignant grief of anguished mother torn could not find relief in tears. In the lighter moments with her boy at play her every expression rang true. A mute appeal was furnished by the faithful devotion shown by a large collie dog—the pet of young Donald—when he searched thru the bedchamber whining for the little playmate who would never return. No small part of the success of the picture will be due to Madame Petrova's artistic gowns, which so completely individualize this brilliant star. Lumsden Hare was effective as the husband Durand, Thomas Holding brought youth and good looks to the part of Dr. Leslie, while Little Freddie was a sympathetic Donald. The balance of the large cast were adequate. The hospital room filled with the half-crazed foreign mothers and their babies furnished splendid characterizations. The direction was perfect. One sensed the technique of a master hand thruout the entire production. The settings were rich and appropriate, lighting and exteriors flawless, reflecting great credit upon Mr. Trimble and his associates. A big feature that will draw big business in all first-class houses. —M. B.

PICTURES IN NATURAL COLORS

Invented by Leon Forrest Douglass. Three-reel Scenic and Travel Views. Released by the Douglass National Colored Film Company.

It has arrived at last! The moving picture in the colors of nature. This latest process, which has every promise of success, is the invention of Leon Forrest Douglass, of San Rafael, Cal.

Mr. Douglass has spent years in exhaustive experiments and today is able to reproduce every hue, shade and tint of the colors of nature. A beautiful effect is obtained, far superior to the dull, black and white that we have been accustomed to see on the screen. In addition to showing the vivid rays, all the delicate shades and pearly tints of the flesh, of clothing, of sky and water are reproduced with magical subtlety. Another improvement of considerable importance is the effect produced showing distance between trees and shrubs. Shown on a flat screen the perspective looms up with startling clarity, giving the sensation of walking between the spaces. As a step forward in the moving picture industry the value of Mr. Douglass' discovery is incalculable. The series of pictures possess charm and interest presenting various subjects, animate and still life, including dancing girls in delicate colored drapery, bathing nymphs in a kaleidoscope of ever shifting rays, Hopi Indians performing their grotesque war dance, soldiers at drill, wild animals, brown bears, buffalo and birds in migration. Scenes of America's outdoor wonders, including The Grand Canyon of Arizona, with its myriad shades of terre verte, rose-madder, purple and green, are flashed on with striking fidelity. The orange groves of California, fields of nodding poppies, carnations and roses all spring into a sort of harmonious colors.

Yellowstone National Park, with its roaring geysers, jaded green lakes and burning mud pits are faithfully reproduced. The Tournament of Flowers at Pasadena, Glacier Falls, Mt. Tamalpais, and a raging forest fire are shown as an exact replica of nature. It must be remarked that the tones of flesh, of water and greenery respond more readily to the new process. This is an entertaining picture that will please by bringing the great outdoors in its natural garb before us.

Photography good and discriminating taste is shown in the selection of that part of the country beyond the desert. Will please as a novelty. Box-office value fair.—M. B.

LEST WE FORGET

Metro patriotic production de luxe. Filmed under the auspices of Count De Cippico and J. L. Kempner. Written and directed by Leonce Perret. Assembled under the personal supervision of Charles A. Taylor. Music by George W. Beynon.

THE CAST:

Rita Heriot	Rita Jolivet
Harry Winslow	Hamilton Revelle
Baron Von Bergen	L. Rogers Lytton
Madame Heriot	Kate Blancke
Mayor Le Roux	Emil Roe
Fritz Muller	Clifford Saum
General Joffre	Henry Smith
Young Mother	Gaby Perrier
Art Director	Henri Menessier

Lest We Forget is a close-up of the war. It is not merely an incident or a series of war incidents. It breathes the spirit of Allied patriotism, and reflects the horror of Hun greed and makes the responsibilities of the war the spectator's own. It is stupendous in power. It quickens the pulse, it inspires, it appeals.

At the Lyric Theater strangers turned to their neighbors to exclaim, "It brings it close, doesn't it?"

Yet there is nothing of maudlin sentiment about it. It is the immense in its sentimentality. In the beginning a glimpse is given of the German spy system in Paris. A German baron, pretending friendship for whomsoever he might be able to use, employs the inventions of the despised Americans to betray the information obtained thru them. There are elevators camouflaged behind sliding fireplaces or book cases and carefully hidden wireless stations.

The baron introduces to a young American a beautiful opera singer, Rita Heriot, whom the American asks to marry him. Then the deluge of war.

The quaint French villages are faithfully reproduced and the response of the French people to the call to arms sets the pulses tingling. Rita Heriot and her mother are among the people who flee from the town of Rocez-sur-Meuse. At a telegraph office the operator is found dead, and Rita, who had once been an operator, takes his place.

She is captured by a German division, and faces a firing squad as a spy, and the execution is halted when the official staff decides it might be able to use her. When she refuses to send a German message she is stabbed in the back with a bayonet in the hands of a brutal-faced Hun, who forces the steel weapon deeper and deeper into her flesh at the command of his officer. This time she is saved by a bursting shell. After months in the prison hospital in charge of the Red Cross she is dragged away to a German orgy and is rescued by an Alsatian, who formerly played in the orchestra of the Opera Comique, who helps her escape to Holland.

Meanwhile the American has joined the French army. There follow stirring views of life in the trenches, the Baron's repulsive work now transferred to New York, the departure of the Lusitania, the search by the U-57, and the torpedo speeding thru the blue water to its stately target.

The story halts to show flashes of the Lusitania at the bottom of the sea; of the treaty of Brussels torn up by the Kaiser, of the air raids over London and their victims, women and children, and of the driving out of the Belgians.

The picture is sanely presented. Rita Jolivet is always the central figure, but Lest We Forget is not an exploitation of persons, but of the underlying spirit of war. In the beginning Frohman's last words to the star are shown: "Why fear death—it is life's most beautiful adventure."

Audiences at the Lyric hissed the Baron. A and the boches!—M. D.

LITTLE RED DECIDES

Five-reel Triangle comedy-drama. Story by William McCoy, scenario by Jack Cunningham, directed by Jack Conway, photographed by Elgin Lessley. For release February 24.

THE CAST:

Little Red	Barbara Connolly
Dark Dog	Goro Kino
Col. Ferdinand Alloe	Frederick Vroom
Tom Gilroy	Jack Curtis
Two Pair Smith	Walter Perry
Sour Milk	Jean Hersholt
Parson Jones	Frank MacQuarrie
Mrs. Jones	Nellie Anderson
Miss Nisely	Margaret Cullington
Widow Sutton	Alice Davenport
Eliza Squires	Mattie Handforth
Little Doc	Percy Challenger
Dr. Kirk	George Pearce
Foreman	Curley Baldwin
Matt Wattles	Betty Pearce

Comedy and human interest are combined in large quantities in this Western picture that hasn't any shooting or frame-ups or daring stunts, making it unique among Western photoplays. It is a homely story of every-day life on a ranch. It never rises to dramatic heights and it has no real climax, and it is funny, wholesome and appealing, and it has that elusive thing called atmosphere.

A dirty-faced 5-year-old boy appears in the camp firelight, where two cowboys from Alloe Ranch are spending the night. He can't wake his father, he says, and leads them to the cabin where his father lies dead. Colonel Ferdinand Alloe takes the youngster into his home next day and his Celestial cook makes Little Red his special charge, giving the youngster a bath in the dishpan, singing him to sleep at night, and protecting him from all kinds of imaginary dangers.

Some church people try to get the boy away from the ranch, and they don't try very hard, especially when the ranchmen raise a fund for the new church organ. When Little Red becomes ill with pneumonia and a San Francisco doctor prescribes a mother's care the cowboys take the matter seriously and gamble to see who shall be the Jack of Hearts to make one of the three eligible women of the community his wife. The wooing of Tom Gilroy, who is the loser in the matrimonial gamble, is an amusing bit of comedy.

Only audiences who like homely comedies of everyday life, without much action, will like Little Red Decides. The characterizations are good, Jack Curtis, as the Jack o' Hearts, and Frederick Vroom, as Colonel Alloe, doing particularly good work. Barbara Connolly is adorable as the youngster.—M. D.

THE WOOING OF PRINCESS PAT

Five-reel Blue Ribbon feature. Story by William Addison Lathrop. Released February 18.

THE CAST.

Princess Pat	Gladys Leslie
Eric	J. Frank Glendon
General Marask	Bigelow Cooper
Count Ladislaus	William Dunn
Grand Duke of Paxstadt	Charles Kent
His three sons:
	Carlton King
	Templar Saxe
	J. Albert Hall
Director	William P. S. Earle

A whimsical romance of royalty is developed with considerable originality and not a little comedy.

The early scenes show the cabinet of Eric, known as the Iron Duke of a Balkan principality, urging their ruler to begin a war of conquest against a neighboring kingdom. Eric's Prime Minister tries to arrange a marriage for the Duke with Princess Pat of Paxstadt, who, meeting the Duke incog., falls in love with him, her romance being chosen for reasons of state. After the marriage, to which she submits to save her country from war, she defies the Duke and treats him with studied contempt until a banished Count, by tales of brutal treatment, brings her three brothers to avenge their sister's wrongs.

Gladys Leslie is lovely as the spoiled, prankish Princess, who defies conventions and royal etiquette in a way that is decidedly appealing. J. Frank Glendon plays the role of the unhappy royal husband with dignity.

The ease with which the banished Count gains access to Eric's castle lacks sincerity. The picture is entertaining, however, and should make a good feature for an otherwise strong program.—M. D.

REVELATION

Released thru the Metro Pictures Corp. Adapted from the story, A Rosebush of a Thousand Years, by Mabel Wagnalls. Directed by George D. Baker. Produced under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger.

THE CAST:

Joline	Nazimova
Paul Granville	Charles Bryant
The Prior	Frank Currier
Duclos	Syn de Conde
Fra Augustine	John Martin
Pierre	Eugene Borden
Mestaire, the Innkeeper	Phillip Sanford
Count Adrian de Roche	Bigelow Cooper
The Monastery Gatekeeper	True James
German Officer	Dave Turner
Patin	Fred Radcliffe
Fochard	A. C. Hadley
Madeline Brevort	Hazel Washburn

This is a graphic story, told with trenchant emphasis and flawless continuity, leading up to a gripping climax. From a Parisian cabaret dancer to a madonna in a cloister is a stupendous leap, but the gulf is spanned in a brief hiatus by the heroine of Revelation. This unusual photoplay is a whale of a hit, and the public will flock to it like a house afire. This is one of the best of Metro releases, and an assured box-office success, the hour being pregnant with a spiritual upheaval following the great war's devastation. Madame Nazimova and Revelation will be hard to beat. The screen drama is without a doubt a classic and reflects the highest standard in picturization. The story evolves rather slowly at first, but when it reaches the point of gripping heart interest it registers a solar-plexus blow that starts the tears flowing like swiftly falling rain. No better sense of a battlefield with the dead and dying strewn about the gray ashes, with soldiers toppling into the trenches and ruthless destroying missiles clouding the air, while DEATH shrieks her its triumph—a brutal, barbaric visualization of modern warfare that has not been equaled in the silent drama. A thrill like the explosion of a Zeppelin playing tag with a U-boat is felt when our boys go over the top, and in the carnage that follows one remembers Sherman's words. Yet Revelation is not a war play, but has a spiritual appeal, as it depicts the gradual awakening of lethargic souls from base passions to the sublimity of unselfish sacrifice. In the Latin Quarter of Paris a dancing bacchante discards her apache lover to pose for a struggling American artist. As his inspiration she leads him on to success and a powerful passion. But his famous painting is destroyed by the jealous Duclos, who goes to prison for his vandalism. New subjects bring greater fame, and de Roche commissions the artist to paint The Madonna of the Rosebush. A new model, to typify the Virgin Mother, must be found, but in a passion of rage Joline insists that none other must take her place. The pair reach the monastery, but the woman is forbidden to enter the sacred grounds. But the resourceful model enters, and later the kindly words of the Prior awaken her to the wickedness of her wanton existence. She reforms and devotes her life to the peasants, and later, when war is declared, she finds her regeneration in administering to the wounded. The Prior joins her in holy wedlock to the artist as Duclos dies. Madame Nazimova gives an inspired delineation of the coarse, vulgar grisette. She is temperamentally qualified for the sinuous feline, and rises to great heights when, desperate and hungry, she creeps further away from the land of the flesh. Charles Bryant lent admirable support as the artist, Bigelow Cooper brought distinction and poise to the Count Adrian de Roche, Syn de Conde was a villainous Duclos, Frank Currier a benevolent Prior, and the balance of the large cast were well chosen. For capable direction George D. Baker is to be commended.

GLORIA HOPE

Who has the leading role in the Al H. Woods production of The Guilty Man, released by Paramount.

Here is a man with red blood in his veins, whose originality and courage have helped to dispel the creeping paralysis which of late has swamped the moving picture industry. The photography was excellent, the arrangement of the battle scene an achievement, the settings correct and local atmosphere maintained thruout. This is a big feature that will delight the heart of the exhibitor.—M. H.

THE UNBELIEVER

Five-reel Edison feature, produced in co-operation with the United States Marine Corps at the U. S. M. C. Cantonment, Quantico, Va. Based on Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews' war novelette, The Three Things. Released at the Rivoli Theater, New York, February 11.

THE CAST:

Philip Landicutt	Raymond McKee
Margaret Landicutt, his mother	Kate Lester
Uncle Jeremy Landicutt	Frank de Vernon
Virginia Harbrok, a Belgian refugee	Marguerite Courtot
Eugene Harbrok, a Belgian scout	Mortimer Martini
Madam Harbrok, his wife	Blanche Davenport
Pierre Harbrok, their son	Harold Hallacher
Lefty, private, U. S. M. C.	Darwin Karr
Lieut. Kurt von Schnieditz	Karl Stroheim
Emmanuel Muller, a conscript musician	Earl Schenck
Marianne Marnholm, Belgian war widow	Gertrude Norman

From the United States Marine Corps—Major Thomas Holcomb, Major Ross E. Rowell, Captain Thomas Sterrett, Lieutenant J. F. Rorke, Sergeant Moss Gill, Sergeant Percy Webb, Corporal Bob Ryland and the men of the Third Battalion, Sixth Regiment, U. S. M. C.

Director	Alan Crosland

The Unbeliever created a tremendous amount of enthusiasm among audiences at the Rivoli. A military play with an actual battalion of United States Marines participating stirred the patriotic pride of the spectators and the story held interest.

The theme of the photoplay represents three of the things for which America stands. Leveling of class pride is chief of these in the picture. An American youth of the smart set, while playing golf, is thrilled by the sight of American marines drilling on a nearby plain. He enlists and becomes "regular pals" with a former chauffeur.

In the trenches and on duty at a listening post in No-Man's Land the aristocrat's sense of class superiority diminishes and his snobbishness is entirely killed when the chauffeur gives his own life to save his pal.

The picture is filled with incidents that fire the patriotic imagination—the listening patrol, mining the German mine-setters, the early morning dash over the top, and the capture of a Belgian town from the Germans. And a dramatic incident is the revenge of the German conscript musician against his chief for his destroyed violin. Romance adds color to a play that is too full of patriotism to allow much room for sentiment.

Marines from Quantico, Va., are the real heroes of the film. The work of Raymond McKee is distinctive, and Marguerite Courtot lends charm to the Belgian scenes by her beauty rather than by any clever acting she is called upon to do.

Dramatically there are faults of construction, but few pictures got the applause accorded The Unbeliever at the Rivoli. Effectiveness was added to the presentation by the music and the appearance of a detachment of marines with a fife and drum corps just before the picture was shown. Forrest Robinson declaimed Semper Fidelis and part of the orchestra sang I'm Fighting for the U. S. A.

Exhibitors should find The Unbeliever a big success, and its success will be enhanced by the right kind of music.—M. D.

THE FLASH OF FATE

Five-reel Herbert Rawlinson production. Released thru Universal. Story by James W. Atchison, scenario by Waldemar Young.

THE CAST:

Henry Sharb	Dana Ong
Randolph Sharb, his son	Herbert Rawlinson
Gertrude, his daughter	Madge Kirby
Abner Hinman	Willis Marks
Mary Freeman	Mary MacDonald, Sally Starr
Joe Freeman	Jack Nelson
Philadelphia Johnson	Charles West
Dave Hinman	George Brooks
Director	Elmer Clifford

Only the high spots are touched in this newest Rawlinson production of stiff fights, police chases and finance. Rawlinson pictures have always speed and action, and this one has, in addition, that thing so rare—a new idea.

At times the story is not easy to follow, due probably to too severe cutting and resulting breaks in the continuity, but this fault is forgiven in the thrilling excitement that never once lapses throughout the film.

The story deals with young Sharb's efforts to get rich in a hurry. His father, head of an old financial firm, had lost his fortune thru the unscrupulous efforts of a rival concern, and had ended his life. Young Sharb plans not only to get rich, but to ruin his enemy. He opens a Wall street office and spends his nights in trying to become a master crook. He succeeds fairly well until his gang of crooks involve the brother of the girl he loves in their operations, and the girl herself gets into their power. To find her he goes to an electric power house controlling the lights of the city, and, using the Morse code, switches on and off the lights in a message to the girl, who had formerly been an operator. The denouement is startling and unexpected.

Herbert Rawlinson has a role of great strength, and he plays at times with grim power, and at other times with magnetic humor. Sally Starr is a pleasing heroine, and the supporting cast is remarkably strong. Photography and settings are excellent.

Exhibitors should find The Flash of Fate a good all-round feature.—M. D.

BLUE BLAZES RAWDEN

Five-reel Ince-Artcraft picture. Directed by William S. Hart. Photographed by Joe August.

THE CAST:

"Blue Blazes" Rawden	William S. Hart
Babette Du Fresne	Maud George
The Mother	Gertrude Claire
Joe La Barge	Hart Hoxie
"Ladyfingers" Hilgard	Robert McKim
Eric Hilgard	Robert Gordon

Bill Hart blazes a new kind of trail in his new Artcraft picture. The biggest battle he fights is a moral battle—superbly dramatic.

Instead of a daring Western horseman Hart in this instance represents a lumberman of the North woods, a born leader of men, unmoral and ready to try anything once. It is not love for a woman that awakens the dormant soul of the big lumberman, but the gentle faith of the mother of a man he has killed.

Rawden leads his gang of lumberjacks to "Hell's Hole," as the North woods hotel is called, and there he gambles with the dissolute English owner for the establishment and the halfbreed girl, Babette Du Fresne. The Englishman, who has previously had Rawden's gun "cold decked," demands that the last hand be played with guns in an empty room. Rawden complies, and when his gun misses fire throws it away and dares the Englishman to shoot him, taunting his armed adversary with his impossible aim. In the end they grapple and Rawden turns the Englishman's gun against Ladyfingers' own breast. Before he dies Ladyfingers gives Rawden a letter from his mother, and the lumberman's joy in possessing all the things he had gambled for is tempered by the dread of meeting this Englishwoman, whose letter has touched him.

When she arrives her absolute faith in him and her belief that he must have loved her son causes Rawden to place a new stone at the head of Ladyfingers' grave and to sell the hotel gambling house-cabaret and turn over the proceeds to the mother. Then he takes the Lone Trail.

It isn't easy for Rawden to get away. For Babette, enraged that Rawden should leave her, tells Ladyfingers' young brother the truth about the killing, and the frantic youth shoots the lumberman, who declines to stay to have his wound dressed, but later returns to save the youngster from being lynched.

Most of the scenes are laid in the rough hotel, but the first scenes in the North woods and the ending in the great white, open country, provide scenes of great beauty. Hart's work has a subtle quality that is in marked contrast to his usual characterizations. "Blue Blazes" Rawden stands out as one of his most virile character studies.—M. D.

OUR LITTLE WIFE

Five-reel Goldwyn picture. Released at Strand Theatre, New York, week of February 10.

THE CAST:

Dodo	Madge Kennedy
Herb	George Forth
Dr. Elliott	William Davidson
Mrs. Elliott	Wray Page
Tommy	Kempton Greene
Bobo	Walter Hiers
Angie	Marguerite Marsh

Madge Kennedy's conversational hands, almost as eloquently funny as Charlie Chaplin's feet, are conspicuously featured in this new Goldwyn production. Our Little Wife is frothily frivolous—a picture one will hardly remember for a day, except as something vaguely pleasant, but while it is on the screen before one it is decidedly entertaining.

Taken from the stage play of the same name, it deals with a bride, who, on her wedding day, discovers how unfair she had been to science, letters and art in marrying, when she had been the sole inspiration of a doctor, a poet and an artist. So she invites the three to accompany her and Herb on their honeymoon to Palm Beach.

Everyone has a delightful time except Herb, the mere husband, and he at last rebels.

The picture is a farce, of course, amazingly well presented, except for the one of The Floridian, the Tampa and Jacksonville train, which, if we remember correctly, doesn't run into Palm Beach. Settings are beautiful, atmosphere is correct and there is a merry succession of naive incidents.

Madge Kennedy, as Dodo, does one of her best comedy work for the screen, and her eloquent hands are splendidly effective. She is so tremendously serious and apparently without a sense of humor. The supporting cast is fine. Our Little Wife is one of the best cheer-up tonics of the month. Exhibitors have also the advantage of a star who has an extraordinary following.—M. D.

DAVIS WILL OPEN NEW PITTSBURG HOUSE SHORTLY

New Grand Represents a Total Investment of Almost $1,000,000—Seating Capacity Will Be 2,500—George Sammis Succeeds Tunis Dean as Managerial Agent

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 18.—The New Grand, which Manager Harry Davis hopes to open some time the latter part of this month, has traded Tunis Dean for George Sammis as publicity and managerial agent. Mr. Dean was compelled to relinquish the work on account of his impaired sight. Sammis was the manager of the Schenley Theater during the recent Aborn Opera invasion. Mr. Davis has spent approximately $500,000 in building this new playhouse. As the ground on which it stands is worth that much more it is predicted the new theater will be dubbed "Pittsburg's million-dollar playhouse." Its architectural design and decorative plan is of the Italian renaissance period. The colors used in the interior are Italian blues and reds with gold and ivories. There are panels decorated by hand and a proscenium arch that is majestic in its lines. The new theater has but one balcony. It is a ground floor theater. On the main floor there will be 1,500 seats and in the balcony there will be over 1,000. The theater measures 100x128 feet. The balcony is swung on a cantilever, with the steel trusses 96 feet long by 16 feet high and weighing 48 tons. The lighting system of the theater is carried out in red, blue and amber. "Mushroom" system ventilating brings in fresh air. Across the front of the balcony there are a number of boxes, and flanking each proscenium are four private boxes. Back of each of the latter are little reception halls, handsomely furnished.

Mr. Davis has engaged a symphony orchestra which will occupy a raised dais, or terrace, beneath the theater dome. This will be supplemented by a Bartola organ.

The entire structure is fireproof, steel and terra cotta entering largely into its construction.

ANOTHER BAN ON FILMS

Must Go Thru Red Tape Before Going on Shipboard

New York, Feb. 16.—Films will no longer be allowed on shipboard unless they have been examined and O. K'd. by the Customs Department. The newest regulation of the Government provides that pictures must be sent to the Custom House at least seventy-two hours before the departure of the vessel on which they are consigned. This applies to picture machines, cameras, phonographs, records and musical instruments.

A special set of provisions with which all travelers must comply in order to obtain clearance papers from an American port was issued this week. The amount of money one may take upon the high seas is limited to $5,000. Maps may not be carried.

NO SUNDAY SHOWS

Is Birmingham's Decision—May Take a Referendum Vote

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 18.—The decision which closes Birmingham's picture houses on Sunday after April 14 was rendered by the Board of Commissions last Wednesday. It reads as follows: "By a unanimous vote Wednesday the Commissioners decided that moving picture shows shall not operate in Birmingham on Sundays. However, and to do no injustice it has been decided that the shows will be allowed to operate on Sundays until April 14." The exhibitors have an opportunity now to initiate a referendum, which could be over, voting and all, before April 8. This is taking into consideration the number of days required by law for the institution and operation of a referendum. The feeling seems general that if the referendum is instigated it will result in an overwhelming majority in favor of Sunday pictures.

GRAIN OF DUST

Exhibitors Are Extending Royal Welcome

New York, Feb. 18.—Special cause for gratification over the manner in which the exhibitors of the country have received the Crest Pictures Corporation's latest production, The Grain of Dust, by David Graham Phillips, featuring Lillian Walker and an all-star cast, is found by executives of that company in the fact that direct applications for bookings received by that organization exceed the prices placed upon the picture for many territories.

These applications were invited by Carl E. Carlton, president of Crest Pictures as a protection to both exhibitors and State-right buyers—to exhibitors against exorbitant prices and to State-right buyers as an absolute guarantee, in advance, of the returns of their investment, together with a handsome profit.

So far as is known this is the first time that this merchandising plan has ever been attempted in the State-rights field, and that it has succeeded so substantially would seem to speak volumes the the drawing power of The Grain of Dust.

ARROW SYNDICATE FORMED

Buys Clune's Features for Canada

Toronto, Can., Feb. 16.—Chas. H. Haysteed, a veteran in Canadian theatrical circles, and who has a host of friends in and out of the profession, has formed the Arrow Feature Syndicate and purchased from W. H. Clune, of Los Angeles, Canadian rights for the two big feature pictures, Harold Bell Wright's The Eyes of the World and Helen Hunt Jackson's Ramona. Haysteed will start the Ramona pictures at Montreal February 18, and The Eyes of the World at the Grand Opera House, Hamilton, Canada. Both pictures will play on the A. J. Small Circuit of theaters, and will make a tour of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

DE LUXE FEATURE FILM CO.

Purchases Northwestern Rights to Hart, Fairbanks, Keenan, Ray and Talmadge Features Made by Triangle

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 17.—De Luxe Feature Film Company of Seattle yesterday purchased the entire Northwestern rights to all Hart, Fairbanks, Frank Keenan, Ray and Talmadge features made by Triangle. In the deal are twenty-eight Hart and Fairbanks features, sixteen Ray and Keenan and sixteen Norma Talmadge features. The company will open a branch office in Portland to handle Oregon and Idaho territory. The Bargain, a six-reeler with Hart, is the first release here at the Rex, playing to fine patronage this week. De Luxe will also handle the output of the Educational Film Corporation, Lyman Howe Travelogues, Raymond Ditmar's living book of nature films and Newman travel pictures in four Northwestern States, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

PRIVATE SHOWING

Eagle's Eye To Be Seen at Hotel Biltmore, New York

New York, Feb. 18.—A special showing of the first three episodes of The Eagle's Eye, the twenty-episode serial expose of the plotting and intrigues of the Imperial German Government in America, written by William J. Flynn, recently retired Chief of the United States Secret Service, for representatives of patriotic societies in New York City, will be given in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Biltmore at 2:30 o'clock the afternoon of February 22.

The invitations for the event were issued this week. Chief Flynn will be the host. Among the societies whose members have received invitations are: American Defense Society, National Security League, American Flag Association, American Legion, Colonial Dames of America, Congress of States Society, George Washington Memorial Association, Guardians of American Liberty, Order of the Founders and Patriots of America, Star-Spangled Banner Association, United Military Order of America and all the greater city chapters of the American Revolution and The Sons of the American Revolution.

In addition the guests will include city officials and many of the judges and justices of the city courts.

CENSORSHIP REPEAL

Being Urged for Md. by M. P. E. L.

Baltimore, Feb. 16.—The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Maryland, accompanied by an array of film experts, appeared Thursday before the Senate and House Judiciary Committees in joint session at Annapolis, the State capital, and urged the repeal of the moving picture censor law.

W. F. McGuire, of New York, secretary of the National Board of Review; Mrs. G. Peck, formerly of the motion picture committee of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs, Theodore Mitchell, of Providence, representing D. W. Griffith, and Frank Hornig, president of the Maryland exhibitors, were among those heard by the committee.

Questions asked by members of the committee seemed to indicate that the proposed repeal has little chance of a favorable report.

INVESTIGATION OF BIRTH OF A RACE CORPORATION STARTED

statement is an error. I had the management up to January 1, 1908, and up to that time we played to a weekly average of $3,400, and we made money in spite of the fact that the theater was forced to pay the expenses of Mr. Holbrook's chautauqua business, and pay out the Valley Opera Company, which Mr. Holbrook was supposed to look after, and which both he and Mr. Skinner refused to give a chance. As to what Chicago thought of the Bush Temple Theater and the business done under my management I refer to the files of Chicago newspapers from August 1, 1907, to January 1, 1908. Because of internal dissension, in part due to Mrs. Holbrook, from whom Mr. Holbrook later secured a divorce, I offered to buy or sell. After twice offering to buy, and as many times having Mr. Skinner back out, I finally, on January 1, 1908, forced Mr. Skinner to buy my interest and I left the organization. Immediately Holbrook and Skinner began cutting expenses. Adelaide Keim, Edward Robbins and others left them, and by June 1, 1908, they had reduced the receipts to about one-fourth of what they were when I relinquished the management. I am responsible for the business of the Bush Temple Theater from August to January, when the weekly receipts ran from $2,200 to $4,800. The weekly capacity of the Bush is only $5,000. But I am in no way responsible for management from January to June, 1908.

"I am responsible for the ideas of the Standard Opera Company, and this company made money so long as those ideas were followed. I withdrew from the company before it went on the road. It was a company of 35 people, designed for cities of from 20,000 to 60,000 population, playing Martha and Bohemian Girl. The cities were listed and did well until Cecil De Mille persuaded Margaret Crown to get into the big time. The company was too light for big cities.

"I was responsible for Katherine Kritz Bowden's Hiawatha campaign, which was a great success. The point referred to in the article has nothing to do with this campaign. It was a magazine publishing venture, in which Fred High was interested, and with which I was associated only a few weeks.

"The paragraph regarding my association with the International Harvester Co. is a joke. For the facts I refer to Frank Heiskell, advertising manager of the company. The International donates about a quarter of a million dollars annually for educational work, from which it expects no returns. I broke all precedents by paying back to the company several thousand dollars, which it did not expect, and, in fact, did not want.

"It was this work which I did for the International which caused the theme of The Birth of a Race to be brought to me, and which has assured our success with this big photoplay."

Mr. Barker's explanation is extremely childish. What the public is interested in is the safety of investments in the stock of his company, and that is the only question which concerns The Billboard. As to the personal matters which Mr. Barker discusses, therefore, suffice it to say that his claims concerning Frank Stockdale, Ralph Bradford, R. R. Hamilton and Kathryn Kritz Bowden, are most emphatically denied by each of them. Anyone wishing to learn more about Mr. Barker and his business career before launching The Birth of a Race can examine the bill of particulars in the case of Lyceumite Company vs. E. L. Barker, No. 3022 Tort case, in the Municipal Court of Chicago and the court records of the two receiverships of the Barker-Swan Service. It is not necessary to refer again to the story of Leslie R. Skinner set forth in The Billboard for January 26, nor to the short life of Mr. Barker's Lyceogram or of his Spectator. The interest of Fred High in this last company began after Barker left, leaving the company heavily laden with debt, and the stockholders made Mr. High editor and general manager, under whose management the magazine was continued for several months, and finally sold to another publisher.

All this is past history. Mr. Barker's assertions concerning the same are as erroneous as his statement that The Birth of a Race News is not used as a stock-selling medium.

If so, why was the "Florida Number" of that highly intellectual sheet, which is only interested in informing thousands of stockholders of the progress of the work of doing this greatest of all pictures, actually issued by Giles P. Cory & Co., the underwriters for this stock selling campaign?

So far from having any animus against Mr. Barker's undertaking, the fact is that when it appeared that he had a proposition worthy of notice Fred High wrote to him and asked for information and particulars about The Birth of a Race as the news value of Mr. Barker's activities was recognized, and there seemed to be a chance to give an unlucky fellow being a little boost when it might help most. That letter was written to Mr. Barker last summer. He answered it by a very friendly request to hold off for a while as he would soon have some news worth publishing, which he would be glad to have used. This news never came. Our action in writing him shows conclusively that there was no animus against him or his venture on the part of The Billboard, or of the editor of the Lyceum and Chautauqua department. What then is our interest in the matter? Simply this: Here is a corporation that has sold one million dollars' worth of stock to some seven thousand stockholders, and does not claim that more than three hundred thousand dollars of this money has reached the treasury with which to make the picture.

Did not The Billboard owe a duty to the public to call its attention to this alarming condition? We are glad that our article has thrown the searchlight on the activities of these promoters and resulted in the investigation by the State authorities and the arrest of one broker for attempting to sell this stock without a license under the Blue Sky law.

Let us consider the parties interested in this venture.

"The Bankers' Security & Trust Company" is a name that sounds like a bank. It is stamped on the booklets of The Birth of a Race Photoplay Corporation as fiscal agents. The Fidelity Security Company was advertised as being associated with the Bankers' Security & Trust Company. They are located on the seventeenth floor of the Steger Bldg. The office directory showed the name of just one man in this suite of rooms, L. Dermerath being the name that decorated the directory board as the one man in the two offices whose name was worthy of public gaze.

In this same piece of literature is published the following letter signed Julius Rosenwald. Mr. Rosenwald is the president of the Sears, Roebuck Company, the greatest mail order house in the world:

"I take pleasure in giving a word of approval of the photoplay to be prepared under name of The Birth of a Race. In my opinion the creation of a photoplay designed to help remove misunderstandings between the races, to make for more sympathetic and helpful relationship, and to show the best of both races rather than the worst of either, is a task worth while undertaking. I understand that The Birth of a Race is to be such a play, and I gladly give the project my endorsement."

When men like Mr. Rosenwald give such endorsement to such a project as this, and the Chicago papers show that out of $1,000,000 sold to the public only $300,000 has reached the treasury from which to make this picture which is heralded as a million-dollar picture, then the least that any one could do would be to see that as far as possible the stockholders are made acquainted with the facts as they are.

The Billboard has had no other motive.

Such papers as The Chicago Herald, which on February 10 published more than a double-column story giving the details of the manipulations of this stock selling venture, deserve the unstinted praise of all public-spirited citizens for rendering this great public service.

The attorney for The Birth of a Race has said that there has been $130,000 paid into the treasury. The Herald, publishing the statement of F. H. Hibbard, Jr., the vice-president of The Birth of a Race Corporation, has said: "About $800,000 has gone directly into the treasury of the company. Most of it has been expended in producing the part of the picture completed and there is enough left in the treasury to finish it. Still the more stock we sell and the more money we can put into the picture production the better picture it will be."

The Chicago Examiner, reporting the arrest of F. W. Sherwood, broker, who was arraigned for selling Birth of a Race stock in what the assistant to the attorney general said was a direct violation of the Illinois Blue Sky Law, stated that an inquiry into the entire Birth of a Race case would be started at once and a thorough investigation held.

Some Chicago brokers are said to have pooled their interests and to have a half dozen lawyers at work on the case to try and knock out the Blue Sky act.

Inasmuch as the Supreme Court of the United States has sustained the validity of a similar law passed in Ohio, it is not likely that these legal efforts will prove satisfactory in blocking the investigation or the punishment of any guilty parties. Certainly it is cold comfort for the stockholders to be told that if they have been victims of misplaced confidence in representations made by brokers and salesmen, the law which was supposed to protect them is invalid and that no one will be punished. The stockholders would probably be more interested in some assurance that the representations would be made good. What we said in the beginning and what we say now is that if this picture can be produced for $130,000 or for $800,000 there was no need of selling a million dollars of stock. On the other hand, if it was a million-dollar picture someone should explain where the rest of the money has gone, which, according to one estimate, is $700,000 and the other $870,000. It was right and proper for The Billboard to call attention in its article of January 26 to Mr. Barker's past history in order that the stockholders or prospective stockholders might be aided in determining the probable success of this venture. Now that attention is focused on the company and its affairs are being aired and conditions exposed by State officials, we can draw a curtain over the past and concentrate on the question, "How are the stockholders to get their money back?"

(In this article the name of Fred High appears in many places. It has been so used for the sake of clearness and definiteness of statement. The article was written by Fred High.)

OUTDOOR SHOWMEN WILL HAVE BIG WEEK IN CHICAGO

Host of Early Arrivals Presages Large Attendance at Various Meetings—Over One Thousand Tickets Sold for S. L. of A. Banquet and Ball

Chicago, Feb. 18.—With circus and carnival kings, fair secretaries and showmen representing every line in the outdoor amusement field arriving in Chicago on every train, it looks as tho the meetings to be held this week by the Showmen's League of America, NOSA, the Fair Secretaries and COMA, would be the largest ever held in point of attendance. Those arriving today represent every point of the compass, and say the real crowds will follow Tuesday and Wednesday in time for the big ball and banquet of the Showmen's League. Over 1,000 tickets have been sold for this event and already the capacity of the gold room and the balcony of the Congress Hotel has been taxed to their utmost capacity and reservations are now being made in the adjoining anterooms.

Among the early arrivals are Ed Ballard, Jerry Mugivan, Bert Bowers, R. M. Harvey, James Patterson, Con T. Kennedy, Harry Noyes, Herbert A. Kline, W. C. Houston, William Judkins Hewitt, Harry B. Polack, C. W. Parker, Tom Allen, Ed Evans, Ed Corey, Phil Enerman, H. S. Tyler, Frank Robbins, W. H. Duncan, Fred Hart, W. C. Richards, Harold Bushea, Harry Robert, Walter Donaldson, Vic Levitt, Warren B. Irons, Steve A. Woods, Baba Delgarian, Red Murray, Louis Traband and a host of others.

TOM W. ALLEN SHOWS

Awarded Texas Fair Circuit Contracts

Tom W. Allen, manager of the caravan that bears his name, has just returned to winter quarters at Leavenworth, Kansas, from an extensive Southwestern trip and reports that he has his organization already booked at what is considered the cream of the Southwestern Fair Circuit.

At a fair secretaries' meeting at Paris, Tex., February 2 Mr. Allen was again awarded a contract for his shows for the same circuit of towns the Tom W. Allen Shows played last season, with four new dates, ample proof to the most skeptical that his organization more than pleased last season.

The Allen Shows will be practically new thruout this season, and will travel in their own train of 25 cars, the line-up consisting of 16 good attractions, the the greater part housed in new fronts which are now in the course of construction at the Parker factories at Leavenworth. There will be five riding devices, three free acts and a 20-piece band. The opening will take place early in April on the streets of Leavenworth.

OLD BILLYBOY SERENADED

Merle Evans, the past season band leader with the Jess Willard Buffalo Bill Shows, and at present band leader of the Gus Hill Minstrels, which played Cincinnati last week, serenaded The Billboard last Saturday. Evans has a wonderful musical organization in his minstrel band, and his cornet playing was the marvel of those musically informed in Cincinnati.

ON TO ATLANTA

Determined Fight Will Be Made Against Effort of Georgia Railroads To Refuse Handling of Shows—Hearing on February 21

The outdoor show world is manifesting a great deal of interest in the hearing at Atlanta on February 21, when the Railroad Commission of Georgia will hear the plea of certain railroads that they be given permission to refuse to contract the the handling of private cars, special, circus, carnival and other amusement trains.

Capt. W. I. Swain, of COMA, has taken up the matter, as have Harry C. Robert, secretary Georgia State Fair; R. M. Striplin, secretary Southeastern Fair, Atlanta; Frank L. Albert, secretary National Outdoor Showmen's Association, and Ernie Adamson, attorney of Atlanta, who is representing a number of carnival owners.

President J. H. Otis and Mr. Robert, of the Georgia State Fair, last week addressed a letter to the Commission, protesting against the railroads being granted their plea. They said, in part:

"While we expect to appear in person before your honorable body on the date now set, we wish to enter our protest against the permission being granted to the railroads, and in such form as will enable it to become a part of the record in this case.

"We feel, gentlemen, that if the railroads are permitted to exercise the right to refuse to make the contracts for the handling of private cars, special and circus trains, etc., but more especially the trains carrying circus, carnival and amusement companies, that the great efforts now being made by our esteemed and worthy President, the Hon. Woodrow Wilson, to allay the feelings of unrest, panic and disquietude among the farmers, live stock raisers, poultry breeders, our women, and others, caused by the fact that the United States has entered the great World's War, will be annulled.

"Our farmers and the women on our farms and many of our live stock raisers have but little diversion and amusement, and they live, gentlemen, from year to year on what they have seen and what they are expecting to see at the various fairs which they are fortunate enough to be able to attend.

"We do not believe the railroads have considered the fact that if their request is granted thousands and thousands of men and women will be thrown out of employment and upon the not too tender mercies of this cold world, while those who have their money invested in the amusements will lose hundreds of thousands of dollars. Then, gentlemen, will be seen panic, starvation and chaos, so we must utter our vehement protest against the permission being granted to the roads which will permit them to refuse to make the contracts to move the cars and special trains."

Mr. Adamson advises he recently made a search of the tariff of the Interstate Commerce Commission and finds that nearly every railroad in the country has slipped into its tariffs a provision cancelling all private and special car and special train service. This applies to interstate movements, and is very important to show people.

He requests showmen to supply him with the following information:

1. Number of cars you own or control.
2. Number of cars additional required by railroad.
3. Number of people carried.
4. Value of your enterprise.
5. Number of people you would show to thru Georgia on a basis.
6. The effect on your business if this petition is allowed.

Mr. Adamson can be addressed 523 Grant Building, Atlanta, Ga.

It is important that the show world be well represented at the hearing, as the decision reached will probably have bearing on other cases, and all who possibly can are urged to attend.

R. M. Harvey has gone "over the top" with his Lowery Greater Minstrels. What else could you expect with such an experienced showman holding the reins?

CARNIVAL CARAVANS

By Ali Baba

Tammywaub, Miss.

Dear Ali—Well, that town of Phunkywoe turned out pretty good. I believe it would have been a cleanup if it had not have rained two days. Was cold one night and we were pretty far out, but as we got some money I did not have to borrow any dough off of the merry-go-round man. I was going to get enough from him to pay the hauling bill, but he had sent in all his money to get a new organ, as the one he got out of the river after the boat sank seemed to be on the bum. So I just brought the boss teamster over here with me, and Monday night I collected enough off of the concessions to pay him off and send him home satisfied. He has some relatives here. I paid his expenses and he had a good visit. Now I want an agent, a good agent, for an agent makes or breaks the show, that is some shows. I never saw one that could break my show, but a good one can help me to make a good show. When I get an agent, about three or more shows and a band I can begin to step along some. You tell any of them street writers you see to stay away from this show. I am convinced it was one of them who stole my angel.

Your high stepping friend,

COL. HOOZA NUTT.

P. S.—Sandstorm Lizzie wants a floor manager for her cabaret. Salary twelve a week, must help tear town and set up, carry water, mix fucum for the horn and do secret service work and keep tab on the girls.

Robert S. Branson is spending the winter in Lima, O.

Commercial life has claimed many of the outdoor show people for the winter. Recently Al Cole, of the advance forces of the K. G. Barkoot Show, was seen in Detroit spreading fame and accumulating wealth for Friend Barkoot on the Rackling tail light for automobiles.

Cliff Wodetsky was seen in Chicago working for the Redpath Chautauqua Bureau selling lyceum courses and says he is getting by.

Floyd Kennedy, scenic artist, is working in the studio of the Milburn Hobston Poster Adv. Co., of Independence, Kan., for the winter.

None of this out all winter Sunny South stuff for Billy Gear. He's satisfied to stick around the old fireside in Pontiac, Mich. After closing the season as general agent for the Detroit Special Shows Billy planted himself up in the wilds of Michigan and says he's going to stick there until he finds out how the railroads act, as he already has a couple of enticing offers.

J. T. Pendergast has a store show at Augusta, Ga., and says he welcomes all the boys at his place at 304 Broad street.

Don Davis—We're listening. What are you going to say this season?

Earl Morgan—What is the idea?

Buck Turner is taking dancing lessons at St. Petersburg and doing fine. We can picture Buck doing the fox trot!

Sam Lawrence is a business man now. He and Harry W. Reiners, late of the International Circuit Office, have opened an office at 1493 Broadway, New York, and are booking everything from musical comedies to motion pictures. Sam says: "Believe me, no more carnivals for me." We hate to lose this old boy, for he is one real fellow.

Ferris Wheel Mack and wife are with the Oh Johnny, Oh, Company playing the South and enjoying life while waiting for the 1918 bugle call.

Got a new idea, Bert Hoss?

Jack Rice says he is in Louisiana just passing away the winter. So are a lot of folks, Jack.

Fred G. Hurd, Bill Lack and H. W. Cotta are seen around the oil fields in Eldorado, Kan., taking things easy while waiting for the Nat Reiss Shows to open.

Billy Streeter was initiated into the mysteries of the B. P. O. E. at New Iberia, La., recently.

Does anybody remember Dog-Face Butler?

W. E. Kavanaugh, former electrician with the Kennedy Show, is now operating the Pastime Cafe at 234 Riverside avenue, in Jacksonville, together with Lon Hull and Art D. Smith, of the Parker Shows.

E. C. Brown and Blinky Thompson are surprising Delphos (O.) merchants with their selling abilities.

Why couldn't Clyde Hamilton ride on the trolley at Norfolk, Va.? 'Cause it wasn't a big train, Clyde?

The Birmingham Kid denies that he is wintering in Orrville, O. The Kid says he won't be with the World's Wonder Shows this year. Don't forget the big knife, Louie.

Bert Cox says: "I asked him why they called her Tuesday." "Needless," says Bob Williams.

Bob Hart has a nice museum in Louisville with good attractions in a nice location and is getting good money. Bob is a hustler, you have to hand it to him.

Harry Calvert, of the Tom Allen Shows, is the owner of a nifty new machine, and since his better half is visiting relatives in Oregon, his constant companion is Will Dearman. Calvert says Dearman is good company, but longs for his better half.

Shorty Glickman and Harry (Kid) Hamilton want to hear from their friends. Their address is Aux. Remount, Depot 303, Camp Dix, N. J. Shoot them some letters.

Johnny Lorman is wintering in the sleepy city. What have you up your sleeve, Johnny?

6 DAYS, 6 NIGHTS—SOUTHWEST'S GREATEST LIVE STOCK SHOW

OBITUARY

BARRON—Charles Barron (Charles H. Brown), aged 78, years ago one of the best-known actors of the American stage, died February 12 at his home, Roxbury, Mass. Charles Barron was born in Boston, Mass., January 2, 1840, and made his first appearance on the stage as a member of MacFarland's Dramatic Company at Portland, Me., August 20, 1860, in The Widow's Victim. He was later engaged by E. L. Davenport and played a part in Richelieu with Edwin Booth. In 1869 he became a leading man at the old Boston Museum and remained with the company for twenty years. Barron had played more than 300 roles.

BICKETT—Maude Bickett, wife of William B. Bickett, of the Flying Bicketts, died February 13 at St. Petersburg, Fla., after having been an invalid for eight years. About twelve years ago, while performing at Riverview Park, Terre Haute, Ind., she fell from the flying trapeze, and the resulting injuries caused paralysis to set in about eight years ago.

BOGLE—Charlie Bogle, billposter, died of pneumonia at Detroit, Mich., December 25, 1917, it has just been learned.

BOWDEN—Silvers Bowden, sword swallower, late of the Hachman United Shows, died at Eldon, Ia., February 6. A widow survives.

CALDER—Chester T. Calder, aged 30, formerly reporter on The Providence Journal, and a well-known amateur actor of Providence, R. I., died in Allentown, Pa., Feb. 4, of pneumonia. He was a member of the Brown University Ambulance Unit. Mr. Calder was at one time press agent for the Toy Theater in Boston. He supported Lou-Tellegen in The King of Nowhere. Mr. Calder has played several professional engagements and was at one time connected with a stock company in Northampton, Mass.

CARTER—Carl Carter, of the team of Carl and Dora Carter, died at the American Theatrical Hospital, Chicago, Ill., February 1. He was well known as an inventive comedian. Mrs. Carter will retire to the Carter ranch at Ava, Mo.

CASTLE—Captain Vernon Castle (Vernon Blythe), the dancer, was killed February 15 at Benbrook Field, fifteen miles west of Fort Worth, Tex. He was making an instruction flight with a cadet aviator, and, when descending, came into the path of another birdman, who was just rising. To avoid a collision Captain Castle attempted what is known among aviators as the Immelmann turn, but he was too close to earth and was unable to complete it. His plane struck the ground with great force and Captain Castle was removed from the debris unconscious. He died twenty minutes later. Vernon Castle, as the stage knew him, had a spectacular career. Born at Norwich, England, May 2, 1887, he rose from an unknown actor to great heights in the public eye when the dancing craze was at its zenith in this country several years ago. With his wife, Irene Castle, whom he married in 1911, he appeared in the cabarets of New York City in musical comedy, in vaudeville and in society, earning a fortune by teaching the dance steps and giving exhibitions. When the European war broke out he enlisted in the British Royal Flying Corps. As an aviator he was even greater renown than as a dancer and was decorated for gallantry. The Cincinnati Times-Star said of him editorially: "Serving the country of his birth, Vernon Castle and his life in the country where he won fame and fortune. To both Americans and Englishmen the dancer now becomes obscured by the man capable of the supreme sacrifice. Vernon Castle, public entertainer, chose to write his name far more deeply in the scroll of time as Vernon Castle, patriot."

CLARK—William J. Clark, widely known Illinois theatrical manager, died in a sanitarium at Kenosha, Wis., February 14. He formerly managed theaters in Kewanee and Joliet, Ill. He was 70 years old.

DECEVEE—Edwin J. Decevee, composer, musician and artist, died recently at Harrisburg, Pa. He was the composer of many concert and church songs and had been a resident of Harrisburg for many years.

FRITTS—Max Fritts (Fritz), who was connected with the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Sells-Floto circuses, died February 15 at his home, Pittsburg, Kan. He was born in Paragould, Ark., August 25, 1838.

HAYES—Arthur Hayes, superintendent of the grill room at Shanley's cabaret-restaurant, New York City, died February 10 in the metropolis from a complication of diseases. He was well known to professional people, and had been connected with Shanley's for eighteen years.

HILLMAN—Myrtle Groves Hillman, at one time a piano player in the Lyric and other Cincinnati (O.) theaters, died February 12 at Christ Hospital, Cincinnati. She was formerly the wife of Paul Hillman of the Lyric Theater.

HOEFER—Mrs. C. L. Hoefer, mother of Anna De Koven, of The Million Dollar Dolls Company, died of pneumonia at Chicago, Ill., February 5, at the age of 59 years. Her daughter was at her bedside when the end came.

LeBARON—Louise LeBaron, well-known opera singer, died at Lincoln, Neb., February 11. She was once a member of The Bostonians, and succeeded Jessie Bartlett Davis in a part in Robin Hood with that organization. Later she was leading contralto with the Aborn Grand Opera Company, and for several years was connected with the Castle Square Stock Company of Boston. She and been doing concert work the past several years.

McCALLUM—Richard D. McCallum, one-time treasurer of the Trent Theater, Trenton, N. J., and general assistant manager of the Taylor Opera House, also in Trenton, died last week after an illness of two months at Port Huron, Mich. At the time of becoming ill he was touring with Howard Thurston, the magician. He was 38 years old and married.

McGINN—Francis McGinn, who played the role of the Judge in Oh, Boy, was stricken with pneumonia at the Princess Theater, New York, Thursday night, February 14, and died at his home in the metropolis Friday night, February 15. He had also appeared in Officer 666.

MANCINO—Jacqueline Mancino, the infant daughter of Jimmie and Marie Mancino, who were with the Great Dane Shows last season, died at Springfield, O., February 13. Jimmie Mancino is a cousin of Professor Joseph D'Andrea, the well-known carnival bandmaster, who is now at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, in the service of his country.

PETTIE—Adelbert R. Pettie, brother of Edna May, the former actress, died at West Hill Sanitarium, Riverdale, N. Y., February 14. His mother and three sisters survive. Mr. Pettie was 41 years old.

POWER—Mrs. Kate Sarjeantson Power, English actress, died at her home in New York City February 17. She made her first appearance on the stage twenty-five years ago. In addition to appearing in London in several of Sir James M. Barrie's plays, she was seen often in Marie Tempest's companies. Nancy Sarjeantson in the cast of The Tailor-Made Man, which is running in New York, was her daughter, while her husband was George Power, an English actor.

RINSHEIMER—Solomon Rinsheimer, 80 years old, once court singer at the Court of Spain, died at his home, 28 Hamilton Terrace, New York City, February 13. He is survived by two sons.

VAN DER WERKEN—Louis Albert Van Der Werken, theatrical scene builder, who had been associated with several well-known New York and Chicago companies, died at Boston, Mass., February 20, while superintending the loading of cars with the scenery and stage effects of Lord and Lady Algy, which production just completed a Boston engagement. He was the son of George Van Der Werken, an old-time stage carpenter, and had resided in Brooklyn.

WINKLER—Jack Winkler, a member of the team of Winkler and Kress, comedy acrobats, and later of the Jack Winkler Trio, died at Pittsburg, Pa., February 2.

BAKER IN HOSPITAL

T. M. A. NOTES

The annual mask and dress carnival of the Cincinnati Lodge No. 33, at Central Turner Hall, Tuesday evening, February 11, was the season's big success. It seemed that every square yard of space in the big hall was crowded with merrymakers, some in grotesque costumes and some in citizen garb, with here and there a boy in khaki. The electrical display, which has always been a feature of these dances, surpassed even the wonderful efforts of former years. The members of Gus Hill's Big Minstrels attended in a body, as did many actresses and actors playing at the local theaters. Congratulations ad libitum were showered on the members of the Committee of Arrangements, which consisted of H. Schwartz, chairman W. Meader, L. McGuire, H. Thomas, H. Richardson, W. Conway, H. Joseph, Dr. Adams, W. Parker, H. McComber, C. Link, A. Lindsay, J. Murphy, H. Lacy, H. Anderson, E. Kirsch, W. Sullivan, C. Spoerlein, L. Hauser, A. Uehtman, William Bellow, F. Alsbenner, W. Newman, H. Service, M. Backman, W. Labermier, T. Corby, W. Thompson and Ed Hollencamp.

SHUBERTS BUSY ON PLANS TO ADD THEATERS FOR BIG FIGHT

will contain the company's offices. It is at Nos. 229 and 231 West 42d street. Nearby are the other two houses, the Times Square, with a seating capacity of 1,100, and the Margaret Mayo, with a capacity of 800. It is expected that all will be completed in time for an autumn opening.

It became rumored early in the week that the Shuberts had practically completed arrangements whereby they would acquire the playhouses as well as the attractions of A. H. Woods. Such a deal would involve more than half a million dollars in real estate holdings. It is known that a long interview was held by Mr. Woods and the heads of the Shubert firm, and it became rumored that the deal embracing the theater interests was on the road to sure consummation.

Mr. Woods, however, comes out with an emphatic denial of any such deal, and declares that he has simply made a booking agreement with the Shuberts. He says: "I have not disposed of any of my theaters or real estate holdings, nor have I relinquished any of the plays now under my management. There is not the remotest possibility of my doing so. I shall continue to produce plays as heretofore, independently of any other producing firm. I have simply made a booking agreement with the Shuberts and nothing more."

Despite this denial the rumors die hard. The theaters involved in the rumored negotiations are the Eltinge and the Republic, both of which are in 42d street, Bronx Opera House and the Woods Theater in Chicago, which was recently acquired by Mr. Woods. Attractions which were reported included in the deal were Parlor, Bedroom and Bath, Business Before Pleasure, an interest in The Eyes of Youth and a number of road companies.

It is known that the Shuberts are also conducting a spirited flirtation with Cohan & Harris and other well-known firms with a view to annexing all the desirable theatrical interests possible for the K. & E. struggle. George M. Cohan gave out the following interview defining his firm's position. He said: "We're independent and always have been. But we'll sell anything we have if they pay enough, but it would have to be a lot of money."

BE A GOOD FELLOW—MENTION THE BILLBOARD TO OUR ADVERTISERS.

BROADWAYS AND BYWAYS

The announcements that each of the Wild West ropers have substantial backers for early contests has caused considerable hubbub in that end of the profession of entertainment. That Broadway will eventually boast and acclaim a Wild West tavern is generally conceded. It will prove its worth. Some enterprising cabaret manager will eventually see just how good the idea is and will put one on.

H. F. McGarvie was confined to his room at his home, Bayside, L. I., slightly indisposed, but is again back at his office in the Times Building.

Edward M. Ballard is due in New York from Florida soon.

A stuffed lion skin is mounted in front of the box-office at the Broadway Theater this week. A sign reads: "This lion was killed in the making of Tarzan of the Apes." More picture ballyhoo, and why?

Lynn Welcher, operator of coasters and water rides at more twenty big fairs, parks and exhibitions on this continent, motored over from his home in Brooklyn yesterday to attend to some business and the S. L. of A. meeting. His next trip out of the city will be by motor car to Atlanta. He predicts that fairs and parks will have the greatest season in all history this coming one. Welcher is a big man, and does big things in his chosen line.

Emily Lea is still a hit at the Palais Royale and in The Love Mill. She is doubling. From an acrobatic dancer to a grand opera star is life's ambition for Miss Lea. Her friends say that such shall be her reward.

AL. G. FIELD WINS SUIT AGAINST TRENTON THEATER

his company, the expenses of operation, etc. He said his interests were theatrical, farming and banking. He said it cost between $10,000 and $12,000 to put his show in shape for the road and that the average daily cost of operating was about $500. That, he said, did not include depreciation.

The defense went so far as to claim that the cancellation of the show really saved the minstrel man a loss, as his engagement at that time could not have helped being a disastrous one. The court decided that Mr. Field had a just claim and that the notice of two weeks could not let the theater management out under the contract, which they had made with the minstrel man.

The case had originally been tried in the United States District Court, but as the amount of losses proved did not come within the jurisdiction of the court the case was transferred to the Circuit Court. Colonel Scott Scammell appeared for Mr. Field and W. Holt Apgar for the theater company.

During his visit in Trenton Mr. Field visited the legislature. His presence there was discovered and proceedings were halted long enough to introduce Mr. Field to the members and call upon him for a speech. He replied briefly and then took his seat beside the speaker and watched proceedings with the keenest interest.

BARNUM & BAILEY OPENING

LETTERS

Free, prompt and far-famed, the Mail Forwarding Service of The Billboard stands alone as a safe and sure medium through which professional people may have their mail addressed. Thousands of performers and showfolk now receive their mail through this highly efficient department.

Mail is sometimes lost and mix-ups result because performers do not write plainly, do not give correct address or forget to give an address at all when writing for advertised mail. Help The Billboard handle your mail by complying with the following:

Write for mail when it is FIRST advertised. The following is the key to the letter list:

Cincinnati ....(No Stars)
New York ....One Star (*)
Chicago ......Two Stars ()
St. Louis.....Three Stars ()
San Francisco ....(S)

If your name appears in the letter list with stars before it write to the office holding the mail, which you will know by the method outlined above. Keep the Mail Forwarding Department supplied with your route and mail will be forwarded without the necessity of advertising it. Postage is required only for packages—letter service is absolutely free.

Mail is held but thirty days, and can not be recovered after it goes to the Dead Letter Office.

Mail advertised in this issue was uncalled for up to last Sunday noon. All requests for mail must be signed by the party to whom mail is addressed.

SERVICE!

That's what did it. Quick action, thorough understanding and intelligent and discriminating handling of mail resulted in practically nine-tenths of the professional entertainers of America making their address in care of The Billboard. Service is rapidly attracting the others.

WE ARE NOW FORWARDING AN AVERAGE OF OVER 1,000 LETTERS A DAY EACH DAY THEY ARE RECEIVED.

Many of our clients are not put to the necessity of writing for their mail more than once or twice a season.

We do not have to advertise 8% of the letters that pass through our offices.

IN WRITING FOR MAIL THAT IS ADVERTISED, USE A POSTAL CARD. A self-addressed and stamped envelope is not necessary. Give your route far enough ahead to permit your mail to reach you. Write names of towns, dates and signature plainly.

MAIL IS HELD BUT ONE MONTH

and thereafter is sent to the Dead Letter office. It is advisable to write for mail when your name FIRST appears in the list. Address your postal to "Mail Forwarding Service," The Billboard.

FAMOUS BROADWAY SHOWS

Want for Season 1918. Show Opens at Jackson, Miss., March 16th—Two Saturdays.

Want Merry-Go-Round and Ferris Wheel, but want riding devices that ain't afraid to use plenty of lights, as I pay the bills, one or two more Grind or Ballyho Shows. I will furnish complete outfit with new panel front to any good Show that can get the money. I have a complete Ten-in-One Show outfit that I will furnish to any real Ten-in-One Man that has a real show to put in it, or will book a good Ten-in-One Show. Want Oriental and Spanish Dancers for Garden of Allah; also real Performers for Plantation Show. Girls that can sing and dance; no stallers. Want Talkers and Grinders for all live shows, also want Promoters for contest work, must be hustlers. Floor Manager and Dancers for Cabaret Show. Concessions of all kinds, no exclusives. For sale: One Plantation Banner, only a few weeks old; size, 20x16; cost $90; will sell for $45, as I am building all new panel fronts. THE OFF CHANCE and most fascinating. Cyril Keightley, as the wayward husband, acted with his fine understanding of acting proportions. He showed his fickleness, weaknesses and shallowness in a most convincing manner. Edward Emery, as a smooth mannered card sharp, was true to type and did some excellent work in his scenes with Miss Barrymore. Marcelle Rousillon was amusing as the dancer, Miss Le Gallienne made an admirable wife in distress, E. Lyall Swete was a Maud man of the world, and several others of the cast helped put the audience in their debt.—L. E. T.

Morning World: "It was to Miss Barrymore that the audience was chiefly indebted in a play which hardly seemed worth her effort."

Tribune: "It supplied rather dull entertainment when neither Ethel Barrymore nor Edward Emery was on the stage."

American: "The popular actress added another triumph to her already long list."

Herald: "An atmosphere of uncertainty which prevailed thruout the performance heightened the play's defects."

Times: "No spraying of adjectives can do more than faintly suggest the quality of the many parts and performances."

Morning Sun: "It is a liberal education in a special kind of London culture."

SINBAD

SINBAD—Extravaganza in two acts and fifteen scenes. Staged by J. C. Huffman. Dialog and lyrics by Harold Atteridge. Music by Sigmund Romberg and Al Jolson. Musical numbers arranged by Jack Mason. Orchestra directed by Oscar Radin. Ballet arranged by Alexis Kosloff. Art director, Watson Barratt. Costumes worn by principals made by Mme. Sahn. Scenery by P. Dodd Ackerman and John Young. The whole production was made under the personal direction of J. J. Shubert.

Messrs. Shubert presented their latest extravaganza, Sinbad, at the Winter Garden, New York, Thursday evening, February 14, starring Al Jolson, blackface comedian and singer, supported by a production bewildering in the dazzle of its joyful brilliance, and with a cast of youth and beauty, the equal of which probably never has been presented in New York. The fifteen Oriental scenes revealed color and lighting effects of fascinating magnificence. Never before was that intangible something known as atmosphere so pervading in its alluring influence.

The costumes contrasted more wonderful with each new setting, and reached the climax of exotic extravagance in the glittering butterfly costumes worn in the ballet scene of the Grotto of Diamonds. They were gorgeous without a hint of garishness.

Jolson's song hits were Take the Night Boat to Albany, Cleopatra and 5th St., Senor.

Constance Farber scored the first hit of the evening in her song, Where Do They Get Those Guys?

Jolson played Inbad, the porter, and pleased the audience immensely with the childlike cheerfulness of his minstrel comedy.

Supporting the comedian are: Lawrence D'Orsay, Forrest Huff, Edgar Atchison Ely, Franklyn A. Batie, Alexis Kosloff and Gito Kalmani, Roshanara, the dancer, Fritzi Von Busing, Virginia Fox Brookes, Hazel Cox, the Sarbee Sisters, Kitty Doner, Johnny Berkes, Frank Gesco, the Balzer Sisters, Grace Washburn, Mabel Withee, Harry Keasley, John Kearney, Bob McClellan, Beth Young, Frank Holmes and George Thornton.

Meehan's jumping hounds in the country club scene were one of the most applauded features. A couple of those hounds took a twelve-foot jump like birds on the wing, and one of them appeared to acknowledge the applause.

Roshanara danced with Kosloff, but her best number was the Hindu snake dance.—M. F. L.

Excerpts from the New York dailies follow:

Herald: "A joyful bomb of beauty."

Morning World: "The show keeps on the tips of its nimble toes from start to finish."

Tribune: "A show of many marvels."

American: "A revelation of beauty—The Winter Garden has beaten its own record."

Sun: "Gorgeous scenic effects in Sinbad."

WHOLESALE ARRESTS AMONG PERFORMERS AND MANAGERS

men. Others on the same bill for whom warrants were issued were the Taylor Trio, considered by the police corps as a circus act; Jed and Ethel Dooley, who wear Western garb in roping and talking, and Al Gerald and Florrie Millership, who were dressed in the height of fashion.

The Dooleys regarded their costumes as just clothes and were surprised to learn that Western apparel was contrary to Eastern law. Gerard and Miss Millership, proud of their style, were equally astonished to find out that style is banned on Sundays, and the Taylor Trio, convinced that their act was too quiet for flamboyant display, were surprised to learn they were eligible to work under the big top.

Lew Dockstader and Adele Rowland were O. K. according to the plain clothes men. Alfred T. Darling, manager of the Colonial, was represented in the West Side Court by Attorney Maurice Goodman for the United Booking Offices. The hearing was postponed until Tuesday of next week. Charles Potsdam, manager of Loew's American Roof, was one of the managers for whom warrants were issued. Attendance at the Sunday shows indicates a keen public appetite for Sunday theatricals.

with the bigger agencies, because these influential circuits have their own staffs of agents, who simply take over the additional work. Acts naturally lean toward those agents who can give them the greatest amount of work, and even the new acts fight shy of the independent agent as much as possible because, in the endeavor to eradicate the independents, the larger circuits have made themselves so accessible to those seeking work that the necessity for outside agents is reduced to the minimum.

Some independents manage to drift along by virtue of supplying acts for "disappointments" from time to time, but few of these have sufficient foothold to get anything like a profitable scope of operations.

When established bookers withdraw from big circuits in the endeavor to establish their own, they favor the independents, but this leeway doesn't amount to much, as few such bookers manage to survive.

Indications point to the not-far-distant time when the agent without a "floor franchise" will be a thing of the past.
